(b) The visions in which Divine manifestation extends also to the Prophet's people. Moses meant to say that if the vision that he had seen was the manifestation of the latter class, then he would be given a new Sharī'ah for his people, but if it were of the former kind, he would receive some guidance for his own spiritual advancement.

1814. As stated above it was a vision that Moses had seen, and "shoes" in the language of visions signify worldly relations such as wife, children, friends, etc. The words 'Thy two shoes' signify 'thy relations with thy family and those with thy community.' Thus at the time of close communion with God Moses was commanded to banish from his mind all thoughts of wife and children and of other worldly connections. Taken literally, the verse would mean that because Moses was in a sacred place he was bidden to take off his shoes.

1815. Akhfash-Shai'a means, he concealed the thing; he removed its covering or manifested it (Lane).

1816. Ma'ārib (uses) is the plural of Ma'ribah, which is derived from ariba. They say Ariba Ilaihi, i.e. he wanted it and sought it; and Ma'ārib means, wants, uses, needs, requirements, purposes (Lane).

1816A. The rod did not actually turn into a serpent but was merely made to appear like one. It, therefore, contradicted or contravened no law of nature. The miracle was intended, besides providing a very powerful proof in support of Moses, to comfort him that his people would not remain permanently wedded to idolatry and other evil practices but, the instant they came under his fostering care, they would again become his good and God-fearing companion, 'Aṣā signifying a community (Lane). See also 1023.

1817. Yad means, hand or arm and figuratively signifies favour, beneficence; power, authority; help, protection; community, party (Aqrab).

1818. One of the meanings of Yad (hand) being a community or people, the expression in the text contains an injunction for Moses that he should always keep his people close to him and under his fostering care. If he did so they would become highly righteous men, radiating spiritual light and would be free from all moral evils. Yade Baiḍā' may also signify clear and strong arguments. Moses was endowed with strong and solid arguments to prove his case. See also 7:109; and 26:34.

1819. Sign of the rod was one of the greatest heavenly Signs given to Moses. When Moses was entrusted with Prophethood, the Sign of the rod appeared (20:19). When he went to preach his Message to Pharaoh it was again the miracle of the rod that was shown to him and the sorcerers (20:70-74). When the Israelites wanted water, he was ordered to strike the rock with his rod (2:61), and when he had to cross the sea, God commanded him to strike it with his rod (26:64).

1820. Moses did not feel himself equal to the great task entrusted to him. He asked for a helper to assist him. The Holy Prophet to whom an infinitely heavier and more onerous task was entrusted never prayed to be given an assistant. He alone, unassisted and unhelped, discharged fully and completely the responsibility of raising a people, sunk deep into the depths of moral turpitude, to the highest pinnacle of spiritual glory.

1821. Mā being Maṣdariyyah, the verb following it imparts to it an intensiveness of meaning. The expression Mā yūḥā thus means, an important revelation; or what was necessary to be revealed at that time.

1822. ‘Ain means (1) the eye; (2) inmates of a house; (3) protection (Lane). As Moses was to have been entrusted with the great and difficult task of delivering a people, held in bondage for long by a cruel and powerful monarch, it was necessary that he should have received the requisite training for the great mission under royal tutors and teachers. So it was in fulfilment of this Divine plan that Moses found his way into Pharaoh’s own house.

1823. The sojourn of Moses among the people of Midian fulfilled yet another Divine plan. As he was destined to live with the Israelites in the deserts and forests of the Valley of Sinai, he was made to become used to a hard life by living for several years in Midian.

1824. The verse teaches a two-fold lesson to a religious teacher or preacher. He should use gentle language when preaching. He should also show due respect to those whom God has endowed with worldly honour or has placed in the seat of authority.

1825. The verse means that there exists perfect order in the world and that God has endowed everything with properties which are best suited to its particular requirements and needs, and by making proper use of which it can attain its fullest development.

1826. Moses's reply to Pharaoh's query contained in the previous verse seemed to have entirely confounded the latter, so he adroitly turned away from the subject which he himself had started and put Moses a new question, asking him whether his God knew anything about the former generations who were dead and gone, meaning how they would fare when they had not had the benefit of receiving guidance from him (Moses). Thus in a subtle manner Pharaoh sought to incite his people against Moses by making an oblique hint that he (Moses) had insinuated that their forefathers were bereft of heavenly guidance and, therefore, were deserving of Divine punishment.

1827. Moses gives a crushing reply to Pharaoh's evasive tactics. He tells Pharaoh that he should not bother about the former generations. God knew all about them and every detail concerning them was well-preserved in His knowledge and on the Day of Resurrection He would requite them all according to their deeds and actions, taking into consideration their particular conditions and circumstances.

1828. This verse seems to refer to an insidious device of Pharaoh. He told his people that Moses who was a foreigner in Egypt was seeking to turn the ruling dynasty out of Egypt by his clever manoeuvres.

1829. There seems a curious analogy here between Moses and the Holy Prophet, viz. that whereas the contest between Moses and the magicians in which they were fully and finally routed took place at the time of Ḍuḥā, the Holy Prophet also entered Mecca as conqueror at the time of Ḍuḥā which marked the final defeat of disbelief and idolatry in Arabia.

1830. The expression. Jama'a Kaida-hū, besides the meaning given in the text may also mean: He mustered all his designs; he contrived all sorts of plans; he did all that he could do.

قَالَ لَهُمْ مُّوْسٰى وَيْلَكُمْ لَا تَفْتَرُوْا

1831. The verse lays down an infallible criterion to test the truth of a claimant to Divine revelation, viz. that a forger of lies against God, though he may appear to progress and prosper for a short while, ultimately perishes and comes to a miserable and ignoble end. This is a truth writ large on the pages of all religious history.

1831A. Ṭarīqah means, way of life; ideal; institution, tradition (Lane).

1832. God's Prophets never take the offensive. They wait till they are attacked and then they defend themselves.

1833. The cords and staves of the magicians appeared to Moses only as though they ran about. Actually they did nothing of the kind. The forces of evil at first appear to carry the day for a short while, but they soon come to grief.

1834. Moses was not afraid of the cords and staves of the magicians. The Prophets of God stand on a rock of certainty and are never afraid of anything. Moses only feared lest the people should be led astray by the antics of the magicians.

1835. The verse makes it clear that it was the rod of Moses and not anything else which "swallowed" that which the sorcerers had wrought, and which undid their sorcery. The rod of Moses wielded with the spiritual force of a great Divine Prophet and thrown at the command of Almighty God exposed the deception that the sorcerers had wrought on the spectators by their tricks. Elsewhere in the Qur'ān, the staves and cords of the sorcerers have been described as their lies (7:118).

1835A. Atash-Shai'a means, he did the thing (Lane).

فَلَاُقَطِّعَنَّ اَيْدِيَكُمْ وَاَرْجُلَكُمْ مِّنْ خِلَافٍ وَّلَاُوصَلِّبَنَّكُمْ فِيْ جُذُوْعِ النَّخْلِ ۫ وَلَتَعْلَمُنَّ اَيُّنَآ اَشَدُّ عَذَابًا وَّاَبْقٰى ﴿٧٢﴾

Or, the verse may mean that the sinners will be completely deprived of all comfort and happiness and this condition is described here as worse than death.

1838. Against all unimpeachable historical data, most extraordinary theories have been propounded about the Israelites, viz. (a) they never lived in Egypt; because no reference to them is to be found in the old Egyptian historical records. (b) In the fifth year of the reign of Pharaoh Meneptah (or Merenptah) when Moses is said to have taken the Israelites out of Egypt, some Israelite tribes were actually living in Canaan, therefore the theory that Moses had taken the Israelites out of Egypt to Canaan during his reign and that they settled there some fifty years later is all wrong.

The propounders of these strange theories seem to forget that the Israelites were foreigners in Egypt and were a subject race and had lived the miserable life of serfs and slaves under their cruel rulers. How could such people be considered worthy of any notice being taken of them by historians? When even in this 20th century historians cannot find it easy to prepare a well-connected and harmonious narrative about a people from the remnants of its ruined civilization, it was much more difficult for historians in the remote past to reconstruct a consistent record from the fragmentary accounts of a people who lived in the hoary past and who were treated like beasts of burden by their rulers. As to the doubtful theory that certain Israelite tribes were found to be living in Canaan in the 5th year of the reign of Pharaoh Meneptah, it cannot disprove the fact that other Israelite tribes had remained behind in Egypt. Is it not possible that some of these tribes might have left Egypt for Canaan sometime before all of them were taken out of it by Moses? It is strange that on the one hand these very writers say that Moses is an Egyptian name and that some of the Israelites also had Egyptian names, and on the other that they never went to Egypt. Moreover, the Bible gives a detailed and well-connected story of the Israelites having lived in Egypt. There was no compelling reason for the writers of the Bible to have done so, especially when the Israelites had lived there only as slaves and worse than beasts of burden. No people would feel any urge or pride in forging and falsely inventing such a miserable record of shame and sorrow of themselves. The biblical details with regard to the customs, culture and mode of life of the Pharaohs of that time is another proof of the fact that the Israelites had lived there. The Bible had no interest in the Pharaoh dynasty of Egypt apart from the fact that they were rulers of the Israelites. Besides, as stated by ancient Greek historians, the Egyptians themselves had admitted that the Israelites had lived in Egypt for a long time and later on had left this country. The present Egypt, however, should not be confused with the territory which in ancient times was also known as Egypt, but which formed a part of northern Syria or northern Arabia.

The date of the Exodus has also been much contested and there seems to be considerable difficulty in determining its exact date from the biblical records alone. The theory, largely prevalent, which receives much support from historical data, archaeological research and Hebrew tradition is that the Exodus occurred in the Nineteenth Dynasty (1328-1202 B.C.), in the reign of Merenptah II or Meneptah II (1234-1214 B.C.) and still seems to be the most probable one. The Exodus appears to have taken place about 1230 B.C. According to this view the Pharaoh of the Oppression was Rameses II, and his successor Merenptah II, the Pharaoh of the Exodus ("Peake's Commentary on the Bible" pp. 119, 955, 956). See also "The Larger Edition of the Commentary" pp. 1646-1647.

1839. The Israelites had lived long in bondage under the heartless tyranny of the Pharaohs and consequently had come to lose all those manly qualities that go to make a people hardy, brave and courageous. According to the Divine scheme of things, they were destined to conquer and rule over Canaan. Therefore, after Moses had taken them out of Egypt, they were made to live in the arid and barren region of Sinai in order that they might become used to an open and hard life and thus acquire and develop those qualities which were so essential for a great future that lay in store for them. But having lived in bondage for a long time, they had lost all initiative and had become used to a life of lethargy and lassitude. So when they saw that they would have to live in the wilderness where no amenities of life were to be found and even food was lacking, they were utterly dismayed and fretted and fumed and quarrelled with Moses saying, 'Would to God, we had died by the hand of the Lord in the land of Egypt when we sat by the flesh pots, and when we did eat bread to the full: for ye have brought us forth into this wilderness to kill this whole assembly with hunger' (Exod. 16:3). God heard their murmurings and commanded Moses to tell those ungrateful people, 'As even ye shall eat flesh, and in the morning ye shall be filled with bread; and ye shall know that I am the Lord, your God.' And how this Divine promise was fulfilled has been fully described in the Bible (Exod. 16:12-15). See also 98 & 99

1841. Sāmirī may be a relative noun from Sāmirah (the Samaritans), a people said to be one of the tribes of the Children of Israel; or a sect of the Jews, differing from them in many of their institutions. Properly speaking, they were inhabitants of Samaria. The name is now restricted to a small tribe of people living in Nablus and calling themselves "Bene Yisrael." Their history as a distinct community began with the taking of Samaria by the Assyrians in 722 B.C. (Lane & Jew. Enc.).

Israelites jewels of gold and silver of their own accord, the Bible accuses them of having despoiled the Egyptians of their ornaments (Exod. 12:36). But, as generally is the case, in this respect also, the Bible has contradicted itself. At another place (Exod. 12:33) it says that the Egyptians themselves gave the ornaments to the Israelites and insisted that they should leave Egypt forthwith. Reason and common sense support the Quranic statement.

1843. The Israelites had lived in Egypt under bondage for a long time and during their bondage they had adopted many of the customs, ways of life and religious rites of their rulers, the Egyptians, who worshipped the cow (Enc. Rel. & Ethics, vol. I, p. 507). In this way they had developed a great liking for the cow, and taking advantage of Moses's absence the Sāmirī led them into cow-worship.

1844. The calf is denounced and condemned as a deity because it does not speak to its votaries. Of what use is that god who does not answer the prayer of his worshippers (21:66, 67)? He is as dead as a log of wood. The difference between a living and a lifeless god is that the One speaks to His votaries and hears their supplications, while the other does not. The God of Islām has not ceased to speak to His true worshippers. He still speaks to them as He spoke to Adam, Abraham, Moses, Jesus and the Holy Prophet Muḥammad (peace be upon them all) and will continue to do so till the end of time.

1845. The Qur'ān here contradicts the Bible and clears Aaron of the charge of having made a molten calf for the Israelites to worship (Exod. 32:4). It says that not only did Aaron not fashion the calf for them, on the other hand he prohibited them from worshipping the one which the Sāmirī had made for them. The charge has been dismissed as unfounded by Christian writers themselves (Enc. Brit. under "The Golden Calf").

1846. Khaṭb means, object; design; case or plea; business; affair; etc. (Lane). The whole sentence also means, what thou hast to say (Lane).

1847. The words may also mean, 'My mental perception was clearer than that of the Israelites.' The Sāmirī means to say that he had followed Moses and had accepted his teachings intelligently and not blindly like them. But when Moses went to the Mount, he threw away the cloak of expediency and discarded what little of his teachings (athar, meaning remains or relics of knowledge transmitted or handed down from the former generations, i.e. teachings) he had accepted and that was what his mind suggested to him.

1848. The words 'Touch me not' may signify: (a) That the Sāmirī was punished with a rigorous social boycott for having misled the Israelites into calf-worship. (b) That he was afflicted with some contagious skin disease so that people avoided contact with him. (c) That he suffered from hypochondriasis and consequently shunned the company of men.

1849. The allusion in this verse primarily seems to be to the Western Christian nations who have blue eyes and are spiritually blind and possess an undying hatred for Islām.

1850. "Ten days" here signifies ten centuries. The reference is to the ten centuries after the Hijrah during which the European nations remained almost in a state of dormancy. It was in the beginning of the 17th century, about one thousand years after the Holy Prophet began to preach his mission in the beginning of the 7th century AD., that the nations of Europe came out of their hibernation and began to spread over the world and conquer it.

1850A. Ṭarīqatul-Qaum means, best or most upright of the people (Aqrab). Yaum here signifies one thousand years referred to in 22:48 and corresponds to 'ten days' of the preceding verse, i.e. ten centuries or a thousand years.

Yaum also means time absolutely. In this sense of the word the disbelievers, when they are seized with Divine punishment, are depicted as saying that the time of their prosperity and progress was but a day. i.e. very short.

1851. The reference in the word al-Jibāl (mountains) here is to the powerful Christian nations of the West. The prophecy in this verse is in regard to their complete destruction. The decline of the West has already begun. The last two World Wars have greatly weakened it (Spengler's "Decline of the West" & Toynbee's "A Study of History"). See also 1666.

1852. The allusion seems to be to the rise of Socialism and Democracy when great and powerful empires will be swept away and there will be a general levelling up of the social and economic conditions of different sections of human society.

وَمَنْ يَّعْمَلْ مِنَ الصّٰلِحٰتِ وَهُوَ مُؤْمِنٌ فَلَا يَخٰفُ ظُلْمًا وَّلَا هَضْمًا ﴿١١٣﴾

113. But he [b]who does good works, being a believer, shall apprehend neither injustice nor loss.

وَكَذٰلِكَ اَنْزَلْنٰهُ قُرْاٰنًا عَرَبِيًّا وَّصَرَّفْنَا فِيْهِ مِنَ الْوَعِيْدِ لَعَلَّهُمْ يَتَّقُوْنَ اَوْ يُحْدِثُ لَهُمْ ذِكْرًا ﴿١١٤﴾

114. And thus have [c]We sent it down—the Qur'ān in Arabic—and We have explained therein every kind of warning, that they may fear God or that it may cause them to remember Him.

فَتَعٰلَى اللّٰهُ الْمَلِكُ الْحَقُّ ۚ وَلَا تَعْجَلْ بِالْقُرْاٰنِ مِنْ قَبْلِ اَنْ يُّقْضٰٓى اِلَيْكَ وَحْيُهٗ ۫ وَقُلْ رَّبِّ زِدْنِيْ عِلْمًا ﴿١١٥﴾

115. [d]Exalted then is Allāh, the True King. And make no haste to recite the Qur'ān ere its revelation is completed unto thee, but only say, 'Lord, bestow on me increase of knowledge.'[1855]

[a]2:256; 21:29. [b]10:10; 16:98; 21:95. [c]42:8; 43:4; 46:13. [d]23:117.

1854. The words 'all that is behind them' refer to great accomplishments they will have already made, and the words 'that is before them' refer to the great achievements they will aspire to make in the future.

1854A. Wujūh means, great leaders (Aqrab).

1855. The Holy Prophet is reported to have said, 'Seek knowledge though it

وَلَقَدْ عَهِدْنَآ اِلٰٓى اٰدَمَ مِنْ قَبْلُ فَنَسِيَ وَلَمْ نَجِدْ لَهٗ عَزْمًا ﴿١١٦﴾

116. And verily, We had made a covenant with Adam beforehand, but he forgot, and We found in him no resolve[1856] to disobey Us.

R. 7.

وَاِذْ قُلْنَا لِلْمَلٰٓئِكَةِ اسْجُدُوْا لِاٰدَمَ فَسَجَدُوْٓا اِلَّآ اِبْلِيْسَ ؕ اَبٰى ﴿١١٧﴾

117. And remember [a]when We said to the angels, 'Submit to Adam,' and they all submitted. But Iblīs did not. He refused to submit.

فَقُلْنَا يٰٓاٰدَمُ اِنَّ هٰذَا عَدُوٌّ لَّكَ وَلِزَوْجِكَ فَلَا يُخْرِجَنَّكُمَا مِنَ الْجَنَّةِ فَتَشْقٰى ﴿١١٨﴾

118. Then We said, 'O Adam, [b]this is an enemy to thee and to thy wife; so let him not drive you both out of the garden,[1857] lest thou come to grief;

اِنَّ لَكَ اَلَّا تَجُوْعَ فِيْهَا وَلَا تَعْرٰى ﴿١١٩﴾

119. 'It is decreed for thee that thou shalt not hunger therein nor shalt thou be naked;

وَاَنَّكَ لَا تَظْمَؤُا فِيْهَا وَلَا تَضْحٰى ﴿١٢٠﴾

120. 'And that thou shalt not thirst therein, nor shalt thou be exposed to the sun.'[1858]

[a]2:35; 7:12, 13; 15:27-34; 17:62; 18:51; 38:72-75. [b]7:23; 18:51.

may be found in a country as far away as China' (Ṣaghīr, vol. 1). Elsewhere in the Qur'ān, knowledge has been styled as 'God's great grace' (2:270 & 4:114). Knowledge is of two kinds: (a) That which is vouchsafed to man through revelation and which has found its perfect manifestation in the Qur'ān. (b) That which man acquires by his own effort and labour.

1856. The verse shows that Adam's lapse was only an error of judgment. It was inadvertent and involuntary and not at all intentional or deliberate. To err is human.

1857. Adam is warned that if he succumbed to the blandishments held out to him by Iblīs and accepted his advice, he would become deprived of Jannah, i.e. life of bliss and spiritual contentment which he formerly enjoyed.

1858. Reference in this and the preceding verse seems to be to the amenities and comforts which are the concomitants of civilized life. These

فَوَسْوَسَ إِلَيْهِ الشَّيْطٰنُ قَالَ يٰٓاٰدَمُ هَلْ
اَدُلُّكَ عَلٰى شَجَرَةِ الْخُلْدِ وَمُلْكٍ
لَّا يَبْلٰى ﴿١٢١﴾

121. But [a]Satan whispered evil suggestions to him. He said, 'O Adam, shall I direct thee to the tree of eternity,[1859] and to a kingdom that never decays?'

فَاَكَلَا مِنْهَا فَبَدَتْ لَهُمَا سَوْاٰتُهُمَا وَطَفِقَا
يَخْصِفٰنِ عَلَيْهِمَا مِنْ وَّرَقِ الْجَنَّةِ ۚ
وَعَصٰٓى اٰدَمُ رَبَّهٗ فَغَوٰى ﴿١٢٢﴾

122. Then [b]they both ate thereof, so that their nakedness became manifest[1860] to them, and they began to cover themselves with the leaves[1861] of the garden. And Adam observed not the commandment of his Lord, so his life became miserable.

two verses point to the fact that to provide food, clothing and shelter to its people—their primary necessities of life—is the first duty of a civilized government and that a society can only be called civilized when all its members are adequately provided with these necessities. Mankind will continue to suffer from social upheavals, and the moral tone of human society will never really improve unless economic inequalities of such a serious nature, that some sections of society roll in wealth and others die of starvation, are done away with. Adam is told here that he will live in a place where amenities and necessities of life will be adequately available to all its inhabitants. This state of affairs has been described elsewhere in the Qur'ān in the words, and eat therefrom plentifully wherever you will (2:36). The verse under comment also shows that with Adam began a new social order and that he laid the foundations of a kingdom which ushered in the era of social progress of man.

1859. There exists in the world no such tree as 'the tree of eternity.' The 'tree,' as mentioned here and elsewhere in the Qur'ān, was a certain family or tribe from which Adam was bidden to keep aloof because its members were his enemies.

1860. As a result of acceptance by Adam of Satan's suggestions a split occurred among his people which caused him much distress and mental anguish. Adam and Eve discovered that by acting upon the evil suggestions of Satan, they had made a grievous mistake and had involved themselves in great trouble. The verse does not mean that their weakness became known to other people but that only Adam and Eve themselves became conscious of it.

1861. Waraq also meaning young lads of a community (Lane), the verse

ثُمَّ اجْتَبٰهُ رَبُّهٗ فَتَابَ عَلَيْهِ وَ هَدٰى ﴿١٢٣﴾

123. Then his Lord chose him for His grace,[1862] and [a]turned to him with mercy and guided him.

قَالَ اهْبِطَا مِنْهَا جَمِيْعًا ۢ بَعْضُكُمْ لِبَعْضٍ عَدُوٌّ ۚ فَاِمَّا يَاْتِيَنَّكُمْ مِّنِّيْ هُدًى ۙ فَمَنِ اتَّبَعَ هُدَايَ فَلَا يَضِلُّ وَلَا يَشْقٰى ﴿١٢٤﴾

124. God said, [b]'Go forth, both[1863] of you from here; some of you will be enemies of others. And if there comes to you guidance from Me, then whoso will follow My guidance. will not go astray, nor will he come to grief;

وَ مَنْ اَعْرَضَ عَنْ ذِكْرِيْ فَاِنَّ لَهٗ مَعِيْشَةً ضَنْكًا وَّ نَحْشُرُهٗ يَوْمَ الْقِيٰمَةِ اَعْمٰى ﴿١٢٥﴾

125. 'But [c]whosoever will turn away from My remembrance, his will be a straitened life, and on the Day of Resurrection We shall raise him up blind.'[1864]

[a]2:38. [b]2:37-39; 7:25. [c]18:102.

purports to say that as Satan had succeeded in causing a split in Adam's community and some of the morally weak members had gone out of its fold, Adam gathered together the youth and other righteous and good members of the community and with their help began to reorganize his people. According to the Bible, Adam used fig leaves (Gen. 3:6, 7), which in the language of visions signify young righteous and pious people.

1862. The verse shows that Adam's act of disobedience was inadvertent and accidental, for an act of deliberate disobedience could not have been followed by the great honour of his being selected by God for His special favour.

1863. The words, 'both of you,' signify two groups of people, i.e. the followers of Adam and the followers of Satan. The words, kum (you) and Jamī' (all of you), also show that the verse refers not to two persons but to two groups of persons or to two parties. This is also clear from 7:25 where the plural number Ihbiṭū (go forth all of you) has been used instead of Ihbiṭā (go forth both of you). It appears that Adam emigrated from Iraq, the land of his birth, to a neighbouring country. The emigration was perhaps a temporary one, and he must have returned to his native land not long after. The words, a provision for a time (7:25), contain a hint about the emigration being a temporary one.

1864. A person, who consigns God to oblivion in this life and leads a life which obstructs or impedes his spiritual development and thus deprives

قَالَ رَبِّ لِمَ حَشَرْتَنِيْٓ اَعْمٰى وَقَدْ كُنْتُ بَصِيْرًا ﴿١٢٦﴾

126. He will say, 'My Lord, why hast Thou raised me up blind, while I possessed sight before?'

قَالَ كَذٰلِكَ اَتَتْكَ اٰيٰتُنَا فَنَسِيْتَهَا ۚ وَكَذٰلِكَ الْيَوْمَ تُنْسٰى ﴿١٢٧﴾

127. God will say, 'Thus did Our Signs come to thee and thou didst ignore them[1865] and in like manner wilt thou be ignored this day.'

وَكَذٰلِكَ نَجْزِيْ مَنْ اَسْرَفَ وَلَمْ يُؤْمِنْ بِاٰيٰتِ رَبِّهٖ ۭ وَلَعَذَابُ الْاٰخِرَةِ اَشَدُّ وَاَبْقٰى ﴿١٢٨﴾

128. And thus do We recompense him who transgresses the limits of Divine Law and believes not in the Signs of his Lord; and the punishment of the Hereafter is even severer and more lasting.

اَفَلَمْ يَهْدِ لَهُمْ كَمْ اَهْلَكْنَا قَبْلَهُمْ مِّنَ الْقُرُوْنِ يَمْشُوْنَ فِيْ مَسٰكِنِهِمْ ۭ اِنَّ فِيْ ذٰلِكَ لَاٰيٰتٍ لِّاُولِي النُّهٰى ﴿١٢٩﴾ ع ۷

129. Does it not furnish guidance to them, [a]how many a generation We destroyed before them, amid whose dwellings they now walk? Therein, verily, are Signs for those who possess understanding.

himself of heavenly light, will be born blind at the time of his second birth in the life after. This will be because his soul in this life which will serve as a body for the more spiritually developed soul in the next world had become blind, because he had led a life of sin in this world.

1865. In answer to the disbeliever's protestation as to why he was raised up blind while he was possessed of sight in the former life, God would say that he had become spiritually blind in his worldly life on account of his having led a life of sin; and as his soul was to serve as a body for another much more spiritually developed soul in the life after, therefore he was born blind in the Hereafter. The verse may also mean that as a disbeliever does not develop in him Divine attributes and remains a stranger to them, so when on the Day of Resurrection those attributes will be manifested in all their splendour and glory, he, being a stranger to them, will not be able to recognize them, and thus will stand like a blind man, having no recollection or remembrance of them.

R. 8.

وَلَوْلَا كَلِمَةٌ سَبَقَتْ مِنْ رَّبِّكَ لَكَانَ لِزَامًا وَّاَجَلٌ مُّسَمًّى ﴿١٣٠﴾

130. And [a]had it not been for a word[1866] already gone forth from thy Lord, and a term already fixed, their punishment would have been abiding.

فَاصْبِرْ عَلٰى مَا يَقُوْلُوْنَ وَسَبِّحْ بِحَمْدِ رَبِّكَ قَبْلَ طُلُوْعِ الشَّمْسِ وَقَبْلَ غُرُوْبِهَا ۚ وَمِنْ اٰنَآئِ الَّيْلِ فَسَبِّحْ وَاَطْرَافَ النَّهَارِ لَعَلَّكَ تَرْضٰى ﴿١٣١﴾

131. Bear patiently then what they say, and [b]glorify thy Lord with His praise before the rising of the sun and before its setting; and glorify Him in the hours of the night and all parts[1867] of the day, that thou mayest find true happiness.

وَلَا تَمُدَّنَّ عَيْنَيْكَ اِلٰى مَا مَتَّعْنَا بِهٖۤ اَزْوَاجًا مِّنْهُمْ زَهْرَةَ الْحَيٰوةِ الدُّنْيَا ۙ لِنَفْتِنَهُمْ فِيْهِ ؕ وَرِزْقُ رَبِّكَ خَيْرٌ وَّاَبْقٰى ﴿١٣٢﴾

132. And [c]strain[1868] not thine eyes after what We have bestowed on some classes of them of the splendour of the present world that We may try them thereby. And the provision of thy Lord is better and more lasting.

[a]8:69; 10:20. [b]17:79, 80; 30:18, 19; 50:40, 41. [c]15:89; 26:206-208; 28:61, 62.

1866. The reference is to the Divine declaration contained in the verse, 'My mercy encompasses all things' (7:157). God in His infallible wisdom has decreed that His mercy will continue to transcend all His other attributes.

1867. The glorification of God at the hours mentioned in the verse may signify the hours of the five daily Prayers; the words, before the rising of the sun, signifying the Morning (Fajr) Prayer; and the words, before its setting, the Late-afternoon ('Aṣr) Prayer; and the expression, and glorify Him in the hours of the night, signifying the Evening Prayer (Maghrib) and Night Prayer ('Ishā'), while the words, parts of the day, signifying the Afternoon (Ẓuhr) Prayer.

1868. All international jealousies and rivalries which result in wars and consequently in much human misery and bloodshed are the result, direct or indirect, of mad hunger for material wealth and physical comforts. Muslims are warned not to cast covetous looks on the wealth of other people.

وَاْمُرْ اَهْلَكَ بِالصَّلٰوةِ وَاصْطَبِرْ عَلَيْهَا ؕ لَا نَسْـَٔلُكَ رِزْقًا ؕ نَحْنُ نَرْزُقُكَ ؕ وَالْعَاقِبَةُ لِلتَّقْوٰى ﴿۱۳۳﴾

133. And [a]enjoin Prayer on thy people and be constant therein. We ask thee not for provision; it is We who provide for thee. And the good end is for those who guard against evil.

وَقَالُوْا لَوْلَا يَاْتِيْنَا بِاٰيَةٍ مِّنْ رَّبِّهٖ ؕ اَوَلَمْ تَاْتِهِمْ بَيِّنَةُ مَا فِي الصُّحُفِ الْاُوْلٰى ﴿۱۳۴﴾

134. And they say, 'Why does he not bring us a Sign from his Lord?' Has there not come to them clear evidence of what is contained in the former Books?

وَلَوْ اَنَّاۤ اَهْلَكْنٰهُمْ بِعَذَابٍ مِّنْ قَبْلِهٖ لَقَالُوْا رَبَّنَا لَوْ لَاۤ اَرْسَلْتَ اِلَيْنَا رَسُوْلًا فَنَتَّبِعَ اٰيٰتِكَ مِنْ قَبْلِ اَنْ نَّذِلَّ وَنَخْزٰى ﴿۱۳۵﴾

135. And if We had destroyed them with a punishment before the coming of this Messenger, they would have surely said, "Our Lord, wherefore didst Thou not send to us a Messenger that we might have followed Thy commandments before we were humbled and disgraced?"

قُلْ كُلٌّ مُّتَرَبِّصٌ فَتَرَبَّصُوْا ۚ فَسَتَعْلَمُوْنَ مَنْ اَصْحٰبُ الصِّرَاطِ السَّوِيِّ وَمَنِ اهْتَدٰى ﴿۱۳۶﴾ ع ۸/۱۷

136. Say, 'Each one is waiting; wait ye, therefore, and you will soon know who are the people of the right path and who follow true guidance, and who do not.

[a]19:56; 33:34.

CHAPTER 21

AL-ANBIYĀ'

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah, like the three preceding ones, was revealed at Mecca, very early in the Holy Prophet's ministry. Ibn-e-Mas'ūd says that it was revealed before the 5th year of the Call, along with Chapters Ṭā Hā, A1-Kahf and Maryam. The opening verses of Sūrah Maryam were recited by Ja'far before the Negus during the Emigration to Abyssinia which took place in that year. The immediate connection of the Sūrah with Sūrah Ṭā Hā consists in the fact that towards the end of that Sūrah it was stated that Divine punishment would overtake disbelievers at its appointed time, and the Holy Prophet was enjoined to bear their opposition and persecution patiently and with fortitude. The present Sūrah opens with a warning to disbelievers that the time of their punishment has already arrived and that though they will now have to render an account of their actions, they will continue to wander in the wilderness of heedlessness and disbelief. This is the immediate connection of the Sūrah with the preceding one. But it is its subject-matter as a whole, which, in fact, constitutes the real connecting link between the present Sūrah and some of the preceding Chapters. In Sūrah Maryam some of the false Christian doctrines were repudiated and rebutted, viz. that Jesus possessed Divine attributes, that he had abrogated the Law and had declared it to be a curse and that salvation depended not on good works but upon atonement. In Sūrah Ṭā Hā detailed account of Moses was given in order to refute again these false doctrines. The Christians were told that Christianity was but a link in the Mosaic Dispensation, and that Moses's circumstances constituted a flat repudiation of their doctrines. His whole pride lay in the fact that he was a Law-giving Prophet. If the Law was a curse, then, according to Christian belief, Moses, instead of having been regarded as an object of respect and pride, should have been condemned and denounced. After this, the Sūrah Ṭā Hā gave a brief account of the lapse suffered by Adam and thus traced the Christian theory of the original sin to its very root and then refuted it. It was made clear in that Sūrah that sin formed no part of the heritage of man and that he is punished only for his own trespasses and offences. Next, it was stated that if it was not possible for man to get rid of sin, then the very purpose of Divine punishment is defeated and God's Prophets and His Messengers, instead of holding out warnings to sinners, should have given them the comforting message that being mere creatures of circumstances and possessing no volition or discretion they will not be called to account for their actions. The same subject has been enlarged and expanded in the present Sūrah and the lesson is driven home that the enemies not only of this or that Prophet but those of all Messengers of God—from Adam to Jesus and then to the Holy Prophet Muḥammad—were punished for their wicked deeds and the righteous rewarded for their good actions. If man had inherited sin and if he could not shed it, then there was no sense or justification in punishing the sinners and rewarding the righteous. So the dogma of inherited sin is a baseless invention.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with a warning to disbelievers that Divine punishment is fast approaching, but they are deluding themselves into a false sense of security. There never came in the world a Divine Messenger who was not jeered and scoffed at. But out of sympathy with and solicitude for the spiritual well-being of their peoples the Prophets of God invited them to accept Truth and be saved. If sin formed a part of man's heritage, then of what avail was this invitation? The Sūrah then proceeds to state some objections of disbelievers which are effectively answered. After this disbelievers are asked to consider, what new burden the Qur'ān imposes upon them that they should be bent upon rejecting its Message. The primary object of that Message is to exalt and raise them to moral eminence. As it is God's own revealed Word, its rejectors will not escape punishment. The Sūrah then asks disbelievers whether they have ever given the idea serious consideration that an All-Knowing and Wise God could not have created the universe without a great and grim purpose, and that those who stand in the way of its fulfilment are bound to fail. Next, the Sūrah deals with the all-important subject of Divine Unity which forms the basic and fundamental belief of all religions. When one uniform law pervades and governs the whole universe, it says, how can the polytheists justify Shirk (belief in the plurality of gods)? Belief in the plurality of gods implies disagreement on the part of these gods in regard to the management and control of the universe. And as evidently there exists perfect order in it, there should be only One Creator and One Controller of the whole universe. And why God should have a son, for a son is needed only when the father is likely to fall a victim to decay or death or when he cannot perform his work single-handed and unassisted. But all such notions about God are blasphemous and unfounded. After this the Sūrah points to another Divine law, viz. that whenever darkness enshrouds the entire face of the earth and the world suffers from a dearth of righteous men, God opens the gates of His mercy upon mankind and heavenly water, in the form of Divine revelation, descends upon earth and gives new life to a world steeped in sin and iniquity. The phenomenon of the alternation of light and darkness in the spiritual realm corresponds to a similar phenomenon in the physical world where day and night follow each other. Then the Sūrah drives home the argument that it is foolish on the part of disbelievers to reject the Holy Prophet on the plea that he is but an ordinary mortal. It is not the status and the position of the bearer of the Quranic Message so much that matters. What really matters is, who has sent him. In order to show that the Holy Prophet's cause will prevail, the Sūrah cites the cases of some former Prophets—Noah, Abraham, David, Solomon, Idrīs, and others, who in the teeth of bitter, persistent and organized opposition succeeded in their missions. All these chosen servants of God like Jesus were models of noble and righteous conduct and like him they suffered great hardships and privations in the way of God. Then why of all of them Jesus alone should be regarded as son of God and not they? After the account of these Prophets, special mention is made of Jesus and his mother whose circumstances were in no way different from theirs. Even the unusual manner of Jesus's birth entitles him to no particular spiritual status. The birth of Yaḥyā had also taken place in very exceptional circumstances. If Jesus was born without the agency of a father, Yaḥyā's birth took place when his father had reached an extreme old age and his mother had become barren and was quite unfit to give birth to a child. Similarly, Jesus's suffering in the cause of Truth was nothing novel. Though he was hung on the Cross he was taken down alive, but Yaḥyā suffered actual death for the sake of God. Then why should Jesus's death alone atone for the sins of man and not that of Yaḥyā? Towards the end the Sūrah points to the phenomenal rise and great material might and dazzling prosperity, progress and power of Gog and Magog—Christian nations of the West. When these nations, the Sūrah proceeds to say, will spread all over the world and will occupy every position of power and eminence, and when other nations of the world will bow down to them in submission and pay homage to them, then will the promise about their ultimate destruction be fulfilled. Divine punishment will come down upon them so sudden and swift that they will be taken completely by surprise. All their handiworks, the source and cause of their pride, and all their pomp, glory and grandeur will be destroyed and reduced to ashes and dust.

سُوْرَةُ الْاَنْبِيَآءِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٢١ — اٰياتها ١١٣ — رکوعاتها ٧

PART XVII

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

اِقْتَرَبَ لِلنَّاسِ حِسَابُهُمْ وَهُمْ فِيْ غَفْلَةٍ مُّعْرِضُوْنَ ②

2. [b]Nigh unto men has drawn their reckoning, yet they turn away in heedlessness.

مَا يَاْتِيْهِمْ مِّنْ ذِكْرٍ مِّنْ رَّبِّهِمْ مُّحْدَثٍ اِلَّا اسْتَمَعُوْهُ وَهُمْ يَلْعَبُوْنَ ③

3. [c]There comes not to them any new admonition[1869] from their Lord, but they listen to it while they make sport of it.

لَاهِيَةً قُلُوْبُهُمْ ؕ وَاَسَرُّوا النَّجْوَى ۖ الَّذِيْنَ ظَلَمُوْا ۖ هَلْ هٰذَآ اِلَّا بَشَرٌ مِّثْلُكُمْ ۚ اَفَتَاْتُوْنَ السِّحْرَ وَاَنْتُمْ تُبْصِرُوْنَ ④

4. And their hearts are forgetful. And they—the wrongdoers—confer together in secret and say, 'Is this man aught but a mortal like yourselves? Will you then yield to his sorcery[1870] with your eyes open?'

[a]1:1. [b]54:2, 3. [c]21:43; 26:6.

1869. In form every Message which a Prophet brings is a new one, but in substance and essence it is the same old Message. 'I am not a new Messenger,' the Qur'ān depicts the Holy Prophet as saying with regard to himself (46:10).

1870. The main objection of disbelievers against every Prophet has always been that he is an ordinary mortal like themselves (14:11; 23:25, 34; 26:155; 36:16 & 64:7). This objection has been answered in 12:110; 14:12; 16:44, 45 & 17:96. Here it is answered in v. 8. The answer is this that while on the one hand the disbelievers say that there is nothing in the Holy Prophet different from an ordinary man, on the other they concede that he is a sorcerer, i.e. he possesses superior intellect. Divine Prophets are called sorcerers because their teachings produce a magical effect on the listeners. The verse implies an admission on the part of disbelievers that the Qur'ān does possess a fascinating power and that it is really difficult for an unprejudiced and fair-minded person to reject its teaching.

قُلْ رَبِّيْ يَعْلَمُ الْقَوْلَ فِي السَّمَآءِ وَالْاَرْضِ ۖ وَهُوَ السَّمِيْعُ الْعَلِيْمُ ۝

5. In reply to this the Prophet said, 'My Lord knows what is said in the heaven and the earth. And He is the All-Hearing, the All-Knowing.'[1871]

بَلْ قَالُوْٓا اَضْغَاثُ اَحْلَامٍ بَلِ افْتَرٰىهُ بَلْ هُوَ شَاعِرٌ ۖ فَلْيَاْتِنَا بِاٰيَةٍ كَمَآ اُرْسِلَ الْاَوَّلُوْنَ ۝

6. Nay, they say, 'These are but confused dreams; nay, he has forged it himself: nay, [a]he is but a poet.[1872] Let him then bring us a Sign just as the former Prophets were sent with Signs.'

مَآ اٰمَنَتْ قَبْلَهُمْ مِّنْ قَرْيَةٍ اَهْلَكْنٰهَا ۚ اَفَهُمْ يُؤْمِنُوْنَ ۝

7. No township, before them, which We destroyed, ever believed. Would they then believe?

1871. God knows all the secret and open plots and machinations of disbelievers against Islām and He hears the prayers of the Holy Prophet and His chosen servants and will frustrate all the evil designs of disbelievers.

1872. In this verse three different objections of disbelievers with regard to the Qur'ān have been mentioned. The first is that the Qur'ān is a mixture of confused dreams. But realizing the untenability of their position, since there exists a beautiful arrangement and order in it and since it forms a connected whole and contains excellent teachings, the disbelievers shift their ground and say that the Holy Prophet has forged it himself. But again realizing that throughout his life he was, by common consent, known and looked upon as 'the Trusty' and 'the Truthful,' they give up this objection also and proceed to accuse him of being a poet and a sorcerer. These objections have been mentioned in an ascending order and the continuous shifting of the ground by disbelievers implies an admission on their part that the objections cannot stand examination or scrutiny and are foolish and self-contradictory. The Qur'ān, therefore, has refused to entertain them here.

of the Reminder, if you know not;

وَمَا جَعَلْنٰهُمْ جَسَدًا لَّا يَاْكُلُوْنَ الطَّعَامَ وَمَا كَانُوْا خٰلِدِيْنَ ۝٩

R. 2.

وَكَمْ قَصَمْنَا مِنْ قَرْيَةٍ كَانَتْ ظَالِمَةً وَّاَنْشَاْنَا بَعْدَهَا قَوْمًا اٰخَرِيْنَ ۝١٢

12. [b]And how many a township that acted wrongfully have We utterly destroyed, and raised up after it another people.

1873. Though disbelievers regarded all the Divine Messengers as ordinary mortals, yet the objection was invariably repeated to every one of them that like ordinary mortals 'he eats and drinks and walks about in the streets and is subject to all human needs and demands of the body' (25:8), and on the basis of this very plea they rejected him. An implied reference is made here to this inconsistent attitude of disbelievers. They do not want to understand this simple fact, the verse purports to say, that Prophets are raised as 'models' for men, and, how could they serve as models if they were not men like them and were not like them subject to the demands of the physical body? As human beings they were not and could not be immune from the demands of the flesh or from decay or death.

1874. The verse means to say that not only will the deniers of the Qur'ān come to grief and its followers achieve progress and prosperity and rise from the lowest rung of the ladder to the highest pinnacle of material and spiritual glory, but this fact will also constitute an infallible proof that the Qur'ān is neither forgery, nor poetry, nor a collection of confused dreams but the true Word of the Almighty God, the Creator of heavens and earth.

1875. The verse gives a graphic description of the people upon whom descends Divine punishment. They are completely ruined, and all their ambitions and aspirations become extinguished. The very will to live dies in them and they despair of their future and lose all initiative and thus to all intents and purposes they become defunct and dead.

1875A. When the universe has not been created as a mere pastime and sport and a little reflection over its creation reveals the great wisdom underlying its creation, the creation of man, who is its axis and centre, must also have been designed to serve a grand and sublime object. The verse implies that man is God's vicegerent on earth and that he has been created to serve as a mirror to reflect in his person the beautiful image of his Creator (2:31).

Us, if at all We were to do such a thing.[1876]

20. To Him belongs whosoever is in the heavens and the earth. [b]And those who are in His presence do not disdain to worship Him, nor do they weary of it;

اَمِ اتَّخَذُوْٓا اٰلِهَةً مِّنَ الْاَرْضِ هُمْ يُنْشِرُوْنَ ﴿۲۲﴾

22. Have they taken gods from the earth who raise the dead?[1878]

[a]17:82; 34:49, 50. [b]7:207; 41:39.

1876. It is inconsistent with the dignity, majesty and wisdom of God that He should have created this universe without a great object and thus should have done a purposeless thing.

1876A. Damagha-hū means, he broke his head so that the wound reached his brain; he overcame him (Lane).

1877. The verse gives some marks of the true servants of God. They are not tired of serving God and humanity. They do not accept a Divine Prophet under a momentary impulse and then under the stress of hardships and privations lose heart. Once they accept the truth, they stick to it through thick and thin. Their zeal and enthusiasm for the service of truth never flag or fail. Worship of God is a source of delight to them and a means of relief from worries and anxieties (13:29). 'The cheer of my eyes is in Prayer,' the Holy Prophet is reported to have said (Nasa'ī).

1878. Creating or raising the dead to life is the exclusive attribute and prerogative of God. Neither Jesus nor any other person can share this attribute with Him. The reference to this attribute is intended to smash the divinity of Jesus which, in particular, forms the subject-matter of these verses.

لَوْ كَانَ فِيهِمَآ اٰلِهَةٌ اِلَّا اللّٰهُ لَفَسَدَتَا ۚ فَسُبْحٰنَ اللّٰهِ رَبِّ الْعَرْشِ عَمَّا يَصِفُوْنَ ﴿٢٣﴾

23. If there had been in the heavens and the earth other gods beside Allāh, then surely both would have gone to ruin.[1879] Glorified then be Allāh, the Lord of the Throne, far above what they attribute to Him.

لَا يُسْـَٔلُ عَمَّا يَفْعَلُ وَهُمْ يُسْـَٔلُوْنَ ﴿٢٤﴾

اَمِ اتَّخَذُوْا مِنْ دُوْنِهٖٓ اٰلِهَةً ۭ قُلْ هَاتُوْا بُرْهَانَكُمْ ۚ هٰذَا ذِكْرُ مَنْ مَّعِيَ وَذِكْرُ مَنْ قَبْلِيْ ۭ بَلْ اَكْثَرُهُمْ لَا يَعْلَمُوْنَ ۙ الْحَقَّ فَهُمْ مُّعْرِضُوْنَ ﴿٢٥﴾

25. [a]Have they taken gods beside Him? Say, 'Bring forth your proof. This Qur'ān is a source of honour for those with me, and a source of honour for those before me.'[1880A] Nay, most of them know not the truth, and so they turn away.

1879. The verse constitutes an effective and conclusive argument against polytheism. Even atheists cannot deny that perfect order pervades and permeates the entire universe. This order points to the fact that one uniform law governs it; and the uniformity of laws proves the Unity of the Maker and Controller of the universe. If there had been more than one God, then more than one law would have governed the universe—because for a god it is necessary to create the universe with his own special laws—and thus disorder and confusion would have been the inevitable result and the whole universe would have gone to pieces. It is, therefore, manifestly absurd to say that three gods, equally perfect in all respects are jointly the creators and controllers of the universe.

1880. The verse points to the perfection and completeness of the order in the universe and, therefore, to the perfection of its Author and Controller and hence to His Unity. It also signifies that God's authority is supreme while all other beings and things are subject to His authority. This constitutes another argument against polytheism.

1880A. The Qur'ān is a source of honour and dignity for previous Prophets وَمَآ اَرْسَلْنَا مِنْ قَبْلِكَ مِنْ رَّسُوْلٍ اِلَّا نُوْحِيْٓ اِلَيْهِ اَنَّهٗ لَآ اِلٰهَ اِلَّآ اَنَا فَاعْبُدُوْنِ ﴿٢٦﴾ also, because it clears them of the charges of which their people falsely accused them.

1881. The pronoun 'they' as the context shows refers to Prophets. Divine Messengers are incapable of disobeying God or committing a moral offence or sin. The verse establishes the sinlessness of the Prophets.

1882. The words may mean, 'what they did and what they did not or could not do;' or they may refer to the influences to which they were subject or the changes which they brought about.

1883. It is significant that whereas claimants to Godhead will only be punished in the hereafter for their false claims, those pretenders and mountebanks who falsely lay claim to Prophethood are punished in this very world. They meet with death and destruction and all their organizations come to naught in this very life (69:45-48). This difference in the treatment of these two kinds of pretenders is due to the fact that the absurdity of a claim to Godhead is self-evident, therefore such a claimant need not be punished here. But a false claimant to Prophethood, if allowed to go scot-free, may succeed in deceiving innocent people into accepting his false claim; therefore he ultimately is made to suffer defeat, discomfiture and destruction in this very life and is not allowed to live long, and his mission is not allowed to prosper.

1884. The verse points to a great scientific truth. It seems to refer to the pre-material stage of the universe and purports to say that the whole universe, particularly the solar system, has developed out of an amorphous or nebular mass. God, in accordance with the laws which He had set in motion, split the mass of matter, and its scattered bits became the units of the solar system ("The Universe Surveyed" by Harold Richards, & "The Nature of the Universe" by Fred Hoyle). God then created all life out of water. The verse seems to imply that like the material universe a spiritual universe also develops out of an amorphous mass of confused ideas and foolish beliefs. Just as God in His infallible wisdom and in pursuance of a supreme design split the mass of matter and its scattered bits became the units of the solar system, in the same way He brings about a new spiritual order in a world weltering in the morass of confused ideas. When mankind sink into an impenetrable gloom of moral turpitude, and spiritual atmosphere becomes dense and oppressive, God causes a light to appear in the form of a Heavenly Messenger who shakes up the overspreading spiritual gloom, and out of this confused and lifeless mass of moral depravity and spiritual degeneration, a spiritual universe is born which begins to reach out from its centre and eventually embraces the whole earth, receiving life and direction from the impetus behind it.

وَهُوَ الَّذِي خَلَقَ اللَّيْلَ وَالنَّهَارَ وَالشَّمْسَ وَالْقَمَرَ ۖ كُلٌّ فِي فَلَكٍ يَسْبَحُونَ ﴿٣٤﴾

34. And He it is Who created the night and the day, and the sun and the moon,[1886A] [b]each gliding along smoothly in its orbit.

1885. The expression, an Tamīda Bihim, means, lest it should quake with them; go round with them; be a source of benefit to them; Māda also meaning, he bestowed a benefit (Aqrab). The verse throws light on yet another scientific truth. Geology has established the fact that mountains have, to a great extent, secured the earth against earthquakes. In the beginning the earth was very hot from inside. When as the result of the intense heat gases were formed in the bowels of the earth, they forced a way out, thus causing violent agitations and eruptions in the form of volcanoes, which having cooled down took the shape of mountains ("Marvels & Mysteries of Science" by Allison Hox; & Enc. Brit. under "Geology"). The verse may also signify that the mountains are a great help to the earth in moving steadily on its axis. The Qur'ān spoke of the earth as 'moving round' long before it was discovered that it was not stationary and moved on its axis and round the sun.

1886. The solar system with its sun, moon, planets and stars is a well-ordered and well-regulated system which has existed for millions of years, never having once suffered the slightest disorder or deviation in the movements of these bodies. These heavenly bodies exercise a very wholesome influence on the terrestrial globe and its inhabitants. Just as a roof is a means of protection from rain, cold and heat for the residents of a house, similarly the heaven serves as a protection for the earth below and heavenly bodies exert their beneficial influence upon mankind.

1886A. The night and the day, the sun and the moon have all been created by God and they all fulfil human needs and are indispensable for man's existence on earth.

38. Man is created of haste.[1888] I will certainly show you My Signs, but ask Me not to hasten.

1887. All the different Dispensations and religious systems before the Holy Prophet were decreed and destined to suffer spiritual decay and death, and it was only the Dispensation of the Holy Prophet—the Islamic Dispensation—which was to live and continue till the end of time. The implication of the verse may also be that no human being is immune from decay or death, not even the Holy Prophet. Eternity and everlastingness are God's own exclusive attributes.

1887A. An Arab would say: La'in dhakartanī la-tandamanna, i.e. if thou speak ill of me, thou wilt assuredly repent (Lane).

1888. The expression. Khuliqal Insānu min 'Ajal, signifies that haste forms a part of man's being, and that it is so prominent a trait of his character that he can be said to have been created, as it were, out of haste, i.e. he is hasty by nature. When the Arabs have to express a prominent natural characteristic of a person they say, Khuliqa Minhu, i.e. he has been created of it. Similar expressions have been used in the Qur'ān elsewhere (7:13; 30:55).

1889. "Fire" here means "the fire of war." The disbelievers ignited that fire and then were themselves consumed in it. They drew the sword against Islām and by the sword they perished. The words, from their faces, signify the punishment they will see in front of them, i.e. its signs will be apparent and manifest; and the words, nor from their backs, signify that the punishment will overtake them suddenly and unawares. Moreover, the punishment will overwhelm all of them—their leaders and the ordinary men (Wujūh also meaning leaders—Lane).

1890. The reference in the verse may be to the Fall of Mecca when the Quraish were taken completely by surprise and were utterly confounded.

1891. Min means, against; from; instead of (Aqrab).

1892. When the time of the national prosperity of a people becomes prolonged, they come to labour under the misconception that their prosperity and progress will never see decline and consequently they become arrogant and their hearts are hardened. Thus prolongation of the period of their prosperity becomes the cause of their downfall. The verse warns disbelievers against the wishful thinking and false complacency that their progress and prosperity will continue indefinitely and tells them not to shut their eyes to the patent fact that God is gradually but surely reducing and curtailing the land from all its sides, i.e. Islām is making inroads into every home and all sections and strata of their society.

1893. The verse makes it clear that Hell is not everlasting. If even the slightest good work done by a man is to be rewarded, then a time must come when punishment should come to an end and the reward of good works should begin. Contrary to the teachings of other religions the Qur'ān teaches that it is Heaven and not Hell that is everlasting. See also 1351.

1894. The word Mubārak possesses the sense of firmness; steadiness; continuity; abundance of good; exaltation and collection, etc. (Lane). It is an epithet exclusively reserved for the Qur'ān (6:93), and in this title lies its outstanding distinction. Being Mubārak the Qur'ān combines in itself all good qualities that a heavenly Scripture should possess. There is no good which it does not possess in abundance and in which it does not excel all other Scriptures.

1895. The particle mā here denotes contempt and not a question. While talking to idol-worshippers Abraham generally made use of irony. See 6:77,78,79. He seems to say to his people, 'how useless and futile are these images which you worship!' While Abraham used to talk in ironical language, Jesus talked in metaphors.

1896. The verse points to the supreme truth that Divine Messengers, when they talk about God, speak from personal experience. They do not invite people to God merely because human reason demands belief in His existence, but they do so with full conviction and firm faith (12:109).

1897. The pronoun hi in the expression, Ilaihi, may refer either to God, or

قَالُوْا مَنْ فَعَلَ هٰذَا بِاٰلِهَتِنَآ اِنَّهٗ لَمِنَ الظّٰلِمِيْنَ ﴿٦٠﴾

64. He replied, 'Well, someone has surely done this. Here is the chief of them. So ask them if they can speak.'[1900] to the chief idol or to Abraham himself.

1898. Dhakara-hū means, he spoke well or ill of him; mentioned his faults (Lane).

1899. The reason why Abraham was summoned before the public was either that those, who had heard him speak ill of the idols, should bear witness against him, or that having listened to the evidence against him might decide what punishment should be meted out to him and that they should witness the punishment that was to be inflicted on him.

1900. Besides the meaning given in the text, the Arabic expression may have been spoken ironically by Abraham as was his wont while talking to his idolatrous people. In this case the sense of the words would be something like this: 'Why should I have done this, their chief may have done this,' meaning thereby that the fact is too evident to warrant any questioning or need any explanation that I have done this. If I had not done this, could this lifeless block of stone have done this? Abraham seems to have rebuked his people and to have brought home to them the futility of their idolatrous practices, first by breaking the idols and then by challenging their votaries to ask those idols, if they could speak, to tell them who had broken them.

1901. The Arabic expression may mean: (a) They returned to their former state of disbelief, or wicked behaviour; (b) they reverted to disputation after they had taken the right course; (c) they hung down their heads for shame and were completely dumbfounded (Lane & Ma'ānī).

1902. How the fire became cool we are not told. Timely rain or a stormy hurricane might have extinguished it. In any event God did bring about circumstances which led to Abraham's deliverance. There is always an element of mystery in heavenly miracles; and the manner of Abraham being saved from the fire was indeed a great miracle. That Abraham had been cast into the fire is credited not only by the Jews, but also by the eastern Christians—25th of the second Canun, or January being set apart in the Syrian Calendar for the commemoration of the event (Hyde, De Rel. Vet Pers., p. 73). See also Mdr. Rabbah on Gen. Par. 17; Schalacheleth Hakabala, 2; Maimon

1904. It is worthy of note that this Sūrah makes a special mention of the trials and tribulations through which almost all the Prophets of God had to pass in their times and also of the way in which God helped them and delivered them from their afflictions, the implication being that like those Prophets the Holy Prophet of Islām too will have to suffer hardships and privations and like them he too will come out of his ordeal with success.

1905. In order to add to the beauty of expression, use has been made of metaphorical language in this and the following few verses. Al-Ḥarth may signify Solomon's country and the words Ghanamul-Qaum may represent those wild and predatory neighbouring tribes who raided Solomon's country. The reference is to the policy which David and Solomon adopted to repel and defeat the depredations of those savage tribes. David was a great warrior and as such was in favour of adopting a strong policy. Solomon, however, wished to pursue a milder policy and to win over those tribes by entering into treaties of friendship with them.

فَفَهَّمْنٰهَا سُلَيْمٰنَ ۚ وَكُلًّا اٰتَيْنَا حُكْمًا

80. We gave Solomon the right understanding[1906] of the matter and to each of them We gave wisdom and knowledge. [a]And We subjected the mountains and the birds to David to celebrate God's praises with him.[1907] And it was We Who did all these things.

1906. The words signify that Solomon's policy of moderation and conciliation was right in the then obtaining circumstances, and that the charge levelled against him by some Jewish writers of having pursued a weak policy which brought about the downfall of his dynasty is ill-founded. But the defence of Solomon should not be taken to mean that the strong policy adopted by David in his own time was wrong. Any misunderstanding leading to this inference has been dispelled by the clause, and to each of them We gave wisdom and knowledge, which makes it clear that the policies of both David and Solomon were best in the circumstances and quite suited to the particular occasions.

1907. The words, We subjected the mountains and the birds to David to celebrate God's praises with him, have been taken literally to mean that the mountains and birds were under David's control and when he sang the praises of God they actually joined with him in that pious act. The words merely mean that big men (al-Jibāl) and highly spiritual men (aṭ-Ṭair) glorified God and sang Divine praises along with David. At several places in the Qur'ān not only mountains and birds but all other things in the heavens and the earth—the sun, the moon, the stars, the day and the night, the animals, the birds, the rivers, the seas, the winds, the clouds, etc. are stated to have been subjected to man (2:165; 7:55; 22:38 & 45:13-14). The word Jibāl may also signify 'people living in the mountains' as the name of a place sometimes stands for its people (12:83). Thus the subjection of "the mountains" to David may signify that he conquered and subjugated wild and savage mountain tribes. He was a great conqueror and subduer of wild mountain tribes. The Bible also refers to the subjugation of mountain tribes by David (II Sam., chapter 5). Similarly, celebration by birds of God's praises should occasion no surprise. Elsewhere in the Qur'ān, we read that all things, animate or inanimate, the angels, animals, birds, the heavens and the earth even the forces of nature, sing the praises of God, only man cannot understand their glorification (13:14; 17:45; 21:20-21; 24:42; 59:2; 61:2; & 64:2) which is that they carry out the duties assigned to them by God and thus demonstrate that God is perfect and completely free from all flaws, failings and frailties and so is His handiwork. The word "birds" may also signify actual birds. In this sense the meaning would be that David made use of birds which had been especially trained for this purpose to carry messages in time of war. It may also signify flocks of birds which followed David's victorious armies and feasted on the dead bodies of his fallen foes.

1908. The reference in the verse is again to the military might of David and to his great skill in making implements of war and coats of mail. David invented and developed various kinds of armours by means of which he made great conquests. In his reign the Israelite Kingdom had attained the zenith of its power. It was the golden period in Israelite history.

1909. It appears that the vessels of Solomon plied in the Persian Gulf, the Red and the Mediterranean Seas and regular trade was carried on between Palestine and the countries lying round the Persian Gulf and these two seas (1 Kings, 10:27-29). 'In partnership with Hiram of Tyre he maintained a fleet of ocean-going ships trading at regular intervals to Mediterranean ports, bringing gold, silver, ivory, apes and peacocks' (1 Kings, 10:22; 10:27-29; II Chron. 8:18; Enc. Brit. under "Solomon"). Here the adjective used about the wind is 'Āṣifah (violent) while in 38:37 it is Rukhā' (gentle) which shows that though the wind blew fast, it was gentle and did no damage to Solomon's ships.

1910. Shaiṭān meaning a rebel and recalcitrant person and also one who is expert in anything (2:15), the verse purports to say that the non-Israelite people whom Solomon subjugated were employed on various arduous works by his orders. They worked as carpenters, ironsmiths, divers etc. professions which members of a subject race generally adopt (see 1 Kings, 9:21, 22). The words, who dived for him, may refer to the divers of Bahrain and Muscat who dived in the Persian Gulf for taking out pearls. They were employed for that purpose by Solomon.

1911. Job is mentioned in the Bible as having lived in the land of 'Uz which appeared to have been situated somewhere in the north of Arabia, between Syria and the Gulf of 'Aqbah. It is said that Job lived there before the departure of the Israelites from Egypt. According to some Jewish writers he lived about 200 years before Moses. According to some other authorities, however, he was a compatriot of Moses, but was not an Israelite Prophet, having descended from Esau, the elder brother of Israel. Of all the Books of the Old Testament, the Book of Job is unique in this respect that with the exception of the word, Jehovah, which is a Jewish name for God, the whole history of the Mosaic Law and that of the Jews is conspicuous by its absence in it. The Qur'ān has confined itself to mentioning a few relevant facts about Job in the present and the next verse. It is stated that he was a holy man of God and that he had to suffer great hardships and privations as a result of which he became separated from his family and followers, who subsequently were made to join him, having increased manifold in the meantime. Job has also been mentioned in vv. 4:164; 6:85 & 38:42 along with David and Solomon. This shows that like these two great Prophets, he was a man of influence and affluence and like them he had to pass through trials and tribulations which he bore with exemplary patience and fortitude. The courage and fortitude displayed by Job under very severe affliction and distress has become proverbial. See also Jew. Enc., under "Job" and Enc. of Islām under "Ayyūb."

1912. The identity of Dhul-Kifl is wrapped in uncertainty. Muslim Commentators of the Qur'ān identify him with several persons, chiefly with some biblical Prophets. But the Prophet known by this name appears to be Ezekiel who is called Dhul-Kifl by the Arabs. There seems to exist a close resemblance between the words Dhul-Kifl (Ḥizqīl) and Ezekiel, both in form and meaning, the former word meaning 'possessed of an abundant portion' and the latter 'God gives strength.' Rodwell says that Ezekiel is called Dhul-Kifl by the Arabs. According to Karsten Niebuhr, a little town called Kefil which is situated midway between Najaf and Ḥilla (Babylon) contains the shrine of Ezekiel which is still visited by Jewish pilgrims. He is further of the view that DhuI-Kifl is the Arabic form of Ezekiel. The Jews too regard Ezekiel as Dhul-Kifl (Enc. of Islam under "Dhul-Kifl" & Niebuhr's "Travels" ii, 265). Born probably about 622 B.C. in a priestly family Dhul-Kifl had spent the first twenty-five years of his life in Judah. In 592 B.C. at the age of thirty, he received the Call and began to preach against idol-worship and the injustice and immorality of his people. In the meantime Babylon had taken the place of Assyria as the dominant Power in Western Asia and Judah had acknowledged its overlordship. But Jehoiakim, the King of Judah, under the influence of his evil councilors, revolted against the authority of Babylon, thus drawing upon himself the vengeance of Nebuchadnezzar who successfully besieged Jerusalem in 597 B.C. and carried into exile many of her leading citizens, including Ezekiel and Jehoiachim, a king of three months' standing—his father Jehoiakim having meanwhile died. Jehoiachim was succeeded by his uncle, Zedekiah, who for a time remained faithful to Babylon, but foolishly depending upon the support of Egypt renounced his allegiance to Babylon, an act which Ezekiel bitterly resented and denounced as treachery to Yahweh himself. The result was that Jerusalem was invested by Nebuchadnezzar, and after a siege of eighteen months it was destroyed amid horrors untold. The Temple on which such a passion of love had been lavished was reduced to ashes and the people deported to Babylon (586 B.C.). Such was the situation which confronted Ezekiel. In 592 B.C. five years before the downfall he had foreseen it and with some detail had predicted it and had warned the Jews of the impending disaster. The first terrific blow by Babylon in 597 B.C. had left the Jews unconvinced of the probability of their imminent political extinction—a probability which to Ezekiel was a certainty as clear as noonday. But as Ezekiel foretold the destruction of the Jews, so did he predict their restoration. The picture drawn by him of the salvation in store for his people is

وَاَدْخَلْنٰهُمْ فِیْ رَحْمَتِنَا ؕ اِنَّهُمْ مِّنَ الصّٰلِحِیْنَ ﴿۸۷﴾

87. And We admitted them to Our mercy. Surely, they were of the righteous ones.

وَذَا النُّوْنِ اِذْ ذَّهَبَ مُغَاضِبًا فَظَنَّ اَنْ لَّنْ نَّقْدِرَ عَلَیْهِ فَنَادٰی فِی الظُّلُمٰتِ اَنْ لَّاۤ اِلٰهَ اِلَّاۤ اَنْتَ سُبْحٰنَكَ ۖ اِنِّیْ كُنْتُ مِنَ الظّٰلِمِیْنَ ﴿۸۸﴾

88. [a]And remember Dhun-Nūn, when he went away in anger, and he was sure in his mind that We would not cause him distress[1913] and [b]he cried out in the midst of his afflictions: 'There is no god but Thou, Holy art Thou. I have indeed been of the wrongdoers.'

فَاسْتَجَبْنَا لَهٗ ۙ وَنَجَّیْنٰهُ مِنَ الْغَمِّ ؕ وَكَذٰلِكَ نُنْجِی الْمُؤْمِنِیْنَ ﴿۸۹﴾

89. [c]So We heard his prayer and delivered him from his distress. And thus do We deliver true believers.

وَزَكَرِیَّاۤ اِذْ نَادٰی رَبَّهٗ رَبِّ لَا تَذَرْنِیْ فَرْدًا وَّاَنْتَ خَیْرُ الْوٰرِثِیْنَ ﴿۹۰﴾

90. [d]And remember Zachariah also when he cried to his Lord: 'My Lord, leave me not alone and Thou art the Best of inheritors.'

as gracious and brilliant as his forecast of their downfall had been stern. His prophecy about the restoration and return to Jerusalem was based upon a vision which he had seen (Ezekiel. ch. 37) and to which a reference is to be found in the Qur'ān also (2:260). But he did not live long to see the fulfilment of his prophecy because he died in captivity in 570 B.C. at the age of 52. Ezekiel and Daniel are called the Prophets of the Exile ("The Holy Bible," edited by Rev. Sc.I. Cofield & Peake's "Commentary of the Bible").

1913. The verse does not specify the cause of Jonah's anger. Apparently he did not and could not have become angry with God. It must have been the obstinate refusal of his people to accept his message which enraged him, because for a Prophet to become angry with God is inconceivable. The Elect of God do not even speak, nor do they act until God commands them to do so (21:28). The words, Lan Naqdira 'Alaihi, mean, 'We will not straiten him' or 'We will not decree against him any distress' (Lisān & Aqrab).

فَاسْتَجَبْنَا لَهٗ ۟ وَوَهَبْنَا لَهٗ يَحْيٰى وَاَصْلَحْنَا لَهٗ زَوْجَهٗ ؕ اِنَّهُمْ كَانُوْا يُسٰرِعُوْنَ فِى الْخَيْرٰتِ وَيَدْعُوْنَنَا رَغَبًا وَّرَهَبًا ؕ وَكَانُوْا لَنَا خٰشِعِيْنَ ﴿۹۱﴾

91. So We heard his prayer and bestowed upon him John and cured his wife of sterility for him. They used to vie with one another in good works and [a]they called on Us in hope and in fear, and they humbled themselves before Us.

وَالَّتِىْۤ اَحْصَنَتْ فَرْجَهَا فَنَفَخْنَا فِيْهَا مِنْ رُّوْحِنَا وَجَعَلْنٰهَا وَابْنَهَاۤ اٰيَةً لِّلْعٰلَمِيْنَ ﴿۹۲﴾

92. [b]And remember her who guarded her chastity, so We breathed[1914] into her of Our Word and We made her and her son a Sign for all peoples.

وَتَقَطَّعُوْۤا اَمْرَهُمْ بَيْنَهُمْ ؕ كُلٌّ اِلَيْنَا رٰجِعُوْنَ ﴿۹۴﴾ ع ۱۸ ۶

94. [d]And they split up their affair among themselves[1916] and all will return to Us.

1914. The verse refutes the calumnious charges that the Jews had levelled against Mary. It may also apply to any person who leads a righteous and upright life. In 66:13 a certain class of righteous believers are likened to Mary. Everyone of such righteous believers, so to say, is Mary, and when God breathes into him of His spirit he becomes a "son of Mary," i.e. he acquires the Divine attributes possessed by Jesus.

1915. In the preceding few verses some Prophets of God and some other righteous persons have been mentioned together. This is no mere coincidence. The mentioning together of these Prophets serves a definite purpose. All of them had one thing in common. They all suffered great hardships and distress in one form or another and displayed the highest and noblest form of patience and endurance under severest trials. They also taught the one basic principle of all religions—Divine Unity.

1916. One class of people—the righteous servants of God has been mentioned in the preceding few verses. The present verse refers to another class—those who reject God's Prophets with the result that they fall victim to differences and disagreements among themselves and come to hold mutually antagonistic beliefs and doctrines.

1917. It is an inviolable Divine law that the dead are never sent back to this world. Those, who pass away from this world, pass away for ever (23:100, 101).

1918. See 1728.

1919. When read in conjunction with the preceding verse, this verse purports to say that the law of nature works in this way that once a people, after the heyday of their grandeur and glory, fall a victim to death and destruction they never regain their lost glory. Even Gog and Magog, notwithstanding their great material grandeur and glory, will fall a victim to the same law. They will fall, never to rise again. Gog and Magog, or the Christian nations of the West, have already scaled all the heights of political power and have spread over the whole world. The Quranic expression means, they will occupy every point of vantage and will dominate the whole world.

1920. The domination of Gog and Magog will be followed by catastrophic occurrences in the world which eventually will result in the triumph of Islām (61:10) and the vanquishment of the forces of falsehood and materialism as represented by Gog and Magog.

1920A. When after the complete destruction of Gog and Magog Islām will regain its former greatness and glory, those who had lost all hope of its regeneration, will scarcely believe their eyes.

1921. They will not hear anything that will give them solace and comfort; or there will be so much crying and shrieking and wailing in Hell that its inmates will not hear each other's voice.

1922. This and the next verse show that the righteous servants of God will be kept far away from Hell, and will not even hear its slightest sound, much less enter it as is generally misunderstood from 19:72.

لَا يَحْزُنُهُمُ الْفَزَعُ الْاَكْبَرُ وَتَتَلَقّٰىهُمُ

105. [b]'The day when We shall roll up the heavens[1923] like the rolling up of written scrolls by a scribe.' [c]As We began the first creation, so shall We repeat[1924] it—a promise binding upon Us; We shall certainly fulfil it.

وَلَقَدْ كَتَبْنَا فِي الزَّبُوْرِ مِنْۢ بَعْدِ الذِّكْرِ اَنَّ

106. And We have already written in the Book of David, after the Reminder, that My righteous servants shall inherit the land.[1925]

1923. 'The rolling up of the heavens' may mean that great empires will be swept away and powerful nations will be destroyed and other peoples will rise to power in their place. Or, the meaning may be that through the Holy Prophet a great transformation will come about and the old heaven will he rolled up and in its place a new heaven and a new earth will be created. The old order will die and in its place a new and better order will come into being. Never had the world witnessed such a complete transformation in the lives of a people as it did in the Holy Prophet's time.

1924. The expression, so shall We repeal it, implies that the order brought into being by the Holy Prophet will receive a setback through the material outlook on life of Muslims created by the godless and mechanistic Western civilisation. But this setback will be temporary and Islām will experience a new spiritual awakening and will again emerge triumphant.

1925. By "the land" is meant Palestine. Christian writers have also interpreted the words 'inherit the land' or 'inherit the earth' in the Psalms as meaning, inherit Canaan, 'the pledge of God's covenant.' The reference in the words, 'in the Book of David' is to Psalms, 37:9, 11, 22 & 29. There is also a prophecy in Deuteronomy (28:11 & 34:4) that Palestine will be given to the Israelites. Palestine remained in the hands of Christians till Muslims

110. But if they turn back, say, 'I have warned you all alike and [c]I know not whether that which you are promised is near or far;[1927] conquered it in the Caliphate of 'Umar, the Second Successor of the Holy Prophet. It is to this conquest of Palestine by Muslim arms that the prophecy embodied in the verse under comment may refer. It remained under Muslim possession for about 1350 years with the exception of a brief space of 92 years, when during the Crusades it changed hands, till in our own time through the evil designs of some so-called democratic Christian Powers, the country of the name of Palestine has altogether ceased to exist and on its ruins the State of Israel has been built. The Jews have come to their own after wandering in wilderness for about 2000 years. But this great historical event, too, has taken place in fulfilment of a Quranic prophecy (17:105). This, however, is only a temporary phase. The Muslims are destined to win it back. Sooner or later—sooner rather than later—Palestine will revert to Muslim possession. This is a Divine decree and nobody can alter the decree of God.

1926. The Holy Prophet was a mercy for the whole of mankind as his Message is not confined to any particular country or people. Through him the nations of the world have been blessed as they were never blessed before.

1927. God is not bound by days and hours for the fulfilment of His promises. He knows best if and when a certain prophecy is to be fulfilled.

112. 'And I know not but that it may be a trial for you, and only an enjoyment for a while.'

وَاِنْ اَدْرِیْ لَعَلَّهٗ فِتْنَةٌ لَّكُمْ وَمَتَاعٌ اِلٰى حِیْنٍ ﴿۱۱۲﴾

113. [a]And the Prophet said, 'My Lord, judge Thou with truth.[1928] Our Lord is the Gracious God Whose help is sought against that which you assert.'

[a]7:90.

1928. The Holy Prophet is commanded to offer the prayer contained in this verse as a protection against the powers of evil that were to be let loose upon the world in the Latter Days in the form of Gog and Magog. It is clear from the Bible that in the time of Gog and Magog physical force will not be the only danger to Islām. There will be other factors which will constitute a far greater source of danger to it. The Holy Prophet may also be represented as praying in this verse that the duration of the possession of Palestine by the Jews may be the shortest possible and that it may revert to its legitimate heirs—the Muslims.

CHAPTER 22

AL-ḤAJJ

(Revealed partly before and partly after Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

According to scholarly opinion a part of the Sūrah was revealed before the Hijrah and a part after it. Ḍaḥḥāk, however, holds that the whole of it was revealed after the Hijrah. In Sūrah Al-Anbiyā' it was stated that Divine punishment continues to dog the footsteps of disbelievers because they reject the truth. In its last verse the Holy Prophet was enjoined to invoke Divine punishment upon disbelievers because of their persistently hostile attitude. The opening verse of the present Sūrah constitutes an answer to his prayer. This is the immediate connection of the Sūrah with Al-Anbiyā'. But there exists a broader connection and deeper relationship between the subject-matter of some preceding Chapters and this Sūrah. The subject which began in Sūrah Maryam and was later developed and elaborated in Sūrahs Ṭā Hā and Al-Anbiyā' is brought to completion in the present Sūrah. In Sūrah Maryam the basic principles of the Christian Faith were explained and effectively refuted, as without their refutation there could have been no justification for a new Message. The Holy Prophet had claimed to have brought a new Message and a new Law for the whole of mankind. If Christianity could be shown to have existed in the world in its pristine purity and if there was extant in the world a Faith which claimed to be true, practical and practicable, then the need of a new Faith could not arise. So the basic principles of Christianity had to be proved to be false and unfounded. This was done in Sūrah Maryam where by shedding light on the incidents attending his birth Jesus was shown to have been in no way different from, or superior to, other Messengers of God. In Surah Ṭā Hā, the Christian doctrine that Law is a curse was fully and completely repudiated, while in Sūrah Al-Anbiyā' the same subject was treated in a different manner, and the doctrine of original sin was shown to be quite untenable. It was made clear that if man suffered from the legacy of original sin and being devoid of free will he could not get rid of it, then the very object of the advent of Divine Messengers was defeated and man could not have been regarded as accountable for his actions and deeds. In the present Sūrah, however, we are told that if Jesus had attained the highest stage of spiritual perfection, then there was no need of a new Sharī'ah (Law) and a new Messenger. But the fact that the Holy Prophet had claimed to be a new Messenger and to have brought a new Law, in itself constitutes a challenge to this Christian belief.

Subject-Matter

The subject-matter of the Sūrah is split into five main parts: (1) The disbelievers are threatened with Divine punishment because they reject the claim of the Holy Prophet which rests on the following very sound hypotheses:

(a) His teachings are indispensable for mankind and are based on truth and wisdom and have sound and solid arguments to establish their abiding utility and the emptiness of the objections of disbelievers. (b) Heavenly Signs uphold the Prophet's cause—his followers are prospering both materially and spiritually and his enemies like those of the former Prophets are suffering defeat at his hands. (c) He will be blessed with Divine boons and blessings in an unusual measure. (d) His teachings are designed to bring about peace, harmony and goodwill among nations of the world. (e) All false faiths and religious systems including Christianity will retreat before the invincible onrush of Islām and will eventually be completely routed. (2) All Divine Messengers were opposed and satanic people placed all sorts of obstacles and impediments in their way. But God removed all those obstacles and the cause of Truth ultimately prevailed. (3) The advent of the Holy Prophet has fulfilled that Divine purpose for which Patriarch Abraham had prayed to God in the barren and arid valley of Mecca when he left his son Ishmael and his wife Hagar there. (4) The Holy Prophet has met with long and hard opposition and has endured untold hardships with great patience and fortitude, and the time has now arrived that he be granted permission to fight his opponents in self-defence. Defensive warfare is not only permissible but is commendable when the cause of Truth is at stake; and Divine succour comes to those who fight in its defence. If fighting in defence of Truth had not been allowed, man would have become deprived of freedom of conscience which is his most precious heritage, and God would have ceased to be worshipped and sin and iniquity would have reigned supreme in the world. (5) Divine Teaching like fresh rain gives new life and vigour to a spiritually dead world and is, therefore, bound to succeed. The cycle of a new Revelation taking the place of an old one continues. When a particular Teaching completes its allotted span of life and serves its intended purpose, a new Teaching replaces it and becomes the vehicle of Divine Will and Purpose. The Sūrah ends with the Divine promise that Heavenly help will come to the Holy Prophet because he is the Promised Teacher. His followers should, therefore, give him full and unconditional allegiance. This is the way to victory and success.

سُوْرَةُ الْحَجِّ مَدَنِيَّةٌ ٢٢ — اٰياتها ٧٩ — رکوعاتها ١٠

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1929. As-Sā'ah (the Hour), or al-Qiyāmah, is used in three senses: (a) Death of a great and famous person (as-Sā'atuṣ-Ṣughrā); (b) a national calamity (as-Sā'atul-Wusṭā): (c) the Day of Judgment (as-Sā'atul-Kubrā). The word has been used in the Qur'ān in the last two senses. The context shows that here it has been used in the sense of a national calamity that shakes the very foundations of a people. It may have particular reference to the impending doom of the Arabs when Mecca, the citadel of their political power, was to fall and their political power and their social system were to break and crumble; or it may refer to a terrible calamity that would overtake mankind in the form of a global war and would bring calamitous changes in its wake. The present verse, read along with 2:213, lends further support to the inference that the words "the Hour" or "the Day of Judgment" used in the Qur'ān generally signify a great national calamity that overtakes a whole people.

1930. The verse has used three metaphors or similes to express the extreme severity of the earthquake of the Hour, referred to in the preceding verse. Nothing is dearer to a mother than the baby to which she gives suck, and there could be no terror more dreadful in its effects than the one that makes a woman cast down her burden and which drives men to frenzy, and yet the verse says that the suddenness and severity of the terror inspired by the dreadful event would be such that mothers would abandon the babes at their

1932. Man's creation and physical development constitutes a strong argument in favour of Life after death. This creation is a process of evolution, a gradual unfolding, a development from one stage to another, from lifeless matter to a seed, then to a fertilised ovum, then to a foetus and then it culminates in the birth of a perfectly formed human being. This process of evolution, however, does not stop with man's birth. It continues. The wonderful physical growth of man from lifeless matter to a fully developed human being constitutes an irrefutable proof that the Creator of man and the Author of all these stages of his development possesses the power to give him a new life after he is dead. The inference also seems to be that just as the creation and physical development of man is a process of evolution and gradual growth, so is his spiritual development. Another argument is taken from nature, viz. that the barren, bleak or dead earth vibrates with new life when rain falls upon it. This phenomenon also leads to the same conclusion that God, Who has the power to make the dead and barren earth vibrate with 1934. Two kinds of punishment are in store for the deniers of truth, viz. defeat and discomfiture in the present life and disgrace and ignominy in the life to come. The punishment in this life constitutes a proof of punishment in the life to come.

1935. The Arabs say, Fulānun 'Alā Ḥarfin min Amrihī, i.e. such a one is in a vacillating condition, looking to the result of an affair he turns to it if he sees what he likes and turns away from it if he sees what does not please him (Lane). The Quranic expression means, one who serves Allāh standing aloof with respect to religion, in a fluctuating state, like the person who is in the outskirts of the army, so that if he is sure of victory and spoil, he stands firm, otherwise he flees away. The sense of the expression 'on the verge' is explained in the very next sentence, viz. "if good befalls him, he is content therewith; and if there befalls him a trial, he returns to his former way." Or, the expression may signify that people of weak faith are always in a state of doubt and suspense. If, by accepting the truth, they hope to get some material benefit they remain and behave as believers, but if belief is attended with trials and tribulations, they turn back on their heels.

1936. The moral injury which the worship of false gods does to their votaries is immediate and patent inasmuch as they degrade themselves before lifeless things and thus do a great injury to their own dignity and self-respect, but any benefit that they hope to get from it is only illusory and far-fetched.

1937. The verse seems to hold out a challenge to disbelievers to do their worst against the Holy Prophet and then see if they can stop Divine help which he is constantly receiving and will continue to receive from On High. It is decreed in the heavens that Islām shall make steady and uninterrupted progress and that no one can alter the Divine decree; and that only death will save disbelievers from the humiliating and painful sight of seeing Islām making rapid progress. If the word Samā' be interpreted as "roof" or "ceiling" (Lane), the verse would signify, 'If the opponents of the Holy Prophet are enraged at the success of his mission, then let them hang themselves by fixing a rope to the ceiling and cutting it off, even then Divine assistance will not stop coming.' This meaning is supported by 3:120 where disbelievers are reproved and reprimanded in the words, Perish in your rage. Surely, Allāh has full knowledge of what is hidden in your breasts.

1938. In later Arabic literature, the word has been also used to denote the people of northern Europe (Enc. of Islām).

1939. This verse and vv. 2:63 and 5:70 do not signify that Christians, Jews and Sabians are equally eligible to salvation along with true believers. The Qur'ān does not support any such belief. According to it the only religion acceptable to God is Islām (3:20, 86). The present verse only lays down a criterion to test the truth of all the different religions and not that it regards all of them as true. The implied criterion is, that of all religions the true one will prevail over others in the "Hour of Decision." Or, the verse may mean that false beliefs of a person constitute no reason that he should be punished in this life. That matter will be decided on the Day of Judgment.

1940. God has fixed certain laws—natural laws, which all created things, animate or inanimate, have to obey. There is no escape from submission to these laws. There are, however, certain other laws—the laws of the Sharī'ah which God has revealed for the guidance of man. Man may obey or disobey and defy these laws and may suffer the consequences of his defiance. The verse further brings home to idolaters the folly and futility of their taking the objects of nature for worship beside Allāh. It says that all these things depend upon Him for their very existence. They submit to the laws He has fixed for them and cannot live independently of God for a moment. It is sheer folly, therefore, to adore and worship things and beings which are themselves subject to God-made laws.

1941. The reference in the words "These are two" is to two classes of men—the believers and disbelievers.

1942. The Holy Prophet is reported to have said, 'The Nile and the Euphrates are two of the streams of Paradise' (Muslim, ch. al-Jannah). The Holy Prophet and his Companions knew that they were promised "gardens" not only in the next life but in this world also and they also knew that by "gardens" in this world were meant rich and fertile lands once ruled by the Kings of Persia and the Emperors of the Eastern Roman Empire. During the Caliphate of ‘Umar, Muslim armies fought on two fronts, in Mesopotamia and Syria, and when some Arab chiefs presented themselves before him and offered their services, he asked them to which of "the two promised lands" (Mesopotamia or Syria) they would like to go. The prophecy was literally fulfilled when ‘Umar asked Surāqah bin Mālik to wear the bracelets of gold which the Kings of Iran used to wear on special State ceremonies.

1943. The verse shows that the site of the Ka'bah had existed long before Abraham's time. In fact, the Ka'bah was built by Adam. It was the first House of worship built in the world (3:97). By the time of Abraham it had fallen into ruins and its site, having been disclosed to him by revelation, he and his son Ishmael, the Holy Prophet's great progenitor, rebuilt it. See also [146].

1943A. The Ka'bah is variously mentioned in the Qur'ān as "My House" (2:126 & 22:27), "The Sacred House" (14:38), "The Sacred Mosque" (2:151), "The House" (2:128,159; 3:98; 8:36; 22:27), "The Ancient House" (22:30, 34), and "The Frequented House" (52:5). All these different appellations point to the eminence of the Ka'bah as the greatest centre of worship for mankind.

1944. The words, keep My house clean, embodied both a commandment and a prophecy. The commandment was that the Ka'bah was not to be polluted with idol-worship as it had been built for the worship of the One True God, and the prophecy lay in the fact that this commandment would be defied and the House of God would become a house of idols but would eventually be completely cleared of them.

1945. This verse serves as an introduction to the subject of Pilgrimage which is the central theme of this Sūrah. Circumambulation of the Sacred Mosque is the most important ceremony of the Pilgrimage, so a brief reference to the sanctity and importance of the Ka'bah forms a befitting introduction to the subject of Ḥajj.

1946. The Pilgrimage as an institution began with the Patriarch Abraham as the words, And proclaim unto men the Pilgrimage, show. It was not an idolatrous institution incorporated into Islām by the Holy Prophet to conciliate the idol-worshipping Arabs as some Christian writers have been led to think. From the time of Abraham Pilgrimage has continued without break to this day. The gathering in Mecca every year of many hundreds of thousands of Muslims from very distant lands bears an irrefutable testimony to the fulfilment of this prophecy.

1947. Apart from the spiritual good that the Pilgrimage does to a Muslim, it possesses great social and political significance. It also possesses great potentialities to weld Muslims of different nationalities into one strong international brotherhood of Islām. Muslims from all parts of the world who meet at Mecca once a year can exchange views on matter of international importance, renew old and establish new contacts. They have opportunities to acquaint themselves with problems that confront their brethren in Faith in other countries, to profit by one another's experience and to cooperate with one another in many other ways. Mecca being God's appointed Centre of Islām, the Pilgrimage can serve as a sort of a United Nations Organisation for the whole of the Muslim world.

1948. Al-Baitul-'Atīq means, free, excellent and very old House (Lane). The epithet 'free' implies a prophecy that no hostile power will ever be able to conquer it. It shall always remain free. The epithet, 'excellent' signifies that the Ka'bah shall always occupy a position of honour in the world. The fact that the Ka'bah is a very ancient house of worship in the world finds corroboration in another verse of the Qur'ān (3:97). It was in existence long before Abraham brought his wife Hagar and his son Ishmael to settle in the barren, bleak and arid valley of Mecca (14:38). Noah is believed by some to have performed the circuit of the Ka'bah (Ṭabarī as quoted by Enc. of Islām). Historians of established repute and authority, including even some very hostile critics of Islām, have admitted that the Ka'bah had been held sacred from time immemorial. Diodorus Siculus writing about the region now known as the Ḥijāz says: 'There is in this country a temple greatly revered by all the Arabs to which the neighbouring peoples throng from all sides.' 'These words,' says Sir William Muir, 'must refer to the Holy House of Mecca, for we know of no other whichever commanded the universal homage of Arabia… Tradition represents the Ka'bah as from time immemorial the scene of pilgrimage from all quarters of Arabia… so extensive an homage must have had its beginning in an extremely remote age' (Muir, p. ciii). It seems that the Ka'bah was first 1949. Man is the noblest creation of God. The whole universe—the sun, the moon, the stars, the earth, the oceans, the mountains, etc. have been made to serve him. He can rise morally and spiritually so high as to reflect in his person Divine attributes. So if he degrades himself so low as to worship lifeless objects, he falls, as it were, from the heights of spiritual eminence to the depths of moral and intellectual degradation.

1950. The verse implies that the object underlying all the commandments and ordinances of Islām is to inculcate righteousness and purity of heart. All Islamic rites and acts of worship are only means that lead to this supreme goal.

1951. The animals that are brought to Mecca for sacrifice may be used for riding and carrying burdens or their milk may be used before they are sacrificed. They can serve many other useful purposes.

sacrifice; a place where such rites are performed (Aqrab). With this verse begins the subject of Sacrifice, one of the three main themes with which this Sūrah deals, the other two being Ḥajj and Jihād. The verse further shows that the commandment relating to Sacrifice is not confined to Islām. It is common to all religions because they have proceeded from the same Divine Source. The verse also shows that it was the sacrifice of animals that was originally enjoined on the followers of all religions and that the cruel practice of offering human beings as sacrifice was a later innovation. In view of the different meanings of the root-word Nasaka (Lane), true sacrifice possesses three essential characteristics: (a) It should be voluntary and spontaneous. (b) It should be offered with the purest of motives. (c) It should not be offered from material considerations.

1953. The verse has twofold significance: (1) The fact that the rite of Sacrifice is common to all religions, although they are so widely separated from one another as regards the time and place of their origin, shows that originally they all emanated from the same Supreme Source and that the God of all nations is One God. (2) That the object underlying Sacrifice is to realise and proclaim the Oneness of God by sacrificing our ambitions and aspirations, all our ideas and ideals and even life and honour for His sake. The concept of Sacrifice according to Islām does not consist in appeasing an offended deity or in atoning for one's sins but in sacrificing one's all for the sake of God and in the way of God.

37. And among the sacred Signs of Allāh We have appointed for you the sacrificial camels. In them there is much good for you. So mention the name of Allāh over them as they stand tied up in rows. And when they fall down dead on their sides, eat thereof and feed him who is needy but contented and him also who supplicates.[1954] Thus have We subjected them to you, that you may be grateful.

38. Their flesh reaches not Allāh, nor does their blood, but it is your righteousness that reaches Him.[1955] Thus 1954. The slaughtering of camels which are brought to Mecca for sacrifice is but a symbol of man's readiness to lay down his life for the sake of his Creator and Master just as camels lay down their lives for their own masters. This is the supreme object and purpose of Sacrifice, other objects mentioned in the verse being of secondary importance. The pilgrim is reminded of the significance of Sacrifice when he slaughters an animal which serves as a Sign of God. The verse also shows that the flesh of the slaughtered animal should be properly distributed and not wasted.

1955. The verse throws a flood of light on the essence, inwardness and real object and purpose of Sacrifice. It teaches the supreme lesson that it is not the outward act of sacrifice which pleases God but the spirit underlying it and the motive behind it. The flesh or blood of the slaughtered animal does not reach God; it is righteousness of the heart which is acceptable to Him. God demands and accepts total sacrifice of all that is near and dear to us—our material possessions, the ideals that are dear to us, our honour and life itself. In reality, God wants and demands no offering from us in the form of flesh and blood of animals but demands the offering of our hearts. It is, however, a mistake to think that because has He subjected them to you, that you may glorify Allāh for His guiding you. And give glad tidings to those who do good.

it is not the outward act of sacrifice but the motive behind it that really matters, the outward act is of no importance. True, the outward act of sacrifice is the shell, and the spirit underlying it is the kernel and essence, yet the shell or the body of a thing, like its spirit or kernel, is of very great importance because no soul can exist without a body and no kernel without a shell.

1956. With this verse is introduced the subject of Jihād. The theme of Sacrifice has formed a befitting prelude to this all-important subject. Before the permission to fight in self-defence was given to Muslims, they were apprised of the importance of Sacrifice. The verse throws a flood of light on the Islamic conception of Jihād. Jihād, as the verse shows, is fighting in defence of Truth. But whereas Islām allows no aggressive war, it regards the waging of it to defend one's honour, country or Faith as an act of the highest virtue. Man is God's noblest handiwork. He is the acme of His creation, its aim and end. He is God's vicegerent on earth and the king of His whole creation (2:31). This is the Islamic conception of man's high place in the universe. It is, therefore, only natural that the religion which has raised man to such a high pedestal should also have attached very great importance and sanctity to human life. Of all things man's life, according to the Qur'ān, is the most sacred and inviolable. It is a sacrilege to take it except under very rare circumstances which the Qur'ān has specifically mentioned (5:33; 17:34). But no less important, according to Islām, is freedom of conscience. It is man's most precious heritage—perhaps more precious than life itself. The Qur'ān, which has attached the greatest sanctity to man's life, could not have failed to acknowledge and declare the sacredness and inviolability of this, his most precious possession. It is in defence of this most precious of their possessions that the Muslims were allowed to take up arms.

1957. According to consensus of scholarly opinion this is the first verse which gave Muslims the permission to take up arms in self-defence. It lays down principles according to which Muslims can wage a defensive war, and sets forth along with the following verses the reasons which led a handful of Muslims, without arms and other material means, to fight in self-defence after they had suffered at Mecca ceaseless persecution for years and had been pursued with relentless hatred to Medina and were harassed and harried there too. The first reason given in this verse is that they have been wronged.

1958. This verse gives the second reason. It is that Muslims were driven out from their hearths and homes without a just and legitimate cause; their only offence being that they believed in One God. For years the Muslims were persecuted at Mecca, then they were driven out from it and were not left in peace even in their exile at Medina. Islām was threatened with complete extirpation by a combined attack by the Arabian tribes around Medina, among whom the influence of the Quraish, on account of their being the custodians of the Ka'bah, was very great. Medina itself was honeycombed with sedition and treachery. The Jews, compact and united, were opposed to the Holy Prophet whose difficulties instead of lessening had greatly increased by Emigration. It was under these highly unfavourable circumstances that Muslims had to take up arms to save themselves, their Faith and the Holy Prophet from extermination. If ever a people had a legitimate cause to fight, it were the Holy Prophet Muhammad and his Companions, and yet the unconscionable critics of Islām have accused him of waging aggressive wars to impose his Faith on an unwilling people.

1959. After giving reasons why the Muslims were obliged to take up arms, surely have been destroyed. [a]And Allāh will, surely, help him who helps Him. Allāh is, indeed, Powerful, Mighty—

اللّٰهُ مَنۡ يَّنۡصُرُهٗ ؕ اِنَّ اللّٰهَ لَقَوِىٌّ عَزِيۡزٌ ﴿۴۱﴾

42. Those who, if We establish them in the earth, will observe Prayer and pay the Zakāt and enjoin good and forbid evil.[1960] And with Allāh rests the final issue of all affairs.

اَلَّذِيۡنَ اِنۡ مَّكَّنّٰهُمۡ فِى الۡاَرۡضِ اَقَامُوا الصَّلٰوةَ وَاٰتَوُا الزَّكٰوةَ وَاَمَرُوۡا بِالۡمَعۡرُوۡفِ وَنَهَوۡا عَنِ الۡمُنۡكَرِ ؕ وَلِلّٰهِ عَاقِبَةُ الۡاُمُوۡرِ ﴿۴۲﴾

43. [b]And if they accuse thee of falsehood, even so, before them, the people of Noah and the tribes of ‘Ād and Thamūd also accused their Prophets of falsehood;

وَاِنۡ يُّكَذِّبُوۡكَ فَقَدۡ كَذَّبَتۡ قَبۡلَهُمۡ قَوۡمُ نُوۡحٍ وَّعَادٌ وَّثَمُوۡدُ ۙ﴿۴۳﴾

44. And so did the people of Abraham and the people of Lot;

وَقَوۡمُ اِبۡرٰهِيۡمَ وَقَوۡمُ لُوۡطٍ ۙ﴿۴۴﴾

[a]47:8 [b]6:35; 35:26; 40:6; 54:10.

the verse mentions the object and purpose of the wars of Islām. The object was never to deprive other people of their homes and possessions or to deprive them of national freedom and compel them to submit to foreign yoke, or to explore new markets and get new colonies as the Western Powers do. It was to fight in self-defence and to save Islām from extermination and to establish freedom of conscience and liberty of thought. It was also to defend places of worship belonging to other religions—the churches, the synagogues, the temples, the cloisters, etc. (2:194; 2:257; 8:40 & 8:73). Thus the first and foremost object of the wars of Islām was, and will always be, to establish freedom of belief and worship and to fight in defence of one's country, honour and freedom against an unprovoked attack. Could there be a better cause to fight for than this?

1960. The verse implies a commandment for the Muslims that when they get power, they should not use it for the furtherance of their own selfish ends but should employ it to ameliorate the lot of the poor and the down trodden people and to establish peace and security in their dominions, and that they should respect and protect places of worship.

years (Tirmidhī). This period of a thousand years is likened to one day (32:6). In this period a people, having blue eyes would arise and spread all over the earth (20:103, 104). It is these people having blue eyes who in their conceit and arrogance, born of their material glory and political power, are depicted as challenging the Holy Prophet to hasten on the punishment which, he said, would overtake them at the appointed and promised time.

1962. This verse has been deliberately misinterpreted and its meaning

لِّيَجْعَلَ مَا يُلْقِي الشَّيْطٰنُ فِتْنَةً لِّلَّذِيْنَ فِيْ قُلُوْبِهِمْ مَّرَضٌ وَّالْقَاسِيَةِ قُلُوْبُهُمْ ؕ وَاِنَّ الظّٰلِمِيْنَ

54. This happens that He may make the obstacles which Satan puts in the way of the Prophet a trial for those in whose hearts is a disease[1963] purposely distorted by prejudiced Christian writers. They say that one day at Mecca when the Holy Prophet recited the 20th and 21st verses of Sūrah An-Najm: Now tell me about Lāt and 'Uzzā, and Manāt, the third one, another goddess, Satan put in his mouth the words Tilkal-Gharānīqul-'Ulā, wa Inna Shafā'atahunna Laturtajā, i.e. these are exalted goddesses and their intercession is hoped for. They call it the 'Lapse of Muhammad' or his 'Compromise with idolatry.' The Holy Prophet never made any compromise with idolatry nor was there any lapse on his part. The charge is a case of wish being father to the thought. These critics are always on the lookout to discover a lapse in the Holy Prophet and when they can find none, they invent one and impute it to him. They say that the verse refers to the above incident. We shall deal at length with the whole episode when we come to the relevant verses (53:20, 21). Suffice it to say here that the whole story is belied by the fact that the 53rd Chapter was, according to consensus of scholarly opinion, revealed in the 5th year of the Call at Mecca while the present Sūrah was revealed at Medina or on the eve of the Holy Prophet's departure from Mecca in the 13th year of the Call. It is inconceivable that God should have waited for eight long years to refer to that incident in this verse. Moreover, the story has been rejected as totally unfounded by all learned Commentators of the Qur'ān. Besides, there is nothing in the words of the verse itself to warrant the forging of such a blatant lie. The meaning of the verse is quite clear. It purports to say that whenever a Prophet desires to attain his object, i.e. whenever he preaches the message of truth and desires that Divine Unity may be established in the earth, satanic persons seek to retard the progress of truth by putting all sorts of obstacles in his way. They wish to see his mission fail. But they cannot frustrate the Divine plan and God removes all those impediments and makes the cause of Truth prevail and triumph. The verse is of general import. There is no warrant for the suggestion that it applies exclusively to the Holy Prophet. Moreover, it is not possible for Satan to interfere with the purity of the Quranic revelation. God has taken upon Himself to protect and safeguard it against all interference and interpolation (15:10; 72:27-29), and even Christian scholarly opinion has confirmed the truth of this Quranic claim.

1963 This verse also supports the interpretation we have placed on the preceding verse. There is no warrant for the baseless story which some ignorant Commentators have taken into their heads to forge in connection with that verse. The verse purports to say that satanic people seek to place all sorts of obstacles in the way of the propagation of the mission of a Prophet in order that its progress may be retarded and 'those in whose hearts is a disease' may be misled. But God removes all such obstacles and after initial and temporary setbacks Truth marches on its course of uniform progress.

and, those whose hearts are hardened and surely, the wrongdoers are gone far in opposition—

وَّلِیَعۡلَمَ الَّذِیۡنَ اُوۡتُوا الۡعِلۡمَ اَنَّهُ الۡحَقُّ مِنۡ رَّبِّكَ فَیُؤۡمِنُوۡا بِهٖ فَتُخۡبِتَ لَهٗ قُلُوۡبُهُمۡ ؕ وَاِنَّ اللّٰهَ لَهَادِ الَّذِیۡنَ اٰمَنُوۡۤا اِلٰی صِرَاطٍ مُّسۡتَقِیۡمٍ ﴿۵۵﴾

1964. "The Hour" signifies the final triumph of Islām. It may also refer to the Fall of Mecca, when the power of the disbelieving Quraish was finally and completely crushed. The Fall took place quite suddenly. The Quraish did not have the least inkling about the Muslim army till it had reached the very gates of Mecca.

1965. Imra'atun 'Aqīmun means, a barren woman. Yaumun 'Aqīmun means, a destructive day, a day of hard fighting, so called because many women having lost their sons in the fighting become 'Aqīm (Lane).

1966. Besides being of general application the verse may particularly refer to the Fall of Mecca. On that day the Kingdom of God was established in Arabia and idolatry departed from its stronghold never to return, and Divine Judgment was pronounced in the following words, 'Truth has come and falsehood has vanished away. Falsehood does indeed vanish away fast' (17:82).

[c]3:196; 8:75; 9:20-22; 16:42.

1967. Those, who leave their hearths and homes and all that is dear to them for the sake of God and spend their lives in serving His cause and then die in harness, deserve to be classed with those who are actually slain fighting in the cause of God, for their sacrifice is as great as that of the actual martyrs, only God in His infallible wisdom spares their lives. This is the significance of the words, 'or die.'

1968. The verse has twofold significance. It holds out a promise of help to

ذٰلِكَ بِاَنَّ اللّٰهَ يُوْلِجُ الَّيْلَ فِي النَّهَارِ وَيُوْلِجُ النَّهَارَ فِي الَّيْلِ وَاَنَّ اللّٰهَ سَمِيْعٌۢ بَصِيْرٌ ﴿٦٢﴾

Muslims and also implies a prophecy about their eventual success. In the former sense it purports to say that the Muslims have been oppressed and transgressed against. They may retaliate but their retaliation should not exceed legitimate bounds. The injury they should inflict on the enemy should be proportionate to the injury they receive. According to the second meaning Muslims are told that they are going to have their enemies in their power and that they will be perfectly justified in inflicting as much injury on them as they had received from them, but it would be far better if in the hour of victory and success, by copying the Divine attributes of mercy and forgiveness, they pardoned and forgave them.

1969. Nahār (day) in the verse represents power and prosperity and Lail (night) signifies the loss of power combined with national decline and decadence. The verse uses this metaphor to point to the fact hinted at in the preceding verse that the night of misery and oppression to which Muslims were subjected for so long was about to pass away and the day of their glory and might was about to dawn.

1970. The verse draws the attention of disbelievers to the natural phenomenon that is unfolding itself before their very eyes. Do they not see, it purports to say, that Divine rain has fallen on the bleak, barren and spiritually dead land of Arabia and that it has begun to vibrate with new life and there is verdure and greenness all over, i.e. there is spiritual awakening all over the 1973. Three arguments have been given in this verse against idolatry: (a) There is found no authority in any revealed Book for idol-worship; (b) human reason and conscience are against it and idolaters can give no sound argument based on their personal experience and observation in support of it; and (c) during the ages in the struggle between idolaters and believers, the latter have invariably come off triumphant. Thus Divine revelation, human reason and the verdict of history are all against idolatry.

And if the fly should snatch away anything from them, they cannot recover it therefrom. Weak, indeed, are both the seeker and the sought.[1974]

1974. The verse brings home to disbelievers the utter powerlessness and helplessness of their gods and their own folly in worshipping them.

1975. The fact that idolaters degrade themselves so low as to worship idols—gods made of wood and stone, shows that they have a very poor concept of the powers and attributes of the Almighty God, the Great Creator. In fact, all polytheistic beliefs and idolatrous ideas spring from this poor concept that God's powers and attributes are limited and defective like those of man.

1976. Jihād is of two kinds: (a) Jihād against one's evil desires and propensities; and (b) Jihād against the enemies of truth which includes fighting in self-defence. The first kind of Jihād may be termed 'Jihād in Allāh' and the latter kind of Jihād, 'Jihād in the way of Allāh.' The Holy Prophet has termed the first kind of Jihād as the greater Jihād and the latter kind of Jihād as the smaller Jihād.

1977. The words, 'He has named you Muslims both before, and in this Book,' refer to Isaiah's prophecy: 'And thou shalt be called by a new name which the mouth of the Lord shall name… (Isa. 62:2 & 65:15).

1977A. The allusion in the words 'and in this Book' is to Abraham's prayer quoted in the Qur'ān, viz. 'Our Lord make us "Muslims" to Thee and make our offspring a people submissive to Thee' (2:129).

CHAPTER 23
AL-MU'MINŪN
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

There is sufficient internal evidence to show that the Sūrah was revealed towards the end of the Holy Prophet's stay at Mecca. Sayūṭī regards it as the last Sūrah to have been revealed at Mecca just before the Holy Prophet's departure for Medina. Though it may not have been actually the last, it was certainly one of the last Sūrahs to be revealed at Mecca. In the closing verses of the previous Sūrah believers were told to turn to God and obey His commandments as in this lay the secret of their future progress and prosperity. They were also enjoined to wage war with the sword so that those who had drawn the sword against Islām should themselves perish by the sword. They were further enjoined to strive in the way of the Lord with the Qur'ān and the promise was held out to them that if they did so, God would help them and vouchsafe to them success and prosperity. The promise was conditional. A sure guarantee, however, is given here that a community of believers will certainly be born who, because they will fulfil the above-mentioned conditions, will achieve success. Thus a thing, which was presumed in the preceding Sūrah to have existed, is claimed in this Sūrah to have come into being as an actual fact.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with the glad tidings to the true believers that the time of their success and prosperity has already arrived, and proceeds to give a brief description of their characteristics and special marks which is indicative of the process of their spiritual growth and development. This description is followed by a brief but beautiful account of the growth of the human foetus and defines the different stages through which the child passes—from the stage of a drop of sperm to that of a fully developed human being, and then explains that just as every physical birth is followed by death and Resurrection, similarly nations or communities among whom at one time a spiritual renaissance takes place, are at another time subject to decay and decadence and in due course are succeeded by another people. In fact, spiritual and physical developments bear close resemblance. Both of them have to pass through seven stages of development. Next, the Sūrah develops the theme that all things are sent down into the world according to a determined measure and each one of them continues to exist and is afforded protection till an appointed time. When, however, it has served its utility, it decays and dies. In the same way Divine Teachings, sent down before the Qur'ān, became defunct when they had served their intended purpose. Thus, the mere fact that a Teaching is Divine does not entitle it to immunity from decay. It is only the Qur'ān which has been granted continuity of life and which will, therefore, continue to provide spiritual sustenance to all of humanity for all times to come. The Sūrah then recounts some of the favours which God has bestowed upon man and which are necessary for his physical sustenance, and then draws the moral lesson that when God has taken so much care to provide for man's physical needs, He must have taken equal, even greater, care to provide for his spiritual requirements. Next, it is stated that the most essential prerequisite to ensure spiritual progress is belief in the Unity of God that since the inception of the world the Prophets of God have taught and preached. Noah preached and propagated the Oneness of God. After him came a galaxy of Prophets, all of whom taught that God was One, and those Divine Teachers who came after them also emphasized and stressed this point. The devotees of darkness, however, always opposed and persecuted these Prophets. The result of the struggle between truth and falsehood invariably was that the believers were successful and those, who disbelieved and rejected the Divine Messengers, suffered defeat and came to grief. The righteous servants of God fear their Lord and believe in His Signs and have firm faith in His Unity and do good deeds to the best of their abilities, and yet consider that they have not fully discharged their duties and responsibilities. They strive to vie with one another in doing good deeds. After this, disbelievers are warned that they will be punished if they persisted in their rejection of the Divine Message. But they do not desist from their evil course and continue to indulge in iniquitous deeds till when the hour of punishment arrives they beg and beseech that they might be granted one last opportunity to reform themselves. But then it is too late, and they are made to realize that pain and punishment even for a brief period after a whole life of ease and comfort are doubly mortifying. The Sūrah ends by stating the great spiritual truth that man is not created without purpose. His life has a noble aim. He should not, therefore, doubt or dispute the truth of Divine Law and of God's Messengers and should realize that he will have to render account of his deeds before his Lord.

سُوْرَةُ الْمُؤْمِنُوْنَ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٢٣ — اٰياتها ١١٩ — رکوعاتها ٦

PART XVIII

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

قَدْ اَفْلَحَ الْمُؤْمِنُوْنَ ② ع

2. Successful indeed are the believers,[1978]

الَّذِيْنَ هُمْ فِيْ صَلَاتِهِمْ خٰشِعُوْنَ ③

3. Who are humble[1979] in their Prayers,

وَالَّذِيْنَ هُمْ عَنِ اللَّغْوِ مُعْرِضُوْنَ ④

4. And [b]who shun all that which is vain,[1980]

وَالَّذِيْنَ هُمْ لِلزَّكٰوةِ فٰعِلُوْنَ ⑤

5. And [c]who are prompt and regular in paying the Zakāt,[1981]

وَالَّذِيْنَ هُمْ لِفُرُوْجِهِمْ حٰفِظُوْنَ ⑥

6. And [d]who guard their chastity—

[a]1:1. [b]25:73. [c]5:56; 9:71. [d]70:30.

1978. The verse refers to believers of a very high spiritual calibre whose characteristics and special marks have been mentioned in the verses that follow. Such believers will achieve Falāḥ (success) and not only Najāh (salvation), because the achievement of Falāḥ is a much higher spiritual stage than the attainment of Najāh.

1979. With this verse begins a description of the conditions or prerequisites which a believer must fulfil before he should aspire to attain success in life and achieve the supreme object for which God has created him. These conditions may be regarded as so many stages in the spiritual development of man. The first stage or milestone in this journey of the human soul is that a believer turns to God in all humility, overawed by Divine Majesty, and with a penitent heart and humbled soul.

1980. The second stage consists in the avoidance of all vain talk and thoughts and also of idle, vain and futile actions. Life is a grim and serious fact and a believer must take it as such. He must employ every moment of it usefully and shun all vain and useless pursuits.

1981. The object of Zakāt is not only to provide means for the relief of the distressed, or for the promotion of the welfare of the economically less favoured sections of the community, but also to discourage the hoarding of money and commodities and thus to ensure a brisk circulation of both, resulting in healthy economic adjustments.

إِلَّا عَلَىٰٓ أَزْوَٰجِهِمْ أَوْ مَا مَلَكَتْ

8. [b]But those, who seek anything beyond that are the transgressors—

وَٱلَّذِينَ هُمْ لِأَمَٰنَٰتِهِمْ وَعَهْدِهِمْ
رَٰعُونَ ۝٩

9. [c]And who are watchful of their trusts and their covenants,

وَٱلَّذِينَ هُمْ عَلَىٰ صَلَوَٰتِهِمْ يُحَافِظُونَ ۝١٠

10. [d]And who are strict in the observance of their Prayers.[1982]

12. [e]Who will inherit Paradise.[1983] They will abide therein for ever.

طِينٍ ۝١٣

13. Verily, [f]We created man from an extract of clay;[1984]

[a]70:31. [b]70:32. [c]70:33. [d]6:93; 70:35. [e]18:108; 70:36. [f]32:8, 9.

1981A. See 561

1982. This verse marks the last and the highest stage of spiritual development, when remembrance of God becomes a second nature with the believer, a part and parcel of his being, the solace of his soul. At this stage he takes particular care about acts of collective worship which implies that the national instinct becomes very strong in him and he subordinates individual interests to communal and national good.

1983. As believers mentioned in the foregoing verses combine in themselves all kinds of virtues, therefore they will be made to reside in Firdaus which contains everything that is found in any garden (Lane). As they brought death over their desires, so in return God will give them everlasting life and they will have everything they desired (50:36).

1984. After having mentioned in the first ten verses of the Sūrah the different stages of spiritual evolution of man, the Qur'ān proceeds to describe in this and the next few verses the different stages of his physical development

ثُمَّ جَعَلْنٰهُ نُطْفَةً فِيْ قَرَارٍ مَّكِيْنٍ ﴿١٤﴾

14. Then [a]We placed him as a drop of sperm in a safe depository;

ثُمَّ خَلَقْنَا النُّطْفَةَ عَلَقَةً فَخَلَقْنَا الْعَلَقَةَ مُضْغَةً فَخَلَقْنَا الْمُضْغَةَ عِظٰمًا فَكَسَوْنَا الْعِظٰمَ لَحْمًا ۗ ثُمَّ اَنْشَاْنٰهُ خَلْقًا اٰخَرَ ؕ فَتَبٰرَكَ اللّٰهُ اَحْسَنُ الْخٰلِقِيْنَ ﴿١٥﴾

15. Then We fashioned the sperm into a clot; then We fashioned the clot into a shapeless lump; then We fashioned bones out of this shapeless lump; then We clothed the bones with flesh; then We developed it into another creation.[1985] So blessed be Allāh, the Best of creators.

ثُمَّ اِنَّكُمْ بَعْدَ ذٰلِكَ لَمَيِّتُوْنَ ﴿١٦﴾ ؕ

16. Then after that [b]you, surely, must die.[1986]

and thus establishes a remarkable parallelism between his physical and spiritual birth and growth. Leaving out biological technicalities, the Sūrah gives the description in a clear and easily understandable language. Biology has not discovered anything which even remotely contradicts the Quranic description. The words, We created man from an extract of clay, mention the process of man's creation from the earliest stage when he lies dormant in the form of dust, and the inorganic constituents of the earth through a subtle process of change become converted into the life-germ by way of food which a human being eats. At the stage, then We clothed the bones with flesh (23:15), the physical growth of the embryo becomes complete.

1985. The words, then We developed it into another creation, show that the soul is not imported into the human body from outside but grows in the body as it develops in the womb. At first it has no separate existence from the body but the processes through which the body passes during its development in the womb distil from the body a delicate essence, which is called the soul. As soon as the relationship between the soul and the body becomes completely adjusted, the heart begins to function. The soul then has a distinct existence of its own independent of body which henceforth serves it as a shell. See also "The Larger Edition of the Commentary," pp. 1787-1790.

1986. After man has attained full development, there sets in a process of decay which ends in his death. It is an immutable law of nature that all life must end in decay, dissolution and death. God alone is Ever-Living.

1987. After death man again will be restored to life in order that he might continue to make spiritual progress in the life to come which knows no end. The progress he makes in the present life constitutes only a preparatory stage. Here, he is like a child in his mother's womb. After death he is born into a new and fuller life which is the beginning of a never-ending progress.

1988. The six stages of spiritual progress described in the first ten verses of this Sūrah become seven if "Paradise" (v. 12) be counted as the last stage of spiritual development. Similarly, if the preparatory stage previous to the formation of the sperm (v. 13) be added to the six stages of the embryonic development, this number also becomes seven. Thus the 'seven ways in the spiritual heaven' to which reference has been made in this verse correspond to the seven stages of the physical development of man mentioned in vv. 13-15.

1989. This verse gives an illustration of how God supplies the physical and spiritual needs of man. All life, it says, depends on water which descends from heaven, in the form of rain, snow or hail. Similarly, spiritual water descends from heaven in the form of Divine revelation without which no spiritual life can exist.

1990. The words, "Mount Sinai", remind us of the following great prophecy of the Bible:

'The Lord came from Sinai, and rose from Seir unto them; He shined forth from Mount Paran and he came with ten thousands of saints; from his right hand went a fiery law for them' (Deut. 33:2). See also "Once to Sinai" by H.F. Prescott.

1991. The word, 'Ibrah, which means an 'indication or evidence whereby one passes from ignorance to knowledge' (Lane), seems to allude to the subtle process which takes place in the bellies of animals and which turns grass or herbage eaten by them into pure and wholesome milk, and by pondering over which one is led to acquire an insight into God's great power and into the subtle ways through which Divine laws work.

1992. The disbelievers suffer from a superiority complex and therefore reject Divine Messengers on the plea that they cannot accept the lead of one who is 'only a mortal like themselves.' The verse incidentally implies that belief in the existence of angels was entertained from time immemorial. As far back as Noah's time his opponents wanted to see angels descending on them.

2000. As Jesus's death, like his birth, has become a subject of great controversy, and some confusion and doubt still persist as to how and where he passed the last days of his crowded life, and as the question of the manner of his death also forms a vital question with the Christian Faith, a somewhat exhaustive note on this very important, albeit baffling religious question is called for. The Qur'ān and the Bible, reinforced by authenticated facts of history, lend powerful support to the view that Jesus did not die on the Cross. The following arguments substantiate and support this contention:

(1) In his book "The Unknown Life of Jesus" Nicholas Notovitch, a Russian traveller, who visited the Far East in about 1877 tells us that Jesus came to Kashmir and Afghanistan. Sir Francis Younghusband, who at the time when Nicholas Notovitch visited Kashmir, was a British resident at the court of the Maharaja of Kashmir, met him near the Zojila Pass. Recent research about Jesus's travels in the East lends powerful support to Notovitch's book. 'In Srinagar', says Professor Nicholus Roerich in his book "Heart of Asia," 'we first encountered the curious legend about Christ's visit to the place. Afterwards we saw how widely spread in India, in Laddakh and in Central Asia, was the legend of the visit of Christ to those parts… All over Central Asia, in Kashmir and Laddakh and Tibet and even further north, there still exists a strong belief that Jesus or Issa travelled about there' ("Glimpses of World History" by Jawahar Lal Nehru).

Some scholars have taken refuge behind some obscure passages in Notovitch's book to claim that Jesus came to the East before and not after he was commissioned as a Divine Prophet. But a mere boy of 13 or 14 years of age as Jesus is stated to have been when he came to India, he could not have conceived of undertaking so long and arduous a journey to a far-off land, and thus of exposing himself to mortal danger on the way. After all, what attraction or motives Jesus had, at such an early age, in coming over to India? And if at all he came to India at that time, what interest did the people of India and Kashmir have in keeping a record of the activities, doings and wanderings of a boy of 13 or 14? The fact based on historical data is that after he had been rejected by the Jews and his life had become unsafe in Palestine, Jesus forsook that country to search, in fulfilment of the old biblical prophecies, for 'The Lost Ten Tribes of Israel,' and undertook the long and dangerous journey to India and Kashmir and lived an eventful life to the very ripe age of 120 (Kanzul-'Ummāl. vol. 6). It is then that records came to be kept of his activities. These 'Lost Tribes of Israel' had, after their great dispersion by the Assyrians and Babylonians, lived in Iraq and Iran; and later, when the Iranians under Darius and Cyrus extended their territories further East to Afghanistan and India, these tribes migrated with them to these countries.

(2) The Kashmiris and Afghans are the descendants of 'The Lost Tribes of Israel.' This fact is quite evident from the traditions, history and written records of these two peoples. The names of their towns and tribes, their customs, habits, mode and manner of living, their dress, their physical features, etc. all resemble those of the Jews. Their ancient monuments and old inscriptions also support this view. Their folklore is full of Jewish stories. The name Kashmir itself is in reality Kashir meaning "like Syria" (or it seems to have been named after Kash or Cush, a grandson of Noah). All these facts impart certainty to the view that the Afghans and Kashmiris are largely the descendants of 'The Lost Ten Tribes of Israel.'

(3) These proofs are evidence enough to establish the fact that Jesus did come to Kashmir and that the Kashmiris are the descendants of "The Lost Ten Tribes of Israel." But the greatest and best proof of his having come to Kashmir and of having lived and died there is the presence of his tomb in Khanyar Street, Srinagar, Kashmir. This tomb which is called Rauzabal is variously known as the tomb of Yūz Āsaf, of Nabī Ṣāḥib, of Shahzādah Nabī and even of 'Īsā Ṣāḥib. According to well-established historical accounts this Yūz Āsaf came to Kashmir more than 1900 years ago and preached in parables and used many of the parables recorded in the Gospels. In certain books of history he is described as a Nabī (Prophet). Moreover, Yūz Āsaf is a biblical name meaning 'Yasā', the gatherer' which is one of the descriptive names of Jesus as his mission was to gather the lost tribes of Israel into the Master's fold as he himself says: 'And other sheep I have which are not of this fold, them also must I bring, and they shall hear my voice, and there shall be one fold and one shepherd' (John 10:16).

The following historical quotations also shed some light on this subject:

'The tomb is generally known as that of a Prophet. He was a Prince who came to Kashmir from a foreign land, and was engaged in preaching to the Kashmiris. His name was Yūz Āsaf (Tārīkhe A'ẓamī, pp. 82-85)……'Yūz Āsaf wandered about in several lands till he reached a country called Kashmir. He travelled in it far and wide and lived and stayed there till death overtook him' (Ikmālud-Dīn, pp. 358, 359)… 'Kashmir legend, I have been told, contains reference to a Prophet who lived here and taught as Jesus did by parables and little stories that are repeated in Kashmir to the present day' (John Noel's article in Asia, Oct. 1930)……The flight of Jesus, therefore, to India and his death in Srinagar is not foreign to the truth rationally or historically (Tafsīrul-Manār, vol. 6).

For a better and fuller treatment, however, of this subject see "Masīḥ Hindustān Meiń" by Aḥmad, the Promised Messiah. See also the well-known book, 'Nazarene Gospel Restored,' whose authors maintain that though officially crucified in A.D. 30, Jesus was still alive some twenty years after the Resurrection.

There could be no better description of the place where after his deliverance from an accursed death on the Cross, Jesus and his mother lived in peace and tranquillity and went to their eternal resting place than in the Quranic words, viz. 'elevated land of green valleys and springs of running water,' which is quite an apt description of the beautiful Valley of Kashmir. Nicholas Notovitch calls Kashmir "the Valley of Eternal Bliss."

2001. The fact that there exists a deep and subtle connection between the food that a person eats and his actions, good or bad, has now begun to be increasingly recognized by medical science. But Islām laid down as far back as 1400 years directions relating to food which possess great moral significance. The basic principle laid down by Islām in this regard is that as man must develop all his natural instincts and faculties, therefore he should partake of all kinds of food, except those that are likely to do him physical, moral or spiritual harm. The use of pure and good food produces healthy mental condition which in turn produces good and righteous actions.

2002. All the Messengers of God formed one brotherhood, as they came from the same Divine Source and their basic teachings were more or less identical and the object and purpose of their advent was also one and the same—to establish in the earth Unity of God and oneness of humanity.

2003. After the death of a Prophet his followers generally begin to differ among themselves and split up into sects and factions, each sect regarding itself as his true followers and other sects as devoid of all truth.

2004. Man is so constituted that he regards abundance of wealth and the power and prestige of his party as the measure of success and even as the only criterion of being the recipient of God's favour. It is this common error that the present and the preceding verse seek to correct.

وَالَّذِيْنَ يُؤْتُوْنَ مَآ اٰتَوْا وَّقُلُوْبُهُمْ وَجِلَةٌ

2005. The laws which God has laid down in the Qur'ān for the moral and spiritual development of man are such as are within his power and capacity to act upon. They are suited to all conditions, circumstances, temperaments and dispositions.

2006. These verses may also signify that the teaching embodied in the Qur'ān is based on wisdom and is suited to all conditions and circumstances, and to men of different temperaments and dispositions and is in agreement with the requirements of justice, equity and wisdom. This is the meaning of the words Yanṭiqu bil Ḥaqqi.

2007. The word, Mustakbirīn, may signify that disbelievers regard the revelation of the Qur'ān to be too big and important an affair to be entrusted to a weak human being. Or, it means that when disbelievers hear the Qur'ān being recited, they turn away from it in pride and arrogance.

2008. An appeal to the good sense and reasonableness of the opponents of the Holy Prophet has been made in this verse. They are told that his life lies like an open book before them. They are quite familiar with all its different phases. It is spotless. For years they have known him as an honest man, a model of virtue and uprightness and yet they dare ascribe falsehood to him. See also 1245.

2009. Could there be any better evidence of the Holy Prophet's sincerity of motives and honesty of purpose and of his complete disregard for any recompense or reward for his selfless service than the answer he gave to his kind and loving uncle, Abū Ṭālib, when he asked him to make a compromise with the idolaters and give up preaching against idol-worship? The never-to-be-forgotten answer was: "If they would place the sun on my right hand and the moon on my left and ask me to give up preaching against idolatry, I will never do so till my mission is fulfilled, or I perish in the attempt" (Ṭabarī, vol. 3).

2011. One of the meanings of Shukr being to make proper use of a gift (14:8), the verse signifies that God has given us ears, eyes and hearts that we may make proper use of them and benefit thereby materially and spiritually, observe His Signs, listen to the Divine Message and ponder over it.

2012. The verse alludes to the phenomenon of the rise and fall of nations. At one time a people rise to power and eminence and the sun of progress and prosperity seems to shine upon them, at another time decadence and death overtake them as a consequence of their evil deeds.

Christian dogma that Jesus is God's son. It purports to say that a son is needed by a person to help him to carry on his affairs, but as God is the Creator of the heavens and the earth and the sole Master and Controller of the whole universe, He does not need the help or assistance of any helper or son. Moreover, the whole universe appears to be subject to one uniform law, and the unity of the design, purpose and control points to the unity of the Designer and the Controller. The duality of control and authority implies confusion and disorder.

2014. The Sūrah was revealed towards the end of the Meccan period. The Holy Prophet was about to leave Mecca. His departure was a signal and a sign that as the result of his persistent denial, persecution and expulsion from Mecca by the Quraish, Divine punishment was about to overtake them. He is taught to pray to God that when the threatened punishment should seize them he might not be present with them in Mecca.

2015. The Holy Prophet is here enjoined that as long as he is with disbelievers in Mecca he should patiently bear up with all the abuse and persecution to which he is subjected and should return good for evil.

2016. The words, "evil ones" refer to the leading men among the Holy Prophet's enemies, and the word, "incitements" signifies the campaign of vilification and misrepresentation by which they sought to incite people against him.

2017. Barzakh means, a barrier; or a thing that intervenes between any two things. The word is technically applied to the period or state from the day of death to the day of Resurrection (Lane). It is an intermediate state of incomplete realization of the punishments and rewards of Hell and Heaven. The Qur'ān has compared it to the embryonic state and the Resurrection to the birth of the fully developed soul.

2018. When punishment overtakes a people, pedigree, descent and relationship prove of no avail. On the Judgment Day good works alone will be of any use or benefit to man and not his blood relations or friendships.

will be dragged into Hell, hated and despised. They will not be allowed to offer an explanation of the wicked deeds they would have committed in their lives, God being fully conversant with their actions.

2020. Sakhkhara-hū means, he compelled him to do what he did not like or to work without recompense (Lane). The verse, therefore, may also mean that believers being poor and weak, the disbelievers employed them against their will or desire, exploited them and exacted compulsory service from them without paying them any wages or compensation for the work they did.

2021. A whole life spent in ease and comfort, when followed by pain and punishment, appears very short and even becomes a source of regret and mortification. The reply of the disbelievers shows how vain and short-lived are the comforts of this life.

2022. Man has been created to serve a great purpose—to develop and reflect in his person Divine attributes. He has been endowed with a Divine personality and is manifestly the central figure in the whole creation or at least that part of the creation which is related to our universe. Having a great purpose to fulfil, his life will not end with his departure from this world and with the soul's flight from its physical habitat. The human soul will continue its never-ending journey in a new world, in a new form and a new body. The very idea that with the dissolution of its physical tabernacle the human soul suffers death militates against God's wisdom and His whole design and purpose in creating the universe.

CHAPTER 24

AN-NŪR

(Revealed after Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The consensus of scholarly opinion assigns this Chapter to the Medinite period. The regrettable incident relating to 'Ā'ishah, the Holy Prophet's noble wife, to which special reference has been made in it, took place in 5 A.H. after the Holy Prophet's return from the expedition against Banī Muṣṭaliq in the month of Ramaḍān of that year. Its connection with the preceding Chapter, Sūrah Al-Mu'minūn, consists in the fact that in that Sūrah it was stated that Islām would continue to produce men who would, by their righteousness and godly conduct, win God's pleasure and succour. The present Sūrah deals with the means and methods which help to draw Divine grace and succour and lays down as a principle that the adoption of the ways of virtue and righteousness and the protection and preservation of national morals, and the maintenance of discipline of a high order in the family and the community, are very essential for this purpose. This is why the Sūrah at the very outset lays great stress on the preservation of national morals with an added emphasis on the regulation and reformation of relations between the sexes. The preceding Sūrah had stated that one of the essential characteristics of believers who were decreed to meet with Divine succour was that they guarded their chastity. This Sūrah is an extension and amplification of the subject-matter of the preceding one. The achievement and maintenance of success, it says, demands that the intellect, ideals and morals of a people should be chaste and that there should exist perfect harmony and appreciative understanding between the relations of the individual and those of the community, and that great emphasis ought to be laid on national discipline and organisation, and precedence should be accorded to national requirements over the needs of the individual.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah deals with certain special subjects and has laid particular stress on the problems which constitute the foundation on which the whole social and moral structure of society stands and which cannot be defied without doing mortal injury to the moral well-being of a people. As sexual immorality is calculated to break the discipline and organization of a community and as the evils associated with it are likely to affect severely its morals, great emphasis has been laid in the Sūrah on the avoidance of suspicion in matters of sex; and believers are told not to become panicky on account of a few individuals having strayed away from the path of moral rectitude, as such cases of moral lapse may cause the whole community to become alert and careful; and thus eventually may prove conducive to good results. The subject is further developed and slander-mongering receives a severe reprimand. Because, if, on the basis of mere suspicion or the testimony of witnesses of doubtful integrity, haphazard aspersions are permitted to be cast on one another's chastity, sexual immorality is likely to become widespread in the community and young people become prone to run away with the notion that there is no harm in indulging freely in sex. Next, believers are strongly enjoined to guard and preserve national morals and it is considered very essential for Muslims to develop watchfulness and extreme awareness about their protection and preservation. If vigilance is allowed to relax, deterioration in national morals is sure to ensue. But whereas it is true that sexual immorality, if permitted to spread unchecked, brings about the degradation and disintegration of a whole community, individuals suspected of stray acts of immorality should not be hunted down and crushed. As in every community there are to be found some persons of lax morals, such individuals may be treated with a certain indulgence. But at the same time a warning is held out to those who seek, by their continued pernicious activities, to create discord among Muslims and to indulge in abusive language and calumny that they will be punished in this world and in the next. God will expose their iniquities and sins and will bring upon them disgrace and humiliation. The Sūrah then proceeds to observe that it is his careless acts that subject a man to suspicion and calumny and that most careless of all such acts is promiscuous intermingling between the sexes. In order to put a stop to such occasions as cause suspicion and lead to slander-mongering, the Sūrah directs Muslims not to enter a house without having obtained prior permission. Further, it enjoins on Muslim men and women that if they happen to confront each other, they should restrain their looks and guard all avenues of sin and vice. As an additional safeguard, Muslim women are further enjoined not to display their beauty, natural as well as artificial, to those males as are outside the prohibited degrees of marriage (v. 32), except such parts of the body as it is not possible for them to cover, for instance, the build of the body or their stature. For this purpose they should wear their head-coverings in such a manner as to cover their breasts. (For a detailed note on "Pardah" see v. 32). Another safeguard enjoined for the improvement and preservation of national morals is that widows should not be allowed to remain unmarried. It is further stated that steps should be taken to set free prisoners of war at the earliest occasion and a captive, who does not find it possible to earn his or her freedom immediately, may be allowed to pay the indemnity money in easy instalments.

Towards its close the Sūrah strongly urges Muslims to set right their family and national affairs and to be on their guard against promiscuous intermingling of the sexes. A special direction to be observed in this respect is that even prisoners of war serving as house servants and also minor children should not enter the private apartments of their masters or parents before dawn, at noon and after nightfall. At other times all members of the household are at liberty to move about the house freely. When, however, children reach their puberty, they should observe the regulations in regard to "pardah." Older women, however, who have no desire or need for marriage can, if they so choose, relax the rules about "pardah," but even they are not allowed to display their adornments to strangers. The organisational structure of society transcends the organisational structure of the family, and the Sūrah has not neglected to lay down requisite rules for the smooth and successful conduct of national affairs. The Sūrah then holds out a promise to Muslims that if they carry out the programme of life which God has laid down for them, they will become the leaders of the world both in spiritual and temporal spheres and their religion will become firmly established in the world. But when their rule is established and their cause triumphs and prevails they should worship God, help the poor and the needy and obey the commandments of their Prophet.

3. The adulteress and the adulterer[2025A]—flog each one of them with a hundred stripes.[2026] And let not pity

2023. Of all the Quranic Chapters, the present one has been specifically called 'a Sūrah,' the significance being that as the word, "Sūrah," means rank or dignity, the Muslims by acting upon the commandments and ordinances embodied in this Sūrah can and will rise to great honour and dignity.

2024. The emphasis on the words, which We have revealed and the ordinances of which We have made obligatory, points to the great importance of the commandments of this Sūrah inasmuch as all other Quranic Chapters also have been revealed by God and their commandments have also been made obligatory.

2025. It is to be regretted that in slavish imitation of the customs and manners of other nations the Muslims have infringed and violated the commandments of this Sūrah more than the ordinances embodied in other Sūrahs of the Qur'ān.

2025A. The words, az-Zānī and az-Zāniyah, signify respectively both an adulterer and a fornicator; and an adulteress and a fornicatress.

2026. Chastity as a moral virtue holds a very high place in the code of Islamic laws that govern relations between the sexes. The present Sūrah has laid down comprehensive commandments to safeguard and protect it. Islām views with extreme disapprobation the slightest breach of these laws. It is Islām's very great sensitiveness about chastity that is reflected in the punishment prescribed for adultery or fornication in the verse under comment. The punishment prescribed is hundred stripes, no distinction having been made whether the guilty persons are married or unmarried or one of the party for the twain take hold of you in executing the judgement of Allāh, if you believe in Allāh and the Last Day. And let a party of the believers witness their punishment.

رَاْفَةٌ فِيْ دِيْنِ اللّٰهِ اِنْ كُنْتُمْ تُؤْمِنُوْنَ بِاللّٰهِ وَالْيَوْمِ الْاٰخِرِ ۚ وَ لْيَشْهَدْ عَذَابَهُمَا طَآئِفَةٌ مِّنَ الْمُؤْمِنِيْنَ ۝٢ is married and the other unmarried. Flogging and not stoning to death, according to this verse, is the prescribed punishment. Nowhere in the Qur'ān stoning to death has been laid down as punishment for adultery and, for that matter, for any other crime, however serious. Islām has not prescribed killing as a necessary and unqualified punishment even for crimes much more heinous than adultery such as unprovoked murder, dacoity, treason against the State and disturbing the peace of the land. Though extreme penalty for these crimes is death, yet the payment of blood money in the case of the first offence (2:179) and imprisonment or banishment for the other crimes (5:33, 34) have been laid down as alternative punishments. Elsewhere in the Qur'ān, where punishment for adultery for a married slave-girl is mentioned, it is stated that she will get half the punishment prescribed for that of a free, married woman (4:26), and evidently the punishment of stoning to death cannot be halved.

In spite of the fact that the Qur'ān has quite clearly and unequivocally laid down flogging as the punishment for adultery and has made no discrimination whatever between a married or an unmarried culprit in the matter of awarding punishment (because Zānī means, both a fornicator and an adulterer) and that the present and other relevant verses were revealed in connection with slander-mongering about 'Ā'ishah, the Holy Prophet's noble consort, who herself was a married lady. It is curious that the misconception has persisted without any justification or linguistic authority among certain schools of Muslim religious thought that the verse under comment deals with punishment for unmarried persons only and that the punishment for a married adulterer and adulteress is stoning to death. The misconception seems to be due to a few cases recorded in the Ḥadīth when married persons guilty of adultery were stoned to death by the order of the Holy Prophet. One of these few cases was that of a Jew and a Jewess who were stoned to death in accordance with the Mosaic Law (Bukhārī). It was invariably the Holy Prophet's practice that he abided by the Law of the Torah in deciding cases till a new commandment was revealed to him. In one or two other cases on record in which the punishment accorded was stoning to death, it has not been established whether the crime was committed before or after the verse under comment had been revealed. It seems that in such cases the crime was committed before the revelation of this verse, but by some miscalculation on the part of some chronicler it was believed to have taken place after it. There are to be found such historical anachronisms in the books of Ḥadīth. Or, there might have been some other aggravating circumstances besides the crime of adultery which made the Holy Prophet award the guilty person or persons the extreme punishment of death and which the chronicler of the incident failed to take into account. Otherwise, it is inconceivable that the Holy Prophet should have contravened the quite clear and unequivocal Divine commandment in this respect.

4. The adulterer cannot have sexual intercourse but with an adulteress or an idolatrous woman, and an adulteress—none can have sexual intercourse with her but an adulterer or an idolatrous[2026A]

Another possible cause of misunderstanding about the form of punishment for adultery may be some sayings attributed to Caliphs ‘Umar and ‘Alī. ‘Umar is reported to have said, 'There was a verse in the Book of God about Rajm (stoning). We read it, we understood it and we remembered it. The Holy Prophet stoned adulterers to death and we also stoned after him. Were it not that people might say that ‘Umar had added in the Book of God what was not in it, I would have written it down' (Kashful-Ghummah, vol. 2, p. 111). The whole ḥadīth seems to be pure fabrication or at best the result of misunderstanding of what ‘Umar might actually have said. How by writing down in the Qur’ān what was part of it could be called an addition to it, and how of all men, ‘Umar could have been afraid of any body for doing the right thing, least of all for restoring to the Qur’ān a lost text. And ‘Alī after flogging a woman, who had committed adultery, and then stoning her to death, is reported to have said: 'I have flogged her in obedience to the commandment of the Book of God and have stoned her to death in accordance with the practice of the Holy Prophet' (Bukhārī). From these sayings two inferences manifestly emerge: (1) In the matter of punishing an adulterer the practice of the Holy Prophet was at variance with the commandment of God as laid down in the Qur’ān, which is impossible. (2) Whereas according to ‘Umar there was a commandment in the Book of God about stoning to death of an adulterer, according to ‘Alī there was no such commandment, but it was only the practice of the Holy Prophet according to which he (‘Alī) stoned to death persons guilty of adultery. These sayings are not only mutually contradictory but demonstrably conflict with the express Divine commandment and therefore must be rejected as pure fabrications or at best distorted versions of what they said. See also "The Larger Edition of the Commentary," pp. 1836-1838.

2026A. Nikāḥ signifying coitus with or without marriage and marriage without coitus (Lane), the meaning of the verse is quite clear, viz. that when a man. That[2027] indeed is forbidden to the believers.

5. And [a]those who calumniate chaste women but bring not four witnesses—flog them with eighty stripes, and do not admit their evidence ever after, for it is they that are the transgressors,[2028]

وَالَّذِيْنَ يَرْمُوْنَ الْمُحْصَنٰتِ ثُمَّ لَمْ يَأْتُوْا
بِاَرْبَعَةِ شُهَدَآءَ فَاجْلِدُوْهُمْ ثَمٰنِيْنَ
جَلْدَةً وَّلَا تَقْبَلُوْا لَهُمْ شَهَادَةً اَبَدًا ۚ
وَاُولٰٓئِكَ هُمُ الْفٰسِقُوْنَ ۙ

man is having sexual intercourse with a woman who is not his wife, he is evidently an adulterer and the woman an adulteress; Nikāḥ here signifying sexual intercourse and not marriage. But if Nikāḥ here be taken to signify marriage, as some have done, then the meaning would be that az-Zānī, i.e. a wicked man, who is not ashamed of freely indulging in adultery, can never prevail upon a chaste believing woman to marry him. Only a bad woman of low moral character or an idolatrous woman whose standard of morality like him is very low can be persuaded to marry him.

2027. The pronoun 'that' signifies the committing of adultery. Islām regards adultery as one of the most heinous of all social crimes and seeks to close all those avenues through which this disease finds its way among a people and severely punishes it and condemns the guilty parties as social pariahs. While the preceding verse has laid down the punishment which is to be meted out to adulterers or fornicators the present one stigmatises them as social lepers with whom all social relationship should be avoided.

2028. The other social evil, second to adultery in heinousness, which eats into the vitals of human society, is the slandering of innocent persons. Islām also views with extreme disfavour this social evil which has become so common in the so-called civilized modern society, and severely punishes the accusers of innocent people. The verse mentions three forms of punishment in an ascending order which are to be meted out to a slanderer: (a) the physical punishment of scourging; (b) the disgrace of being branded as a perjurer and a liar which invalidates his evidence and (c) the spiritual stigma of being adjudged as a transgressor. It may be noted that no mention is made here of the accusation being true or false. So long as the accuser cannot produce the necessary evidence in support of his charge, the charge would be considered as false and the accuser would render himself liable to the prescribed punishment. Whatever the facts of the case, the woman with whom adultery is alleged to have been committed will be held innocent so long as the required evidence is not produced. The law, in fact, is intended to suppress with a

7. And as for those who charge their wives with adultery[2030] and have no witnesses except themselves—the evidence of anyone of such people shall suffice if he bears witness four times in the name of Allāh solemnly affirming that he is of those who speak the truth;

وَالْخَامِسَةُ اَنَّ لَعْنَتَ اللّٰهِ عَلَيْهِ اِنْ كَانَ مِنَ الْكٰذِبِيْنَ ۝٨

8. And the fifth time that Allāh's curse be upon him if he be of the liars.

strong hand the offence of slandering and scandal-mongering. The commandment contained in this verse covers both men and women although the word used is Muḥṣanāt which means 'chaste women.' In the Arabic language when something has to be said which relates equally to both men and women the gender used is masculine. But when something is said regarding a matter which concerns women more than men, then the feminine gender is used. The commandment here relates to punishment for slandering whether the victim of the slander is a man or a woman but as women generally are more often the victims of such slanders, the verse speaks of 'chaste women.' Similarly, the word Alladhīna (those), though in the masculine gender, applies to both men and women slanderers.

2029. Opinions differ as to which of the punishments prescribed for slandering is to be remitted after a slanderer repents and makes amends. The question of the first punishment does not arise because the corporal punishment is administered as soon as the offence of the guilty person is proved. The last two punishments can only be remitted after a real and true repentance is proved.

2030. As suspicion between husband and wife is likely to cast a severe strain on the whole family relations, a special regulation has been laid down in the verse under comment to meet such an unhappy situation if it ever happens to arise.

وَيَدْرَؤُا عَنْهَا الْعَذَابَ اَنْ تَشْهَدَ اَرْبَعَ شَهٰدٰتٍۭ بِاللّٰهِ ۙ اِنَّهٗ لَمِنَ الْكٰذِبِيْنَ ۝٩

9. But it shall avert the punishment from her if she bears witness four times in the name of Allāh that he is of the liars;

وَالْخَامِسَةَ اَنَّ غَضَبَ اللّٰهِ عَلَيْهَآ اِنْ كَانَ مِنَ الصّٰدِقِيْنَ ۝١٠

10. And the fifth time that the wrath of Allāh be upon her if he has spoken the truth.[2031]

وَلَوْلَا فَضْلُ اللّٰهِ عَلَيْكُمْ وَرَحْمَتُهٗ وَاَنَّ اللّٰهَ تَوَّابٌ حَكِيْمٌ ۝١١ ع

11. And were it not for Allāh's grace and His mercy upon you, and that Allāh is Compassionate and Wise, you would have come to grief.

اِنَّ الَّذِيْنَ جَآءُوْ بِالْاِفْكِ عُصْبَةٌ

12. Verily, those who invented the great lie are a party from among you.[2032]

2031. After the accused woman has established her innocence by taking four oaths that her husband had falsely accused her and the fifth oath invoking God's curse upon herself if her husband's accusation was true, no punishment is awarded to her and the husband is also not held punishable for accusing her. But after such a serious breach the couple will cease to live as husband and wife, because no chance will then be left of the restoration of amicable relations between them.

2032. The extremely painful incident referred to in this verse took place when on the Holy Prophet's return from the expedition against Banī Muṣṭaliq in 5 A.H., the Muslim army had to halt for the night at a place, a short distance from Medina. In this expedition the Holy Prophet was accompanied by his noble and talented wife, 'Ā'ishah. As it so happened, 'Ā'ishah went out some distance from the camp to attend to the call of nature. When she returned, she discovered that she had dropped her necklace somewhere. The necklace itself was of no great value, but as it was a loan from a friend 'Ā'ishah went out again to search for it. On her return, to her great grief and mortification, the army had already marched away with the camel she was riding, her attendants thinking that she was in the litter as she was then very young and light of weight. In her helplessness she sat down and cried till sleep overpowered her. Ṣafwān, a refugee who was coming in the rear recognized her as he had seen her before the verse enjoining "Pardah" was revealed, and brought her on his camel to Medina, himself walking behind the animal (Bukhārī, Kitābun-Nikāḥ). The Hypocrites of Medina, led by 'Abdullāh bin Ubayy bin Salūl, sought to make capital out of this incident and spread a malicious scandal against 'Ā'ishah and unfortunately some of the Muslims also became involved in it. 'Ā'ishah's innocence was established by Divine revelation. Those who had taken part in fabricating and spreading the accusation were punished and injunctions were revealed to deal effectively with scandal-mongers and their evil designs and activities.

2033. The words, 'who took the principal part,' are understood to refer to 'Abdullāh bin Ubayy, the leader of the Hypocrites of Medina, who had invented the lie and gave it wide publicity. He died an ignominious death, frustrated in all his designs against Islām and in his ambition and aspiration to become the crowned king of Medina.

2034. He, who accuses a Muslim man or woman of adultery and does not produce four witnesses to prove his allegation, shall be held to be a liar and treated as such by the Islamic Law if he can produce only one, two or even three persons as eyewitnesses to the act. 2035. Islām has taken as serious a view of the spreading and circulation of false accusations as that of crimes against chastity. It has condemned and prescribed punishment for both the crimes—for scandal-mongering even a severer punishment since it is calculated to produce more grievous consequences as far as the prevalence of sexual immorality in a community is concerned than the stray acts of sexual misconduct. If scandal-mongering is allowed to be indulged in unchecked in a community, it will come to lose all sense of horror and abhorrence at the commission of immoral acts with the result that immorality will become rampant and a sense of pessimism with regard to its future will begin to prevail in the community, thus shaking its whole moral foundation.

2036. As there is implanted in human nature an inherent sense of hesitancy and horror at committing what is clearly and manifestly an evil act, to begin with, Satan avoids tempting his victim to commit a manifestly immoral act. He leads him to his moral ruin gradually and in stages, beginning with what apparently seems to be quite a harmless act. Beginning with slander-

2039. Recent scientific researches have established the truth of this verse. Scientific instruments have been invented which, if placed in a place, can preserve the talk of a person and even the sound of the movements of his hands, feet or other organs of his body. These instruments have greatly helped the police in apprehending thieves and other culprits and in bringing them to book. Thus with the help of these instruments the tongue, hands and feet of a guilty person, as it were, are made to bear witness against him. Science has 2043. As stated above the Qur'ān is not content with merely taking a superficial view of things but goes to their very root. According to it, every good or bad quality springs from a certain root. In the case of a good quality, the Qur'ān enjoins that the root should be mastered and fully kept under control and, in the case of an evil, it aims at its complete eradication and extermination and thus bolts and bars all the avenues to it. As it is the eyes through which most evil thoughts enter the mind, so in the verse under comment believing men and women have been commanded to restrain their looks when they happen to meet one another.

And that they strike not their feet so that what they hide of their ornaments may become known. And turn ye to Allāh all together, O believers, that you may prosper.[2044]

2043B. Decent women.

2044. As a good deal of misunderstanding and lack of proper knowledge as to what constitutes the Islamic notion of "Pardah" prevails even among Muslims, a somewhat detailed note on this much-vexed question is called for. The following verses deal with every aspect of "Pardah":—

(i) And say to the believing women that they restrain their looks and guard their private parts, and that they display not their beauty or their embellishment except that which is apparent thereof, and that they draw their head-coverings over their bosoms, and that they display not their beauty……(24:32, i.e. the verse under comment).

(ii) O Prophet, tell thy wives and thy daughters and the women of the believers that they should let down over them their loose outer garments. That is more likely that they will thus be recognised and not molested (33:60).

The Arabic word used in this verse (33:60) is, Jalābīb of which the singular is Jilbāb which means an outer or wrapping garment (Lane).

(iii) O wives of the Prophet! you are not like any other women if you are righteous. So be not soft in speech, lest he, in whose heart is a disease, should feel tempted, and speak decent words. And stay in your houses with dignity and do not show off yourselves in the manner of the showing off of the women of the former days of ignorance……(33:33, 34).

(iv) O ye who believe! let those whom your right hands possess, and those of you who have not attained to puberty, ask leave of you at three times before coming into your private apartments, before the Morning Prayer and when you lay aside your clothes at noon in summer and after the Night Prayer……(24:59).

The following inferences emerge from these four verses:

(a) When they go out, Muslim women are required to wear Jilbāb, i.e. an outer and wrapping garment, which should cover their heads and bosoms in such a manner that the garment should come down from the head to the bosom covering the whole body. This is the significance of the Quranic words Yudnīna ʻAlaihinna min Jalābībihinna (33:60). The wearing of an outer garment is intended to save a Muslim woman, when she goes about her business from the mental anguish of being stared at or molested or in any other way inconvenienced by persons of questionable character.

(b) Muslim men and women are to restrain their looks when they happen to face each other.

(c) The third commandment, though apparently applying to the wives of the Holy Prophet, includes, as is the practice of the Qur'ān, other Muslim women. The words, 'And stay in your houses' (33:34) imply that whereas women may go out when necessary, the principal and primary sphere of their activities is inside the house.

(d) At three stated hours, even children are not allowed to enter the private apartments of their parents, nor are domestic servants or female slaves allowed to enter the sleeping rooms of their masters.

The first commandment applies to women when they go out. Then they are to use an outer garment which should cover their whole body. The second commandment relates to "Pardah" primarily inside the four walls of the house when near male relatives frequently come and go. In that case men and women are required only to restrain their looks and as an additional precaution women are to take care that their Zīnah, i.e. beauty of person, dress and ornaments, is not displayed. They are not required to use Jilbāb (outer garment) at that time because that would be very irksome and even impracticable in view of the free and frequent visits of very near blood relations. The context shows that this commandment relates to "Pardah" inside the four walls of the house, because all the persons mentioned in the verse under comment are very near relations who generally visit the houses of their relatives. The special mention in it of four categories of persons besides near relatives, viz. decent women, old servants, female slaves and minor boys, lends additional weight to the inference that the commandment in this verse relates to "Pardah" within the four walls of the house. The fact that the first commandment refers to "Pardah" outside the house and the second commandment basically refers to "Pardah" within the four walls of the house is also apparent from the different words that have been used to express the two forms of "Pardah" in the relevant verses, i.e. 33:60, and the verse under comment. Whereas in 33:60 the garment which a woman is to use when she goes out is Jilbāb (an outer garment), the garment which she has to use inside the house when relatives visit is Khimār (a head-covering). Moreover, whereas in 33:60 the words used are Yudnīna ʻAlaihinna min Jalābībihinna, i.e. they should let down over them their outer garments (for a detailed discussion of Jilbāb and Yudnīna see 33:60); in the verse under comment the words used are Yaḍribna Bikhumurihinna ʻAlā Juyūbihinna, i.e. they should cast their head-coverings across their bosoms. It is clear that in the former case the garment will cover the head, the face and the bosom while in the latter case only the head and the bosom will become covered and the face may remain uncovered.

It may be noted in passing that the shape and form of the outer-garment which, as mentioned above, a woman must wear when she goes out and which covers her whole body will vary according to the customs, habits, social status, family traditions and usages of various classes of the Muslim community. The commandment with regard to "Pardah" within the four walls of the house will also apply to shops, fields. etc. where women of certain sections of Muslim society have to work to earn their living. There a woman will not be required to veil her face. She will only have to restrain her looks and to cover her Zīnah, i.e. her ornaments and other embellishments, as women within the four walls of the house have to do when their near male relatives visit them.

33. And arrange marriages for widows[2045] from among you, وَاَنْكِحُوا الْاَيَامٰى مِنْكُمْ وَالصّٰلِحِيْنَ مِنْ

The third commandment requires women to behave with dignity bordering on austerity when talking to stranger men; and they are also required to give their full attention to the discharge of their serious and important duties in regard to the affairs connected with the wellbeing of their own sex and the management of the household affairs and to looking after and bringing up of children and kindred matters. The fourth commandment enjoins husband and wife to have, as far as possible, sleeping apartments separate from those of other members of the family which even minor boys are not allowed to enter at hours stated in v. 59.

The word, Zīnah, used in the verse under comment includes both natural and artificial beauty—beauty of person, dress and ornaments. The expression, 'except that which is apparent thereof,' contains all those things which it is not possible for a woman to cover such as her voice, gait or stature, and also certain parts of her body which have to remain uncovered according to her social status, her family traditions, her avocation and the customs of society. The permission to keep certain parts of the body uncovered will be subject to certain variations. Thus the words, 'they display not their beauty' will have different connotations with regard to women belonging to different sections and grades of society and the connotation will change with the change in the customs and modes of living and professions of a people. The words, 'And that they strike not their feet so that what they hide of their ornaments may become known' (24:32), show that public dancing which is so much in vogue in certain countries is definitely not allowed by Islām.

This is the Islamic conception of "Pardah." According to it Muslim women may go out as often as it is legitimately necessary for them to do so, but their primary and principal functions are confined to their homes which are as important and serious, if not more, as the avocations of men are. If women take to men's avocations they seek to defy nature and nature does not allow its laws to be defied with impunity.

2045. Ayāmā is the plural of Ayyim which means, a woman having no husband, whether she be a virgin or not, or whether she had married before or not; a free woman (Lane); also a man having no wife (Mufradāt). The marriage of widows and virgins is strongly urged. In fact, Islām views with extreme disfavour the unmarried state and regards the married state as the normal and natural one. The Holy Prophet is reported to have said: 'Marriage is my Sunnah (usage or practice) and whoso disapproves and forsakes my

36. Allāh is the Light[2046A] of the heavens and the earth. His light is as if there were a lustrous niche,[2046B] wherein is a lamp. The lamp is inside a glass-globe.[2046C] The globe is, as it were, a glittering star. The lamp is lit from the oil of a blessed tree—an olive—neither of the East nor of the West, whose oil well-nigh would shine forth even though fire touched it not. Light upon light! Allāh guides to His light whomsoever He pleases. And Allāh sets forth parables for men, and Allāh knows all things full well.[2047]

2046A. Nūr means, light as opposed to darkness. It is more extensive and more penetrating as well as more lasting in its significance than Ḍiyā' (Lane).

2046B. Mishkāt means, a niche in a wall, i.e. a hole or hollow in a wall, not extending through, in which a lamp placed gives more light than it gives elsewhere; a pillar on the top of which the lamp is put (Lane).

2046C. Zujājah means a glass; a globe of glass (Lane).

2047. The verse is a beautiful metaphor. It speaks of three things—a lamp, a glass-globe and a niche. The Divine Light is stated to have been confined to these three things which combined together make its brightness and effulgence complete and perfect. 'The lamp' is the very source of the light; the 'glass-globe' which is over the lamp protects its light from being extinguished by the puffs of wind and increases its brightness; and 'the niche' preserves the light. The simile may aptly apply to an electric torch of which the constituent parts are the electric wires which give light, the bulb which protects the light and the reflector which spreads and diffuses the light and gives it direction. In spiritual terminology, the three things—'the lamp,' 'the glass-globe' and 'the niche'—may respectively stand for Divine Light, God's Prophets who protect that light from being extinguished and add to its effulgence and brightness, and the Khalīfāhs or Successors of the Prophets who diffuse and disseminate the Divine Light and give it a direction and purpose for the guidance and illumination of the world. The verse further states that the oil used to light the lamp is of the highest possible purity and is inflammable to a degree which makes it (the oil) burst out into a flame even without being ignited. It is extracted from a tree which belongs neither to the East nor to the West, i.e. which does not discriminate in favour of or against any particular people.

The verse may have another interpretation. The light mentioned in the verse may be taken to refer to the Holy Prophet because he has been spoken of as 'light' in the Qur'ān (5:16); 'the niche' in that case would signify the heart of the Holy Prophet, and 'the lamp' his most pure and unsullied nature which is endowed with the best and noblest attributes and qualities, and 'the glass' would signify that the Divine Light with which his nature has been invested is as clear and bright as crystal. When the light of heavenly revelation descended upon the light of the Holy Prophet's nature, it shone with a twofold effulgence which in the words of the Qur'ān has been described as 'light upon light.' This light of the Prophet was sustained by an oil which emanated from a blessed tree, which means that the Holy Prophet's light was not only bright and brilliant but abundant and stable and perpetual (as the word Mubārakah signifies), and was meant to illumine both the East and the West. Further, the Holy Prophet's heart was so pure and his nature gifted with such noble qualities that he was almost lit to discharge the duties of his great mission even before the light of Divine revelation had descended upon him. This is the significance of the words, whose oil well-nigh would shine forth even though fire touched it not.

The metaphor may have yet another explanation. The niche in the verse is the human body. The human body contains the spirit which makes itself manifest through the organs of the body. Like the niche the human body protects the light, namely, the spirit, and guides its expression, i.e. the human body contains Miṣbāḥ or the lamp of the soul which illumines the human mind and brings it into touch with God. The lamp is contained in a 'Zujājah' (globe of glass), which protects it from harm or injury and enhances and reflects its light. This Zujājah which is the human brain of which the mechanism is so perfect as to have led some philosophers to think that it is the ultimate source of the Divine Light. The light is sustained by the oil from a blessed tree, namely from those basic and eternal truths which are not the exclusive possession of any people of the East or of the West. These eternal truths are implanted in the very nature of man and would almost make themselves manifest even without the help of Divine revelation.

2047A. The verse contains both a proof and a prophecy. It predicts that houses illumined by the light contained in the Qur'ān will be exalted and their inmates will always celebrate the praises of God. This will be a proof that they are illumined by Allāh's light.

2048. The verse constitutes a great testimonial to the righteousness and goodness of the Holy Prophet's Companions and to their love for God. They are men, says the verse, of flesh and bones. They have their worldly ambitions and aspirations, their professions and avocations. They are not monks and hermits, cut apart from the world. Yet amidst all their mundane pursuits and engagements they do not neglect to discharge their duties to God and man.

2049. In vv. 37-39 above an appreciative reference is made to a class of men—the lovers of Divine Light and the righteous servants of God. The present and the immediately preceding verse speak of another class of people—the sons of darkness. People of one class accept the Divine Light and walk in it. Their enviable condition is described in the simile, 'light upon light.' The other class of people reject the Divine Light and choose to grope in the darkness of doubts. All their works prove futile and deceptive like a mirage. They love darkness, follow darkness and live in darkness, so their unenviable condition has been very aptly and graphically described in the words, their deeds are like thick layers of darkness spread over a vast and deep sea on whose surface rise waves above waves, above which are clouds—layers upon layers of darkness.

2050B. The birds which fly in the air. In a spiritual sense, the three expressions respectively signify: (a) persons of very high spiritual status; (b) worldly-minded men whose whole attention and efforts are devoted to the acquirement of material pursuits and who have no thought or time for spiritual things and (c) people whose spiritual condition is midway between that of the two above-mentioned categories.

2051. Whereas the clause, Whose praises all who are in the heavens and the earth celebrate, refers to the collective testimony that the whole universe bears to the Unity and Holiness of God, the words, Each one knows his own mode of prayer and praise, refer to the evidence which everything bears to Divine Unity and Holiness individually and separately by carrying out faithfully the task allotted to it by God. Ṣalāt has different meanings with reference to different objects. Used in connection with God it means Divine mercy; used in connection with angels, it means their asking forgiveness of God for men and used in connection with man, it means the prescribed form of Prayer (Lane).

2052. The verse may signify that for some the revealed Law serves as timely rain which proves highly beneficial and for others it takes the form of hail and storm which brings in its wake destruction and ruin.

2053. The verse purports to say that the spiritual development of man referred to in the preceding verse is not always uniform and uninterrupted. Sometimes it is very rapid, at another time it is slow and yet at some other time it comes to a dead stop. This ebb and flow in the spiritual development of man is called Qabḍ (contraction) and Basṭ (expansion), or the alternation of night and day in spiritual terminology. Everything in the world is subject to the law of acceleration and retardation and so is the spiritual evolution of man.

2057. Because it serves as a prelude to the introduction of the subject of Khilāfat emphasis is repeatedly laid in vv. 52-55 on obedience to Allah and His Messenger. This emphasis implies a hint to the status and position of a Khalīfah in Islām. The verse embodies a promise that Muslims will be vouchsafed both spiritual and temporal leadership. The promise is made to the whole Muslim nation but the institution of Khilāfat will take a palpable form in the person of certain individuals who will be the Holy Prophet's Successors and the representatives of the whole nation. The promise of the establishment of Khilāfat is clear and unmistakable. As the Holy Prophet is now humanity's sole guide for all time, his Khilāfat will continue to exist in one form or another in the world till the end of time, all other Khilāfats having ceased to exist. This is, among many others, the Holy Prophet's distinctive superiority over all other Prophets and Messengers of God. Our age has witnessed his greatest spiritual Khalīfah in the person of the Founder of the Aḥmadiyya Movement. See also "The Larger Edition of the Commentary," pp. 1869, 1870.

2058. The subject of "Pardah," as stated under v. 32 above, has been referred to at four different places in the Qur'ān. Whereas 24:32 deals with "Pardah" primarily within the four walls of the house, v. 33:60 discusses "Pardah" outside the house and on thoroughfares, while vv. 33:33, 34 speak of a restricted kind of "Pardah," particularly enjoined on the Holy Prophet's wives and by implication on all Muslim women, and by inference point to the fact that the principal centre of a woman's activities is her home. The present verse, however, refers to another kind of "Pardah," viz. that domestic servants and minor children too should not enter the private apartments of their masters or parents at three particular hours mentioned here without getting prior permission. Ẓahīrah means, vehement heat of the midday, the period from a little before to a little after midday in summer (Lane).

society and which tend to restrict free intercourse between the rich and the poor. Islām enjoins complete social equality and is the avowed enemy of division of people within watertight compartments. Here it has stressed the importance and usefulness of free social intercourse and collective dining among all classes of society, and has encouraged and preferred eating together to promote familiarity and remove those bars that keep apart people of different social standing, though it has not disallowed eating separately. The Arabs and the Jews had scruples to eat with the blind or with persons suffering from certain social disabilities, as the Hindus of India even to this day do not eat or sit with the "untouchables." Islām looks askance at all such practices and encourages inter-dining and free intercourse among all classes and sections of people. Ḥaraj means, a sin; an objection; harm; blame or crime (Lane).

2059A. Amru Jāmi‘ means, a momentous affair on account of which people gather together as though the affair itself gathers them (Lane).

2060. The several preceding verses contained directions for Muslims as how to conduct themselves in affairs of social importance. The present verse, however, deals with affairs of national importance. The Muslims are enjoined ask leave of thee, it is they alone who truly believe in Allāh and His Messenger. So, when they ask leave of thee for some urgent affair of theirs, give leave to those of them whom thou pleasest and ask forgiveness for them of Allāh. Surely, Allāh is Most Forgiving, Merciful.

لِّمَنْ شِئْتَ مِنْهُمْ وَاسْتَغْفِرْ لَهُمُ اللّٰهَ ؕ اِنَّ اللّٰهَ غَفُوْرٌ رَّحِيْمٌ ﴿٦٣﴾

لَا تَجْعَلُوْا دُعَآءَ الرَّسُوْلِ بَيْنَكُمْ كَدُعَآءِ بَعْضِكُمْ بَعْضًا ؕ قَدْ يَعْلَمُ اللّٰهُ الَّذِيْنَ يَتَسَلَّلُوْنَ مِنْكُمْ لِوَاذًا ۚ فَلْيَحْذَرِ الَّذِيْنَ يُخَالِفُوْنَ عَنْ اَمْرِهٖۤ اَنْ تُصِيْبَهُمْ فِتْنَةٌ اَوْ يُصِيْبَهُمْ عَذَابٌ اَلِيْمٌ ﴿٦٤﴾

64. Treat not the calling of the Messenger among you like the calling of one of you to another.[2061] Allāh indeed knows [a]those of you who steal away covertly. So let those who go against His command beware lest a trial afflict them or a grievous punishment overtake them.

that when they are with the Holy Prophet, engaged in transacting a business of national importance, they should not leave the assembly without his permission. It may also be inferred from this verse that in affairs concerning a whole nation or community, the individual loses his independence of action. He must abide by the decision arrived at by the assembly of Muslims, presided over by the Holy Prophet, his Successor or their accepted and elected Leader.

2061. The Prophet's or the Leader's call is not to be treated lightly. It must be accorded the respect it deserves, as it always concerns highly important affairs. The verse may also mean that the privacy of the Holy Prophet or the Khalīfah should not be intruded upon, and unnecessary demands should not be made upon his very precious time, and when addressed he should be treated with the respect due to his very exalted position.

AL-FURQĀN
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

Preponderance of scholarly opinion regards this Sūrah as of Meccan origin and assigns it to the last Meccan period. Certain Western writers are of the view that it was revealed very early in the Holy Prophet's ministry. They attribute this inference to the absence of any reference to persecution of Muslims on the part of the Quraish which, they say, began some years later. This assumption is too flimsy to merit serious consideration. This is like saying that because some Medinite Chapters are almost devoid of any mention of disbelievers, therefore, no fighting had taken place between Muslims and disbelievers in the Medinite period.

Sūrah An-Nūr had ended on a note about the very great importance and usefulness of the Islamic organisation. It had also stated that certain Muslims were unacquainted with its great potentialities; on the other hand, they were afraid of the organisation of disbelievers which was rotten to the core. The present Sūrah gives the reasons why the fear of the people of weak of faith is but an illusion and a figment of their own distraught imagination and does not exist in fact.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with the categorical statement that the Quranic Message is meant for the whole of mankind. It further says that the Almighty God Who has revealed the Qur'ān is the sole and undisputed Master of the heavens and the earth, and the sole Creator of every atom of the universe. His Word, therefore, is and must be in perfect harmony with the laws of nature, hence its acceptance or rejection does not merely mean the acceptance or rejection of a revealed Law but amounts to submission to or violation of the laws of nature itself. Next, it is stated that because disbelievers find it difficult to deny the excellence and superiority of the teachings of the Qur'ān, they take refuge behind the subterfuge that it is not the work of a single individual but is the result of the combined efforts of many persons. They further allege that its teaching has been plagiarised from old Scriptures. But these pleas possess no substance because if the Qur'ān had been the work of human effort, it could not have possessed a teaching which it is beyond the power of man to produce. And if it had been merely a copy of the ancient Scriptures, those Scriptures should also have possessed the excellences and beauties possessed by it, but that is not the case. Next, it answers some worn out and hackneyed objections of disbelievers such as the Holy Prophet is a mere mortal and is subject to the demands of the flesh. Then, a brief reference is made to the law of the rise and fall of nations and disbelievers are warned that the time of their decadence and downfall and that of the rise, progress and prosperity of Muslims has already arrived. Furthermore, the attention of disbelievers is drawn to the phenomenon that God has made two waters, one bitter and the other sweet, both flowing side by side. They continue their parallel course and do not mix with each other. Similarly, the teachings of the Qur'ān and those of other Scriptures will continue to exist side by side in order that by comparing them people might distinguish the true from the false and the sweet from the bitter. Towards its end the Sūrah mentions a few special signs and marks of those righteous servants of God who by acting upon the teachings of the Qur'ān attain to the highest pinnacle of spiritual eminence, and closes with a pointed reference to the great truth that God has created man to serve a very sublime and noble object and whosoever fails to fulfil this object will forfeit God's mercy and grace.

سُوْرَةُ الْفُرْقَانِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٢٥ — اٰياتها ٧٨ — رکوعاتها ٦

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

تَبٰرَكَ الَّذِيْ نَزَّلَ الْفُرْقَانَ عَلٰى عَبْدِهٖ لِيَكُوْنَ لِلْعٰلَمِيْنَ نَذِيْرًا ②

الَّذِيْ لَهٗ مُلْكُ السَّمٰوٰتِ وَالْاَرْضِ وَلَمْ يَتَّخِذْ وَلَدًا وَّلَمْ يَكُنْ لَّهٗ شَرِيْكٌ فِي الْمُلْكِ وَخَلَقَ كُلَّ شَيْءٍ فَقَدَّرَهٗ تَقْدِيْرًا ③

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

2. Blessed[2062] is He Who has sent down A1-Furqān[2063] to His servant, that he may be a Warner to all the worlds—

3. He to Whom belongs the Kingdom of the heavens and the earth. [b]And He has taken unto Himself no son, and has no partner in the Kingdom, and He has created everything, and has determined its proper measure.[2064]

2063. Furqān means something which differentiates between what is true and what is false; an argument, a proof or evidence, because an argument or a proof serves to discriminate between right and wrong. It also signifies morning or dawn, because dawn distinguishes the day from the night. The Qur'ān is Furqān par excellence. Among the multifarious and multitudinous beauties and excellences that distinguish it from other revealed Books and which establish its superiority over them all, two stand out most markedly, viz. (i) it makes no statement or claim in support of which it does not give sound and solid proofs and arguments, and (ii) it makes the truth so distinguishable from falsehood as day is from night.

2064. The clause, 'and has determined its proper measure,' signifies that there is a limit to the powers and functions or development of everything which it cannot defy or go beyond. These limitations point to one law that

وَاتَّخَذُوْا مِنْ دُوْنِهٖٓ اٰلِهَةً لَّا يَخْلُقُوْنَ
شَيْـًٔا وَّهُمْ يُخْلَقُوْنَ وَلَا يَمْلِكُوْنَ
لِاَنْفُسِهِمْ ضَرًّا وَّلَا نَفْعًا وَّلَا يَمْلِكُوْنَ
مَوْتًا وَّلَا حَيٰوةً وَّلَا نُشُوْرًا ۝

4. Yet [a]they have taken beside Him gods, [b]who create nothing but are themselves created, and who have no power to harm or benefit themselves, nor have they any power over death or life or Resurrection.[2065]

وَقَالَ الَّذِيْنَ كَفَرُوْٓا اِنْ هٰذَآ اِلَّآ اِفْكُ ِۨافْتَرٰىهُ وَاَعَانَهٗ عَلَيْهِ قَوْمٌ اٰخَرُوْنَ ۚ فَقَدْ جَآءُوْ ظُلْمًا وَّزُوْرًا ۝

5. And those who disbelieve say, 'It is naught but a lie which he has forged, [c]and other people have helped him with it.' Indeed,[2066] they have perpetrated a great injustice and a great falsehood.

وَقَالُوْٓا اَسَاطِيْرُ الْاَوَّلِيْنَ اكْتَتَبَهَا
فَهِيَ تُمْلٰى عَلَيْهِ بُكْرَةً وَّاَصِيْلًا ۝

6. And they say, [d]'These are fables of the ancient; and he has got them written down, and they are read out to him morning and evening.'

[a]17:57; 18:16; 21:25. [b]7:192; 16:21. [c]16:104. [d]8:32; 16:25; 68:16; 83:14.

operates in the whole universe and hence to one Designer, Creator and Controller—a Creator Whose powers are limitless but Who has imposed limits on all things.

2065. Everything has to pass through three stages of development: (a) The stage of lifelessness; (b) of potential life, when a thing is endowed with the attributes and powers of growth; and (c) of actual life. God, the Creator of all life, possesses complete and undisputed control over all these stages.

2066. This and the next verse refer to two charges of disbelievers against the Holy Prophet and answer them. The answer to the first charge that the Holy Prophet has forged a lie is that it was unjust on their part to prefer such a charge. The Holy Prophet had lived among them a lifetime before and they themselves had borne unanimous testimony to his integrity and truthfulness. How could they now charge him with forgery? The answer to the second charge is that whosoever the Holy Prophet's so-called helpers were, they must have held some beliefs and doctrines, but the Qur'ān refutes and demolishes all false beliefs and abrogates and improves upon others. How could any people be supposed to help him to produce a Book which had laid the axe at the root of those very beliefs and doctrines which they held so dear?

وَقَالُوْا مَالِ هٰذَا الرَّسُوْلِ یَاْكُلُ الطَّعَامَ وَیَمْشِیْ فِی الْاَسْوَاقِ ؕ لَوْلَاۤ اُنْزِلَ اِلَیْهِ مَلَكٌ فَیَكُوْنَ مَعَهٗ نَذِیْرًا ۝۸

8. And they say, 'What sort of a Messenger[2066A] is this that he eats food, and walks in the streets? [b]Why has not an angel been sent down to him that he might be a warner with him?

اَوْ یُلْقٰۤی اِلَیْهِ كَنْزٌ اَوْ تَكُوْنُ لَهٗ جَنَّةٌ یَّاْكُلُ مِنْهَا ؕ وَقَالَ الظّٰلِمُوْنَ اِنْ تَتَّبِعُوْنَ اِلَّا رَجُلًا مَّسْحُوْرًا ۝۹

9. 'Or [c]a treasure should have been sent down to him, or he should have had a garden to eat therefrom.' And the wrongdoers say, [d]'You follow but a man bewitched.'

اُنْظُرْ كَیْفَ ضَرَبُوْا لَكَ الْاَمْثَالَ فَضَلُّوْا فَلَا یَسْتَطِیْعُوْنَ سَبِیْلًا ۝۱۰ ع ۱۱

11. Blessed is He Who, if He please, will assign to thee better than all that—[f]gardens through which streams flow—and will also assign to thee palaces.[2068]

[a]6:4; 11:6; 67:14. [b]11:13; 15:8; 17:93. [c]11:13; 17:94. [d]17:48. [e]17:49. [f]17:92.

2066A. What is the matter with this Messenger?

2067. The disbelievers have a very poor concept of the real values of life. They have set up criteria of their own devising to test the truth of Divine Messengers, with the result that instead of finding the right path they continue to grope in the darkness of doubt and disbelief.

2068. The verse signifies that the disbelievers' idea of what a Divine Prophet should be like is far removed from reality and betrays their ignorance of the very object and purpose for which Prophets are raised. Prophets are

بَلْ كَذَّبُوْا بِالسَّاعَةِ ۫ وَاَعْتَدْنَا لِمَنْ كَذَّبَ

14. And when they are thrown into a narrow place thereof, [b]chained together, they will pray there for destruction.

15. 'Pray not this day for one destruction, but pray for many destructions.'

16. Say, 'Is that better or the Garden of Eternity, which is [c]promised to the righteous? It will be their reward and ultimate resort.'

raised, it purports to say, to lead men out of the darkness of doubt and disbelief into the light of certainty and spiritual bliss and not to amass, and roll and revel in, wealth. But although the self-devised criterion of disbelievers, namely, that the Holy Prophet must possess wealth, rank, gardens and palaces, has no weight or substance, yet in order to bring home to them the falsity of their position God will give him and his followers greater wealth and bigger and better gardens and palaces than those of the disbelievers' demand. And He really gave the Holy Prophet's followers the palaces and gardens of the Iranian and Byzantine Emperors.

2069. Whereas believers are decreed to achieve eminence and glory, a dreadful punishment (as-Sā'ah) is in store for disbelievers. Their punishment is impending, nay it is at their very doors, but they do not see it and therefore refuse to believe it.

2070. This and the next verse mean that the punishment will be overwhelming and all-embracing and in order to add to the bitterness of the disbelievers' pain and sense of humiliation and to make it complete and thorough, all their organs will be made to feel it—the organs of sight and hearing—and being in great distress they will wish that death should make a speedy end of them.

19. [c]They will say, 'Holy art Thou! It was not right for us to take protectors other than Thee; but Thou didst bestow on them and their fathers the good things of this life until they forgot Thy admonition and became a ruined people.'

فَقَدْ كَذَّبُوْكُمْ بِمَا تَقُوْلُوْنَ ۙ فَمَا تَسْتَطِيْعُوْنَ صَرْفًا وَّلَا نَصْرًا ۚ وَمَنْ يَّظْلِمْ مِّنْكُمْ نُذِقْهُ عَذَابًا كَبِيْرًا ⑳

2071. The desires of believers in the next life will become identified with the will of God. So naturally all their desires will be satisfied.

In reply to their first insolent demand mentioned in the preceding verse, disbelievers are told that angels will certainly descend, but they will be angels of punishment and when they come, the disbelievers will hate the very sight of them and will pray that a strong barrier might be set up between them and the angels.

33. [b]And those who disbelieve say, 'Why was not the Qur'ān revealed to him all at once?' We have revealed it in this manner [c]that We may strengthen thy heart therewith. And We have arranged it in the best form.[2076]

[a]6:113. [b]17:107; 73:5. [c]11:121.

2075. Quite appropriately the verse may apply to those so-called Muslims who have discarded the Qur'ān and have thrown it behind their backs. Perhaps never during the last 14 centuries the Qur'ān was so much neglected and ignored by the Muslims as it is today. There is a saying of the Holy Prophet to the effect: 'A time will come upon my people when there will remain nothing of Islām but its name and of the Qur'ān but its words' (Baihaqī. Shu'abul-Īmān). The present indeed is that time.

2076. The Qur'ān was revealed piecemeal and at intervals. This was intended to serve some very useful purposes: (i) The interval between the revelation of different passages afforded the believers an opportunity to witness the fulfilment of some of the prophecies contained in the passages already revealed and thus their faith became strengthened and fortified. Further, it was intended to answer the objections raised by disbelievers during the interval. (ii) When Muslims needed guidance on a particular occasion to meet a particular need, necessary and relevant verses were revealed. The revelation of the Qur'ān was spread over a period of 23 years in order to enable the Companions of the Holy Prophet to remember, learn and assimilate it. If it had been revealed all at once and in the form of one complete book, the disbelievers could have said that the Holy Prophet had got it prepared from somebody. Thus its gradual revelation at different times, on different occasions and under vastly different conditions and circumstances answered this possible objection. The Qur'ān was revealed in parts in order that it could be easily committed to memory. The piecemeal revelation of the Qur'ān also fulfilled the following biblical prophecy:

وَلَا يَأْتُوْنَكَ بِمَثَلٍ اِلَّا جِئْنٰكَ بِالْحَقِّ وَاَحْسَنَ تَفْسِيْرًا ﴿٣٤﴾

34. And they do not come to thee with an objection but We provide thee with the truth and an excellent explanation.[2077]

Whom shall he teach knowledge and whom shall he make to understand the message? Them that are weaned from the milk; and drawn from the breast? For it is precept upon precept, precept upon precept, line upon line, line upon line; here a little and there a little for, with strange lips and another tongue will he speak to this people (Isa. 28:9, 10).

2077. It is one of the distinctive features of the Qur'ān in which it stands unique among all revealed Books that whenever it makes a claim about the existence of God, the truth of Islām, or about its own Divine origin, or any other related religious subject, it gives the required arguments to prove and substantiate the claim and looks to no other agency for aid or assistance.

2079. Sodom, the town of Lot, which was situated on the way from Arabia to Syria.

46. Dost thou not see [b]how thy Lord lengthens the shade?[2081] And if He had pleased, He could have made it stationary. Then We make the position of the sun an indicator thereof.[2082]

ثُمَّ قَبَضْنَاهُ إِلَيْنَا قَبْضًا يَسِيرًا ﴿٤٧﴾

47. Then We draw it in towards Ourselves, drawing in little by little.[2082A]

[a]7:180. [b]16:49.

2080. It is his own desires, fancies and preconceived ideas, more than anything else, that man generally adores and it is these that stand in the way of his accepting the truth. Intellectually man may have advanced far enough so as not to bow before stones and stars, but he has not outgrown the worship of his false ideals, prejudices and preconceived ideas. It is these idols that lie enthroned in his heart whose worship is condemned here. When instead of making use of his God-given faculties of intellect and hearing, which should help man to recognise and realize truth, he chooses to grope in darkness, he comes down to the level of cattle, even lower than that, because cattle are not given the gift of discretion and discrimination while man is.

2081. The verse alludes in figurative language to the rise, progress and power of Islām and illustrates this tact by drawing attention to a phenomenon of nature. When the sun is behind an object, its shadow lengthens. Similarly, when God is at the back of a people, their power and influence increase. The verse implies that God is at the back of Islām and therefore its shadow would continue to expand and extend till it would reach the ends of the earth, and nations of the world will seek and find solace and comfort under it. "The sun" in the verse symbolises Islām or the Holy Prophet.

2082. The position of the sun determines the size of the shade.

2082A. The verse refers to the decline of Islām after it had reached its zenith. While 'shade' in the preceding verse symbolised power and influence, its 'drawing in' in the present verse signifies decline and decay.

وَهُوَ الَّذِیْ جَعَلَ لَكُمُ الَّیْلَ لِبَاسًا وَّالنَّوْمَ سُبَاتًا وَّجَعَلَ النَّهَارَ نُشُوْرًا ﴿۴۸﴾

53. So obey not the disbelievers and strive against them by means of the Qur'ān with a mighty striving.[2084]

[a]6:97; 78:11. [b]7:58; 15:23.

2083. 'Night' in the verse represents the period of spiritual darkness before the advent of a Divine Reformer; and 'day' symbolises spiritual dawn when a Divine Reformer has already made his appearance.

2084. The great and real Jihād, according to this verse, is to preach the Message of the Qur'ān. Thus to strive for the propagation of Islām and the dissemination and diffusion of its teachings is the Jihād which the Muslims are enjoined always to carry on with unabated zeal. It is this Jihād to which the Holy Prophet referred when, on returning from an expedition, he is reported to have said: "We have returned from the smaller Jihād to the greater Jihād" (Raddul-Mukhtār). See also [1957] and [1958].

2085. Taking 'two waters' in the verse to represent the true religion and the false, the verse signifies that both Islām, the true religion, and other corrupted Faiths will continue to exist side by side, the former yielding sweet fruit and slaking the thirst of the spiritual wayfarers and the latter barren and bitter, incapable of producing any good result. The 'two waters' may also signify the water of the sea and that of the river. The former is saltish and bitter to taste while the latter is drinkable and sweet. When the sweet water of the river flows into the sea and becomes mixed with its saltish water, it also becomes bitter. As long as these two waters keep themselves separate, they have different tastes. Similarly, when the teaching of a true religion becomes mixed up with the teachings of false religions, it loses its sweetness and usefulness. But God has so ordained that in spite of its close proximity to false religions, Islām will never lose its sweet taste as God has taken upon Himself to protect and guard it (15:10). There lies an unbridgeable barrier between the two which keeps them apart.

2087A. By alluding to the creation of the heavens, and the sun, the moon and the stars that embellish and beautify them, the verse draws attention to the spiritual heaven which has its own sun, moon and stars—the Holy Prophet, the Promised Messiah and the Companions of the Holy Prophet about whom he is reported to have said: 'My Companions are like so many stars, whomsoever of them you will follow, you will get right guidance' (Razīn).

2089. With this verse begins a brief description of the great moral revolution which that Sun of the spiritual firmament—the Holy Prophet—brought about among his people. From being the sons of darkness they became the servants of the Gracious and Beneficent God. The various qualities of the righteous servants of the Gracious God, referred to in this and the following verses, are the opposites of the vices from which the people of the Holy Prophet particularly suffered.

2090. Idolatry, murder and adultery are the three basic sins and the fountainheads of individual depravity and social and sexual immorality. The Qur'ān has reverted to these sins again and again.

2091. Taubah (repentance) signifies repenting sincerely, truly and honestly of past moral lapses with a firm resolve completely to shun all evil and to do good deeds, and making amends for all wrongs done to people. It consists in bringing about a complete change in one's life, turning one's back completely and thoroughly on one's past.

2092. Zūr means a lie; false witness; association of false gods with Allāh; a place where lies are told and people entertain themselves with vain or frivolous diversion; the assemblies of polytheists, etc. (Lane).

2092A. They listen to the Signs of God attentively and with their eyes open. Their belief is based on conviction and certainty and not on mere hearsay.

2093. Mā a'ba'ubihī means I do not care for, mind, heed or regard him or I do not hold him to be of any weight or worth, or I do not esteem him (Lane & Mufradāt).

CHAPTER 26
ASH-SHU‘ARĀ’
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

A large majority of Muslim scholars regard this Sūrah as of Meccan origin. It is entitled Ash-Shu‘arā’ (poets) in order to drive home to Muslims the supreme lesson that success comes to a people only when their profession and practice go together and that empty talk like that of the poets leads nowhere. From this Sūrah a departure has been made in the subject-matter of the preceding sixteen Chapters. From Sūrah Yūnus the Qur’ān had directed its address principally to the Jews and the Christians. With this Chapter the believers take their place; and the form, nature and scope of the address have been changed; therefore a change has also taken place in the Muqaṭṭa‘āt placed at the head of the Sūrah. The preceding Sūrah had ended on the note that it would be a great mistake to suppose that God would allow the time-honoured system that had come into being through the great religions of the world to be destroyed. On the contrary, He had created man to demonstrate in his person His great attributes and in order also that he should respond to the Divine Call. If man does not fulfil the object of his creation, then there is no need or justification for him to exist and no need for God to feel any hesitancy in destroying him. In this Sūrah we are told that in his love and solicitude for humanity, the Holy Prophet felt grieved at this apprehended possibility and desired that man may be saved. The destruction of man also clearly does not seem to be in harmony with the Divine design which is that he should be vouchsafed the opportunity to discover, with his own will and endeavour, the way of nearness to God and then should try to attain it. But if he refuses to do so, he should suffer the consequences of his refusal. The Sūrah further says that if man had not been endowed with the discretion and the ability to make a choice, he would have become a mere machine and an automaton and would not have been the image of his Creator as he is considered to be. So he must act and conduct himself in harmony with Divine scheme without which he cannot attain true and real salvation.

Subject-Matter

At the outset the Sūrah makes the claim that the Qur’ān gives its own proofs and arguments and needs no extraneous help or support to substantiate and establish the truth of its claims and teachings and proceeds to say that when for the fulfilment of human requirements and needs, God has created pairs in all things in the physical world, it stands to reason that in the spiritual realm also He should have created their counterparts. Then quite appropriately the Sūrah gives the account of some Divine Messengers and opens this account with the story of Moses, who in pursuance of Divine command succeeded in taking the Israelites out of Egypt. To illustrate further that truth always triumphs in the long run and opposition to it comes to grief, the Sūrah gives a brief account of Prophets Abraham, Noah, Hūd, Ṣāliḥ, Lot and Shu‘aib. Abraham demonstrated to his people the folly and futility of idol-worship. His account is followed by that of Noah whose people rejected him on the ground that he sought to remove all social distinctions. He was followed by Hūd and Ṣāliḥ. Both these Divine Prophets tried hard to make their people realise that it was not material pomp and power but good morals and spiritual strength upon which really depended their life and prosperity but their peoples threw their preaching and warnings to the wind. The peoples of Lot and Shu‘aib fared no better. The former indulged in an unnatural vice and the latter were dishonest in their commercial dealings. Towards the end the Sūrah reverts to the subject with which it had commenced, viz. that the Qur’ān is the revealed Word of God and that it gives sound and solid arguments to prove this claim, and adds that the Prophets of yore had testified to its truth and that the learned men of Israel also are convinced in their heart of hearts that it is God’s own revealed Word because it fulfils the prophecies which are contained in their Scriptures. The Sūrah invites disbelievers to ponder over the teachings of the Qur’ān and to see that if they could have been the work of satans or could the Holy Prophet himself have produced them. It further says that the teachings of the Qur’ān bear close resemblance to those of the earlier Scriptures, and satanic people evidently could have no access to their Divine Source. Satans descend only upon liars and sinners and upon those who forge lies and coin and copy falsehood. The poets derive inspiration from these votaries of falsehood and are in turn followed by men of low morals and of no fixed principles. They and their followers take delight in tall, meaningless talk, but do not act upon what they profess and preach. The Sūrah closes with enjoining the Holy Prophet to continue to preach the Unity and Oneness of God to his people and educate and train them for the promotion of the cause of Islām. He is further enjoined to trust in the Almighty and Merciful God under Whose protection and fostering care he passes his days, and Who will very soon end the state of dispersion of Muslims and will bring them together in a place where they will live in peace and prosperity and will worship the One True God in perfect safety and security.

[a]1:1. [b]12:2; 15:2; 27:2; 28:3. [c]18:7. [d]21:3, 43.

2094. In the Muqaṭṭa‘āt (abbreviated letters) Ṭā Sīn Mīm, Ṭā stands for Ṭāhir (Lord of Purity), Sīn for Samī‘ (All-Hearing) and Mīm for Majīd (Lord of Dignity), thus indicating that the Sūrah deals with the means to achieve purity of heart, acceptance of prayer and dignity. This and the next two Chapters form a special group known as the Ṭā Sīn Mīm group and all of them bear a very close resemblance to each other in their subject-matter. They were revealed about the same time at Mecca. As these Sūrahs deal particularly with the life-story of Moses in some detail, some Commentators have taken these abbreviated letters as standing for Mount Sinai and Moses— Ṭā Sīn standing for Ṭūri Sīnīn (Mount Sinai) and Mīm for Mūsā (Moses).

2095. The Holy Prophet’s grief will not be in vain. If his people do not cease opposing him, they will be visited with the Sign of punishment which will humiliate and debase their leaders, A‘nāq meaning leaders (Lane).

2096. The word, 'new' means, 'in a new form,' or 'with new details.' In fact, all Divine Laws are similar in their fundamentals and basic teachings. It is only in details that they differ. Or a new Law is revealed in a changed and improved form in order that it may suit the ideas, needs and requirements of the particular time in which it is revealed. Some Prophets come with a new Law, while others only serve the existing Law.

2097. The words, 'verily thy Lord—He is the Mighty, the Merciful,' imply that the circumstances of the Holy Prophet will resemble those of the Prophets mentioned in this Sūrah, but whereas the Mighty God had seized and destroyed the enemies of those Prophets, in the case of the Holy Prophet the Mighty God will not only manifest His might and power in giving victory to the Holy Prophet and in making his cause triumph and prosper, but will also show mercy to his people, inasmuch as only a small fraction of them will be destroyed while a great majority will receive Divine forgiveness and mercy and in the end will accept his Message.

19. Pharaoh said, ‘O Moses, did we not bring thee up among us as a child? And thou didst stay among us many years of thy life;

[a]20:46; 28:35. [b]20:28. [c]26:14. [d]28:34. [e]28:36.

2098. Moses seemed to feel that he was not quite equal to the great task with which he was being entrusted. The responsibilities of Prophethood are indeed very heavy. At the time of the first revelation the Holy Prophet himself felt overwhelmed with anxiety.

2099. The words show that the people of Pharaoh had charged Moses with the murder of an Egyptian. This incident is mentioned in Exod. 2:11-15 and also in the Qur’ān in 28:16-21, where it is stated that it was not intentional or deliberate murder. Moses was defending an Israelite whom an Egyptian was beating and in the scuffle the latter happened to be killed.

2100. The word Rasūl in the verse is in the singular while the subject innā and the verbs used are in dual. In Arabic, it is permissible sometimes to use the singular predicate for a subject in the dual or plural number (Bayān). See also 26:78.

وَفَعَلْتَ فَعْلَتَكَ الَّتِيْ فَعَلْتَ وَاَنْتَ مِنَ الْكٰفِرِيْنَ ﴿۲۰﴾

20. ‘And thou didst do that deed which thou didst, and thou art one of the ungrateful.’[2101]

قَالَ فَعَلْتُهَآ اِذًا وَّاَنَا مِنَ الضَّآلِّيْنَ ﴿۲۱﴾

21. Moses said, ‘I did it then inadvertently, and I was in a perplexed state of mind;[2102]

فَفَرَرْتُ مِنْكُمْ لَمَّا خِفْتُكُمْ فَوَهَبَ لِيْ رَبِّيْ حُكْمًا وَّجَعَلَنِيْ مِنَ الْمُرْسَلِيْنَ ﴿۲۲﴾

22. [a]‘So I fled from you when I feared you; then my Lord granted me right judgment and made me one of the Messengers.[2103]

وَتِلْكَ نِعْمَةٌ تَمُنُّهَا عَلَيَّ اَنْ عَبَّدْتَّ بَنِيْٓ اِسْرَآءِيْلَ ﴿۲۳﴾

23. ‘And this favour of bringing me up as a child with which thou now tauntest me, dost thou put forward against thy having enslaved the Children of Israel?’[2104]

[a]28:22.

2101. The reference in the verse seems to be to an Egyptian having been killed by Moses. Pharaoh regards himself and his people, the Egyptians, as the great benefactors of the Israelites and accuses Moses of gross ingratitude for having killed an Egyptian.

2102. Ḍāll is derived from Ḍalla which means, he did not know what to do; he was in a perplexed state of mind; he was lost in love (Lane). When the Israelite called him for help against the Egyptian, Moses did not know what to do, and being anxious to help the poor, helpless Israelite (28:16-21) gave the Egyptian a blow with his closed fist which caused his death. The death was accidental because ordinarily a blow with the fist does not cause the death of a person. Or the verse may mean that on account of his great love for his oppressed people he came to the help of the Israelite and gave a blow to the Egyptian, which resulted in his death. Or it means that he did it being unaware of the consequences.

2103. The fact that after he had killed the Egyptian and fled. God made him a Prophet—a great Divine favour indeed—is proof positive of the fact that what Moses did was an inadvertent act done on the spur of the moment.

2104. To Pharaoh’s impudent remark, Moses is described as saying to him that he himself should be ashamed of referring to any good that he thinks he had done to his (Moses’s) people as he (Pharaoh) had kept them for

24. Pharaoh said, [a]'And what is the Lord of the worlds?'[2105]

قَالَ فِرْعَوْنُ وَمَا رَبُّ الْعٰلَمِيْنَ ﴿٢٤﴾

25. Moses said, [b]'The Lord of the heavens and the earth[2106] and of all that is between the two, if you would believe.'

قَالَ رَبُّ السَّمٰوٰتِ وَالْاَرْضِ وَمَا بَيْنَهُمَا ؕ اِنْ كُنْتُمْ مُّوْقِنِيْنَ ﴿٢٥﴾

26. Pharaoh said to those around him, 'Do you not hear?'[2107]

قَالَ لِمَنْ حَوْلَهٗۤ اَلَا تَسْتَمِعُوْنَ ﴿٢٦﴾

27. Moses said, 'Your Lord, and the Lord of your fathers of yore.'[2108]

قَالَ رَبُّكُمْ وَرَبُّ اٰبَآئِكُمُ الْاَوَّلِيْنَ ﴿٢٧﴾

28. Pharaoh said, [c]'Most surely, this Messenger of yours who has been sent to you is a madman.'[2109]

قَالَ اِنَّ رَسُوْلَكُمُ الَّذِيْۤ اُرْسِلَ اِلَيْكُمْ لَمَجْنُوْنٌ ﴿٢٨﴾

29. Moses said, [d]'The Lord of the East and of the West,[2110]

generations under the most debasing and degrading form of bondage which had killed in them all sense of dignity, initiative and ambition to rise to their full stature.

2105. Moses's reply to Pharaoh, as mentioned in the preceding verse, seemed to have utterly confounded him and he at once changed the subject, seeking to involve Moses in a metaphysical discussion about the existence and person of the Divine Being and the nature of His attributes.

2106. The words 'Lord of the heavens and the earth' refer to the vastness of God's dominion in respect of space.

2107. The verse depicts Pharaoh as trying to incite his people against Moses by hinting that he was insulting their gods by ascribing the Kingdom of the heavens and earth to Allāh because it were their own gods who held sway over all the universe.

2108. In the 25th verse Moses had referred to the vastness of God's dominion and control in respect of space; in this verse he refers to God's dominion in respect of time.

2109. Pharaoh thought that like a madman Moses would listen to nobody but would go on harping on his own tune, and he said so in so many words.

2110. The verse refers to the vastness of God's Kingdom in respect of directions and sides.

بَيْنَهُمَا ۖ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ تَعْقِلُونَ ﴿٢٩﴾ and of all that is between the two, if only you have sense.’

31. Moses said, ‘What, even though I bring thee something that is manifest!’

وَّقِيْلَ لِلنَّاسِ هَلْ اَنْتُمْ مُّجْتَمِعُوْنَ ﴿٤٠﴾

40. [b]And it was said to the people, ‘Will you also gather together?

لَعَلَّنَا نَتَّبِعُ السَّحَرَةَ اِنْ كَانُوْا هُمُ الْغٰلِبِيْنَ ﴿٤١﴾

41. ‘So that we may follow the sorcerers if they are the winners?’

فَلَمَّا جَآءَ السَّحَرَةُ قَالُوْا لِفِرْعَوْنَ اَئِنَّ لَنَا لَاَجْرًا اِنْ كُنَّا نَحْنُ الْغٰلِبِيْنَ ﴿٤٢﴾

42. And, when the sorcerers came, they said to Pharaoh, ‘Shall we have a reward[2112] if we are the winners?’

قَالَ نَعَمْ وَاِنَّكُمْ اِذًا لَّمِنَ الْمُقَرَّبِيْنَ ﴿٤٣﴾

43. [c]He said, ‘Yes, and surely then you will be among my favourites.’

قَالَ لَهُمْ مُّوْسٰٓى اَلْقُوْا مَآ اَنْتُمْ مُّلْقُوْنَ ﴿٤٤﴾

44. [d]Moses said to them, ‘Now throw you what you have to throw.’

فَاَلْقَوْا حِبَالَهُمْ وَعِصِيَّهُمْ وَقَالُوْا بِعِزَّةِ فِرْعَوْنَ اِنَّا لَنَحْنُ الْغٰلِبُوْنَ ﴿٤٥﴾

45. So they threw down their ropes and their rods and said, ‘By Pharaoh’s honour, it is we who will surely win.’

فَاَلْقٰى مُوْسٰى عَصَاهُ فَاِذَا هِيَ تَلْقَفُ مَا يَاْفِكُوْنَ ﴿٤٦﴾

46. [e]Then Moses threw down his rod, and lo! it swallowed[2113] up all that which they had fabricated.

2112. The sorcerers seemed to be professional traders in sorcery whose standard of morality was very low.

2113. The verse makes it quite clear that the rod of Moses did not swallow the rods and ropes of the sorcerers but swallowed up all that which they had fabricated, i.e. it utterly destroyed their imposture, forgery and deception. Moreover, it was the rod itself and not the serpent which exposed the deception the sorcerers had wrought on the spectators by breaking to pieces

فَأُلْقِيَ السَّحَرَةُ سُجَّدًا ﴿٤٧﴾

47. [a]Thereupon the sorcerers were impelled to fall down prostrate;

50. [c]Pharaoh said, ‘You have believed in him before I gave you leave? He is surely your chief who has taught you sorcery. the things which under the influence of their sorcery the spectators had taken for real serpents.

2113A. ‘An means, on account of (Lane).

2114. The erstwhile professional sorcerers, who, only a few minutes ago, were prepared to resort to any trick and subterfuge for the sake of filthy lucre, had come to acquire a faith that would defy death.

فَلَمَّا تَرَآءَ الْجَمْعٰنِ قَالَ اَصْحٰبُ مُوْسٰٓى اِنَّا لَمُدْرَكُوْنَ ﴿٦٢﴾

62. And when the two hosts came in sight of each other the companions of Moses said, ‘We are surely caught.’[2117]

[a]44:26, 27. [b]44:29. [c]10:91; 20:79; 44:24.

2115. The appearance of a Divine Prophet among a people is a sure guarantee of their great and bright future if only they accept his Message and follow his lead. The Prophet gives them a new life and creates in them a new hope and confidence which change their whole outlook on life. After the advent of Moses, Pharaoh must have felt a great change in the Israelites and this must have cut him to the quick.

2116. The verse does not mean that the springs and gardens and treasures of Pharaoh and the Egyptians were given over to the Israelites. The latter had left Egypt for Canaan, the land of promise which "flowed with milk and honey." It is there that they were given these things. In fact, Palestine resembles Egypt in the abundance of its gardens and springs.

2117. The companions of Moses seemed to possess very weak faith. This is also clear from 5:22, 23; 7:149; 20:87-92.

قَالَ كَلَّا ۚ إِنَّ مَعِيَ رَبِّي سَيَهْدِينِ ﴿٦٣﴾

64. [a]Then We revealed to Moses: 'Strike the sea with thy rod.'[2117A] Thereupon it parted and every part looked like a huge mound.

وَأَزْلَفْنَا ثَمَّ الْآخَرِينَ ﴿٦٥﴾

65. And We made the others approach nearer.

وَأَنجَيْنَا مُوسَىٰ وَمَن مَّعَهُ أَجْمَعِينَ ﴿٦٦﴾

2119. In this verse Abraham attributes all malady and ailment to himself and all remedy and cure to God. In fact, every misfortune that befalls a man is the result of the contravention by him of a particular law of nature, so he himself is responsible for it. See also 4:80.

2120. While Abraham ascribes disease and ailment to himself, he attributes death to God which shows that according to him death was not, and really is not, an evil thing to be dreaded or shunned. In fact, death is the natural and necessary end of all life and like life it is a great Divine boon.

2121. Abraham left behind him such a good name that the followers of the three great Faiths of the world—Judaism, Christianity and Islām, look upon him as their great progenitor and spiritual ancestor whose memory they revere.

2122. Resurrection is called Ba'th because after death man will be endowed with new and better faculties and new avenues for spiritual advancement will be opened to him.

2124. The words, So fear Allāh and obey me, which have been addressed to his people from the mouth of every Prophet in this Sūrah, show that apart from the general commandments embodied in Divine revelation, the believers are enjoined to obey the commands and instructions issued from time to time by their own Prophets.

2125. The Qur’ān has used five different words at different places and in different contexts to suit the particular occasion and to explain fully the meaning thereof; in a general sense they are all alike but as regards their finer shades of meaning they are different. The words are Shu‘ūr, i.e. perceiving a thing by means of any of the senses to know its minute particulars (2:155); ‘Aql, i.e. withholding or restraining a person from adopting an evil course (12:3); Fikr, i.e. reflecting upon and calculating a thing (6:51); Tafaqquh, i.e. applying oneself to the acquisition of knowledge and becoming well-versed in it (9:122); and Tadabbur, i.e. considering, examining or studying a thing repeatedly in order to know it (4:83).

2126. This, the preceding and the following verse show that the Adites were a powerful and cultured people. They had made great progress in science in their time. They built fortresses, palatial buildings and great reservoirs. They had their summer residences, their factories and mechanical works. They were specially advanced in architecture. They invented new weapons and implements of war and erected great monuments. In short, like the present-day nations of the West, they possessed all the complicated paraphernalia of a highly advanced civilisation. They made great strides in knowledge but they consigned to oblivion the one supreme lesson of history, viz. that nations derive their real strength not from material things but from high ideals and good morals. As they became morally corrupt and spiritually depraved and turned a deaf ear to the warnings of their Prophet to mend their ways, they fell a victim to that terrible doom which is the inevitable lot of those who ignore Divine warning. See 1323.

2128. This and the following several verses deal with the tribe of Thamūd. According to Futūḥush-Shām, they were a very powerful people. Their rule and dominion had extended from Buṣra, a town in Syria, to Aden. They had made great progress in agriculture and architecture and were a highly civilised and cultured people. The tribe has been mentioned by Greek historians. They place it in a period not long before the Christian era. Ḥijr or Agra, as they call it, is given as their home. Al-Ḥijr which has also been known as Madā’ini Ṣāliḥ (the Cities of Ṣāliḥ) and which seems to have been the capital of these people lies between Medina and Tabūk, and the valley in which it is situated is called Wādī Qurā. The Qur’ān represents them as the immediate successors of ‘Ād (7:75). It is worthy of note that the accounts of the Prophets Noah, Hūd and Ṣāliḥ have been given at various places in the Qur’ān and everywhere the order observed is the same, viz. the account of Noah precedes that of Hūd and the account of Hūd precedes that of Ṣāliḥ, which is the true chronological order. This shows that the Qur’ān gives accurately and in their historical order the facts of history long consigned to oblivion and quite wrapped in obscurity. See also 1326.

2130. As at several places in the Qur’ān (Chapters 7th & 11th) and in the present Sūrah also the five Prophets—Noah, Hūd, Ṣāliḥ, Lot and Shu‘aib have been mentioned together and in the same order, and identical words have been put in their mouths. In addition to the two fundamental teachings of all religions, viz. Unity of God and obedience to the Prophet of the time, great emphasis has been laid in the case of each Prophet on the vice from which his people particularly suffered. Noah’s people seemed to have been divided into watertight compartments and the socially well-to-do among them suffered from an exaggerated notion of false superiority. The wealthy among them would not mix with the poorer sections of society. The tribe of Hūd took great pride in their military exploits, architectural achievements and in their factories and chemical works. The people of Ṣāliḥ gloried in their power, prestige and wealth. Lot’s people shamelessly indulged in a most unnatural and depraved sexual vice, while those of Shu‘aib were dishonest in their commercial dealings. Each one of these vices has been separately dealt with in the account of the Prophet whose people particularly suffered from it. This is the way of Divine Prophets that, besides stressing the basic principles of religion, they lay special emphasis on the particular vice from which their people are found to suffer.

2131. To the insolent challenge of his people to bring down punishment upon them, (Kisaf meaning, Divine punishment), Shu‘aib replied that his knowledge being imperfect it was not for him to decide if and when the punishment should and would overtake them and that it was God, their Lord and Creator, Who being fully acquainted with the nature of their deeds, knew whether or not they had rendered themselves deserving of the punishment they demanded.

R. 11.

وَاِنَّهٗ لَتَنْزِيْلُ رَبِّ الْعٰلَمِيْنَ ﴿۱۹۳﴾

193. [a]And verily this Qur’ān is a revelation from the Lord of all the worlds.[2132]

نَزَلَ بِهِ الرُّوْحُ الْاَمِيْنُ ﴿۱۹۴﴾

194. [b]The Spirit, faithful to the trust,[2133] has descended with it

عَلٰى قَلْبِكَ لِتَكُوْنَ مِنَ الْمُنْذِرِيْنَ ﴿۱۹۵﴾

195. On thy heart,[2134] that thou mayest be a Warner,

196. [c]In plain and clear Arabic tongue.

وَاِنَّهٗ لَفِيْ زُبُرِ الْاَوَّلِيْنَ ﴿۱۹۷﴾

197. And it is surely mentioned in the Scriptures[2135] of the former peoples.

2132. The verse purports to say that the revelation of the Qur’ān is no new phenomenon. Like the Messages of the Prophets mentioned above the Quranic Message has also been revealed by God, but with this difference that whereas the former Prophets were sent to their respective peoples, the Qur’ān has been revealed for all the nations of the world, because it is a revelation from the Lord of all the worlds.

2133. In this verse the angel who brought the Quranic revelation has been called Rūḥul-Amīn, i.e. the Spirit faithful to the trust. Elsewhere, he is called Rūḥul-Qudus (16:103), i.e. the Spirit of holiness. The latter epithet has been used to point to the eternal and complete freedom from every error or blemish in the Qur’ān and the use of the former epithet (Rūḥul-Amīn) implies that it shall continue to enjoy Divine protection against all attempts to tamper with its text. This epithet has been used exclusively with regard to the revelation of the Qur’ān because the promise of everlasting Divine protection was held out to no other Divine Scripture; and their texts, in course of time, came to be interfered and tampered with. Strangely enough, the Holy Prophet himself was known as Al-Amīn (the Trusty) at Mecca. What a great Divine tribute to, and evidence of the trustworthiness of the Qur’ān that its revelation was brought by an Amīn to an Amīn!

2134. The words 'on thy heart' have been added to indicate that the Quranic revelations were not merely inspired ideas which the Holy Prophet expressed in his own words but were the actual words of God Himself which descended upon the Prophet’s heart through the medium of Gabriel.

2135. The advent of the Holy Prophet and the revelation of the Qur’ān both have been foretold in the previous Divine Scriptures. Prophecies to this effect

اَوَلَمْ يَكُنْ لَّهُمْ اٰيَةً اَنْ يَّعْلَمَهٗ عُلَمٰٓؤُا

206. [b]What thinkest thou that if We let them enjoy the good things of this world for years; are to be found in the religious Scriptures of almost every Faith but the Bible, being the best known and most widely read of all revealed Books before the Qur'ān and also being its forerunner and in its pristine purity being its counterpart as a Book of Divine laws, contains the largest number of such prophecies. See Deut. 18:18 & 33:2; Isaiah 21:13-17; Song of Solomon 1:5, 6; Habakkuk 3:3-5; Matt. 21:42-45 & John 16:12-14.

2136. This bad habit of disbelievers has its roots in their own hearts and is born of their indulgence in sin and vice and does not come from outside. The verse, in fact, states a general truth that when a man indulges in sin, his consciousness of it becomes blunted and in the course of time he even comes to develop a liking for it. It is in this way that sin corrodes and vitiates 'the hearts of the sinful.'

2137. The verse refers to a Divine law that punishment does not overtake a people unless a Prophet is first sent to them and by rejecting and opposing him they render themselves deserving of it. See also 17:16; 28:60; 35:38.

2138. The verse contains three arguments in support of the claim that satans could have no hand in the production of the Qur'ān: (a) Its teaching constitutes a most effective and uncompromising condemnation of all that satans stand for. (b) It is of such exalted character and contains such sublime truths that it is beyond the power of satans to produce the like of them (17:89). (c) The Qur'ān contains mighty prophecies about the ultimate triumph of Islām. The satans could not make them as they have no knowledge of the future.

2139. The Qur'ān could not have been the Devil's work. A satanic production could not have laid so much stress on Divine Unity as has been laid in the Qur’ān.

2140. It is on record that when this verse was revealed the Holy Prophet stood on Mount Ṣafā and called every Quraish tribe by name and warned them of the Divine punishment that would overtake them if they did not accept his Message and give up their evil ways (Bukhārī).

2140A. I am quit of you; I dissociate myself completely from what you do: I disclaim all responsibility for your actions.

2141. This verse pays a glowing tribute to the righteousness and nobility of the Holy Prophets Companions. The word Sājidīn refers to them. Blessed was the Holy Prophet who was surrounded by such godly men. Human history has failed to produce another example of such a noble Master, loved and followed by such devoted and righteous disciples.

228. Save those who believe and do righteous deeds, and remember Allāh much, and defend themselves after they are wronged. And the wrongdoers shall soon know to what place of return they shall return.

2142. In these verses the imputation that the Holy Prophet is a poet (21:6) is rebutted. Three reasons given for this rebuttal are: (1) Those who follow and associate with the poets are not men of high moral character, but the Holy Prophet’s followers were possessed of very noble ideals and of very high moral character. (2) The poets have no fixed ideal or programme in life. They, as it were, wander about aimlessly in every valley. But the Holy Prophet had a very great and sublime mission in life. (3) The poets do not practise what they preach, but the Holy Prophet was not only the noblest preceptor but the greatest man of action and a model exemplar.

CHAPTER 27

AN-NAML

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

Towards the close of the preceding Sūrah the disbelievers' charge that the Holy Prophet was a poet and that satans descended upon him was most effectively refuted and it was stated that satans descended only upon sinful liars and forgers who mixed falsehood with truth, and that hotchpotch of much falsehood mixed with a little truth could never produce any good results. The Sūrah further said that the poets had no great aim or fixed programme in life, and wandered, as it were, distractedly in every valley and did not practise what they preached. To continue and elaborate the subject the present Sūrah opens with a firm declaration that the Qur'ān is God's own revealed Word. It explains fully and completely all matters that concern man's spiritual life and supports its principles and ideals with sound and cogent arguments. According to Ibn-e-'Abbās and Ibn-e-Zubair the Sūrah, was revealed at Mecca. Other Muslim scholars also support this view.

Subject-Matter

Whereas the preceding Sūrah opened with the abbreviated letters Ṭā Sīn Mīm, this Sūrah begins with the letters Ṭā Sīn, the letter Mīm having been omitted. This shows that the subject-matter of this Sūrah constitutes a continuation of the subject-matter of the preceding Sūrah though in a little different form. It begins with a brief reference to a vision in which Moses saw a manifestation of Divine Majesty and proceeds to give a somewhat detailed account of David and Solomon in whose reigns the Israelite conquests, power and material glory had attained their zenith. After this, the Sūrah deals at some length with the two most fundamental and basic religious beliefs—the existence of God and life after death. To support and substantiate the first belief the Sūrah adduces arguments from nature, man's inner self and from his collective life. After alluding to the fact that God's great powers are manifested in the marvellous working of the laws of nature, the Sūrah advances the acceptance of prayer by God as an invincible argument in support of His existence. Another unanswerable argument given by the Sūrah is that God reveals Himself to His Messengers and righteous servants and vouchsafes to them the knowledge of the unknown, instances of which are to be witnessed in every age. Next, the Sūrah deals with Life after death. After briefly pointing to other arguments it advances as one unassailable proof in support of Life after death the great moral and spiritual revolution which the Holy Prophet brought about among his people, and then proceeds to expatiate upon it. The argument begins and develops in this way. The Arabs had completely despaired of their future. They heedlessly wallowed in the quagmire of immoral ways and practices and rejected the Holy Prophet's Message and refused to believe that they will have to render an account of their deeds in an afterlife. Morally and spiritually they were virtually a dead people. But they received a new life through the Qur'ān. The water of Divine revelation descended upon the bleak and barren soil of Arabia and it bloomed and blossomed and pulsated with a new vigorous life, and by acting upon its teachings the Arabs, erstwhile the scum and dregs of humanity, became its leaders and teachers. This marvellous revolution constituted a proof positive of the fact that God, Who could raise a spiritually dead people to a new life, had the power to raise also the physically dead to life again. The Sūrah closes on the note that God has chosen Mecca to be the Centre for His last Message and that from this town shall emanate a Divine Light which will illumine the whole world.

2143. For a general discussion of the abbreviated letters see [16] and [1738] and about Ṭā Sīn, see [2094]. It is significant that whereas the 26th and 28th Chapters which have the abbreviated letters Ṭā Sīn Mīm in their beginning, open with the verse, These are verses of the Book that makes things clear, the present Sūrah which is prefixed with the letters Ṭā Sīn begins with the verse, These are verses of the Qur'ān, and of an illuminating Book. This shows that while in the former two Chapters the Qur'ān is alluded to only with reference to Moses's Book, in the present Sūrah it has been mentioned by name, in its own right as in the verse under comment as well as in vv. 7 and 93.

2144. The use of 'Al-Qur'ān' and 'the Book' as qualifying words implies a mighty prophecy that the Holy Book of Islām will continue to be preserved in the form of a book till the end of time and that it will be widely studied and read, the word Qur'ān meaning a book that is read. 'Since the use of the Koran in public worship, in schools and otherwise, is much more extensive than, for example, the reading of the Bible in most Christian countries, it has been truly described as the most widely read book in existence' (Enc. Bri. 9th edit. vol. 16, p. 597).

2145. From vv. 6:44 and 8:49 it is clear that it is Satan who makes evil and mischievous deeds of evil-doers look beautiful in their eyes. But in the verse under comment it is stated that God makes the deeds of disbelievers appear beautiful to them. It is a natural law that when a person pursues an evil course, thinking that he is not accountable for what he does, he begins to justify his conduct as good and proper, and thus it begins to appear to him in that light. This, in fact, is the consequence of his own conduct but inasmuch as it comes about in accordance with a Divine Law, it is here attributed to God.

2146. The verse constitutes a clear denial of the charge that the Holy Prophet had his own ideas written down and collected in the form of a book and called it 'The Qur'ān,' and is an unequivocal declaration that he received the Qur'ān directly from the Wise and All-Knowing God.

2147. It was not actual fire that Moses had seen. Had it been so he would have used the expression 'I have perceived the fire,' instead of 'I have perceived a fire.' In fact, it was a vision that Moses had seen, 'fire' symbolising the love of God. It is worthy of note that most of the major incidents, connected with Moses that have been mentioned in the Qur'ān, were not incidents which actually took place in the physical world but only visions symbolizing great landmarks in the course of his spiritual development and prophetic mission. Besides the vision about the rod there are mentioned other important instances of such visions in the Qur'ān (7:144), the verse under comment affording one such instance.

2148. The expression may mean, (a) who is in search of the fire, and who is near it; (b) who is actually in the fire and who is about to enter it, 'fire' symbolising the fire of God's love or the fire of trials and tribulations. The fire was not God, nor was God in the fire. It was only a Divine manifestation which cast its glow upon all that was near.

2149. For 'nine Signs' see 17:102. Briefly, they were the Signs (1) of the rod and (2) of the white hand (7:108, 109); (3) of lice; (4) of frogs which implied unusual, incessant rains; and (5) of locusts; (6) of blood, i.e. a plague which caused bleeding from the nose; (7) and of storm which caused the sea-water to overwhelm Pharaoh and his hosts when they were crossing the sea after the Israelites had crossed it safely (7:134); (8) of drought and (9) of destruction of fruits (7:131).

2150. Mubṣirah means, clear, manifest; illumining; sight-giving; causing to have mental perception or knowledge (Lane).

2151. David was a great warrior and a mighty and sagacious statesman. He was the founder of the Judean dynasty and the real builder of the Hebrew Kingdom. Through him all the tribes of Israel from Dan to Beersheba became united and organised into a powerful nation whose Kingdom extended from the Euphrates to the Nile. Solomon consolidated the Kingdom he had inherited from his father. He too was a great and good monarch. He greatly extended and developed the trade and commerce of his country. He was the master-builder among the Israelite Kings and is best known for the building of the famous Temple at Jerusalem, which became the Qiblah of the Israelites.

2152. Manṭiq (Language) is derived from Naṭaqa which means, he spoke we have had all necessary things bestowed upon us. This indeed is God's manifest grace.'

شَيْءٍ ۖ إِنَّ هَٰذَا لَهُوَ الْفَضْلُ الْمُبِينُ ﴿١٧﴾

18. [a]And there were gathered together unto Solomon his hosts of jinn[2153] and men and

وَحُشِرَ لِسُلَيْمَانَ جُنُودُهُ مِنَ الْجِنِّ

with sound and letters which made clear his meaning. Thus Nuṭq applies to both articulate and inarticulate speech and also to the condition of a thing which is as significant as articulate speech. It is external, viz. spoken words; and internal, viz. understanding. The word is also used with regard to animals and birds when the use is metaphorical (Mufradāt). Birds and insects have their own means of communication. Migratory birds fly from one region to another with the change in weather. They fly in flocks and their flight is orderly. Similarly, ants live in communities and the bees have a well-regulated system of government. This could not be possible without there being some means of communication between them. This means of communication may be called their language. Prophets David and Solomon are here stated to have been taught the language of birds which may be taken as signifying that they had learnt how to make use of birds. The art of using birds for carrying messages from one place to another was very much developed by Solomon and frequent use of it was made in the management of the far-flung empire over which he ruled.

2153. 'Jinn' here may signify mountain or wild tribes. The verse under comment should be read along with vv. 21:83; 34:13 and 38:38. It seems to refer to the military personnel of Solomon's army. The three words—Jinn, Ins (men) and Ṭair (birds)—may represent three departments of his army. In the present verse and in 34:13, the word Jinn has been used to represent a particular section of the army while in 21:83 and 38:38, the word Shayāṭīn has been used to represent the same class. It seems that Solomon had subdued and subjugated some wild tribes, this approximately being the sense of both the words, Jinn and Shayāṭīn, who formed an integral part of his army and did sundry, other hard tasks for him. The word Ṭair denoting swift-footed horses may represent Solomon's cavalry. This meaning of the word finds corroboration in 38:32-34 where Solomon has been stated to possess great love for horses. Thus whereas Jinn and Ins (men) represented two sections of Solomon's infantry, Ṭair (birds) stood for his cavalry. But if Ṭair may be taken to mean actual birds then the word would signify birds which Solomon employed for carrying messages. Thus they also formed a very useful and necessary adjunct to his army. But these three words used in a metaphorical sense may signify respectively, 'big men,' 'ordinary men' and 'highly spiritual men.'

وَالْاِنْسِ وَالطَّيْرِ فَهُمْ يُوْزَعُوْنَ ﴿١٨﴾

birds,[2154] and they were formed into separate[2155] divisions,

19. Until when they came to the Valley of An-Naml,[2156] a

2155. Waza'a means, he stopped the first part of the army so that their last part may join them. Huwa Yaḍa'ul-Jaisha means, he was arranging the soldiers in proper order and placing them in rows (Aqrab). The Quranic expression means: (1) They were formed into separate groups. (2) They marched like an ordered and disciplined army. (3) Their first part was stopped so that their last part might join them. These words show that Solomon had a well-trained and disciplined army which had several separate and distinct departments.

2156. Naml being a proper noun, "the Valley of An-Naml" does not mean the valley of ants as is generally misunderstood but the valley where a tribe named Naml lived. In Qāmūs we have, al-Abriqatu min Miyāhili Namlati, i.e. Abriqah is one of the springs of Namlah. So Naml was the name of a tribe just as Māzin (Ḥamāsah), which means the eggs of ants, was the name of an Arab. In Arabia it was not an uncommon practice that tribes were named after animals and beasts such as Banū Asad, Banū Kalb, Banū Naml, etc. Moreover, the use of the words Udkhulū (enter) and Masākinakum (your habitations) in the verse lends powerful support to the view that Naml was a tribe, since the former verb is used only for rational beings and the latter expression (your habitations) also has been used in the Qur'ān exclusively for human habitations (29:39; 32:27). Thus Namlah means a person of the tribe of An-Naml—a Namlite. The said Namlite was possibly their leader and had ordered the people to get out of the way of the army of Solomon and enter their houses. According to some authorities this valley is situated between Jibrīn and 'Asqalān which is a town on the sea-coast, twelve miles to the north of Gaz, near Sinai (Taqwīmul-Buldān). Jibrīn is a town in the north, situated in the Vilāyah of Damascus. This shows that the Valley of Naml is situated near the sea-coast, opposite to or near Jerusalem, lying on the route from Damascus to Ḥijāz, at a distance of about a hundred miles from it. This part of the country was, up to the time of Solomon, inhabited by the Arabs and the Midianites. (See ancient and modern maps of Syria and Palestine). According to other authorities, however, it is situated in Yemen. This latter view seems to be more akin to reality. In view of this historical fact, legends woven round this

نَمْلَةٌ يّٰٓاَيُّهَا النَّمْلُ ادْخُلُوْا مَسٰكِنَكُمْ ۚ لَا يَحْطِمَنَّكُمْ سُلَيْمٰنُ وَجُنُوْدُهٗ ۙ وَهُمْ لَا يَشْعُرُوْنَ ﴿۱۹﴾

Namlite said, 'O ye Naml, enter your habitations, lest Solomon and his hosts crush you, while they know not.'[2157]

فَتَبَسَّمَ ضَاحِكًا مِّنْ قَوْلِهَا وَقَالَ رَبِّ اَوْزِعْنِيْٓ اَنْ اَشْكُرَ نِعْمَتَكَ الَّتِيْٓ اَنْعَمْتَ عَلَيَّ وَعَلٰى وَالِدَيَّ وَاَنْ اَعْمَلَ صَالِحًا تَرْضٰىهُ وَاَدْخِلْنِيْ بِرَحْمَتِكَ فِيْ عِبَادِكَ الصّٰلِحِيْنَ ﴿۲۰﴾

20. Thereupon he smiled, wondering[2158] at her words and said, 'My Lord, grant me that I may be grateful to Thee for Thy favour which Thou hast bestowed upon me and upon my parents, and that I may do such good works as would please Thee, and admit me, by Thy mercy, among Thy righteous servants.'

وَتَفَقَّدَ الطَّيْرَ فَقَالَ مَا لِيَ لَآ اَرَى الْهُدْهُدَ ۖ اَمْ كَانَ مِنَ الْغَآئِبِيْنَ ﴿۲۱﴾

21. And he reviewed[2159] the birds and said, 'How is it that I do not see Hud-hud? Is he deliberately absent?'

valley are mere conjectures. The simple fact seems to be that while on a military expedition to Sabā', Solomon might have passed by the valley where the tribe called Naml lived.

2157. It appears that the piety and godliness of Solomon's soldiers was famed far and wide. They would not knowingly harm or injure any people. This seems to be the implication of the words, while they knew not, and this is what pleased Solomon as is clear from the next verse.

2159. Tafaqqada (he reviewed) is derived from Faqada, i.e. he lost it, it was or became absent from him. Tafaqqada-hū means, he sought for or after it leisurely or repeatedly, it being absent from him, or he sought to obtain knowledge of it (Mufradāt). Solomon seemed to have reviewed his army and Hud-hud, an important officer of the State, possibly a general, was absent at the important occasion.

لَاُعَذِّبَنَّهٗ عَذَابًا شَدِيْدًا اَوْ لَاَاْذْبَحَنَّهٗٓ اَوْ لَيَاْتِيَنِّيْ بِسُلْطٰنٍ مُّبِيْنٍ ﴿٢٢﴾

22. 'I will surely punish[2160] him with a severe punishment or I will slay him, unless he brings me a clear reason for his absence.'

فَمَكَثَ غَيْرَ بَعِيْدٍ فَقَالَ اَحَطْتُّ بِمَا لَمْ تُحِطْ بِهٖ وَجِئْتُكَ مِنْ سَبَاٍ بِنَبَاٍ يَّقِيْنٍ ﴿٢٣﴾

23. And he did not tarry long before Hud-hud came and said, 'I have acquired knowledge of that of which thou hast no knowledge; and I have come to thee from Sabā' with sure tidings;'[2161]

2160. Contrary to popular belief, based on fable and fiction, Hud-hud was not a bird employed by Solomon as his message-bearer since (a) it was inconsistent with Solomon's dignity as a great monarch and a Divine Prophet to be so angry with a small bird as to be prepared to inflict severe punishment upon it or even to kill it. (b) Hud-hud seems to be well-acquainted with the rules and requirements of States and also well-versed in the knowledge about Divine Unity (vv. 25, 26) which birds are not. (c) Hud-hud, being not a migratory bird, cannot fly long distances and therefore could not have been selected for the journey to Sheba and back (v. 23). It follows from these facts that Hud-hud was not a bird but a man, even a very responsible officer of State or a general who had been entrusted with an important political mission by Solomon to the Queen of Sheba. The practice of exchange of envoys seems to have been quite popular in Solomon's time. Moreover, it is a known fact that men are named after birds and animals. Hud-hud was a popular name among Solomon's people. The word seems to be the Arabicised form of Hudad, a biblical name. It appears to have been the name of several Edomite kings. A son of Ishmael, too, bore this name. Similarly, an Edomite prince who fled to Egypt for fear of Jacob's massacre was known by this name (1 Kings 11:14). The name appeared to be so popular and is so frequently used in the Old Testament that when used without a qualifying word it means, 'a man of the Edomite family' (Jew. Enc.). Hud-hud is also said to be the name of the father of Bilqīs, the Queen of Sheba (Muntahal-Arab).

2161. It appears from this verse that Hud-hud was sent on an important State mission and he brought for Solomon an important piece of news. Sabā' may be identified with Sheba of the Bible (1 Kings, ch. 10). It was a city in Yemen, situated at about three days' journey from the city of Ṣan'ā' and was the seat of Government of the Queen of Sheba. Moreover, Sabā' is a well-

2162. The verse shows that the Queen of Sheba ruled over a very prosperous people who had attained a very high degree of civilisation and that she possessed all those things which had made her a powerful monarch.

2163. The Sabaeans worshipped the sun and the stars, a creed which in all likelihood had been imported into Yemen from Iraq with which the people of Yemen were in close contact by way of the sea and the Persian Gulf. The Sabaeans should not be confounded with Sabians who have been mentioned in 2:63; 5:70 and 22:18, and have been variously described as (1) a star-worshipping people living in Iraq; (2) a people believing in a Faith which was a sort of a patchwork of Judaism, Christianity and Zoroastrianism; (3) a people who lived near Mosul in Iraq and believed in the Unity of God, but possessed no known Sharī'ah, and (4) a people who lived round about Iraq

2165. Even if it be conceded that David and Solomon could understand the language of birds, there is nothing in the Qur'ān to show that the Queen of Sheba also could understand their language and yet Hud-hud was entrusted with the mission to take Solomon's letter to her and to have a talk with her on Solomon's behalf and as his representative.

2166. Some Christian orientalists, as is their practise, have vainly sought to impugn the Divine origin of the Qur'ān by trying to show that the expression Bismillāh has been borrowed from earlier Scriptures. Wherry in his "Commentary" says that it has been borrowed from Zend-Avesta. Sale has expressed an identical view, while Rodwell is of the opinion that pre-Islamic Arabs borrowed it from Jews and subsequently it was incorporated in the Qur'ān by the Holy Prophet. To say that because this expression is found in some former Scriptures, therefore it must have necessarily been borrowed from one of them by the Qur'ān is evidently a flimsy inference. If anything, it only proves that the Qur'ān has originated from the same Source from which those Scriptures had originated. Moreover, no other Scripture has used this expression in the form and manner in which the Qur'ān has done. Also, the pre-Islamic Arabs had never used it before it was revealed in the Qur'ān. On the contrary, they had a special aversion for the use of the Divine attribute Ar-Raḥmān (25:61), which forms an integral part of Bismillāh. See also 1:1.

2167. Solomon's letter constitutes a beautiful specimen of how great and comprehensive meaning can be condensed in a few brief words, devoid of all useless bombast and verbosity. The letter was at once a warning against the futility of revolt which seemed to be then raising its head in some parts of the country and an invitation to the Queen to submit to Solomon to avoid unnecessary bloodshed and also to give up idolatry and accept the true Faith.

37. So when the Queen's envoy came to Solomon, he said, 'Do you presume to help me with your wealth? But that which Allāh has given me is better than that which He has given you. Nay, you take pride in your gift;'[2169]

اِرْجِعْ اِلَیْهِمْ فَلَنَاْتِیَنَّهُمْ بِجُنُوْدٍ لَّا قِبَلَ لَهُمْ بِهَا وَلَنُخْرِجَنَّهُمْ مِّنْهَاۤ اَذِلَّةً وَّهُمْ صٰغِرُوْنَ ﴿۳۸﴾

39. He said, 'O nobles, which of you will bring me her throne[2171] before they come to me submitting?'

2169. Solomon seems evidently to have become greatly offended with the Queen's behaviour in sending him presents. He took it as an insult. He had demanded her surrender and instead was presented with paltry presents. The Sabaeans first had either attacked Solomon's territory or had sought to create unrest in it. This is why the sending of presents by the Queen offended and annoyed him. In ordinary circumstances he would have been pleased with the presents.

2170. Qibal means, power, strength, authority. They say mālī bihī Qibalun, i.e. I have no power against him (Aqrab).

2171. The expression, bi-'Arshihā, seems to signify the throne which Solomon had ordered to be built for the Queen. It seemed to be a practice in vogue at that time that when the ruler of a State paid a visit to another ruler, a

قَالَ عِفْرِيْتٌ مِّنَ الْجِنِّ اَنَا اٰتِيْكَ بِهٖ قَبْلَ اَنْ تَقُوْمَ مِنْ مَّقَامِكَ ۚ وَ اِنِّيْ عَلَيْهِ لَقَوِيٌّ اَمِيْنٌ ۝

41. Said one who had knowledge of the book, 'I will bring it to thee before thy noble envoy[2174] returns to throne was built for the reception of the royal guest. Solomon also ordered a throne to be built for the reception of the Queen. It is called 'her throne' because it was specially built for her use. The expression may also mean, 'the like of her throne,' and Ya'tīnī, may mean, 'will prepare for me.'

2172. 'Ifrīt, derived from 'Afara which means, he threw him on the ground or humbled him, is a word used both for men and jinn and means, (1) one strong and powerful; (2) sharp, vigorous and effective in an affair, exceeding ordinary bounds therein with intelligence and sagacity; (3) a chief, etc. (Lane).

2173. These words indicate that the said 'Ifrīt was a very high official who wielded great authority and was, therefore, quite confident of carrying out the orders of his master to his entire satisfaction within the time allotted to him. Maqāmika signifies the place where Solomon had encamped on his way to Sabā' and was waiting for his envoy to come back with the reply to his letter to the Queen of Sheba.

In this and the previous verse two offers to make the throne for Solomon have been mentioned, one by the 'Ifrīt who offered to prepare the throne before Solomon should strike camp and start back, and the other by 'the man who had knowledge.' The latter made a still better offer of finishing the throne before Solomon's envoy came back with the reply to his letter from the Queen.

thee.' And when he saw it set before him, he said, 'This is of the grace of my Lord, that He may try me whether I am grateful or ungrateful. And whosoever is grateful is grateful for the good of his own soul; but whosoever is ungrateful, truly my Lord is Self-Sufficient, Gracious.'

قَالَ نَكِّرُوْا لَهَا عَرْشَهَا نَنْظُرْ اَتَهْتَدِيْٓ
اَمْ تَكُوْنُ مِنَ الَّذِيْنَ لَا يَهْتَدُوْنَ ۝٤٢

42. He said, 'Make the throne so beautiful as to make her own throne appear quite ordinary[2175] to her, and let us see whether she follows the right way or whether she is one of those who follow not the right way.'

The context shows that Solomon accepted the second offer because he wanted to have the throne finished before the Queen came to pay her respects to him as he was to stay at that place till she should come and the whole ceremony was over. The verse also implies that all sorts of men were employed by Solomon—men of knowledge and experience, skilled and unskilled labourers, craftsmen and technicians.

2175. Nakkara-hū means, he changed or altered it so as not to be recognized; he made it look quite ordinary (Lane). The expression in the text may, therefore, mean, 'make this throne better than her throne so that her throne should appear quite ordinary.' The verse purports to say that Solomon had ordered the official who was entrusted with the task of preparing the throne for the Queen to make it so beautiful that she might realize the superiority of its workmanship and come to dislike her own throne and thus should understand that Solomon's power and resources were much greater and superior to those of her. This seems to be the significance of the sentence, 'whether she follows the right way.' Solomon sought to bring home to the Queen the futility of any opposition or resistance to him. She and her ministers and courtiers seemed to be proud of their power and resources (27:34) and Solomon wanted to disabuse their minds of this misconception (27:37). If the words 'her throne' be taken to mean the throne which, it is said,

فَلَمَّا جَآءَتْ قِيْلَ اَهٰكَذَا عَرْشُكِ ؕ قَالَتْ كَاَنَّهٗ هُوَ ۚ وَاُوْتِيْنَا الْعِلْمَ مِنْ قَبْلِهَا وَكُنَّا مُسْلِمِيْنَ ﴿۴۳﴾

43. And when she came, it was said to her, 'Is thy throne like this?' She replied, 'It is as though it were the same. And we had been given knowledge before this, and we have already submitted.'[2176]

وَصَدَّهَا مَا كَانَتْ تَّعْبُدُ مِنْ دُوْنِ اللّٰهِ ؕ اِنَّهَا كَانَتْ مِنْ قَوْمٍ كٰفِرِيْنَ ﴿۴۴﴾

45. It was said to her, 'Enter the palace.' And when she saw it, she thought it to be a great expanse of water, and she bared her shanks.[2177]

the Queen may have sent as a present to Solomon, the word Nakkirū would mean that the throne should be so embellished and made beautiful and the figures of idols on it, if any, so completely wiped off that she might not recognize it.

2176. The words, we had been given knowledge before this, signify that the Queen had already become conversant with the great power and resources of Solomon and had made up her mind to give her allegiance to him.

2177. Kashafa 'an Sāqihī is a well-known Arabic idiom meaning, to become prepared to meet the difficulty or to become perturbed or perplexed. Kashafat 'an Sāqaihā means: (1) she uncovered her shanks; (2) she got ready to meet the situation; (3) she became perturbed or perplexed or was taken aback (Lane & Lisān). Solomon wanted the Queen to give up idol-worship and accept the true Faith. For this purpose he wisely adopted such means as should have led the noble and sagacious lady to see the error of her ways. The throne which Solomon had caused to be prepared for her was prepared with this end in view. It was made much more beautiful and in every respect superior to her own throne of which she was very proud. Solomon did so in order that she might realize that he was God's favourite and had been endowed with material and spiritual gifts in far greater abundance than those given to her. The palace referred to in the verse was also constructed with the same object in view. As the verse shows, the entrance to the palace was paved with slabs of glass, below which ran a stream of crystal clear water. When the Queen entered the palace she mistook the transparent glass for water and bared her shanks, and the sight of the water perplexed her and she did not know what to do. By this device Solomon directed her attention to the fact that just as she had mistaken the slabs of glass for water, similarly the sun and other celestial bodies which she worshipped were not the real source of light. They only emitted light but were lifeless things. It was Almighty God Who had bestowed upon them the light which they emitted. In this way Solomon succeeded in the object he had in view. The noble lady made a confession of her error and from a worshipper of idols of wood and stone she became a devoted votary of the One True God.

Solomon said, 'It is a palace paved smooth with slabs of glass.' She said, 'My Lord, indeed I have wronged my soul; and I submit myself with Solomon to Allāh, the Lord of the worlds.'

2178. By implication the reference in the verse is to the nine prominent enemies of the Holy Prophet. Eight of them were killed in the Battle of Badr and the ninth, the notorious Abū Lahab, died at Mecca on hearing the news of the defeat at Badr. These eight were: Abū Jahl, Muṭ'im bin 'Adiyy, Shaibah bin Rabī'ah, 'Utbah bin Rabī'ah, Walīd bin 'Utbah, Umayyah bin Khalf, Naḍar bin Ḥārith and 'Aqbah bin Abī Mu'aiṭ. They conspired to murder the Holy Prophet. The actual plan was to select one man from every tribe of the Quraish and then make a concerted murderous attack upon him so that no particular tribe might be held responsible for his murder. The plan came from Abū Jahl, the leader of this wicked junta.

2178A. Waliyy means, an heir; one who demands retribution for murder; an avenger of blood (Lane).

2181. With this verse is closed the discourse about Moses, David, Solomon, Ṣāliḥ and Lot with an invocation of Divine peace and blessings on God's Messengers and His Elect to whom humanity is indebted for all that is good and virtuous in the world and then the Sūrah proceeds to give arguments in support of the existence of God and of His great power and Unity.

2182. The first argument in favour of the subject introduced in the preceding verse is taken from nature—from the creation of heavens and earth, from the coming down of rain and the life it gives to the dead earth, and from mountains and rivers.

2183. The argument, begun in the preceding verse, is here further developed and expanded.

اَمَّنْ يُّجِيْبُ الْمُضْطَرَّ اِذَا دَعَاهُ
وَيَكْشِفُ السُّوْٓءَ وَيَجْعَلُكُمْ خُلَفَآءَ
الْاَرْضِ ؕ ءَاِلٰهٌ مَّعَ اللّٰهِ ؕ قَلِيْلًا مَّا تَذَكَّرُوْنَ ﴿٦٣﴾

63. Or, [a]Who answers the cry of the distressed person when he calls upon Him,[2184] and removes the evil, [b]and makes you successors in the earth? Is there a god with Allāh? Little is it that you reflect.

اَمَّنْ يَّهْدِيْكُمْ فِيْ ظُلُمٰتِ الْبَرِّ وَالْبَحْرِ
وَمَنْ يُّرْسِلُ الرِّيٰحَ بُشْرًۢا بَيْنَ يَدَيْ
رَحْمَتِهٖ ؕ ءَاِلٰهٌ مَّعَ اللّٰهِ ؕ تَعٰلَى اللّٰهُ عَمَّا
يُشْرِكُوْنَ ﴿٦٤﴾

64. Or, Who guides you in the depths of darkness on land and sea, and Who sends the winds[2185] as glad tidings before His mercy? Is there a god with Allāh? Exalted is Allāh above what they associate with Him.

اَمَّنْ يَّبْدَؤُا الْخَلْقَ ثُمَّ يُعِيْدُهٗ
وَمَنْ يَّرْزُقُكُمْ مِّنَ السَّمَآءِ وَالْاَرْضِ ؕ
ءَاِلٰهٌ مَّعَ اللّٰهِ ؕ قُلْ هَاتُوْا بُرْهَانَكُمْ
اِنْ كُنْتُمْ صٰدِقِيْنَ ﴿٦٥﴾

65. Or, Who [c]originates creation, and then repeats[2186] it and [d]Who provides for you from the heaven and the earth? Is there a god with Allāh? Say, Bring forward your proof if you are truthful.'

قُلْ لَّا يَعْلَمُ مَنْ فِي السَّمٰوٰتِ وَالْاَرْضِ
الْغَيْبَ اِلَّا اللّٰهُ ؕ وَمَا يَشْعُرُوْنَ اَيَّانَ
يُبْعَثُوْنَ ﴿٦٦﴾

66. Say, [e]'None in the heavens and the earth knows the unseen save Allāh; and they do not know when they will be raised up.'

[a]2:187; 7:56. [b]10:15. [c]10:35; 29:20; 30:12, 28. [d]10:32; 34:25; 35:4. [e]11:124; 16:78; 35:39.

2184. As God's great powers are manifested in the marvellous working of the laws of nature (preceding verse), so are they manifested in man's inner conscience when he cries to God in the agony of his soul and God listens to his cry.

2185. When Rīḥ (wind) is used in the singular number, it generally signifies Divine punishment (17:70; 54:20; 69:7, etc.), but when it is used in the plural number it generally signifies Divine blessings.

2186. The words, originates creation and then repeats it, signify creation and procreation.

بَلِ ادّٰرَكَ عِلْمُهُمْ فِي الْاٰخِرَةِ ۚ بَلْ هُمْ
فِيْ شَكٍّ مِّنْهَا ۚ بَلْ هُمْ مِّنْهَا عَمُوْنَ ﴿٦٧﴾ ع ٨

68. [a]And those who disbelieve say, "What! when we and our fathers have become dust, shall we indeed be brought forth again?

لَقَدْ وُعِدْنَا هٰذَا نَحْنُ وَاٰبَآؤُنَا مِنْ قَبْلُ ۙ

70. Say, [c]'Travel in the earth and see how evil was the end of the sinful.'

71. [d]And grieve thou not for them, nor be thou in distress because of what they devise.

72. [e]And they say, 'When will this promise be fulfilled, if you are truthful?'

2187. No amount of human knowledge and intelligence alone can satisfy the cravings of the human soul, nor can it prove beyond doubt the existence of God and of Life after death, the two basic religious beliefs, because their full comprehension is beyond human ken. It is Divine knowledge acquired through Divine revelation that can and does actually engender certainty in human mind about them. Man's knowledge can, at best, lead to the conclusion that there must be a Divine Being and a Life after death, but it is Divine revelation alone that can change this must be into the certain is.

الَّذِیْ تَسْتَعْجِلُوْنَ ﴿۷۳﴾

74. And, truly, [a]thy Lord is gracious to mankind, but most of them are not grateful.

وَاِنَّ رَبَّكَ لَيَعْلَمُ مَا تُكِنُّ صُدُوْرُهُمْ وَمَا يُعْلِنُوْنَ ﴿۷۵﴾

75. [b]And, surely, thy Lord knows what their bosoms conceal and what they disclose.

وَاِنَّهٗ لَهُدًى وَّ رَحْمَةٌ لِّلْمُؤْمِنِیْنَ ﴿۷۸﴾

78. And verily, it is a guidance and a mercy for the believers.

اِنَّ رَبَّكَ يَقْضِیْ بَيْنَهُمْ بِحُكْمِهٖ ۚ وَهُوَ الْعَزِيْزُ الْعَلِيْمُ ﴿۷۹﴾

79. Verily, thy Lord will decide between them by His judgment, and He is the Mighty, the All-Knowing.

2188. The implied reference in this verse may be to Solomon whom the Jews accused of resorting to Shirk (idolatry) in order to win the affection of the Queen of Sheba. As there had existed difference of opinion among the Jews about Solomon's behaviour towards the Queen, the Qur'ān has lifted the veil from this obscure fact.

الدُّعَآءَ اِذَا وَلَّوْا مُدْبِرِيْنَ ﴿٨١﴾

canst thou make the deaf to hear the call, when they retreat turning their backs.[2189]

وَمَآ اَنْتَ بِهٰدِى الْعُمْىِ عَنْ ضَلٰلَتِهِمْ ؕ اِنْ تُسْمِعُ اِلَّا مَنْ يُّؤْمِنُ بِاٰيٰتِنَا فَهُمْ مُّسْلِمُوْنَ ﴿٨٢﴾

84. And remind them of the day [b]when We shall gather together from every people a party from among those who rejected Our Signs, and they shall be formed into separate groups.

2189. The words, when they retreat turning their backs, make it clear that 'the dead' mentioned here are 'the spiritually dead' just as 'the blind' in the next verse are 'the spiritually blind.'

2190. The words, Waqa'al-Qaulu 'Alaihim, mean, the sentence or the decree became due against them or came to pass; they made themselves deserving of the Divine sentence or the Divine decree (Aqrab).

2191. This is a prophecy concerning the appearance of plague in the Latter Days. The verse was so construed by the Holy Prophet himself. But if Dābbah is taken in the sense of a grossly materialistic person all whose endeavours are wholly directed to the acquisition of worldly riches and material comforts (34:15), the reference in the verse seems to be to the materialistic Western nations 'whose labour is all lost in search after things pertaining to the life of this World' (18:105) and who have fallen on this world with all their might and main.

2192. They will not be able to put in defence of their misdeeds. The charge against them being quite true and manifest will be incapable of being defended, and so the sentence of punishment will be passed against them.

2193. The words, when the trumpet will be blown, besides referring to the Day of Resurrection, refer to the new order that was ushered in by the Holy Prophet as if by the blowing of a trumpet.

2194. At the advent of the Holy Prophet old ideas and institutions which seemed to have been firmly rooted like mountains, melted and vanished away like the passing of clouds. 'Mountains' may here equally refer to the great and firmly established Roman and Persian Empires which were scattered like chaff before the irresistible victorious Muslim armies.

2195. The Meccans feared that if idol-worship disappeared from Arabia, the Ka'bah, being the repository of all their well-known idols, will lose its importance and with it they will lose their prestige and influence as its custodians. The verse disabuses their minds of this false notion and purports to say that being the Centre of a World Movement and of the Message for all mankind, Mecca, far from losing its importance, will, on the contrary, add to its prestige and will continue to be respected and revered till the end of time.

as to him who goes astray, say, 'I am only a Warner.'

94. And say, 'All praise belongs to Allāh; He will soon show you His Signs, and you will know them.' And thy Lord is not unaware of what you do.

CHAPTER 28

AL-QAṢAṢ

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

By common agreement the Sūrah was revealed at Mecca. According to ‘Umar bin Muḥammad it was revealed while the Holy Prophet, during the Hijrah, was on his way to Medina. The verse, He Who has made the teaching of the Qur’ān binding on thee will most surely bring thee back to thy ordained place of return (v. 86), clearly shows that the Holy Prophet was yet in Mecca when he was told that at first he would have to leave Mecca as a fugitive and then would come back to it as a conqueror. The preceding Sūrah had ended with the verse, So whoever follows guidance, follows it only for the good of his own soul; and as to him who goes astray, say, I am only a Warner, which meant that no force would be allowed to be used in the propagation of the teachings of the Qur’ān. It was to establish truth of this Quranic claim that the present Sūrah was revealed.

Subject-Matter

The present is the third and last of the Chapters which belong to the Ṭā Sīn Mīm group. These three Chapters open with the same abbreviated letters and, therefore, possess a striking similarity in the subject-matter. They all begin with the important subject of the revelation of the Qur’ān and end with the same subject. In Chapter 26th much space is devoted to the presentation by Moses of his Message to Pharaoh. In Chapter 27th pride of place is given to the manifestation that Moses saw of the Divine Glory and Majesty and to the spiritual experience which he had in the blessed Valley of Ṭuwā. In the present Sūrah, however, the different phases of Moses’s life have been treated in greater detail than perhaps in any other Sūrah—his being taken out of the sea in a miraculous manner, his infancy and childhood, his youth, his Hijrah and his Call—the implication being that the Holy Prophet, who was the like of Moses, would also have to go through similar experiences, though under different conditions and in different circumstances. The Sūrah opens with an account of the pitiable condition of the Israelites under Pharaoh—how by his policy of ruthless exploitation and suppression he sought to kill in them all manly qualities and how when their humiliation had reached its nadir, God raised Moses and through him brought about their emancipation by drowning Pharaoh and his mighty hosts in the sea before their very eyes. After the account of Moses’s life-story, the Sūrah refers to the prophecies that are found in the Bible about the Holy Prophet and proceeds to tell the Quraish that if they accepted him, they would enjoy all those spiritual and material blessings and benefits of which Mecca, as the Centre and Citadel of the new Faith, was destined to receive. But if they rejected him, they would incur the displeasure of God. The Sūrah then proceeds to say that when disbelievers, on account of their persistent rejection of truth are seized with punishment, they start condemning and denouncing their leaders who, they say, lead them astray and are the cause of their ruin. The leaders, on their part, disown them and even curse them for having blindly followed them. The real cause, however, of the rejection of the Divine Message, the Sūrah says, is that puffed up with material wealth and thereby lulled into a false sense of security, men of wealth and influence make light of God's Prophets, mock at them and persecute them, ignoring the supreme moral lesson which is writ large on the pages of history that the rejection of Truth has never been allowed to go unpunished and disbelief has always landed its protagonists into ruin. Towards its close the Sūrah makes a pointed reference to a mighty prophecy which was implied in Moses's flight from Egypt to Midian, in his sojourn there for ten years and his subsequent return to Egypt and in delivering the Israelites from Pharaoh. The prophecy was to the effect that like Moses the Holy Prophet of Islām also would leave his native place and go to live in a strange place for ten years and then would come back to the cradle of his Faith and conquer Mecca and establish Islām on a firm footing. The last few verses of the Sūrah sum up its subject-matter, and the Holy Prophet is told that he never had the remotest idea that he will ever be made the bearer of the Divine Message, but now that he has actually been entrusted with his great mission, he should call all mankind to the ways of the Lord, and trusting in Him and refusing to be discouraged or dismayed, should fight his way to success like the great and valiant votary of Truth he is.

2196. The policy of "divide and rule" which has been practised with such deadly effect by the Western colonial Powers in this twentieth century seemed also to have been followed by Pharaoh with great success. He had split the people of Egypt into parties and sections and had made invidious distinctions between them. Some of them he favoured and others he exploited and suppressed. Moses's people belonged to the latter unfortunate class. The words, slaughtering their sons and sparing their women, besides bearing the apparent sense that in order to keep the Israelites under permanent subjection Pharaoh destroyed their men and kept alive their women, may also signify that by his policy of exploitation and heartless suppression, he sought to kill all their manly qualities and thus made them timid like women.

2197. When degradation of the Israelites in Egypt reached its nadir and the cup of iniquities of Pharaoh and his people became full to the brim and God in His infallible wisdom decreed that the oppressors should be punished and those held in bondage be emancipated, He raised Moses. This phenomenon which took place in the time of every Divine Messenger witnessed its fullest and finest manifestation during the ministry of the Holy Prophet of Islām.

2198. Hāmān was the title of the high priest of the god Amon; 'hām,' in Egyptian language meaning, high priest. The god Amon dominated all other Egyptian gods. 'Hāmān was the director of both the treasury and the granary and director also of the soldiers and all the craftsmen of Thebes. His name was Nebunnef and he was high priest under Rameses II and his son Merneptah. Being the head of the extremely rich sacerdotal organization, embracing all the priesthoods of the country, his power and prestige had increased so much that he controlled a most influential political faction and even kept his own private army'("A History of Egypt" by James Henry Breasted, Ph.D.). Hāmān is also said to be the name of a minister of Ahasuerus, a king of Persia who lived many ages after Moses's time. There is nothing strange or objectionable in two persons living in two different periods bearing the same name.

2200. The particle lām in Liyakūna (so that he became) is called Lām-e-'Āqibah and denotes result and consequence.

2201. God's ways indeed are inscrutable. Pharaoh did not know that the very child, upon whom he was lavishing so much care and love, would one day prove an instrument of punishment for him in the hands of Destiny because he had flouted and defied Divine commandments and had held the Israelites in bondage and tyrannized over them for a long time.

2202. Moses's mother was so much pleased with Moses having been restored to her that out of extreme joy she was on the point of declaring that the child belonged to her. If God had not restrained her, she almost had told people about the whole affair—how she had received a Divine revelation and how in pursuance of it she had put the child into the river and so on.

وَقَالَتْ لِأُخْتِهٖ قُصِّيْهِ ۚ فَبَصُرَتْ بِهٖ عَنْ

2203. Moses was fully equipped with temporal as well as Divine knowledge. Having been brought up in the house of a great monarch of the time he must have had the best tutors to teach him the current sciences. His physical development was also perfect as is apparent from the next verse, and he was inspired by noble ideals. As God had marked him out for a great destiny, he was endowed with wisdom and spiritual knowledge in a very large measure. By the time Moses had attained maturity he was a Muḥsin, i.e. a constant doer of good deeds.

[a]So Moses struck the latter with his fist; and thereby caused his death. Then Moses said, 'This is of Satan's doing,[2205] he is indeed an enemy, a manifest misleader.'

2204. Being of a very noble nature and having been inspired by very high ideals, Moses was always ready to help weak and oppressed people; so when a poor Israelite sought his help against an arrogant and cruel Egyptian, he at once went to his rescue.

2205. The expression, This is of Satan's doing, according to Arabic idiom means that some evil thing has happened, i.e. 'Satan had caused an Egyptian and an Israelite to fight and I had to come to the assistance of the oppressed Israelite which resulted in an evil thing' i.e. the death of a person. Or the words might have been addressed to the dead Egyptian meaning, 'This is the outcome of your satanic deed,' i.e. 'Your death is the result of your own wickedness and transgression.' The fact that Moses used no lethal weapon and only repelled the Egyptian or struck him with his fist shows that the latter's death was accidental. Evidently, there was no intention on Moses's part to kill him. The Qur'ān has not mentioned the wicked deed of the Egyptian to which Moses refers in this verse. The Egyptian is reported to have forced an Israelite woman to commit adultery with him. It apparently led to the quarrel referred to in the verse and ultimately to Moses's interference and the death of the Egyptian (Jew. Enc. under "Moses").

20. And when he made up his mind to lay hold of the man

2206. Ẓalama-hū means, he imposed upon him a burden which was beyond his power or ability to bear; he exposed himself to danger (Lane & Mufradāt). Moses realized that in trying to help the poor Israelite he had happened to kill the Egyptian and thus had exposed himself to a great danger and had taken upon himself a burden which apparently he could not bear. So he prayed to God to protect him from the evil consequences that might flow from his accidentally killing a member of the ruling race.

2207. The verse shows Moses as saying, 'My Lord! Thou hast always been gracious to me, so in my gratitude to Thee for Thy favour, I promise that I will always help the oppressed as I did on the last occasion, and will never take sides with the oppressor.' Or it may mean, 'My Lord, since Thou hast been always kind and gracious to me, how can I be a helper and supporter of the oppressors?'

2208. Moses seems to reproach the Israelite who called him for help by saying to him, 'You are a foolish fellow and not being able to realize the consequences of your actions you readily become involved in trouble.' The words do not mean, as is generally misunderstood, that Moses regarded the man as an offender.

2209. The words, who was an enemy to both of them, show that the man referred to was an Egyptian. But if he was an Israelite, as the Bible says, then he must have been in league with the Egyptians and must have reported the previous day's incident to the authorities and thus was an enemy both to Moses and the Israelite who called Moses for help.

found beside them two women holding back their flocks. He said, 'What is your problem?'[2209A] They replied, 'We cannot water our flocks until the shepherds depart with their flocks, and our father is a very old man.'

27. One of the two women said, 'O my father, take him into thy service; for the best man that thou canst employ is the one who is strong and trustworthy.'

قَالَتْ اِحْدٰىهُمَا يٰۤاَبَتِ اسْتَاْجِرْهُ ۫ اِنَّ خَيْرَ مَنِ اسْتَاْجَرْتَ الْقَوِيُّ الْاَمِيْنُ ﴿۲۷﴾

2209A. What is your trouble; or what is the matter with you?

2210. The words, thou hast escaped from the unjust people, show that on hearing Moses's story the old and righteous man was convinced that Moses had committed no murder and that the death of the Egyptian was only accidental. On the other hand he dubbed and denounced the Egyptians as a wicked people.

قَالَ إِنِّيٓ أُرِيدُ أَنْ أُنكِحَكَ إِحْدَى ٱبْنَتَيَّ هَٰتَيْنِ عَلَىٰٓ أَن تَأْجُرَنِي ثَمَٰنِيَ حِجَجٍ ۖ فَإِنْ أَتْمَمْتَ عَشْرًا فَمِنْ عِندِكَ ۚ وَمَآ أُرِيدُ أَنْ أَشُقَّ عَلَيْكَ ۖ سَتَجِدُنِيٓ إِن شَآءَ ٱللَّهُ مِنَ ٱلصَّٰلِحِينَ ﴿٢٨﴾

28. Their father said to Moses 'I intend to marry to thee one of these two daughters of mine on condition that thou stay in my service for eight years. But if thou complete ten years, it will be of thine own accord.[2211] And I would not lay any hardship upon thee; thou wilt find me, if Allāh wills, of the righteous.'

قَالَ ذَٰلِكَ بَيْنِي وَبَيْنَكَ ۖ أَيَّمَا ٱلْأَجَلَيْنِ قَضَيْتُ فَلَا عُدْوَٰنَ عَلَيَّ ۖ وَٱللَّهُ عَلَىٰ مَا نَقُولُ وَكِيلٌ ﴿٢٩﴾ ع ٣ ٧ ٤

2211. The construction of the verse does not seem to lend countenance to the conclusion generally considered derivable from it, viz. that Shu'aib or Jethro agreed to marry one of his daughters to Moses in lieu of eight or ten years of service. The fact of the matter appears to be that Shu'aib having grown very old needed an honest man to look after his flocks and Moses having been found by him to be possessed of the required qualifications was taken in service by him at the instance of one of his daughters. Eight or ten years were agreed upon as the tenure of service. Shu'aib, however, being a godly person either himself realized, or was informed by God by revelation, that a great future lay before Moses. He, therefore, offered to marry one of his daughters to him and, desiring that his son-in-law should live with him for some time and benefit by his noble company, laid it down as one of the conditions of marriage that Moses should stay with him for eight or ten years. Thus it is not correct to say that Shu'aib offered to marry his daughter to Moses in lieu of the latter serving him for eight or ten years. Whatever remuneration Moses might have received from Shu'aib had nothing to do with the marriage proposal.

2217. The verse is susceptible of two interpretations: (1) The Israelites were already working as labourers at the kilns. Pharaoh alludes to this ignoble condition of theirs and seems derisively to say to Hāmān, 'These people do not appear to have sufficient work to do. Having more than enough leisure they have begun to dream of Prophethood. They must be put to hard labour; then will they come to their senses and give up having false illusions about God and Prophethood.' (2) The Egyptians were well-versed in astronomy. They built high observatories for observing the movements of the stars. So Pharaoh jeeringly asked Hāmān to build for him a lofty observatory so that he might have a peep at the God of Moses.

2218. The verse purports to say that the prophecy of Moses about the advent of the Holy Prophet (Deut. 18:18) has been fulfilled so clearly and in such detail as if he was present in person with Moses when the latter was making the prophecy.

2219. Ages passed and a long line of Prophets appeared after Moses and they preached their Messages, yet none of these Prophets ever claimed to be 'the Prophet like unto Moses' about whom Moses had made the prophecy mentioned in Deut. 18:18, till the Qur'ān was revealed and it claimed that the grand prophecy of Moses had been fulfilled in the person of the Holy Prophet of Islām (73:16). So the prophecy evidently was from God and could not have been put into his mouth by the Holy Prophet who came centuries after him. The people of Moses had almost forgotten this and other prophecies concerning the Holy Prophet on account of the lapse of time.

2219A. These words refer to a striking resemblance of the Holy Prophet with Moses. Like Moses who lived in Midian for ten years among a strange people and then went back to Egypt to reclaim his oppressed people from the bondage of Pharaoh, the Holy Prophet lived in Medina for ten years and then came to Mecca to conquer it.

2220. The verse implies that it was not possible for the Holy Prophet first to have caused Moses to make a prophecy concerning him (Deut. 18:18) and then to have claimed to have come in fulfilment of that prophecy.

2231. Qārūn (Korah) was fabulously rich. He stood high in the favour of Pharaoh and was very likely his treasurer. It seems that he was officer in charge of the gold mines belonging to Pharaoh and was a specialist in the art of digging out gold from the mines. In Southern Egypt the territory of Karu was famed for gold mines. The suffix "An" or "On" meaning "pillar," or "light" the combined word "Kur-on" signifies, 'the pillar of Karu' and was the title of Pharaoh's Minister of Mineralogy. He is said to be an Israelite and a believer in Moses. In order to win favours from Pharaoh he seemed to have persecuted his own people and to have behaved arrogantly towards them. As a result Divine punishment descended upon him and he perished.

2232. Mafātiḥ is the plural of both Maftaḥ and Miftāḥ, the former word meaning a hoard; a treasure; and the latter meaning a key (Lane).

2234. The Divine law of compensation works in this way that whereas for good works the reward is many times greater, the punishment for an evil deed is less than what the guilty person incurs, or at the most proportionate to it.

2235. This verse is considered by some scholars to have been revealed while the Holy Prophet was on his way from Mecca to Medina. It embodied a great prophecy, viz. that one day he will have to leave Mecca and then eventually he will come back to it as a victor and conqueror. The verse constitutes a befitting sequel to the Sūrah which gives a somewhat detailed life-story of Moses, the like of the Holy Prophet. Moses fled from Egypt and lived in Midian for ten years which were the years of preparation for the great task which lay ahead of him. Then he went back to Egypt with the Divine Message and succeeded in delivering the Israelites from the bondage of Pharaoh. Similarly, the Holy Prophet fled from Mecca and spent ten precious years of his life in Medina which were the years of preparation for the great object of conquering Mecca, the Centre and Citadel of his Faith. He returned to it as a conqueror and a victor and was fully successful in his life's mission.

2236. Wajh means, self; face; chief of a people; object or purpose which one is pursuing; place to which one goes or directs his attention; pleasure; favour; sake; etc. (Lane).

CHAPTER 29
AL-'ANKABŪT
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

A large majority of Muslim scholarly opinion is inclined to place the revelation of the Sūrah in the middle or the late middle Meccan period. The Sūrah seems to derive its title from v. 42 where the falsity and futility of polytheistic beliefs are illustrated by a beautiful simile that these beliefs, being frail and brittle like a spider's web, cannot stand intelligent criticism. The preceding Sūrah had ended on the note that the Holy Prophet will come back as a victor and conqueror to his native town, Mecca, from where he had been driven out as a friendless fugitive, a price being placed on his head. The present Sūrah opens with a warning to believers that long and hard work; and hardships and privations patiently borne, are the sine qua non of a successful life.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah continues to develop the theme that great favours and blessings which are to be bestowed upon believers in this and the next life will not be conferred upon them unless their belief is put to a severe test. They will have to pass through the crucible of fire and blood to deserve them. It is only by true and sincere repentance and by turning to God with a humble and contrite heart and by bringing about real and abiding reformation in one's life that one can earn God's forgiveness and become entitled to Divine boons and bounties. Reverting to the subject of the persecution of believers the Sūrah proceeds to say that they should allow no amount of hardships and privations to stand in the way of their serving the cause of Truth, and are forcefully exhorted to place their loyalty to God above the loyalty to their parents when the two loyalties clash and conflict. Then brief references are made to the life-stories of the Prophets Noah, Abraham, Lot and some other Divine Messengers, to show that persecution can never arrest or retard the progress of the true Faith and that compulsion in matters of religion never pays, and a people cannot be compelled permanently to continue to subscribe to views forcibly imposed upon them. The Sūrah further says that polytheistic beliefs, being as frail as a spider's web, cannot stand intelligent and searching criticism. The disbelievers, therefore, have no reason or justification to continue to hold idolatrous beliefs when a book like the Qur'ān which fully meets all the moral needs and requirements of man and is eminently fitted to raise him to the highest moral summits has been revealed. The Sūrah further disposes of an oft-quoted objection of disbelievers that the Qur'ān has been composed by the Holy Prophet; on the contrary, it is presented as the greatest Divine miracle in answer to the disbelievers' demand for Signs and miracles. Towards its close believers are consoled and comforted with the assurance that if they remained steadfast under the persecution to which they are being subjected a great and bright future lies before them. The Sūrah ends on the note that believers will have to take up the sword in defence of Islām and to conduct vigorous Jihād against the forces of evil. But the real Jihād, it says, does not consist in killing and being killed, but in striving hard to win the pleasure of God and in preaching the Message of the Qur’ān.

2237. 'Ilm (knowledge) is of two kinds: (a) That which consists in knowing a thing before it comes into existence. This kind of knowledge is not meant here because God is the Knower of the seen and the unseen (59:23). (b) The kind of knowledge which consists in knowing an event after it has actually taken place. It is this knowledge which is meant here. The verse signifies that the primeval knowledge of God will take the form of the matter of fact knowledge. Or, it means that God will distinguish the liars from the truthful as the word 'Ilm also possesses the sense of distinguishing between two things, particularly when it is followed by the particle min (from). See also 2:144 and 3:141.

Believers are made to pass through great hardships and privations and their belief is put to a severe test, and it is after they come out of the ordeal successfully that the fact becomes established that they are true and sincere servants of God. It is in this way that they are distinguished from the hypocrites and from those who are false in their profession of faith.

9. [c]And We have enjoined on man kindness to his parents; but if they contend with thee to make thee associate that with Me of which thou hast no knowledge,[2240] then obey them not. Unto Me is your return, and I shall inform you of what you did.

[a]11:30; 18:111; 84:7. [b]2:83; 3:58; 13:30; 22:57; 30:16; 35:8; 42:23; 47:13.
[c]2:84; 4:37; 6:152; 17:24; 31:15; 46:16.

2238. Yarjū (hopes) is derived from Rajā, i.e. he hoped to get the thing or he feared it. In the sense of hoping, the word is used on those occasions when the thing hoped for is likely to afford satisfaction (Mufradāt).

2239. The verse gives a brief but very apt description of a Mujāhid—true striver in the way of God. High and noble ideals and consistent and constant effort to carry them out into actual practice is what in Islamic terminology is called Jihād, and the person who possesses these noble ideals and lives up to them is a Mujāhid in the true sense of the word.

2240. The alpha and omega of all religious teachings is God's Unity. Man's

وَالَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوْا وَعَمِلُوا الصّٰلِحٰتِ لَنُدْخِلَنَّهُمْ فِي الصّٰلِحِيْنَ ۝١٠

10. And those who believe and do righteous deeds—[a]them We shall, surely, admit into the company of the righteous.

وَمِنَ النَّاسِ مَنْ يَّقُوْلُ اٰمَنَّا بِاللّٰهِ فَاِذَآ اُوْذِيَ فِي اللّٰهِ جَعَلَ فِتْنَةَ النَّاسِ كَعَذَابِ اللّٰهِ ؕ وَلَئِنْ جَآءَ نَصْرٌ مِّنْ رَّبِّكَ لَيَقُوْلُنَّ اِنَّا كُنَّا مَعَكُمْ ؕ اَوَلَيْسَ اللّٰهُ بِاَعْلَمَ بِمَا فِيْ صُدُوْرِ الْعٰلَمِيْنَ ۝١١

11. And of men there are some who say, 'We believe in Allāh;' but when they are made to suffer in the cause of Allāh, they regard the persecution of men as if it were the punishment of Allāh. [b]And if help comes from thy Lord, they are sure to say, 'Certainly, we were with you.'[2241] Is not Allāh best aware of what is in the breasts of His creatures?

وَلَيَعْلَمَنَّ اللّٰهُ الَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوْا وَلَيَعْلَمَنَّ الْمُنٰفِقِيْنَ ۝١٢

12. [c]And Allāh will, certainly, make manifest those who believe and He will, surely, distinguish the hypocrites from the believers.

وَقَالَ الَّذِيْنَ كَفَرُوْا لِلَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوا اتَّبِعُوْا سَبِيْلَنَا وَلْنَحْمِلْ خَطٰيٰكُمْ ؕ وَمَا هُمْ

13. And those who disbelieve say to those who believe, 'Follow our way, [d]and we loyalty, first and last, is to his Creator. All other loyalties proceed from, and are subject to, it. Even man's loyalty to his parents is not allowed to clash with it.

2241. In contrast to the unflinching faith which early Muslims exhibited under the severest trials and which true believers have demonstrated in every age, there are always to be found in the ranks of believers persons so weak of faith that they flinch under ordinary privations and are ready rather to renounce their faith than suffer loss. On the other hand, they are always on the lookout to claim comradeship with believers when they see that Divine help is coming to them (believers) and the cause of Truth is gaining ground.

14. But they shall, surely, bear their own burdens, and other burdens along with their own burdens. And they will, surely, be questioned on the Day of Resurrection concerning that which they fabricated.

R. 2.

وَلَقَدْ اَرْسَلْنَا نُوْحًا اِلٰى قَوْمِهٖ فَلَبِثَ
فِيْهِمْ اَلْفَ سَنَةٍ اِلَّا خَمْسِيْنَ عَامًا ؕ

15. And We, certainly, sent Noah to his people, and he remained among them a thousand years, short of fifty years.[2243] Then the Deluge overtook them, while they were wrongdoers.

2242. Besides the hypocrites, there is another class of men, the aggressive leaders of disbelief, who, taking advantage of their own high social status, seek to mislead others who are not so highly placed in life, telling them that they will bear all the loss the latter will incur by accepting their lead and by refusing to accept the true new Faith.

2243. Here the age of Noah has been mentioned as 950 years. The Bible places it at 952. It is difficult to assign a definite date as to when the Prophets of antiquity, such as Noah, Hūd, Ṣāliḥ and others lived and how long they lived. 'None knows them save Allāh,' says the Qur'ān (14:10). The period, nine hundred and fifty years, does not seem to be the span of Noah's personal physical life. It seems to be the period of his Dispensation. Thus it seemed first to extend to Abraham's ministry because Abraham 'was of his party' (37:84) and then to Joseph's and then down even to that of Moses. In fact, the age of a Prophet is the age of his Dispensation and teaching. In describing the limit of Noah's age, two words Sanah and 'Ām have been used. Whereas the root meaning of the former word possesses a sense of badness, that of the latter has a sense of goodness. It seems that the first fifty years of Noah's

21. Say, 'Travel in the earth,[2245] and see [a]how He originated the creation. Then will Allāh create the second creation. Surely, Allāh has power over all things;

22. [b]He punishes whom He pleases and shows mercy unto whom He pleases;[2245A] and to Him will you be turned back;

23. [c]And you cannot frustrate[2246] the designs of Allāh in the earth nor in the heaven; nor have you any friend or helper beside Allāh.'

R. 3.

24. [d]Those who disbelieve in the Signs of Allāh and the meeting with Him—it is they who despair of My mercy. And they will have a grievous punishment.

will work in this way that God would create through the Holy Prophet a new humanity and a new order on the ashes of the old one.

2245. The expression has been used at several places in the Qur'ān (6:12; 12:110; 30:10; 35:45; 40:83), and almost everywhere it has been followed by a sentence which points to the destruction of one people and the creation of another in their place. The verse does not refer to the Resurrection after death, but only to the phenomenon of the rise and fall of nations.

2245A. As stated at several places in the Qur'ān, God does not punish arbitrarily but only after punishment has been fully deserved. The verse only emphasizes this fact.

2246. Disbelievers are most emphatically warned that they cannot frustrate God's plan and avert the terrible fate that is in store for them as the Divine decree has gone forth that Islām shall make progress and its cause shall triumph.

فَمَا كَانَ جَوَابَ قَوْمِهٖٓ اِلَّآ اَنْ

27. And Lot believed in him, and Abraham said, [c]'I flee unto my Lord; surely, He is the Mighty, the Wise.'

[a]21:69; 37:98. [b]16:87. [c]19:49.

2247. Abraham's account began with the 17th verse and in the 18th verse he gave strong arguments in refutation of Shirk. From 19th to 24th verse, in consonance with the Quranic style and practice which adds to its elegance and beauty, a digression intervened and a great religious principle was briefly discussed in relation to the Holy Prophet. The principle discussed was that when one nation, as a result of its rejection of the Divine Message, falls a victim to decay and decadence another people takes its place. From this verse the thread is taken up of Abraham's story.

2248. The expression, Mawaddata Bainikum, may mean: (1) Social relations or the desire to win each other's love are the basis of your idolatrous ideals and practices. (2) You have made your idolatrous beliefs and practices the foundation of your love with each other, i.e. you have made the identity of your idolatrous beliefs the means to preserve the homogeneity of your community.

30. [d]'What! do you approach men with lust and commit robbery on the highway,[2249] and you commit abomination in your meetings?'[2250] But the only answer of his people was that they said, 'Bring upon us the punishment of Allāh if thou speakest the truth.'

قَالَ رَبِّ انْصُرْنِيْ عَلَى الْقَوْمِ الْمُفْسِدِيْنَ ﴿۳۱﴾ ع ۳ ۱۵

2249. Qaṭa'uṭ-Ṭarīqa meaning, he made the way dangerous for wayfarers and forbade them to use it, the Quranic expression signifies: (a) You rob travellers on the highway (Lot's people had adopted the calling of the road). (b) You violate the Divinely appointed sex-laws and commit unnatural offences.

2250. Three vices have been ascribed to the people of Lot in this verse, (1) unnatural vice; (2) highway robbery; (3) committing crimes openly and unashamedly in their assemblies.

Who the messengers mentioned in the verse were and what their mission was has been explained in 11:70, 71 and 15:68-72. Their visit distressed and grieved Prophet Lot because his people, having adopted the calling of the road, did not like strangers to visit their town and therefore they had forbidden Lot to receive outsiders. He feared that his people might humiliate him before his guests.

2253. The Qur'ān has used different words and expressions for the punishment which overtook the opponents of the various Prophets in their respective times. The punishment that came upon 'Ād is described as furious wind (41:17; 54:20 & 69:7); that which overtook Thamūd as earthquake (7:79), blast (11:68: 54:32), thunderbolt (41:18) and violent blast (69:6); that which destroyed the people of Lot as stones of clay (11:83; 15:75), storm of stones (54:35); and that which overtook Midian, the people of Shu'aib, as earthquake (7:92; 29:38), blast (11:95), and punishment of the day of overshadowing doom (26:190). Last of all the heavenly punishment which seized Pharaoh and his mighty hosts and courtiers, Hāmān and Korah and destroyed them root and branch, has been described by the expressions: We…drowned Pharaoh's people (2:51; 7:137 & 17:104), and We caused the earth to swallow him up (28:82).

2254. The subject of the Unity of God with which the Sūrah primarily deals is brought to a close in this verse with a beautiful metaphor which drives home to polytheists the folly, futility and falsity of idolatrous beliefs and practices. They are as frail as the web of a spider and cannot stand intelligent criticism.

PART XXI

R. 5.

اُتْلُ مَآ اُوْحِيَ اِلَيْكَ مِنَ الْكِتٰبِ وَاَقِمِ الصَّلٰوةَ ؕ اِنَّ الصَّلٰوةَ تَنْهٰى عَنِ الْفَحْشَآءِ وَالْمُنْكَرِ ؕ وَلَذِكْرُ اللّٰهِ اَكْبَرُ ؕ وَاللّٰهُ يَعْلَمُ مَا تَصْنَعُوْنَ ﴿٤٦﴾

46. [c]Recite[2256] that which has been revealed to thee of the Book, and observe Prayer. Surely, Prayer restrains one from indecency and manifest evil; and remembrance of Allāh, indeed, is the greatest virtue. And Allāh knows what you do.[2256A]

[a]13:18; 14:26. [b]6:74; 16:4; 39:6. [c]18:28.

2255. The expression Bil-ḥaqqi signifies that there is clear evidence of an intelligent design and purpose in the creation of the heavens and the earth and that a profound and consummate plan works in all the celestial and terrestrial bodies.

2256. Utlu means, proclaim; preach; read, recite, rehearse, follow (Lane).

2256A. Three things have been mentioned in this verse, viz. preaching and reading of the Qur'ān, observance of Prayer and the remembrance of Allāh. The purpose of all three is to deliver man from the bondage of sin and to help

47. And argue not with the People of the Book except [a]with what is best as an argument, but argue not at all with such of them as are unjust. And say, 'We believe in that which has been revealed to us and that which has been revealed to you; and our God and your God is One,[2257] and to Him we submit.'

48. And in like manner have We sent down the Book to thee; [b]so those to whom We have given true knowledge of the Book (Torah) believe in it (the Qur'ān); and of these Meccans also there are some who believe in it. And none but the disbelievers persist in rejecting Our Signs.

وَمَا كُنْتَ تَتْلُوْا مِنْ قَبْلِهٖ مِنْ كِتٰبٍ وَّلَا

49. [c]And thou didst not recite any Book before the Qur'ān, him to rise morally and spiritually. A living faith in a Supreme Being is the basic principle of all revealed religions because it is this faith that can serve as a potent and effective check on man's evil propensities and actions. This is why the Qur'ān reverts again and again to the subject of God's existence and speaks of His great power, glory and love and lays the greatest emphasis on Divine remembrance in the form of the Islamic Prayer, which, if performed with all its necessary' conditions, purity of mind and actions is the inevitable result.

2257. The verse lays down a very sound principle to guide us when preaching our Faith to others. We should begin preaching by laying stress on those beliefs and religious principles which are common between us and our adversary. As an instance we are told that while talking to "the People of the Book" we should start with the two basic religious principles of the Unity of God and Divine revelation.

تَخُطُّهٗ بِيَمِيْنِكَ اِذًا لَّارْتَابَ الْمُبْطِلُوْنَ ﴿۴۹﴾

nor didst thou write one with thy right hand; in that case the liars would have had cause to doubt.[2258]

بَلْ هُوَ اٰيٰتٌۢ بَيِّنٰتٌ فِيْ صُدُوْرِ الَّذِيْنَ اُوْتُوا الْعِلْمَ ؕ وَمَا يَجْحَدُ بِاٰيٰتِنَآ اِلَّا الظّٰلِمُوْنَ ﴿۵۰﴾

50. Nay, it is a collection of clear Signs in the hearts of those who are given knowledge.[2259] And none but the wrongdoers deny Our Signs.

وَقَالُوْا لَوْلَآ اُنْزِلَ عَلَيْهِ اٰيٰتٌ مِّنْ رَّبِّهٖ ؕ قُلْ اِنَّمَا الْاٰيٰتُ عِنْدَ اللّٰهِ ؕ وَاِنَّمَآ اَنَا نَذِيْرٌ مُّبِيْنٌ ﴿۵۱﴾

51. And they say, [a]'Why are not Signs sent down to him from his Lord?' Say, 'The Signs are with Allāh, and I am but a [b]plain Warner.'

اَوَلَمْ يَكْفِهِمْ اَنَّآ اَنْزَلْنَا عَلَيْكَ الْكِتٰبَ يُتْلٰى عَلَيْهِمْ ؕ اِنَّ فِيْ ذٰلِكَ لَرَحْمَةً وَّ ذِكْرٰى لِقَوْمٍ يُّؤْمِنُوْنَ ﴿۵۲﴾ ع ۷

52. Is it not enough for a Sign for them that We have sent down to thee the perfect Book which is recited to them? Verily, in this there is great mercy and a reminder for a people who believe.[2260]

2258. The fact that a man who could neither read nor write, and, who being born in a country, and having lived among a people, cut off from all contact with civilized humanity, could conceivably have no knowledge of the other revealed Scriptures, should have been able to produce a Book which not only contains all that is of permanent value in those Scriptures but is also a compendium of all the universal teachings that are calculated to satisfy the moral and spiritual needs and requirements of humanity for all time, does constitute an infallible proof of the Qur'ān being a revealed Book and the Holy Prophet being a Divine Teacher.

2259. While the preceding verse referred to external evidence in support of the Qur'ān being the revealed Word of God, the present one furnishes an internal evidence, which is that from the hearts of those who have been endowed with knowledge of the Qur'ān gush forth fountains of Divine light.

2260. To the demand of disbelievers for a Sign of punishment (see preceding verse), the present verse gives an answer full of pathos. It asks them, why do they demand a Sign of punishment when God has already given them a Sign of mercy in the form of the Qur'ān by acting upon which they can acquire eminence and become an honoured and respected people in the world.

2261. The verse gives a direct answer to the disbelievers' demand for the Sign of punishment and says that instead of benefiting by the Sign of mercy which has been given to them in the form of the Qur'ān, these ill-fated people persist in their demand for punishment. So they will have this Sign and the punishment will come upon them all of a sudden and from quarters least expected. But they will have to wait for a fixed and appointed term.

2261A. The punishment referred to in the preceding verse is the punishment promised to the disbelievers in this life. The punishment mentioned in this verse is the punishment promised to them in the Hereafter.

2262. When Divine punishment comes, it is sudden and swift and like a cataract overwhelms disbelievers from every direction.

2263. Believers are here promised in clear and unequivocal terms that those who leave their hearths and homes in the way of God, and then remain steadfast in their belief and do righteous deeds, the reward they get far exceeds all that they lose for God's sake.

2264. When even animals and birds do not go without food, it is inconceivable that man, who is God's noblest creation and its acme and apex, should starve.

64. And if thou ask them, 'Who sends down water from the sky and therewith gives life to the earth after its death?' they will, surely, say, 'Allāh.' Say, 'All praise belongs to Allāh.' But most of them understand not.

2265. God is the Creator and Source of all life, and for its continuity He has pressed into the service of man all the forces of nature.

2266. Life without hardships and privations borne for a noble cause, and without sacrifices undergone for the sake of God, is 'but a pastime and a sport,' a useless and purposeless existence. The purposeful life is that which is spent in the quest of a sublime and noble object and in preparation for everlasting life for which God has created man.

2267. This verse constitutes a standing testimony to Ka'bah being God's own Sacred House. Ever since the advent of Islām when it was Divinely declared to be humanity's everlasting Qiblah and even in the Days of Ignorance when the Arabs had no respect for human life, the territory called the Ḥaram—the precincts of the Ka'bah, remained a haven of safety. While there was no safety outside, complete security and peace reigned in it.

70. And as for those who strive[2268] to meet Us—We will, surely, guide them in Our ways. And, verily, Allāh is with those who do good.

2268. Jihād as ordained by Islām does not consist in killing and being killed, but in striving hard to win the pleasure of God, the word, Fīnā meaning 'meet Us.'

CHAPTER 30

AR-RŪM

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah was revealed at Mecca, but it is difficult to assign an exact date to its revelation. The most reliable authorities, however, place it in the sixth or seventh year of the Call, as in that year the tide of the Persian conquest to which the Sūrah pointedly refers was at its height; the Persian armies were knocking at the very gates of Constantinople and the disgrace and degradation of the Romans had touched its nadir. Towards the close of the preceding Sūrah it was stated that 'the present life is but a pastime and a sport' if it is not spent in a noble cause, and that life, real and everlasting, is the one in which a spiritual wayfarer strives with might and main to win the pleasure of God. The present Sūrah opens with the prophetic words that the believers will successfully meet the ordeal of trials and tribulations through which they will be made to pass and as a reward of their sacrifice and suffering the gates of Divine grace and mercy will be opened to them.

Subject-Matter

The dominant theme of the Sūrah is the defeat and discomfiture of the forces of disbelief and darkness and the rise and triumph of Islām. It states with an emphasis and certainty which dispel all doubt that the old order is about to die and a new and better one will emerge from its ruins. The Sūrah opens with the declaration of a prophecy about the ultimate success of the Romans over the Persians. The prophecy was made at a time when the tide of the Persian conquest was sweeping away everything before its irresistible onrush and the degradation and humiliation of the Romans had sunk to its lowest depths. It was then beyond human knowledge and ingenuity to predict that within a period ranging from three to nine years, tables would be completely turned upon the Persians, and the vanquished would become the victors. The prophecy was literally fulfilled in most extraordinary and unforeseen circumstances. Its fulfilment implied another and a greater prophecy that the forces of disbelief which were then too powerful for the poor and the weak Muslims to withstand would also be put to complete rout, and Islām would march triumphantly from strength to strength. Next, the Sūrah refers to the great powers of God manifested in the creation of the heavens and the earth, the alternation of day and night, the perfect design and order that exist in the universe, and in the birth of man from a very insignificant beginning. All these things lead to the irresistible and inevitable conclusion that God Who possesses such vast and unlimited powers does also have the power to make Islām grow from a small seed into a mighty tree under whose shade the whole of humanity will some day take rest. Islām is bound to succeed because it is Dīnul-Fiṭrah, i.e. it conforms to human nature and appeals to man's conscience, reason and commonsense. Its triumph will come about through a great and wonderful revolution which will take place in Arabia. A people, morally as good as dead, will be roused from their deep sleep of ages, and drinking deep at the spiritual fountain caused by the Holy Prophet to flow, will become the torchbearers of spiritual light and will carry the Message of Islām to the ends of the earth. The Sūrah ends on the note that opposition to Islām cannot arrest or retard its progress. Truth in the long run triumphs and prospers and falsehood is defeated and humiliated. This phenomenon has taken place in the time of every Prophet of God and it will again take place in the time of the Holy Prophet. The Prophet is then asked to bear with patience and fortitude all the persecution and mockery to which he is being subjected, as success will soon come to him.

2270. Biḍ' denotes a variety of numbers such as five, seven, ten, etc. but is generally understood to signify from three to nine (Lane).

Persian armies were knocking at the very gates of Constantinople. The Romans could offer but little resistance as they were torn by internal dissensions. The humiliation of Heraclius was so complete that 'Chosroes wanted to see him brought in chains to the foot of his throne and was not prepared to give him peace till he had abjured his crucified god and embraced the worship of the sun' (Historians' History of the World, vol. 7, p. 159; vol. 8, pp. 94-95 & Enc. Brit. under "Chosroes" II & "Heraclius"). This state of affairs very much grieved the Muslims as they had much in common with the Romans who were the 'People of the Book.' But the Quraish of Mecca who, like the Persians, were idolaters, were glad to see in this discomfiture of Christian armies a happy augury for the overthrow and destruction of Islām. It was shortly after this complete debacle of Roman forces that in 616 A.D. came the revelation to the Holy Prophet which forms the subject-matter of the verse under comment and the two preceding verses. These verses possessed a twofold significance. They foretold, in circumstances then quite inconceivable, that the whole position would be completely reversed within the short space of eight or nine years (*Biḍ*ʻ meaning from three to nine years—Lane) and the erstwhile victorious Persian armies would suffer a crushing defeat at the hands of the utterly defeated, prostrated and humbled Romans. The significance of the prophecy lay in the fact that, within this short period, the foundations of the ultimate triumph of Islām and that of the defeat and discomfiture of the forces of disbelief and darkness would also he firmly laid. The prophecy was fulfilled in circumstances beyond human calculation and comprehension. 'In the midst of the Persian triumphs be (the Holy Prophet) ventured to foretell that before many years should elapse, victory would return to the banners of the Romans… At the time when this prediction is said to have been delivered, no prophecy could be more distant from its accomplishment, since the first twelve years of Heraclius announced the approaching dissolution of the Empire' (Rise, Decline & Fall of the Roman Empire by Gibbon, vol. 5. p. 74).

After licking his wounds for several years, Heraclius was at last able to take the field against the Persians in 622, the year of the Holy Prophet's Hijrah to Medina. In 624 he advanced into northern Media, where he destroyed the great fire-temple of Goudzak (Gazaca) and thus avenged the destruction of Jerusalem. This happened exactly within nine years, the period foretold in the verse; and to add to its importance and significance it happened in the year when the power of the Quraish also suffered a very serious reverse in the Battle of Badr, which recalled a biblical prophecy foretelling the fading of the glory of Kedar (Isa. 21:16-17). In 627 Heraclius defeated the Persian army at Nineveh and advanced towards Ctesiphon. Chosroes fled from his favourite residence Dastgerd (near Baghdad) and, after dragging on an inglorious existence, was murdered by his own son, Siroes, on 19th February, 628 A.D.; and thus the Persian Empire, from the apparent greatness which it had reached a few years earlier sank into hopeless anarchy (Enc. Brit.). The fulfilment of the prophecy was so remarkable and unforeseen that prejudiced Christian writers have been hard put to it to explain it away. Rodwell says that the vowel points of the Arabic expression used in the verse were left undecided so that it would read either way, i.e. Sayaghlibūn meaning, "they will be victorious," or Sayughlabūn meaning, "they will he defeated." He even adds that the ambiguity was intentional. The Rev. gentleman pretends not to understand this simple fact that the vowels of an expression which had been recited hundreds of times in daily Prayers and otherwise could hardly be left undecided. Mr. Wherry goes a step further. He says: 'Our daily newspapers constantly forecast political events of this kind.' To this futile attempt of Mr. Wherry to explain away and belittle the importance of the prophecy Gibbon's quotation given above provides a crushing reply.

7. Allāh has made this promise.[2272] [a]Allāh breaks not His promise, but most men know not.

يَعْلَمُوْنَ ظَاهِرًا مِّنَ الْحَيٰوةِ الدُّنْيَا ۖ وَهُمْ عَنِ الْاٰخِرَةِ هُمْ غٰفِلُوْنَ ﴿۸﴾

2272. The promise is referred to in 8:43.

2273. The knowledge of disbelievers is limited to an understanding of the physical causes of the incidents, but the causes of the defeat of the Persians and that of the Quraish lay deeper and were more spiritual than material or physical.

2274. If disbelievers had reflected over the great powers and faculties with which man has been endowed and had reflected also over the very limited duration of their worldly existence, they would have realized that man's life

They were stronger than these in power, and they tilled the soil and populated it more and better than these have populated it. And their Messengers came to them with manifest Signs. [c]And Allāh would not wrong them, but they wronged their own souls.

22. And of His Signs is that [b]He has created wives for you from among yourselves that you may find peace of mind in them, and He has put love and tenderness[2278] between you. In that, surely, are Signs for a people who reflect.

2277. Whereas in the present verse we have, 'He created you from dust' (Turāb), elsewhere man is stated to have been created from Ṭīn, i.e. clay (6:3; 17:62; 23:13; 32:8; 37:12; 38:72). Man's creation from dust or dry earth refers to that stage of his creation which preceded his formation from clay—to man's food which is derived from earth and from which human body derives its sustenance. The verse gives three arguments to prove God's existence: (a) God has created man from dust which apparently has no relation to life and does not possess the attribute to produce it. (b) He has endowed him with very subtle emotions and has implanted in his nature a yearning and craving to make progress and has bestowed upon him aptitude and capabilities to achieve the object of his desire. (c) He has placed in man the desire to spread about and dominate the world and has given him the necessary powers for the achievement of this great object.

2278. Love between man and woman leads to procreation and continuity of human life on earth. This shows a design and a purpose behind it and the existence of a designer and also of a better and fuller life after the life on this earth.

2279. Human progress is closely linked with the diversity of tongues and colours. This diversity again points to a design and a designer. That designer is the Creator of heavens and earth. Underneath the diversity of tongues and colours which has resulted in diversity of civilizations and cultures there lies a unity—the unity of mankind. This oneness of humanity leads to the inevitable conclusion of the Oneness of its Creator.

2280. Apart from heralding rain which brings fertility and prosperity in its wake, lightning kills germs of various diseases and eliminates worms that destroy crops. Thus, besides causing fear, it is a source of manifold benefits to man. Every element of nature plays its allotted part in the Divine scheme of things, thus hearing testimony to God's existence, and to His great wisdom and power.

2281. Long ages have passed since the solar system came into being, yet nothing has gone wrong with it. Such is God's handiwork that planets keep 2282. It is beyond human ken or comprehension to guess when this great universe came into being. From an unknown and untraced past the sun with all the planets and heavenly bodies has travelled on its appointed course with a regularity and uniformity that have known no flaw or fault. There are millions of these satellites and yet they never come into collision; so perfect and consummate is the law and order that pervade the universe. This is the meaning of the words, 'All are obedient to Him.'

2283. The verse purports to say that when a master and a slave are not equal though they are both human beings, and when the master would not share his wealth and property with his slave, how then could God, the sole

Creator and Controller of all things, be regarded as sharing the control of the universe with anybody?

2284. God is One and humanity is one. This is Fiṭratullāh or Dīnul-Fiṭrah——the religion which is rooted in the nature of man and to which he conforms and instinctively reacts. It is in this religion that a child is born, but his environments, the ideas and beliefs of his parents and the training he receives from them subsequently make him a Jew, a Magian or a Christian (Bukhārī).

2285. Mere belief in the Almightiness and Oneness of God, though it forms the basic principle of true religion, is not enough. A true religion must possess certain ordinances and commandments. Of these the top priority goes to Prayer.

2286. Deviation from true religion led people in the past to be split up into

وَاِذَا مَسَّ النَّاسَ ضُرٌّ دَعَوْا رَبَّهُمْ مُّنِيْبِيْنَ اِلَيْهِ ثُمَّ اِذَآ اَذَاقَهُمْ مِّنْهُ رَحْمَةً اِذَا فَرِيْقٌ مِّنْهُمْ بِرَبِّهِمْ يُشْرِكُوْنَ ﴿٣٤﴾ warring sections and caused differences among them.

2287. Having referred in the previous few verses to the Unity of God as the basic principle of all religions, this and the next three verses deal with Shirk, i.e. associating false gods with Allāh. Polytheists possess no argument whatsoever in support of their false beliefs. Human nature, reason and commonsense all revolt against idolatry.

2288. The words 'his due,' embody a fine principle, viz. that the monetary help which the wealthy people give to their poorer brethren in the form of Zakāt, charity or gift, are the latter's right and due, because they make a substantial contribution to the production of wealth of the rich by their labour (51:20). Wherever the Qur'ān commands the believers to give monetary help to the needy and the poor, it invariably uses the word Āti instead of I'ṭi. By so doing it seeks to safeguard the self-respect of the poor person who receives charity, because, whereas the latter word expresses the sense of giving, the former expresses that of presenting (Kashshāf).

2289. The verse institutes a contrast between Zakāt and interest. Whereas by means of Zakāt Islām seeks to improve the miserable lot of the poor, at the same time safeguarding their dignity and self-respect, the institution of interest not only does not better the economic condition of the poor, but actually tends to make the rich richer and the poor poorer. The vast disparity of wealth between different sections of human society, as a result of which a large majority grovels in grinding indigence and penury and a tiny section rolls in unmeasured wealth, is inevitably due to the institution of interest. This verse particularly prohibits taking of interest on money loaned to banks or companies, etc.

42. Corruption has spread on land and sea because of what men's hands have wrought,[2291] that He may

ظَهَرَ الْفَسَادُ فِي الْبَرِّ وَالْبَحْرِ بِمَا كَسَبَتْ اَيْدِي النَّاسِ لِيُذِيْقَهُمْ بَعْضَ الَّذِيْ

2290. God is our Creator. He is our Sustainer and Provider; and He possesses complete control over life and death—the three very essential attributes that the Supreme Being Who commands and demands our worship must and does possess.

2291. The main theme of the foregoing verses consisted in engendering and instilling in man belief in an Almighty and All-Powerful God Who creates, regulates and guides all life. In the present verse we are told that when darkness enshrouds the face of the earth and man consigns God to oblivion and gives himself up to the worship of the gods of his own conception and creation, God raises a Prophet to 'bring back the erring flock into the Master's fold.'

The beginning of the seventh century was an epoch of disintegration—national and social—and religion had become extinct as a moral force and had become reduced to mere ritual and ceremony and the great Faiths of the world had ceased to exert any healthy influence on the lives of their followers. The Holy flames kindled by Zoroaster, Moses and Jesus had been quenched in the blood of man… In the fifth and sixth centuries the civilized world stood on the verge of chaos. It seemed that the great civilization that it had taken four thousand years to construct was on the verge of disintegration… Civilization like a gigantic tree whose foliage had overarched the world and whose branches had borne the golden fruits of art and science and literature, stood tottering, its trunk no longer alive with the flowing sap of devotion and reverence, but rotten to the core ("Emotion as the Basis of Civilization" & "Spirit of Islām").

Such was the condition of mankind when the Holy Prophet Muḥammad, humanity's greatest Teacher appeared on the world's stage and the most perfect and last Divine Law in the form of the Qur'ān was revealed, because a perfect Law could only be revealed when all or most of the evils, particularly those known as root evils, had made their appearance and had become established.

The words 'land and sea,' may signify: (a) Nations whose cultures and civilizations were based purely on reason and collective human experience, and those whose cultures and civilizations were based on Divine revelation; (b) peoples living on the continents and those living in the islands. The verse means that all the nations of the world had become corrupt to the very core politically, socially and morally.

47. And of His Signs is that He sends the winds as bearers of glad tidings[2292] and that He may make you taste of His mercy, and that [a]the ships may sail at His command, and that you may seek of His bounty, and that you may be grateful.

49. [c]It is Allāh Who sends the winds so that they raise the vapours in the form of a cloud. Then He spreads it in the sky as He pleases, and then He spreads it into fragments, and thou seest the rain issuing forth from its midst. And when He causes it to fall on whom He pleases of His servants, behold! they rejoice;

2292. These words point to a Divine law which works with as much effect in the physical universe as it does in the spiritual world. Just as winds precede rain, heralding its advent, similarly before the advent of a Divine Reformer there come into existence conditions which are favourable to the spread of his teachings and there appear good and righteous men who prepare the ground and "make the paths straight for him."

وَاِنْ كَانُوْا مِنْ قَبْلِ اَنْ يُّنَزَّلَ عَلَيْهِمْ مِّنْ قَبْلِهٖ لَمُبْلِسِيْنَ ﴿٥٠﴾

51. Observe, then, the marks of Allāh's mercy; how [a]He quickens the earth after its death. Verily, it is He Who quickens the dead;[2293] for He has power over all things.

وَلَئِنْ اَرْسَلْنَا رِيْحًا فَرَاَوْهُ مُصْفَرًّا لَّظَلُّوْا مِنْۢ بَعْدِهٖ يَكْفُرُوْنَ ﴿٥٢﴾

53. And thou canst not make the dead to hear, [c]nor canst thou make the deaf to hear the call, when they retreat turning their backs;

وَمَآ اَنْتَ بِهٰدِ الْعُمْيِ عَنْ ضَلٰلَتِهِمْ ؕ اِنْ تُسْمِعُ اِلَّا مَنْ يُّؤْمِنُ بِاٰيٰتِنَا فَهُمْ مُّسْلِمُوْنَ ﴿٥٤﴾ ع ١٣

54. [d]Nor canst thou guide the blind out of their error. Thou canst make only those to hear who would believe in Our Signs and submit.[2294]

R. 6.

اَللّٰهُ الَّذِيْ خَلَقَكُمْ مِّنْ ضُعْفٍ ثُمَّ جَعَلَ

55. [e]Allāh is He Who created you in a state of

[a]16:66; 22:6; 39:22; 45:6. [b]56:66; 57:21. [c]10:43; 21:46; 27:81. [d]10:44; 27:82. [e]40:68.

2293. After attention has been drawn in the preceding two verses to the natural phenomenon that when, after severe drought, welcome rain comes and the parched and dry earth gets a new life, in the present verse we are told that a similar formula operates in the spiritual renaissance of a morally corrupt people. A people virtually as good as dead receive a new life through a Divine Prophet.

2294. Man himself makes or mars his destiny. No Prophet or Divine revelation can lead him to God unless he has the will to listen to truth. The initiative first must come from man himself, the result then follows from God.

weakness,[2295] and after weakness gave you strength; then, after strength, caused weakness and old age. He creates what He pleases. He is the All-Knowing, the All-Powerful.

وَيَوۡمَ تَقُوۡمُ السَّاعَةُ يُقۡسِمُ الۡمُجۡرِمُوۡنَ ۙ مَا لَبِثُوۡا غَيۡرَ سَاعَةٍ ؕ كَذٰلِكَ كَانُوۡا يُؤۡفَكُوۡنَ ﴿۵۶﴾

56. And on the day when the appointed Hour[2296] shall arrive, the guilty will swear that [a]they tarried not save a brief period—thus are they turned away from the right path.

وَقَالَ الَّذِيۡنَ اُوۡتُوا الۡعِلۡمَ وَالۡاِيۡمَانَ لَقَدۡ لَبِثۡتُمۡ فِىۡ كِتٰبِ اللّٰهِ اِلٰى يَوۡمِ الۡبَعۡثِ ۚ فَهٰذَا يَوۡمُ الۡبَعۡثِ وَلٰكِنَّكُمۡ كُنۡتُمۡ لَا تَعۡلَمُوۡنَ ﴿۵۷﴾

57. But those, who are given knowledge and faith, will say, 'You have indeed tarried according to the Book of Allāh, till the Day of Resurrection. And this indeed is the Day of Resurrection,[2297] but you did not care to know.

فَيَوۡمَئِذٍ لَّا يَنۡفَعُ الَّذِيۡنَ ظَلَمُوۡا مَعۡذِرَتُهُمۡ وَلَا هُمۡ يُسۡتَعۡتَبُوۡنَ ﴿۵۸﴾

58. So [b]on that day their excuses will not avail the wrongdoers; nor will they be allowed to make amends.[2298]

[a]10:46; 46:36. [b]16:85; 41:25; 45:36.

2295. The word Ḍu'f (weakness) has been mentioned thrice in this verse and describes three states of human weakness—the state of embryo, of childhood and that of old age.

2296. The hour of the triumph of Islām.

2297. The expression, 'Day of Resurrection,' here does not refer to Resurrection after death but to the advent of a new Divine Reformer when people are raised to a renewed spiritual life.

2298. The Arabic expression in the text means: (a) They will not be allowed to approach the Divine threshold; (b) they will not be permitted to

وَلَقَدْ ضَرَبْنَا لِلنَّاسِ فِيْ هٰذَا الْقُرْاٰنِ مِنْ كُلِّ مَثَلٍ ؕ وَلَئِنْ جِئْتَهُمْ بِاٰيَةٍ لَّيَقُوْلَنَّ الَّذِيْنَ كَفَرُوْٓا اِنْ اَنْتُمْ اِلَّا مُبْطِلُوْنَ ﴿۵۹﴾

59. And, truly, [a]We have set forth for men in this Qur'ān every type of parable,[2299] and indeed, if thou bring them a Sign, those who disbelieve will, surely, say, 'You are but liars.'

كَذٰلِكَ يَطْبَعُ اللّٰهُ عَلٰى قُلُوْبِ الَّذِيْنَ لَا يَعْلَمُوْنَ ﴿۶۰﴾

60. [b]Thus does Allāh seal the hearts of those who have no knowledge.[2300]

فَاصْبِرْ اِنَّ وَعْدَ اللّٰهِ حَقٌّ وَّلَا يَسْتَخِفَّنَّكَ الَّذِيْنَ لَا يُوْقِنُوْنَ ﴿۶۱﴾ ع

61. So be thou patient. Surely, the promise of Allāh is true; and let not those who have no certainty of faith hold thee in light estimation so as to move thee from the stand thou hast taken.

make amends for the sins they would have committed; (c) no excuse in their defence will be accepted from them; and (d) they will not be taken into God's favour (Lane). All these meanings are implicit in the root word 'Ataba.

2299. Mathal means, a description; argument; discourse; lesson; proverb; sign; parable or similitude (Lane).

2300. The hearts of only those people are 'sealed' who reject Divine knowledge that comes to them through a Divine Reformer. The 'sealing' of the hearts of disbelievers is the inevitable result of their own refusal to accept Divine knowledge.

CHAPTER 31
LUQMĀN
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation, Title and Context

By common consent the Sūrah is considered to have been revealed at Mecca, towards the middle of the Meccan period, or, as some say, in the sixth or seventh year of the Call. The preceding Sūrah, Ar-Rūm, had ended on the note that the Qur'ān explains fully all those teachings that deal with the spiritual development and progress of man. But the disbelievers have not the eyes to see the truth, their hearts being sealed. They see Sign after Sign and yet go on harping on the tune that the Holy Prophet is a liar and a forger. The present Sūrah opens with the solemn affirmation that the Holy Prophet is not a forger or a liar and that this Book, the Qur'ān, has been revealed to him by the Wise and All-Knowing God. It is full of wisdom and leads an honest seeker-after truth to the right path. It was further mentioned in the preceding Sūrah that the cause of Islām will continue to prosper and triumph and disbelievers will meet with defeat, disgrace and humiliation. In the present Sūrah some light is shed on those noble moral principles by acting upon which nations and individuals can achieve success and prosperity and can rise to greatness and eminence.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah in its very beginning refers to the sine qua non of success—correct belief and right action—and proceeds to discuss some universal moral principles from the mouth of a non-Arab sage, Luqmān, the basic principle being that God is One and that all other noble ideals flow from this belief. The principle, second in importance to Divine Unity, concerns man's obligations to man, the most essential of which are his obligations to his parents. In between these two basic commandments a Muslim is taught to subordinate all his loyalties to God and to allow no other loyalty, not even loyalty to parents, to conflict or clash with his loyalty to His Creator. But under no circumstances should he cease to be kind and considerate and respectful to them. Next, it is stated that man's duty to God takes practical shape in the observance of Prayers and his obligations to mankind in doing good and abstaining from evil. The Sūrah says that when a true believer enters upon the noble and arduous task of preaching the truth and calling upon people to live righteously, difficulties and impediments bar his way and he has to put up with opposition, abuse, and persecution. He is told to bear all this opposition and persecution with patience and fortitude. When he is not discouraged or dismayed by the opposition and persecution he has to face in the discharge of his great and noble task, success comes his way and large crowds of people give their allegiance to him. In the hour of public applause and acclamation he should not lose his mental poise and should particularly be on his guard against conceit and arrogance. The Sūrah then refers to the laws of nature implying that these laws are working in favour of Islām. It ends on a note of warning to disbelievers that the day of their reckoning when their wealth and their influence, power and prestige, would prove of no avail, is fast approaching. Even their children will accept Islām and spend their wealth to promote its cause.

سُوْرَةُ لُقْمٰنَ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٣١ — اٰياتها ٣٥ — رکوعاتها ٤

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

الٓمّٓ ② ع

2. [b]Alif Lām Mīm.

تِلْكَ اٰيٰتُ الْكِتٰبِ الْحَكِيْمِ ③ ۙ

3. [c]These are verses of the Book, full of wisdom,[2301]

هُدًى وَّ رَحْمَةً لِّلْمُحْسِنِيْنَ ④ ۙ

4. [d]A guidance and a mercy for those who do good,

الَّذِيْنَ يُقِيْمُوْنَ الصَّلٰوةَ وَ يُؤْتُوْنَ الزَّكٰوةَ وَ هُمْ بِالْاٰخِرَةِ هُمْ يُوْقِنُوْنَ ⑤ ؕ

5. [e]Those who observe Prayer and pay the Zakāt and who have firm faith in the Hereafter.

اُولٰٓئِكَ عَلٰى هُدًى مِّنْ رَّبِّهِمْ وَ اُولٰٓئِكَ هُمُ الْمُفْلِحُوْنَ ⑥

6. [f]It is they who follow guidance from their Lord, and it is they who shall prosper.

وَ مِنَ النَّاسِ مَنْ يَّشْتَرِيْ لَهْوَ الْحَدِيْثِ لِيُضِلَّ عَنْ سَبِيْلِ اللّٰهِ بِغَيْرِ عِلْمٍ ۖ وَّ يَتَّخِذَهَا هُزُوًا ؕ اُولٰٓئِكَ لَهُمْ عَذَابٌ مُّهِيْنٌ ⑦

7. And of men is he who takes idle tales in exchange for guidance[2302] to lead men astray from the path of Allāh, without knowledge, and to make a fun of it. For such there will be humiliating punishment.

وَ اِذَا تُتْلٰى عَلَيْهِ اٰيٰتُنَا وَلّٰى مُسْتَكْبِرًا

8. And when Our Signs are recited to him, he turns away

[a]1:1. [b]30:2. [c]10:2. [d]16:90; 27:3. [e]2:4; 5:56; 9:71; 27:4. [f]2:6.

2301. The Qur'ān is indeed such a wonderful Book that not a single one of the great truths, principles and ideals, enumerated and proclaimed by it, has been contradicted or falsified by ancient learning or science, or by modern discoveries and inventions. It has eminently held its own and proved equal to the exigencies of time in every age and period.

2302. Life is a very serious thing. Man has been created to serve a very noble and grand purpose. But men of frivolous turn of mind fritter away their precious time and energy in vain pursuits and foolish diversions (23:116).

كَاَنْ لَّمْ يَسْمَعْهَا كَاَنَّ فِيْٓ اُذُنَيْهِ وَقْرًا ۚ فَبَشِّرْهُ بِعَذَابٍ اَلِيْمٍ ۝٨ disdainfully, as though he heard them not, as if there were a heaviness in his ears. So announce to him a painful punishment.

اِنَّ الَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوْا وَعَمِلُوا الصّٰلِحٰتِ لَهُمْ جَنّٰتُ النَّعِيْمِ ۝٩ۙ

9. Surely, those who believe and do good works—they will have Gardens of Delight,

خٰلِدِيْنَ فِيْهَا ؕ وَعْدَ اللّٰهِ حَقًّا ؕ وَهُوَ الْعَزِيْزُ الْحَكِيْمُ ۝١٠

10. Wherein they will abide. Allāh has made a true promise; and He is the Mighty, the Wise.

خَلَقَ السَّمٰوٰتِ بِغَيْرِ عَمَدٍ تَرَوْنَهَا وَاَلْقٰى فِى الْاَرْضِ رَوَاسِىَ اَنْ تَمِيْدَ بِكُمْ وَبَثَّ فِيْهَا مِنْ كُلِّ دَآبَّةٍ ؕ وَاَنْزَلْنَا مِنَ السَّمَآءِ مَآءً فَاَنْۢبَتْنَا فِيْهَا مِنْ كُلِّ زَوْجٍ كَرِيْمٍ ۝١١

11. [a]He has created the heavens without any pillars that you can see, and [b]He has placed[2303] in the earth firm mountains that it may not quake with you, and He has spread therein all kinds of creatures; and We have sent down water from the clouds, and have [c]caused to grow therein of every fine species.

هٰذَا خَلْقُ اللّٰهِ فَاَرُوْنِىْ مَاذَا خَلَقَ الَّذِيْنَ مِنْ دُوْنِهٖ ؕ بَلِ الظّٰلِمُوْنَ فِىْ ضَلٰلٍ مُّبِيْنٍ ۝١٢ ع ۝١٢

12. This is the creation of Allāh. Now show me what others beside Him have created. Nay, but the wrongdoers are in manifest error.

R. 2.

وَلَقَدْ اٰتَيْنَا لُقْمٰنَ الْحِكْمَةَ اَنِ اشْكُرْ لِلّٰهِ ؕ

13. And We bestowed wisdom on Luqmān and said,

[a]13:3. [b]13:4; 15:20; 16:16; 77:28. [c]27:61; 50:8.

2303. Elsewhere (13:4) the Qur'ān has used the word Ja'ala (He has made) to express the sense of Alqā (He has placed) which shows that mountains formed

وَمَنْ يَّشْكُرْ فَاِنَّمَا يَشْكُرُ لِنَفْسِهٖ ۚ وَمَنْ كَفَرَ فَاِنَّ اللّٰهَ غَنِيٌّ حَمِيْدٌ ﴿١٣﴾

'Be grateful to Allāh,' for, whoso is grateful, is grateful for the good of his own soul. And whoso is ungrateful, then, surely, Allāh is Self-Sufficient, Praiseworthy.

وَاِذْ قَالَ لُقْمٰنُ لِابْنِهٖ وَهُوَ يَعِظُهٗ يٰبُنَيَّ لَا تُشْرِكْ بِاللّٰهِ ؕ اِنَّ الشِّرْكَ لَظُلْمٌ عَظِيْمٌ ﴿١٤﴾

14. And call to mind when Luqmān[2304] said to his son while he admonished him, 'O my dear son! associate not partners with Allāh. Surely, associating partners with Allāh is a grievous wrong.'[2305]

وَوَصَّيْنَا الْاِنْسَانَ بِوَالِدَيْهِ ۚ حَمَلَتْهُ اُمُّهٗ وَهْنًا عَلٰى وَهْنٍ وَّ فِصٰلُهٗ فِيْ عَامَيْنِ اَنِ اشْكُرْ لِيْ وَلِوَالِدَيْكَ ؕ اِلَيَّ الْمَصِيْرُ ﴿١٥﴾

15. [a]And We have enjoined on man to be good to his parents[2306]—his mother bears him in weakness upon weakness, and his weaning takes two years[2306A]—and said, 'Give thanks to Me and to thy parents. Unto Me is the final return; a part of the earth and were not placed on it from outside.

[a]6:152; 29:9; 46:16.

2304. Luqmān seems to be a non-Arab, very probably an Ethiopian. He is said to belong to Egypt or Nubia. By some he has also been identified with the Greek "Aesop." From the beautiful moral precepts he gave to his son and which are embodied in the present and the next few verses, Luqmān appears to be a Prophet of God.

2305. The first and basic principle of all religious teaching is that God is One. All noble ideals and principles flow from this doctrine. By worshipping any other thing or being beside Allāh man degrades himself and stunts, stifles and stultifies his personality.

2306. This and the next verse form a parenthetical clause and refer to the second most important duty of man after his duty to God—his obligations to his fellow-beings which begin with his obligations to his parents.

2306A. The apparent contradiction between this and 46:16 seems to be that some children are born earlier than others and, therefore, being weaker in constitution, take longer time to be weaned.

وَاِنْ جَاهَدٰكَ عَلٰٓى اَنْ تُشْرِكَ بِىْ مَا لَيْسَ
لَكَ بِهٖ عِلْمٌ فَلَا تُطِعْهُمَا وَصَاحِبْهُمَا
فِى الدُّنْيَا مَعْرُوْفًا ۖ وَّاتَّبِعْ سَبِيْلَ مَنْ
اَنَابَ اِلَىَّ ۚ ثُمَّ اِلَىَّ مَرْجِعُكُمْ
فَاُنَبِّئُكُمْ بِمَا كُنْتُمْ تَعْمَلُوْنَ ﴿١٦﴾

16. And if they contend with thee to make thee set up equals with Me concerning which thou hast no knowledge, obey them not, but be a kind companion to them in worldly affairs,[2307] and in spiritual matters follow the way of him who turns to Me. Then unto Me will be your return and I shall inform you of what you used to do;

يٰبُنَىَّ اِنَّهَآ اِنْ تَكُ مِثْقَالَ حَبَّةٍ
مِّنْ خَرْدَلٍ فَتَكُنْ فِىْ صَخْرَةٍ اَوْ فِى
السَّمٰوٰتِ اَوْ فِى الْاَرْضِ يَاْتِ بِهَا اللّٰهُ ۭ
اِنَّ اللّٰهَ لَطِيْفٌ خَبِيْرٌ ﴿١٧﴾

17. 'O my dear son, even though it be the weight of a grain of mustard seed, and even though it be in a rock, or in the heavens, or in the earth, Allāh will, surely, bring it out.[2308] Verily, Allāh is the Knower of the most hidden secrets, and is All-Aware;

يٰبُنَىَّ اَقِمِ الصَّلٰوةَ وَاْمُرْ بِالْمَعْرُوْفِ
وَانْهَ عَنِ الْمُنْكَرِ وَاصْبِرْ عَلٰى مَآ
اَصَابَكَ ۭ اِنَّ ذٰلِكَ مِنْ عَزْمِ الْاُمُوْرِ ﴿١٨﴾

18. O my dear son, observe Prayer and enjoin good and forbid evil and endure patiently whatever may befall thee. Surely, this is of those matters which require high resolve;

2307. If man's duty to parents appears to clash and conflict with his duty to God, his first loyalty is to his Creator. But in disregarding any of the wishes or commands of his parents which clash with his loyalty to God he must not be arrogant or insolent to them; but should continue to show uniform courtesy, love and kindness to them.

2308. No action, good or bad, goes vain. It leaves its permanent imprint. It is to this great truth that reference has also been made in 50:19.

وَلَا تُصَعِّرْ خَدَّكَ لِلنَّاسِ وَلَا تَمْشِ
فِي الْأَرْضِ مَرَحًا ۖ إِنَّ اللَّهَ لَا يُحِبُّ
كُلَّ مُخْتَالٍ فَخُورٍ ﴿١٩﴾

19. And turn not thy cheek away from men in scorn,[2309] [a]nor walk in the earth haughtily; surely, Allāh loves not any arrogant boaster;

وَاقْصِدْ فِي مَشْيِكَ وَاغْضُضْ
مِنْ صَوْتِكَ ۚ إِنَّ أَنْكَرَ الْأَصْوَاتِ
لَصَوْتُ الْحَمِيرِ ﴿٢٠﴾ ع ٢ ١١

20. And walk thou at a moderate pace, and lower thy voice; verily, the most hateful of voices is the braying of the ass.'

R. 3.

أَلَمْ تَرَوْا أَنَّ اللَّهَ سَخَّرَ لَكُمْ مَا فِي
السَّمَاوَاتِ وَمَا فِي الْأَرْضِ وَأَسْبَغَ عَلَيْكُمْ
نِعَمَهُ ظَاهِرَةً وَبَاطِنَةً ۗ وَمِنَ النَّاسِ
مَنْ يُجَادِلُ فِي اللَّهِ بِغَيْرِ عِلْمٍ وَلَا هُدًى

21. Do you not see that Allāh has pressed for you into service whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth, and has completed His favours on you, both visible and invisible?[2310] And among men there are some who [b]dispute concerning Allāh, without knowledge or guidance or an illuminating Book.[2311]

وَإِذَا قِيلَ لَهُمُ اتَّبِعُوا مَا أَنْزَلَ اللَّهُ قَالُوا بَلْ
نَتَّبِعُ مَا وَجَدْنَا عَلَيْهِ آبَاءَنَا ۗ أَوَلَوْ كَانَ

22. And when it is said to them, 'Follow that which Allāh has revealed,' [c]they say, 'Nay, we shall follow that

[a]17:38; 25:64. [b]13:14; 22:4, 9. [c]5:105; 10:79; 21:54.

2309. Ṣa'āra Khadda-hū means, he turned away his cheek from the people on account of pride or contempt (Lane).

2310. The words may signify all needs of man—physical and spiritual; material and intellectual; known and unknown.

2311. The combined testimony of human reason and commonsense of observation and experience and of Divine revelation, goes to show that belief in plurality of gods is a false and foolish belief. This is the significance of the words, without knowledge or guidance or an illuminating Book.

الشَّيْطٰنُ يَدْعُوْهُمْ اِلٰى عَذَابِ السَّعِيْرِ ﴿٢٢﴾ which we found our fathers following.'[2312] What! even though Satan was inviting them to the punishment of the burning fire?

وَمَنْ يُّسْلِمْ وَجْهَهٗٓ اِلَى اللّٰهِ وَهُوَ مُحْسِنٌ فَقَدِ اسْتَمْسَكَ بِالْعُرْوَةِ الْوُثْقٰى ؕ وَاِلَى اللّٰهِ عَاقِبَةُ الْاُمُوْرِ ﴿٢٣﴾

23. [a]And he who submits himself wholly to Allāh, and is a doer of good, he has, surely, grasped a firm handle. With Allāh rests the end of all affairs.[2313]

وَمَنْ كَفَرَ فَلَا يَحْزُنْكَ كُفْرُهٗ ؕ اِلَيْنَا مَرْجِعُهُمْ فَنُنَبِّئُهُمْ بِمَا عَمِلُوْا ؕ اِنَّ اللّٰهَ عَلِيْمٌۢ بِذَاتِ الصُّدُوْرِ ﴿٢٤﴾

24. And as for him [b]who disbelieves, let not his disbelief grieve thee. Unto Us is their return and We shall tell them that which they did. Surely, Allāh knows full well what is in the breasts.

نُمَتِّعُهُمْ قَلِيْلًا ثُمَّ نَضْطَرُّهُمْ اِلٰى عَذَابٍ غَلِيْظٍ ﴿٢٥﴾

25. We shall let them enjoy themselves for a while; then shall We drive them to a severe torment.

وَلَئِنْ سَاَلْتَهُمْ مَّنْ خَلَقَ السَّمٰوٰتِ وَالْاَرْضَ لَيَقُوْلُنَّ اللّٰهُ ؕ قُلِ الْحَمْدُ لِلّٰهِ ؕ

26. [c]And if thou ask them, 'Who created the heavens and the earth?' they will, surely, answer, 'Allāh.'[2314] Say, 'All

[a]2:113. [b]3:177. [c]29:62; 39:39.

2312. Man is so constituted that he is not easily persuaded to give up his old ideas and beliefs. The one constant obstacle that the Prophets of God have had to meet from disbelievers is that the latter would not give up their old ancestral ways and beliefs. Old superstitions indeed die hard.

2313. God alone causes all actions to produce their results.

2314. An intelligent study of the creation of the universe and of the perfect design and order that pervade and permeate it, leads to the one inescapable inference that there must be a Creator of this universe. The expression la-Yaqūlunna signifies that disbelievers will have no option but to admit that it is Allāh Who has brought the universe into being.

بَلْ اَكْثَرُهُمْ لَا يَعْلَمُوْنَ ﴿٢٦﴾

لِلّٰهِ مَا فِي السَّمٰوٰتِ وَالْاَرْضِ ؕ اِنَّ اللّٰهَ هُوَ الْغَنِيُّ الْحَمِيْدُ ﴿٢٧﴾

27. [a]To Allāh belongs whatever is in the heavens and the earth. Verily, Allāh is Self-Sufficient, Praise-worthy.

وَلَوْ اَنَّ مَا فِي الْاَرْضِ مِنْ شَجَرَةٍ اَقْلَامٌ وَّالْبَحْرُ يَمُدُّهٗ مِنْۢ بَعْدِهٖ سَبْعَةُ اَبْحُرٍ مَّا نَفِدَتْ كَلِمٰتُ اللّٰهِ ؕ اِنَّ اللّٰهَ عَزِيْزٌ حَكِيْمٌ ﴿٢٨﴾

28. [b]And if all the trees that are in the earth were pens, and the ocean—seven[2315] more oceans to replenish it—were ink, the words of Allāh would not be exhausted. Surely, Allāh is Mighty, Wise.

مَا خَلْقُكُمْ وَلَا بَعْثُكُمْ اِلَّا كَنَفْسٍ وَّاحِدَةٍ ؕ اِنَّ اللّٰهَ سَمِيْعٌۢ بَصِيْرٌ ﴿٢٩﴾

29. Your creation and your resurrection are only like the creation and resurrection of a single soul.[2315A] Verily, Allāh is All-Hearing, All-Seeing.

اَلَمْ تَرَ اَنَّ اللّٰهَ يُوْلِجُ الَّيْلَ فِي النَّهَارِ وَيُوْلِجُ النَّهَارَ فِي الَّيْلِ وَسَخَّرَ الشَّمْسَ وَالْقَمَرَ ۙ كُلٌّ يَّجْرِيْۤ اِلٰۤى اَجَلٍ مُّسَمًّى وَّاَنَّ اللّٰهَ بِمَا تَعْمَلُوْنَ خَبِيْرٌ ﴿٣٠﴾

30. Seest thou not that [c]Allāh makes the night pass into[2316] the day and makes the day pass into the night, and [d]He has pressed the sun and the moon into service; each pursuing its course till an appointed term, and that Allāh is Well-Aware of what you do?

2315. Numbers "7" and "70" are used in Arabic to denote a large number, and not exactly "seven" and "seventy" as ordinary numerals.

2315A. The verse signifies that all human beings are subject to the same laws of nature. It also points to the fact that the rise or fall of nations and communities is subject to the same laws of nature as is the progress or degradation of individuals.

2316. The natural law of the day following the night, and vice versa, operates with equal force in regard to the fate of nations as well as individuals.

33. And when waves engulf them like so many coverings, [b]they call upon Allāh, in full sincerity of faith; but when [c]He brings them safe to land, then some of them keep to the right course.[2318] And none denies Our Signs save every perfidious, ungrateful person.

2317. The sailing of ships is indeed a great Divine boon. Much of the prosperity of mankind depends on it. The greatest sea-power is generally the richest and the most powerful country in the world.

2318. The verse refers to a very common characteristic of a Mushrik (polytheist). He is weak of faith and is very superstitious. Even a small misfortune is sufficient to frighten and upset him because his faith is only a jumble of make-beliefs and hearsays and superstitions.

فَلَا تَغُرَّنَّكُمُ الْحَيٰوةُ الدُّنْيَا ۪ وَلَا يَغُرَّنَّكُمْ any avail to his father. Allāh's promise is, surely, true. So let not worldly life beguile you, nor let the Deceiver deceive you concerning Allāh.

اِنَّ اللّٰهَ عِنْدَهٗ عِلْمُ السَّاعَةِ ۚ وَيُنَزِّلُ
الْغَيْثَ ۚ وَيَعْلَمُ مَا فِي الْاَرْحَامِ ؕ
وَمَا تَدْرِيْ نَفْسٌ مَّاذَا تَكْسِبُ غَدًا ؕ

اِنَّ اللّٰهَ عَلِيْمٌ خَبِيْرٌ ﴿٣٥﴾ ع ١٣

35. Verily, with Allāh alone is the knowledge of the Hour. [a]And He sends down the rain, and He knows what is in the wombs. And no soul knows what it will earn tomorrow, and no soul knows in what land it will die. Surely, Allāh is All-Knowing, All-Aware.2319

[a]30:25; 42:29.

2319. The Sūrah ends by reverting to its basic theme—the ultimate triumph of Islām; and mentions some important facts concerning it: (1) With God alone rests the knowledge of the hour of the final overthrow of disbelief and the triumph of Islām. (2) He alone knows when the condition of a people demands the sending down of Divine revelation and so He has revealed the Qur'ān in the fullness of time. (3) To Him alone belongs the knowledge whether the generations yet unborn will accept Islām or stick to disbelief, i.e. whether the sons and grandsons of the leaders of disbelief, who are now fighting Islām tooth and nail, will enter its fold and will willingly give their lives to safeguard it and further its cause. (4) The disbelievers do not know that all their efforts against Islām will prove futile and abortive. (5) The leaders of disbelief, who have turned the Holy Prophet and Muslims out of their hearths and homes, will themselves meet death away from their homes.

CHAPTER 32
AS-SAJDAH
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

This Sūrah was also revealed at Mecca. The preceding Sūrah had ended with the statement that God alone knows when a particular people are to rise or fall and that He alone provides for the physical needs of man and for his moral and spiritual requirements. The present Sūrah opens with the declaration that God being the Lord of all the worlds, in His hands lie all those means upon which the progress and prosperity of nations and individuals depend and He alone controls those causes that lead to their decline and downfall.

Subject-Matter

The main theme of the Sūrah is the ultimate triumph of Islām. It opens with a strong repudiation of the disbelievers' charge that the Qur'ān is a forgery and the Holy Prophet an impostor. The Prophet, it says, is not an impostor because impostors never succeed in their missions, but the cause of the Holy Prophet is daily advancing by leaps and bounds; neither is the Qur'ān a forgery because it has been revealed in the fullness of time and in accordance with the demands of truth and justice and fulfils all the moral and spiritual needs and requirements of man and because also the whole universe seems to be working in support and furtherance of its Message. The Sūrah then makes a little digression and makes a prophecy that after its initial phenomenal progress Islām will receive a temporary set-back; a comparative eclipse of a thousand years which will be followed by a second renaissance, as a result of which it will regain its pristine glory and will march on its course of uniform success. Next, the Sūrah gives a beautiful illustration how from a very insignificant beginning Islām will grow in strength, expand and spread and will become a mighty force. The illustration is taken from the insignificant birth of man from mere clay. Towards its close the Sūrah sums up its central theme and adds that the advent of the Holy Prophet is not anything novel. Just as in the physical world when the earth becomes parched and scorched God sends down rain and it begins to vibrate with a new life, in the same way in the spiritual realm, when mankind gropes and flounders in spiritual darkness, a Divine Messenger is raised and the spiritually dead receive a new life through him.

2320. The Sūrah is the last of the Alif Lām Mīm group. The central theme of these four Chapters (29-32) is the regeneration of a people who had sunk deep in the morass of moral turpitude and who were now going to be raised to the apex of spiritual glory through the Holy Prophet Muḥammad. This awakening to new life of a morally dead people has been adduced as an argument in support of Resurrection and the Hereafter. In all these Chapters this subject has been introduced with reference to the creation of the universe.

2323. The verse refers to a very serious crisis that was destined to come over Islām in its chequered career. Islām was to pass through a period of sustained progress and prosperity during the first three centuries of its life. The Holy Prophet is reported to have pointedly alluded to this fact in his saying: 'The best century is the one in which I live, then the next century, then the century after that '(Tirmidhī & Bukhārī, Kitābush-Shahādāt). Islām began to decline after the first three centuries of uninterrupted conquests. The process of decline and decay continued in the next thousand years. It is to this period of a thousand years that reference has been made in the words, then will it go up to Him in a day the duration of which is a thousand years. In another of his sayings the Holy Prophet is reported to have said that Faith will ascend to the Pleiades and a man of Persian descent will bring it back to the earth (Bukhārī, Kitābut-Tafsīr). With the appearance of the Promised Messiah in the 14th century A.H., the process of decay has been arrested and renaissance of Islām has begun to take place.

2324. Rūḥ meaning, human soul and Divine revelation (Lane), the verse signifies that after the physical development of the embryo becomes complete in the womb, it develops a soul; or the meaning may be that after the spiritual development of man becomes complete he receives Divine revelation.

13. If only thou couldst see when the guilty ones will hang down their heads before their Lord, and say, 'Our Lord, we have seen and we have heard, so [b]send us back that we may do good works; for now we are convinced of the truth of what we were told.'

2325. The reference in these words is to 15:43, 44 where it is stated, 'Such of the erring ones as choose to follow thee, surely, Hell is the promised place for them,' meaning thereby that only the 'erring ones,' will be cast into Hell.

18. And no soul knows what joy of the eyes is kept hidden for them, as a reward for the good they used to do.[2326]

[a]17:108, 110; 19:59. [b]21:91.

2326. Describing the form and nature of the blessings and comforts of Paradise the Holy Prophet is reported to have said: 'No eye has yet seen them (the blessings of Paradise), nor has any ear heard of them, nor can human mind conceive of them' (Bukhārī, Kitāb Bad'ul-Khalq). The Ḥadīth shows that the blessings of the life to come will not be material. They will be the spiritual representations of good deeds and actions the righteous believers might have done in the present life. The words used to describe them in the Qur'ān have been used only in a metaphorical sense. The present verse may also mean that Divine boons and blessings that will be bestowed upon the righteous believers in the next world are far too good and too plentiful, even to be imagined or conceived of. They will be far beyond the widest stretch of human imagination.

اَفَمَنْ كَانَ مُؤْمِنًا كَمَنْ كَانَ فَاسِقًا ؕ لَا يَسْتَوٗنَ ﴿۱۹﴾

19. [a]Is he, then, who is a believer like one who is disobedient? They are not equal.

اَمَّا الَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوْا وَعَمِلُوا الصّٰلِحٰتِ فَلَهُمْ جَنّٰتُ الْمَاْوٰى ۖ نُزُلًا بِمَا كَانُوْا يَعْمَلُوْنَ ﴿۲۰﴾

20. As for those [b]who believe and do good works, they will have Gardens of Eternal Abode as an entertainment in return for what they used to do.

وَاَمَّا الَّذِيْنَ فَسَقُوْا فَمَاْوٰىهُمُ النَّارُ ؕ كُلَّمَآ اَرَادُوْٓا اَنْ يَّخْرُجُوْا مِنْهَآ اُعِيْدُوْا فِيْهَا وَقِيْلَ لَهُمْ ذُوْقُوْا عَذَابَ النَّارِ الَّذِيْ كُنْتُمْ بِهٖ تُكَذِّبُوْنَ ﴿۲۱﴾

21. And as for those who are disobedient, their abode will be the Fire. [c]Every time they desire to come out of it, they will be turned back into it, and it will be said to them, 'Taste ye the punishment of the Fire which you used to deny.'

وَلَنُذِيْقَنَّهُمْ مِّنَ الْعَذَابِ الْاَدْنٰى دُوْنَ الْعَذَابِ الْاَكْبَرِ لَعَلَّهُمْ يَرْجِعُوْنَ ﴿۲۲﴾

22. And most surely [d]We will make them taste of the lesser punishment before the greater punishment,[2327] that they may return to Us with repentance.

وَمَنْ اَظْلَمُ مِمَّنْ ذُكِّرَ بِاٰيٰتِ رَبِّهٖ ثُمَّ اَعْرَضَ عَنْهَا ؕ اِنَّا مِنَ الْمُجْرِمِيْنَ مُنْتَقِمُوْنَ ﴿۲۳﴾ ع ۱۵

23. And who is more unjust than he who is reminded of the Signs of his Lord and then turns away from them? We will, surely, exact retribution from the guilty.

[a]40:59. [b]30:16; 35:8; 42:23; 45:31. [c]5:38; 22:23. [d]52:48.

2327. 'The lesser punishment' and 'the greater punishment' may respectively signify, (1) afflictions of the present life and those of the Hereafter; (2) defeat of the Quraish in the Battle of Badr and Fall of Mecca; (3) smaller miseries and misfortunes which befall a disbelieving people by way of warning before their final destruction.

CHAPTER 33
AL-AḤZĀB
(Revealed after Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah was revealed at Medina. It was revealed between the 5th and the 7th year of the Hijrah, possibly up to the 8th and the 9th year. There is sufficient internal evidence to establish this fact. In the preceding few Chapters the prophecy was repeatedly and emphatically made that Islām would continue to make progress and gather strength, till the whole of Arabia would accept its Message, and idolatry would disappear from the country, never to return. In the immediately preceding Sūrah—As-Sajdah—it was stated that Muslims would be favoured with all sorts of physical comforts and material prosperity. Towards its end the disbelievers had tauntingly asked when the prophecy about the victory of Islām and its great spread and expansion would be fulfilled. That question has received an emphatic answer in the present Sūrah. It is stated that prophecy about the rise and progress of Islām has already been fulfilled and Islām has become a great power.

Subject-Matter

With the accession to Islām of great political power and prestige and with its emergence as a full-fledged State, the ordinances of the Sharī'ah began to be revealed in quick succession to guide Muslims in political and social matters. This Sūrah embodies several such ordinances. At the outset it abolishes a deep-rooted custom of the Arabs—the adoption of another person's son as one's own. Then it refers to a very deep and real spiritual relationship that subsists between the Holy Prophet and Muslims. In his capacity as their spiritual father he stands closer to them than even their own selves and his wives are their spiritual mothers. Next, the Sūrah gives a somewhat detailed description of the Battle of the Trench which was the fiercest encounter in which the Muslims had so far been engaged. The whole of Arabia had risen like one man against Islām and a well-equipped army, numbering from 10,000 to 20,000 strong, had marched on Medina. The Muslims were a paltry 1200, though according to some writers the total number of those employed in digging the Trench including women and children was in the neighbourhood of 3000. The combat was quite unequal. The Muslims were in sore straits. But God sent His hosts and the powerful enemy was routed and scattered. In the next few verses the Sūrah states that while in a religious community there is no dearth of sincere and devoted followers, there are also to be found in its ranks hypocrites and the weak of faith. These hypocrites loudly profess to be true followers but when in the Prophet's time Medina was attacked by a mighty force, they asked to be excused from fighting on the side of Muslims on very lame excuses. They broke their plighted word. The Banū Quraiẓah were the first to dishonour their pledge and to leave Muslims in the lurch when the latter were hemmed in on all sides and the very fate of Islām hung in the balance. After the Confederates dispersed, the Holy Prophet marched against them and they received deserved punishment.

As a result of the Battle of the Trench and of the subsequent banishment of the Banū Quraiẓah large booty fell into the hands of Muslims. From a persecuted and economically very poor minority they had grown into a rich, powerful and prosperous State. Material wealth brings in its train worldly-mindedness, a desire for ease and comfort and apathy towards service and sacrifice. This is a state of affairs which a Reformer has specially to guard against. Love of ease and comfort generally makes appearance first in the domestic circle, and as the members of the Holy Prophet's household were to serve as a model in social behaviour, it was in the fitness of things that they should have been required to set an example in self-denial. The Holy Prophet's wives were asked to make a choice between a life of comfort and ease and his simple and even austere companionship and they lost no time in making their choice. They preferred the Prophet's company. The wives of the Holy Prophet were particularly enjoined to set an example in piety and righteous conduct, as befitted the wives of the greatest of God's Prophets and in preserving the dignity and decorum of their exalted position, and by teaching Muslims the precepts and commandments of their religion. The Sūrah, then, makes a reference to Zainab's marriage with Zaid. The failure of this marriage and Zainab's subsequent marriage with the Holy Prophet served a double purpose. By giving in marriage Zainab, his own cousin and a full-blooded Arab lady, intensely proud of her ancestry and exalted social position, to a freed slave, the Holy Prophet had sought to level to the ground all those invidious class distinctions and divisions from which the Arabian society had suffered, as according to Islām all men were free and equal in the sight of God. Next, the Sūrah removes a possible misgiving to which the abolition of the custom of adoption might have given rise, viz. that in the absence of real sons the Holy Prophet will die issueless and his Movement will wither and die out for want of an heir. It says that it was God's own plan that the Prophet should have no male issue; but this did not mean that he would be issueless since he was the spiritual father of the whole of mankind. As practical proof of this claim he would bring into being a community of righteous and most loyal spiritual sons. The Sūrah further says that since the Holy Prophet is the spiritual father of the Faithful, his wives are their spiritual mothers, and therefore marriage with them, after the death of the Holy Prophet, is a grievous sin. The Holy Prophet himself is told that he is not to divorce anyone of his existing wives, nor to add to their number, and his wives are enjoined that, consistently with their dignity as "Mothers of the Faithful," they should observe certain rules regarding dress, etc. when going out. This injunction enjoining privacy and decorum applies equally to all Muslim women. Towards its close the Sūrah points to the very high destiny of man and to his great responsibilities as the crown of God's whole creation. He has been endowed with great powers and capabilities denied to other beings and, therefore, he alone among all creation can, by acting upon the laws of the Sharī'ah, imbibe and reflect in his person Divine attributes.

5. Allāh has not made for any man two hearts in his breast; nor has He made those of your wives from whom you keep away by calling them mothers,[2330] your mothers in fact, nor has He made those whom you[2331] adopt as sons,

[a]1:1. [b]10:110. [c]3:160; 26:218.

2329. The Holy Prophet has been addressed as An-Nabī (The Prophet) in this verse and at several other places in the Qur'ān. No other Prophet in any revealed Scripture, or in the Qur'ān, has been addressed as such. All other Prophets have been addressed by their proper names. This peculiarity of address shows that the Holy Prophet is An-Nabī, i.e. the Prophet par excellence. Or, the reference in this form of address may be to a biblical Prophecy in which the advent of "that Prophet" has been foretold (John, 1:21, 25).

2330. Ẓihār or Muẓāharah means, separating oneself from one's wife, calling her mother (Lane).

2331. Ad'iyā' is plural of da'iyy which means, one who is claimed as a son by a person who is not his father; adopted son; one whose origin or lineage or your sons in fact. These are merely the words of your mouths; but Allāh declares the truth, and He guides to the right path.

وَاللّٰهُ يَقُوْلُ الْحَقَّ وَهُوَ يَهْدِى السَّبِيْلَ ۝٤

اُدْعُوْهُمْ لِاٰبَآئِهِمْ هُوَ اَقْسَطُ عِنْدَ اللّٰهِ ۚ فَاِنْ لَّمْ تَعْلَمُوْٓا اٰبَآءَهُمْ فَاِخْوَانُكُمْ فِى الدِّيْنِ وَمَوَالِيْكُمْ ؕ وَلَيْسَ عَلَيْكُمْ جُنَاحٌ فِيْمَآ اَخْطَاْتُمْ بِهٖ ۙ وَلٰكِنْ مَّا تَعَمَّدَتْ قُلُوْبُكُمْ ؕ وَكَانَ اللّٰهُ غَفُوْرًا رَّحِيْمًا ۝٦

6. Call them after their fathers. That is more equitable in the sight of Allāh. But if you know not their fathers, then they are your brothers in Faith and your friends. And there is no blame on you in respect of any mistake you may unintentionally make in this matter; but you will be called to account for that which your hearts purpose. And Allāh is Most Forgiving, Ever Merciful.

parentage is doubted; one who attributes his descent to other than his father (Lane). The verse sought to abolish two very deep-rooted and widespread customs of the Arabs in the Holy Prophet's time. The more obnoxious of these two was that of Ẓihār. A husband, in a fit of anger, would call his wife his mother. The poor woman was deprived of her conjugal rights and yet remained tied to him without the right of marrying another man. Islām, a great champion of women's rights, could not tolerate such a savage custom. The other custom was that of adopting the son of another man as one's own. This custom, apart from being calculated to cause complications in blood relationships was puerile and foolish. The reason for the abolition of these customs is implied in the words, Allāh has not made for any man two hearts in his breast. Human heart is understood to be the seat of emotions and feelings. It can entertain only one kind of emotion at one time. Contradictory emotions cannot possibly be entertained by it at the same time. Moreover, different human relations evoke different emotions. Merely calling one's wife one's mother or calling a stranger one's son cannot evoke the corresponding emotions in one's heart. A wife can never become a mother nor a stranger a real son. Mere words of mouth cannot change the state of mind of the utterer of those words, nor can they alter hard facts of physical relationship.

7. The Prophet is nearer to the believers than their own selves, and his wives are as mothers[2332] to them. [a]And blood-relations are nearer to one another, according to the Book of Allāh, than other believers from among the Helpers and the Emigrants except that you show kindness to your friends.[2333] This also is written down in the Book.

وَاِذْ اَخَذْنَا مِنَ النَّبِيّٖنَ مِيْثَاقَهُمْ وَمِنْكَ
وَمِنْ نُّوْحٍ وَّاِبْرٰهِيْمَ وَمُوْسٰى وَعِيْسَى

8. And call to mind [b]when We took from the Prophets their covenant, and from thee, and from Noah and Abraham,

[a]8:76. [b]3:82.

2332. The verse clears a possible ambiguity that might have arisen from misunderstanding the injunction contained in v.6 above. While in that verse the believers were enjoined to call them after their fathers, in the present verse the Holy Prophet, by implication, has been called the father of the Faithful. The preceding verse speaks of blood-relationship but the verse under comment speaks of the spiritual relationship that subsists between the Holy Prophet and the Faithful.

2333. The Islamic Brotherhood which had come into being through the spiritual fatherhood of the Holy Prophet might have led to the misconception that Muslims could inherit each other's property. The verse seeks to remove this misconception by laying down that only blood-relations can inherit each other and that from among the blood-relation only the believers can inherit, the disbelievers having been debarred from inheriting their believing relatives. The verse also abolishes that form of brotherhood which was established between the Emigrants of Mecca and the Helpers of Medina on the former's arrival in Medina, according to which an "Emigrant" would even inherit the property left by an "Helper." That brotherhood, which was but a temporary measure and was adopted to rehabilitate the Emigrants from Mecca, ceased to exist, and blood-relationship, and not faith alone, became the decisive factor in determining inheritance and other kindred matters. But the wider Brotherhood of Islām continued and Muslims were expected to treat one another like brothers.

and Moses and Jesus, son of Mary, and We, indeed, took from them a solemn covenant;[2334]

2334. The four Prophets—Noah, Abraham, Moses and Jesus, have found special mention in this verse inasmuch as they occupy a unique position among the hierarchy of pre-Islamic Divine Prophets. Noah was the first Law-bearing Prophet in the real sense of the word and in Abraham converged both the Mosaic and Islamic Dispensations, and Moses was the Holy Prophet's counterpart while Jesus was the last of the Israelite Prophets and the Holy Prophet's harbinger. The words "their covenant" mean the covenant which was taken from them or which befitted their dignity and exalted position and was in harmony with their high duties and responsibilities. See also 433.

2335. With this verse begins an account of the Battle of the Trench which took place in the 5th year of the Hijrah and was the fiercest encounter in which the Muslims had so far been engaged. The whole of Arabia rose like one man against Islām. The Quraish of Mecca, their allies, the Ghaṭafān, the Ashja' and Murrah, the Fazārah, the Sulaim and the Banū Sa'd and Banū Asad, the desert tribes of Central Arabia, aided and abetted by the perfidious Jews and treacherous Hypocrites of Medina, formed themselves into a grand confederacy against the Holy Prophet. A mighty force numbering from ten to twenty thousand strong was pitched against 1200 (according to some writers 3000 Muslims including women and children were employed in digging the Trench) ill-prepared and ill-provisioned Muslims. The siege of Medina lasted from fifteen days to four weeks. Islām emerged stronger from this severe ordeal and the disbelieving Quraish were never again able to march against Muslims in force.

2336. Forces of nature—wind, rain and cold which wearied the disbelievers and damped their spirits. The words may also refer to the hosts of angels which cast fear in the hearts of disbelievers and heartened and encouraged the Muslims. Says William Muir: 'Forage was obtained with the utmost difficulty; provisions were running short, and the camels and horses dying daily in great numbers; wearied and damped in spirit the night set in upon them, cold and tempestuous wind and rain beat mercilessly on the unprotected camp. The storm rose to a hurricane. Fires were extinguished, tents blown down, cooking vessels and other equipage overthrown' ("Life of Muḥammad").

2337. The disbelievers burst upon Muslims from every direction—from the heights of Medina as well as from the plains. The reference in the words 'and you thought diverse thoughts about Allāh,' is to the 'Hypocrites' and not to sincere and steadfast Muslims (v.13).

2337A. This was the name of Medina before the Hijrah.

2339. The verse purports to say that if an enemy had entered into Medina from another direction and the Hypocrites were invited to make common cause with him against the Muslims, they would have willingly and readily done so.

2340. The words refer to the treaty which the Jews of Medina had made with the Holy Prophet that they would fight on his side against any enemy who invaded Medina.

لَقَدْ كَانَ لَكُمْ فِيْ رَسُوْلِ اللّٰهِ اُسْوَةٌ حَسَنَةٌ لِّمَنْ كَانَ يَرْجُوا اللّٰهَ وَالْيَوْمَ الْاٰخِرَ

2342. With the 13th verse the description had begun of an hypocrite's state of mind, particularly when he is face to face with danger. The picture has become complete with the present verse. The hypocrite is a coward and a defeatist. He is a liar and has no regard for pledges solemnly made. He is treacherous, disloyal and perfidious. He is niggardly and greedy. In short, he is the complete antithesis of a true believer.

2343. The Battle of the Trench perhaps constituted the hardest ordeal in the Holy Prophet's whole career and from that supreme test he emerged with enhanced moral stature and prestige. In fact, it is in time of danger, when all around is dark, or in the hour of success and victory when a person's enemy lies prostrate at his feet, that his real mettle is tested; and history bears eloquent testimony to the fact that the Holy Prophet was as great and noble in time of distress as he was in the hour of success. The battles of the Trench, Uḥud and Ḥunain shed a flood of light on the one beautiful facet of his character, and the Fall of Mecca on the other. Peril and danger did not discourage or dismay him nor could victory and success spoil him. When left almost alone on the day of Ḥunain with the fate of Islām hanging in the balance, he fearlessly and single-handed advanced into the enemy's ranks with the memorable words on his lips: 'I am the Prophet of God and I am telling no lie. I am the son of 'Abdul-Muṭṭalib.' And when Mecca fell and the whole of Arabia lay prostrate at his feet, absolute and undisputed power failed to corrupt him. He showed unparalleled magnanimity to his enemies.

What greater testimony there could possibly be to the Holy Prophet's nobility of character than the fact that those who were nearest to him and knew him most loved him most and were the first to believe in his mission—his dear wife Khadījah, his lifelong friend Abū Bakr, his cousin and son-in-law 'Alī, his freed slave Zaid. The Prophet was humanity's noblest specimen and a perfect model in beauty and beneficence. In all the various facets of his variegated life and character he stands unrivalled and an excellent exemplar for men to copy and follow. His whole life lies before the floodlight of history. He started life as an orphaned child and ended it by being the arbiter of the destinies of a whole nation. As a boy he was sedate and dignified and at the threshold of youth he was a perfect example of moral virtue, righteousness and sobriety. In middle age he won the title of Al-Amīn, (The Trusty and Truthful) and as a businessman he proved himself to be most honest and scrupulous. He married ladies both much older and much younger than himself and all of them swore by his faithfulness, love and godliness. As a father he was most affectionate, and as a friend most loyal and considerate. When entrusted with the great and difficult task of reforming a corrupt society and subjected to persecution and exile, he bore it all with dignity and decorum. He fought as a soldier and commanded armies. He faced defeat and won victories. He legislated and decided cases. He was a statesman, a teacher and a leader of men. 'Head of the state as well as of the Church he was Caesar and Pope in one; but he was Pope without the Pope's pretensions, and Caesar without the legions of Caesar. Without a standing army, without a bodyguard, without a palace, without a fixed revenue, if ever any man had the right to say that he ruled by a right Divine, it was Muḥammad, for he had all the power without its instruments and without its supports. He would do his household work with his own hands, would sleep upon a leathern mat, and his menu consisted of dates and water or barley-bread, and after having done a full day of multifarious duties, he would spend the hours of night in prayer and supplication till his feet got swollen. No man under so vastly changed circumstances and conditions had changed so little' ("Muḥammad and Muḥammadanism" by Bosworth Smith).

2344. The reference is to the prophecy about the defeat and discomfiture of the hosts of disbelief and the victory of Islām (38:12 & 54:46).

2345. The verse constitutes a great memorial to the fidelity, sincerity and steadfastness in faith of the Holy Prophet's disciples. Never did the followers of any Prophet receive from God such certificate of good conduct and faithfulness. Just as the Master was unique among all Divine Messengers in discharging his prophetic duties, so were his Companions matchless in fulfilling the role assigned to them.

2346. Allāh repelled the attack of the Confederates. They had to raise the siege and, consumed with anger and rage at having completely failed in their unholy and nefarious undertaking, they went back to their homes, never being in a position again to attack Medina. Henceforward the initiative passed into the hands of Muslims. The Battle of the Trench marked a turning point in the history of Islām. From a weak and continuously harassed and harried minority Islām became a mighty force in Arabia.

2347. The perfidious Banū Quraiẓah had entered into a solemn treaty with the Holy Prophet that they would help Muslims if an enemy attacked Medina.

But at the time of the Battle of the Trench they were prevailed upon by Ḥuyayy, the leader of the Banū Naḍīr to break their plighted word and join the grand confederacy against Islām. When the attack fizzled out, the Holy Prophet marched against them, and besieged them in their strongholds. The siege continued for about 25 days after which they agreed to lay down their arms and preferred to submit to the award of Sa'd bin Ma'ādh, the chief of the tribe of Aus, rather than to that of the Holy Prophet. Sa'd decided the case according to the Mosaic Law (Deut: 20:10-15).

2348. The allusion here seems to be either to the lands of Khaibar or to the eventual conquest of Persian and Roman Empires and of the countries beyond, upon which Muslims had not so far set their feet.

2349. As the Holy Prophet's wives were to serve as a model in social behaviour, it was in the fitness of things that they should have been required to set an example in self-denial. Not that the use of money and the amenities of life were completely forbidden to them, but they were certainly expected to set a very high standard of self-abnegation. It is to this high standard of the sacrifice of material benefits and of an affluent and easy living to which the present and the following few verses refer. The companionship of the Holy Prophet demanded this sacrifice, and his wives were told to make a choice between comfortable life and his companionship.

2350. If they prefer physical comforts, which is the significance of the word Fāḥishah (Lane) used in the verse, they would be setting a very bad example, and as wives of the Holy Prophet whose example was bound to be followed by other women they would be incurring a grave responsibility and would, therefore, deserve double punishment. On the other hand, if they were devoted to God and His Messenger and had set a noble example of self-denial for others to copy, their reward would also be double.

2351. The masculine gender for the verb Yaqnut is used because of the subject man which is invariably followed by a verb in the masculine gender.

out as many times as she may require for the performance of a legitimate errand or the satisfaction of a legitimate need. But to move about in mixed society and take part in all sorts of avocations and professions, shoulder to shoulder with man, and to do so to the neglect and detriment of her special domestic duties as the mistress of the house is not the Islamic conception of ideal womanhood. The Holy Prophet's wives were particularly required to 'stay in their houses' because the dignity of their exalted position as 'Mothers of the Faithful' demanded this and also because Muslims often visited them to pay their respects and sought necessary guidance from them on important religious matters. The commandment equally applies to all Muslim women. It is the Quranic way of address that while it appears to be particularly addressing the Holy Prophet, the address is meant equally for all Muslims. Similarly, a commandment addressed to the wives of the Holy Prophet applies also to all Muslim women.

The expression Ahlul-Bait applies principally and primarily to the Holy Prophet's wives. This is quite clear from the context and also from vv. 11:74 and 28:13. In its wider sense, however, it includes all members of a family who form one's household, even one's children and children's children. The expression had also been used by the Holy Prophet for some of his select Companions. 'Salmān is a member of our household' is a well-known saying of the Holy Prophet (Ṣaghīr).

2354. The Holy Prophet's noble consorts were required not only to serve as model of virtue, piety and righteousness for the Faithful but to teach them the principles and precepts of Islām which they had learnt direct from the Holy Prophet.

2355. This verse embodies a most effective repudiation of the charge that Islām accords a lower status to women. According to the Qur'ān women stand on the same level with men, and they can attain to all those spiritual heights to which men can attain and enjoy all those political and social rights which men enjoy. Only their spheres of activities being different, their duties are different. It is this difference in duties of both the sexes that has mistakenly, or perhaps deliberately, been misunderstood by hostile critics of Islām as implying a lower status for women.

And call to mind when thou didst say to him on whom Allāh had bestowed favours and on whom thou also hadst bestowed favours:[2357] 'Keep thy wife to thyself, and fear Allāh,' and thou didst conceal in thy heart what Allāh was going to bring to light, and thou didst fear the people, whereas Allāh has better right that thou shouldst fear Him. Then, when Zaid had accomplished his want concerning her,[2357A] We joined her in marriage to thee, so that there may be no difficulty for the believers with regard to marriage with the wives of their adopted 2356. The immediate occasion for the revelation of this verse may have been Zainab's hesitation to comply with the Holy Prophet's greatly cherished wish that she should marry Zaid, his freed slave. It goes to Zainab's credit that in deference to the Prophet's wish she agreed to her marriage with Zaid, much against her personal inclination. The Holy Prophet did not press her to accept Zaid as her husband. She only deferred to the wish of the Holy Prophet.

2357. Zaid bin Ḥārith, a young freed man of the Holy Prophet whom he had adopted as his son before adoption was declared unlawful in Islām.

2357A. Had divorced her; Waṭar means, need; want; an object of want (Lane).

sons, when they have accomplished their wants concerning them. And Allāh's decree was bound to be fulfilled.[2357B]

2357B. Zainab was the daughter of the Holy Prophet's aunt, hence a full-blooded Arab lady, intensely proud of her ancestry and exalted social status. Islām had envisaged and given to the world a civilization and culture in which there were no class divisions, no hereditary nobility, no vested interests. All men were free and equal in the sight of God. The Holy Prophet wanted to start with his own family to carry into actual effect this noble ideal of Islām. He wished to marry Zainab to Zaid, who in spite of having been freed by the Prophet, unfortunately still carried the stigma of slavery in the minds of some people. It was exactly this stigma of slavery, this invidious distinction between 'free' and 'slave' which the Holy Prophet sought to remove by Zainab's marriage with Zaid. In deference to the Holy Prophet's wish Zainab agreed to the proposal. The purpose of the Holy Prophet was achieved. The marriage levelled to the ground class distinctions and divisions. It was a practical demonstration of Islām's noble ideal. But the marriage unfortunately ended in failure, not so much due to a difference in the social status of Zainab and Zaid as to the incompatibility of their dispositions and temperaments and also due to a feeling of inferiority from which Zaid himself suffered. The failure of the marriage naturally grieved the Holy Prophet. But it also served a very useful purpose. In pursuance of a Divine command, as mentioned in the latter part of the verse, the Holy Prophet himself married Zainab, thus cutting at the very root of the obnoxious and deep-seated Arab custom that it was a sacrilege to marry the wife of one's adopted son. The custom of adoption was abolished and with it went also this foolish notion. Thus Zainab's marriage with Zaid served one very noble object and its failure another.

The words 'fear Allāh' signify that Zaid wanted to divorce Zainab, and as divorce according to Islām is very hateful in the sight of God, the Holy Prophet exhorted him not to do so. The clause and… thou shouldst fear Him, may apply to both Zaid and the Holy Prophet. Applying to Zaid it would mean that Zaid did not like that the cause of his separation from Zainab should come to light, perhaps because as the words 'fear Allāh' indicate the fault lay more with him than with Zainab. As, however, applying to the Holy Prophet, it would signify that as the marriage between Zaid and Zainab was arranged at his instance and wish, he naturally did not like its breach. The clause also shows that the Prophet feared that the breakdown of the marriage which resulted in an ostensible failure of the experiment in Islamic brotherhood, would cause some mental confusion and uneasiness among people whose faith was weak. This was the anxiety that lay heavy on the Prophet's heart. The words, 'thou didst fear the people,' seem to point to this fear of his.

Some Christian critics of Islām pretend to find in the Holy Prophet's marriage with Zainab a basis for mean attacks on him. It is stated that the Prophet, having by chance seen Zainab, became enamoured of her beauty and Zaid, having come to know of his desire to marry her, sought divorce from her. The fact that the Holy Prophet's most inveterate enemies, before whose eyes the whole affair had actually taken place, dared not attribute the base motives ascribed to him by these critics after so many centuries, completely knocks the bottom from under this base and totally unfounded charge. Zainab was the Prophet's own cousin and, being so closely related to him, he must have seen her many times before "Pardah" was enjoined. Besides, it was in deference to his own persistently expressed wish that Zainab had reluctantly agreed to marry Zaid. It is on record that she and her brother had desired before her marriage with Zaid that she should be taken into marriage by the Holy Prophet himself. What was it that prevented the Holy Prophet from marrying her when she was a virgin and when she herself desired to get married to him? The whole story evidently seems to be a figment of the "fertile" imagination of the Holy Prophet's hostile critics and it is an insult to human intellect to give credence to it.

2358. The reference in the words is to the Holy Prophet's marriage with Zainab. The words show that his marriage took place in obedience to express Divine command.

but he is the Messenger of Allāh, and the Seal of the Prophets[2359] and Allāh has full knowledge of all things.

وَلٰكِنْ رَّسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ وَخَاتَمَ النَّبِيّٖنَ ؕ وَكَانَ اللّٰهُ بِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ عَلِيْمًا ﴿۴۱﴾ ع

2359. Khātam is derived from Khatama which means, he sealed, stamped, impressed or imprinted the thing. This is the primary signification of this word. The secondary meaning is he reached the end of the thing; or covered the thing; or protected what is in a writing by marking or stamping a piece of clay upon it, or by means of a seal of any kind. Khātam means, a signet ring; a seal or stamp and a mark; the end or last part or portion and result or issue of a thing. The word also signifies embellishment or ornament; the best and most perfect. The words Khātim and Khatm and Khātam are almost synonymous (Lane, Mufradāt, Fatḥ & Zurqānī). So the expression Khātamun-Nabiyyīn would mean, the Seal of the Prophets; the best and most perfect of the Prophets; the embellishment and ornament of the Prophets. Secondarily it means, the last of the Prophets.

At Mecca when all the Holy Prophet's male children had died in their childhood, his enemies taunted him with being Abtar (one who has no male issue), meaning that in the absence of male heirs to succeed him his Movement would sooner or later come to an end (Muḥīṭ). In answer to this taunt of disbelievers it was emphatically declared in Sūrah Kauthar that not the Prophet but his enemies would remain issueless. After the revelation of Sūrah Kauthar the idea naturally found favour with early Muslims that the Prophet would be blessed with Sons who would live to an adult age. The verse under comment removed that misconception inasmuch as it declared that the Prophet is not, never was, nor will ever be the father of any grown-up young men (Rijāl meaning grown-up young men). The verse while appearing to be in conflict with Sūrah Kauthar in which not the Holy Prophet but his enemies were threatened with being issueless, in reality seeks to set at rest doubts and misgivings to which this seeming contradiction gives rise. It says that the Holy Prophet is Rasūlullāh, signifying that he is the spiritual father of a whole Ummah and he is also Khātamun-Nabiyyīn, signifying that he is the spiritual father of all the Prophets. So when he is the spiritual father of all believers and of all Prophets, how can he be said to be Abtar (issueless). If the expression be taken to mean that he is the last of the Prophets and that no Prophet will come after him, then the verse would appear to be out of tune and to possess no relevance with the context, and instead of refuting the taunt of disbelievers that the Holy Prophet was issueless, would support and reinforce it. Briefly, according to the meaning of the word Khātam, given above, the expression Khātamun-Nabiyyīn can have four possible meanings: (1) The Holy Prophet was the Seal of the Prophets, i.e. no Prophet can be regarded as true unless his Prophethood bears the seal of the Holy Prophet. The Prophethood of every past Prophet must be confirmed and testified to by the Holy Prophet, and also nobody can attain to Prophethood after him except by being his follower. (2) The Holy Prophet was the best, the noblest and the most perfect of all the Prophets and he was also a source of embellishment for them (Zurqānī, Sharaḥ Mawāhibul-Ladunniyyah). (3) The Holy Prophet was the last of the law-bearing Prophets. This interpretation has been accepted by eminent Muslim theologians, saints and savants such as Ibn-e-'Arabī, Shāh Waliyullāh, Imām 'Alī Qārī, Mujaddid Alf Thānī, and others. According to these great scholars and saints no Prophet can come after the Holy Prophet who could abrogate his Millah or who should be from outside his Ummah (Futūḥāt, Tafhīmāt, Maktūbāt & Yawāqītu wal-Jawāhir). 'Ā'ishah, the talented spouse of the Holy Prophet, is reported to have said, 'Say that he (the Holy Prophet) is Khātamun-Nabiyyīn, but do not say that there will be no Prophet after him' (Manthūr). (4) The Holy Prophet was the last of the Prophets only in this sense that all the qualities and attributes of Prophethood found their most perfect and complete consummation and expression in him; Khātam in the sense of being the last word in excellence and perfection is of common use. Moreover the Qur'ān clearly speaks of the advent of Prophets after the Holy Prophet (7:36). The Holy Prophet himself was clear in his mind as to the continuity of Prophethood after him. He is reported to have said: 'If Ibrāhīm (his son) had remained alive, he would have been a Prophet' (Mājah, Kitābul-Janā'iz), and, 'Abū Bakr is best of men after me, except that a Prophet should appear' (Kanz).

2360. As the sun is the central point in the physical universe, so is the Holy Prophet the central point in the spiritual realm. He is the sun in the firmament of Prophets and Heavenly Reformers who like so many stars and moons revolve round him and borrow light from him. He is reported to have said: 'My Companions are like so many stars; whomsoever of them you follow you will be rightly guided' (Ṣaghīr).

So make some provision for them and send them away in a handsome manner.[2361]

51. O Prophet! We have made lawful to thee thy wives whom thou hast paid their dowries, and those whom thy right hand possesses from among those whom Allāh has given thee as gains of war, and the daughters of thy paternal uncle, and the daughters of thy paternal aunts, and the daughters of thy maternal uncle, and the daughters of thy maternal aunts who have emigrated with thee and any other believing woman if she offers herself for marriage to the Prophet provided the Prophet desires to marry her; this provision is only for thee, and not for other believers—We have already made known what We have enjoined on them concerning their wives and those whom their right hands possess—in order that there may be no difficulty for thee in explaining the Law to them.

2361. The words, and send them away in a handsome manner, signify (1) that no reproach or disgrace should be considered to attach to the divorced woman; (2) that the divorced woman should ordinarily be paid more than her part of the stipulated dower, and (3) that after divorce her freedom to act as she likes with regard to herself should not be interfered with.

And Allāh is Most Forgiving,
Merciful.[2362]

2362. This verse should be read along with vv. 29 and 30 above, in which the wives of the Holy Prophet were offered a choice between his companionship and the material benefits and comforts of life, and they preferred the Prophet's company. The present verse, by implication, refers to that reply of the Prophet's consorts which is recorded in the books of history but expressly nowhere in the Qur'ān. Till they gave their reply, the physical relations between them and the Holy Prophet remained, as it were, in a state of suspension. While the wives of the Holy Prophet preferred his company to material goods and amenities of life, he too had great consideration for their feelings, and though he was given the choice to retain such of them as he liked (v. 52), he did not exercise the choice and retained all of them.

The Holy Prophet's marriages were motivated by highly noble considerations and not by those imputed to him by his ignorant and ignoble critics. With the solitary exception of his marriage with 'Ā'ishah, which later circumstances fully justified, he married only widows or divorced women. He married Ḥafṣah whose husband was killed in the battle of Badr; Zainab bint Khuzaimah whose husband was killed in the battle of Uḥud; Umm-e-Salmah whose husband died in 4 A.H.; and Umm-e-Ḥabībah, daughter of Abū Ṣufyān, who became a widow in 5 or 6 A.H. (in exile in Abyssinia). He married Juwairiyah and Ṣafiyyah, both widows, in 5 A.H. and 7 A.H. respectively, seeking a union with and pacification of their tribes. It is worthy of note that a hundred families of the Banī Muṣṭaliq were liberated by Muslims when the Holy Prophet married Juwairiyah. Maimūnah, another widow, it is said, offered herself to be taken in marriage by the Holy Prophet which offer he condescended to accept in the interest of the education and training of Muslim women. He married Zainab, the divorced wife of Zaid in 5 A.H., in order to put a stop to a foolish custom prevailing among the Arabs and in order also to assuage her wounded feelings as the respected lady had felt deeply humiliated at being divorced by Zaid. He married Māriah in 7 A.H. and thus by raising a freed slave girl to the highly eminent spiritual status of the "Mother of the Faithful" he gave a death blow to slavery. Such were the pious and righteous motives of our noble Master in marrying widows and divorced women, by no means noted for their youth or beauty. His critics deliberately ignore the patent fact that up to the age of 25 he lived the spotless life of a celibate. Then in the prime of his youth he married a lady many years his senior and lived with her a most happy life till he was an old man of fifty and she about sixty-five. After her death he married Saudah, another lady of very advanced age. He married all his other wives, to which exception has been taken by evil-minded carpers, between 2 A.H. and 7 A.H., a period when he was constantly engaged in active fighting and his life was perpetually in danger and the fate of Islām itself hung in the balance. Could any sane person in such situation of danger and uncertainty conceive of contracting marriage after marriage from bad motives such as are attributed to the Holy Prophet by his evil-minded critics? After this he lived for about three years as virtual ruler of the whole of Arabia when all the comforts and amenities of life were at his disposal, and yet he entered into no further marriage. Does not this fact alone establish the honesty and sincerity of the Holy Prophet's motives in contracting his marriages?

The words 'if she offers herself for marriage to the Prophet' have been taken as specially referring to Maimūnah who is reported to have offered herself to be taken into marriage by the Holy Prophet. The clause, this provision is only for thee and not for other believers, means that it was a special privilege of the Holy Prophet and was due to the special nature of his duties as a Divine Prophet. The clause may also refer to the special permission granted to the Holy Prophet, to retain all his wives, after the commandment contained in 4:4 was revealed limiting to four the number of wives allowed to Muslims at one time. The words, We have already made known what We have enjoined on them concerning their wives, refer to the commandment contained in 4:4, according to which only four wives at the most at a time are allowed to a Muslim. But in view of the Holy Prophet's own and of his wives' very high spiritual status and other spiritual and moral considerations, exception was made in the case of the Holy Prophet in the opening words of this verse.

2363. Whereas, on the one hand, the wives of the Holy Prophet were given

53. It is not allowed to thee to marry women after that, nor to change them for other wives[2364] even, though their goodness please thee, except any that thy right hand possesses. And Allāh is Watchful over all things.

54. O ye who believe! enter not the houses of the Prophet unless leave is granted to you for a meal, not waiting till it is cooked.[2364A] But enter when you are invited, and when you have had your meal, disperse, without seeking to engage in talk.[2365] That causes inconvenience to the option to choose between his companionship and the material comforts of life and worldly goods (33:29, 30), on the other, the Holy Prophet was also given the choice to retain or part with any of his wives. All his wives lost no time in indicating their preference. They chose to cast in their lot with him. The Holy Prophet, on his part, was equally considerate. He signified his intention to retain all of them. This decision of the Prophet greatly pleased them. This is the meaning of the words: that they may all be pleased with that which thou hast given them.

2364. This verse was revealed in 7 A.H. after which the Holy Prophet contracted no further marriage. He was also not allowed to divorce any of the existing wives, possibly in deference to their dignity as "Mothers of the Faithful" and perhaps also because they had preferred the rigour and austerity of the Holy Prophet's domestic life to worldly comforts. God appreciated their sacrifice and forbade the Holy Prophet to marry any more wife or to divorce any of the existing wives.

2366. The commandment is intended to discourage too much familiarity between the sexes, the pronoun hunna (them) by implication applying to all women.

2367. Marriage with the widows of the Holy Prophet has been declared a grievous sin in this verse. Being the "Mothers of the Faithful" it was inconsistent with their spiritual dignity that any of their "spiritual sons" should 2368. By 'maligning Allāh' is meant 'seeking to put obstacles in the way of the cause of truth' and by 'maligning His Messenger,' is meant 'seeking to slander and defame him.'

2369. Jalābīb (outer cloaks) is the plural of Jilbāb which means, (a) a woman's outer wrapping garment; (b) a garment that envelops the whole body; (c) a garment worn by a woman that entirely envelops the body so that not even a hand is left uncovered (Lane). Islamic "Pardah" serves a double purpose. It enjoins privacy and recommends decorum and dignified behaviour. Women are not allowed to meet men promiscuously, and they are also expected to observe certain rules regarding dress when going out of their houses. For a detailed discussion of the subject of "Pardah" see [2044].

2370. The Hypocrites and Jews of Medina sought to put all sorts of obstacles in the way of Islām, the main weapon in their armoury against it being the spreading of false news. This capacity to create mischief received a severe setback when the defeat and dispersion of the confederated armies added vastly to its political power and prestige. The expression, Lanughriyannaka bi-him, also means 'We shall surely make thee take action against them, or give thee authority over them.'

2371. Ignominy and humiliation have dogged the footsteps of the ill-fated Jewish people throughout the ages. Their return to Palestine and the establishment of the State of Israel seems to be only a temporary phase.

[a]19:52, 53. [b]4:14; 24:53; 48:18.

(1) Korah induced a woman to bring against him a charge of illicit connection with her. (2) Having become jealous of Aaron's increasing influence with his people, Moses sought to kill him. (3) He was a victim of leprosy and syphilis; and (4) Sāmirī charged him with idolatry. (5) His own sister brought false accusations against him.

2374. Ḥamalal-Amānata means, he took upon himself or accepted the trust; he betrayed it. Ẓalūm is the intensive form of Ẓālim which is active participle from Ẓalama, which means, he put the thing in a wrong place; and Ẓalama-hū means, he imposed upon himself a burden which it was beyond his power or ability to bear. Jahūl is the intensive form of Jāhil which means, neglectful; foolish; heedless (Lane).

Man is gifted with great natural capacities and powers to assimilate and manifest in his person Divine attributes and to become the image of his Creator (2:31). This is, indeed, a great trust which man, alone of all the universe, was found capable of discharging; other beings and things—the angels, the heavens, the earth and the mountains being quite unequal to it. They refused, as it were, to bear it. Man accepted this responsibility because لِّيُعَذِّبَ اللّٰهُ الْمُنٰفِقِيْنَ وَالْمُنٰفِقٰتِ وَالْمُشْرِكِيْنَ وَالْمُشْرِكٰتِ وَيَتُوْبَ اللّٰهُ عَلَى الْمُؤْمِنِيْنَ وَالْمُؤْمِنٰتِ ؕ وَكَانَ اللّٰهُ غَفُوْرًا رَّحِيْمًا ﴿۷۴﴾ ع ۴

74. The consequence is that Allāh will punish hypocritical men and hypocritical women, and idolatrous men and idolatrous women; [a]and Allāh turns in mercy to believing men and believing women; and Allāh is Most Forgiving, Merciful.

he alone could discharge it. He is capable of being Ẓalūm (unjust to himself) and Jahūl (neglectful of himself) i.e. he could be unjust to himself in the sense that he could bear any hardship and undergo any sacrifice for the sake of his Creator, and he is capable of being neglectful or heedless in the sense that in the discharge of his great and sacred trust he could be neglectful of his own interest and desire for a life of ease and comfort. (2) Taking al-Amānat (trust) in the sense of the Law of the Qur'ān and al-Insān signifying the perfect man, i.e. the Holy Prophet, the verse would mean that of all the denizens of the heavens and the earth, the Holy Prophet alone was found to be capable of being entrusted with the revelation of the most perfect and final Law—the Qur'ān, because no other man or being was endowed with those great qualities which were indispensable for the full and adequate discharge of this great responsibility. (3) Taking Ḥamala in the sense of betraying or proving false to a trust, the verse would mean that the trust of the Divine Law was imposed upon man and other terrestrial and celestial beings. All of them with the exception of man refused to betray this trust, that is, they carried out fully and faithfully all the laws to which they were made subject. The whole nature was true to its laws and the angels also carried out their duties loyally and faithfully (16:50. 51). It is man alone who having been endowed with discretion and volition, defies and violates Divine commandments because he is unjust and neglects and ignores his duties and responsibilities. This meaning of the verse is supported by 41:12.

CHAPTER 34

SABĀ'

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation, Title and Context

The Sūrah was revealed at Mecca. It is difficult to assign it a definite date. Some scholars place it in the Middle Meccan Period; some others like Rodwell and Noldeke give it a later date. The preceding several Chapters embodied prophecies about the rise, progress and the ultimate victory of Islām over other Faiths, while in the immediately preceding Chapter, Al-Aḥzāb, the subject was dealt with at some length; how the combined forces of darkness utterly failed in their nefarious designs to destroy Islām and how Islām emerged from one of the severest ordeals with flying colours; its power and prestige having been considerably enhanced. In the present Sūrah, however, Muslims have been warned that they should be on their guard against falling into bad ways because when wealth and prosperity come to a people they are prone to give themselves up to a life of ease and luxury. Since God has no particular relation with any community for all time, if Muslims in the heyday of their glory and material prosperity led a life of sin—as did the Sabaeans or the Israelites after Solomon—they too would suffer the same fate.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with the celebration of the praises of Allāh 'to Whom belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth,' implying that as God is Great and Almighty a people who seek to defy His authority are sure to meet with failure and frustration. It proceeds to say that disbelievers delude themselves into the belief that their rejection of the Message of Islām will go unpunished and that 'the Hour will never come upon them.' They are warned that their power will break and their glory depart and that this fact will constitute a proof of the truth of the Holy Prophet's mission. Next, the Sūrah makes a somewhat detailed reference to Prophets David and Solomon, who made vast conquests and subdued rebellious tribes and in whose reigns the Israelite power and glory rose to its zenith. But in the pride of their power and prosperity the Israelites fell into evil ways and began to lead a life of sin. This reference to the Israelites is followed by a reference to the Sabaeans who were a highly prosperous and cultured people, but who like the Israelites defied and disobeyed Divine commandments and like them incurred the displeasure of God and were destroyed by a mighty flood. By referring to the might, glory and prosperity of the Israelites under David and Solomon, and to that of the Sabaeans, and to the subsequent destruction of both, the Sūrah gives a warning to Muslims that wealth, power and prosperity will also be bestowed on them, but if in the heyday of their glory they, like the Israelites and the Sabaeans, gave themselves up to a life of luxury and ease, they will be punished like them. Next, the Sūrah deals with its main theme, viz. the progressive rise of the cause of Islām and the sad fate that is in store for idol-worshippers and their false deities. The disbelievers are challenged to call upon their deities to obstruct the progress of Islām, and to arrest the decline and downfall of their own false ideals and institutions. They are told that no power on earth could stop this from happening. In order to make them realize that their cause was destined to perish and Islām to sweep away everything before it, they are further told to study the operation of the laws of nature, which were all working in its favour. In answer to the disbelievers' demand as to when the prophecy about the rise and progress of Islām will be fulfilled, the Sūrah goes so far as to fix a definite date for it. Its signs, it says, will begin to appear about a year after the Flight of the Holy Prophet from Mecca when the Quraishites, by expelling him from his native town, will render themselves deserving of Divine punishment. After this the Sūrah observes that whenever a Divine Reformer makes his appearance it is the vested interests and privileged classes that stand in his way. They feel and apprehend that the rise of the new Movement will weaken their hold on the poor people who, by accepting the new Message, will refuse to be exploited or suppressed any more. So they fight it tooth and nail and try to nip it in the bud and the suppressed and exploited classes are, by threats and intimidation, dragooned into accepting their lead and opposing the Divine Reformer. Towards its close the Sūrah refers to a simple criterion by which it could be easily found out that the Holy Prophet is neither an impostor nor a maniac but a true Prophet of God. An impostor, it says, is never allowed to prosper and eventually comes to a sad end but the cause of the Prophet is progressing, and a madman cannot bring about such a wonderful revolution in the life of a whole people as the Holy Prophet has done.

2375. Five Chapters of the Qur'ān, i.e. 1st, 6th, 18th, 35th and the present one, begin with the words 'All praise is due to Allāh.' All these Chapters, expressly or by implication, deal with the subject of the Lordship, Almightiness and Majesty of God.

2376. The words, 'His is all praise in the Hereafter' refer to the time when Islām again will become triumphant after its temporary decline. The allusion in this verse is to the subject dealt with in 32:6. It signifies that it is God alone Who knows what kind of teaching is needed in a particular age. Similarly, it is He who knows when to take back to heaven the teaching which had descended from it, after it has been corrupted by the people, just as He takes water back to heaven in the form of vapours after it becomes corrupt, and sends it down in a purified form in the shape of rain. The words, 'whatever goes into the earth and whatever comes forth from it,' may also signify that whatever man shall sow, so shall he reap. Good actions produce good results and bad deeds lead to evil consequences. The verse may also be taken as signifying that God is aware of every phenomenon and every event, including the rise and fall of nations.

2378. The words, 'We could cause the earth to sink with them,' refer to the Signs of the earth; and the words 'or cause pieces of the sky to fall upon them' allude to heavenly Signs.

2378A. Mountain tribes. For a similar expression see 12:83.

2378B. See 1907.

2379. The expression, 'And We made the iron soft for him,' shows that the art of making implements of war from iron was very much developed by David and he freely made use of it for making coats of mail as the next verse shows.

2380. Solomon's dominions extended from northern Syria along the coast of the eastern Mediterranean down to the Red Sea, along the Arabian Sea and up to the Persian Gulf. In fact, in Solomon's time, the Israelite Empire had reached its zenith in wealth, power and prestige as the word Rīḥ which, among other things, means power and conquests, (Lane), used in the verse, shows. The verse also shows that Solomon possessed a large mercantile navy (I Kings, 9:26-28 & Jew. Enc. vol. Xl. p. 437) and that industry and craftsmanship had greatly developed under him and that he had also conquered and pressed into service wild and rebellious mountain tribes (II Chron. 4:1,2 & 2:18).

15. And when We decreed his (Solomon's) death, nothing indicated to them that he was dead save a worm of the earth[2382] that ate away his staff. So when it fell down, the jinn plainly realized that if they had known the unseen, they would not have remained in a state of degrading tonnent.[2383]

لَقَدْ كَانَ لِسَبَاٍ فِيْ مَسْكَنِهِمْ اٰيَةٌ ۚ جَنَّتٰنِ

[a]21:81.

2381. Besides being a highly prosperous, powerful and civilized monarch, Solomon was the prince of builders among Israelite rulers. He had a special taste for architecture which had greatly developed under him. The Temple of Jerusalem bears an eloquent testimony to his fine architectural taste.

2382. Solomon's worthless son and successor, Rehoboam, under whose weak rule Solomon's great and mighty Kingdom fell to pieces (1 Kings, chaps. 12, 13, 14 & Jewish. Enc. under "Rehoboam").

2383. Disruption and disintegration of Solomon's Kingdom set in in Rehoboam's time.

2383A. Sabā', as is mentioned under 27:23, was a city of Yemen situated about three days' journey from Ṣan'ā', also called Ma'ārib. This town finds frequent references in the Old Testament and in Greek, Roman and Arabic literatures, especially in the south Arabian inscriptions. The Sabaeans were a highly prosperous and cultured people whom God had blessed in great abundance with all the comforts and amenities of life. The whole country was made very fertile by dams and other irrigation works and was full of gardens and streams. Of public works built to assist agriculture like barriers and dams the most celebrated was the dam of Ma'ārib (Enc. of Islām, vol.4, p.16). Tirmidhī quotes a tradition on the authority of Farwah bin Mālik that when homeland—two gardens, one on the right hand and one on the left; and We said to them, 'Eat of the provision of your Lord and give thanks to Him. Your town is a beautiful town and your Lord Most Forgiving.'

عَنْ يَّمِيْنٍ وَّ شِمَالٍ ؕ كُلُوْا مِنْ رِّزْقِ رَبِّكُمْ وَاشْكُرُوْا لَهٗ ؕ بَلْدَةٌ طَيِّبَةٌ وَّ رَبٌّ غَفُوْرٌ ﴿۱۶﴾

فَاَعْرَضُوْا فَاَرْسَلْنَا عَلَيْهِمْ سَيْلَ الْعَرِمِ وَبَدَّلْنٰهُمْ بِجَنَّتَيْهِمْ جَنَّتَيْنِ ذَوَاتَيْ اُكُلٍ خَمْطٍ وَّ اَثْلٍ وَّ شَيْءٍ مِّنْ سِدْرٍ قَلِيْلٍ ﴿۱۷﴾

17. But they turned away; so We sent against them a devastating flood.[2384] And We gave them, in place of their two excellent gardens, two gardens bearing bitter fruit and containing tamarisk and a few lote-trees.

ذٰلِكَ جَزَيْنٰهُمْ بِمَا كَفَرُوْا ؕ وَهَلْ نُجٰزِيْٓ اِلَّا الْكَفُوْرَ ﴿۱۸﴾

18. Thus We requited them because of their ingratitude; and it is only the ungrateful that We requite in this manner.

وَجَعَلْنَا بَيْنَهُمْ وَبَيْنَ الْقُرَى الَّتِيْ بٰرَكْنَا فِيْهَا قُرًى ظَاهِرَةً وَّ قَدَّرْنَا فِيْهَا السَّيْرَ ؕ

19. And We placed, between them and the towns which We had blessed, other towns that were prominently visible, and asked whether Sabā' was the name of a land or of a woman, the Holy Prophet is reported to have said, 'It is neither the name of a land nor that of a woman, but the name of a man in Yemen who had ten sons. Six of them remained back in Yemen while four of them went to Syria and made it their home' (Tāj).

2384. 'Arim means, a dam or dams constructed in valleys or torrent-beds; or a torrent of which the rush is not to be withstood; or violent rain (Lane). A mighty flood caused the dam of Ma'ārib, to which the Sabaeans owed all their prosperity, to burst and inundate the whole area causing widespread ruin. A land full of beautiful gardens, streams and great works of art, was turned into a vast waste. The dam was about two miles long and 120 ft. high. It was destroyed about the first or second century A.D. (Palmer).

سِيْرُوْا فِيْهَا لَيَالِيَ وَاَيَّامًا اٰمِنِيْنَ ﴿١٩﴾

We fixed easy stages[2385] between them and said: 'Travel in them by night and day in security.'

فَقَالُوْا رَبَّنَا بٰعِدْ بَيْنَ اَسْفَارِنَا وَظَلَمُوْٓا اَنْفُسَهُمْ فَجَعَلْنٰهُمْ اَحَادِيْثَ وَمَزَّقْنٰهُمْ كُلَّ مُمَزَّقٍ ۭ اِنَّ فِيْ ذٰلِكَ لَاٰيٰتٍ لِّكُلِّ صَبَّارٍ شَكُوْرٍ ﴿٢٠﴾

20. But instead of giving thanks to God they said, 'Our Lord, place longer distances between the stages of our journeys.' And they wronged themselves; so We made them bywords and We broke them into pieces, an utter breaking up.[2386] In that, verily, are Signs for every steadfast and grateful person.

وَلَقَدْ صَدَّقَ عَلَيْهِمْ اِبْلِيْسُ ظَنَّهٗ فَاتَّبَعُوْهُ اِلَّا فَرِيْقًا مِّنَ الْمُؤْمِنِيْنَ ﴿٢١﴾

21. And Iblīs, indeed, found true his judgment concerning them,[2387] so [a]they followed him, all except a party of true believers.

2385. The words, 'the towns which We had blessed,' refer to the towns of Palestine, the seat of Solomon's government with which the Sabaeans carried on prosperous trade. The words, 'towns that were prominently visible,' signify that the towns were situated so near each other as to be easily visible, or the words may mean, prominent towns and show that the route from Yemen to Palestine and Syria vas very frequented, safe and well-populated. According to Muir there were 70 stages or stops from Ḥaḍarmaut to Ailāh on the road from Yemen to Syria. It was a very frequented and safe route, flanked on both sides by shady trees.

2386. The words put in the mouth of the Sabaeans, in fact, describe their actual condition when they defied and disobeyed Divine commandments and consequently fell on evil days. The prosperous and frequented route became deserted and desolate. The words, 'place longer distances between the stages of our journeys,' signify that because many towns on the route fell into ruin, the distance between one stage to the other became much longer and less safe. The Sabaeans were so utterly destroyed that no sign or mark was left of them. They became only a subject for story-tellers.

2387. By their evil deeds the people of Sabā' justified Satan's estimate that he would be successful in leading them astray. The reference to this estimate 2392. The intercessors or the Messengers of God.

2393. As surely, we (the believers) are on the right, so surely, you (the disbelievers) are in error.

2394. The verse generally is taken as referring to the Fall of Mecca when it was decided beyond a shadow of doubt as to which of the two parties—Muslims or disbelievers—was 'on right guidance' and which in manifest error.' It was after that great victory that a union of hearts was brought about between Muslims and their adversaries.

2395. The Holy Prophet has been repeatedly declared in the Qur'ān as

30. [a]And they say, 'When will this promise be fulfilled, if you are truthful?'

32. And those who disbelieve say, 'We will never believe in this Qur'ān nor in what is before it.' Couldst thou but see [c]when the wrongdoers will be made to stand before their Lord, casting the blame on one another? Those who were deemed weak will say to those who were arrogant, 'Had it not been for you, we should, surely, have been believers.'[2397]

2400. Wealth, power and position are not the means of achieving nearness to God. On the contrary, they tend to keep men away from Him. It is right belief and good actions which are man's real wealth and which can bring him salvation and God's pleasure.

قُلْ إِنَّ رَبِّى يَقْذِفُ بِٱلْحَقِّ ۚ عَلَّٰمُ ٱلْغُيُوبِ ﴿٤٩﴾

49. Say, 'Truly, My Lord hurls the Truth at falsehood and breaks it into pieces. He is [c]the Great Knower of the unseen.'

قُلْ جَآءَ ٱلْحَقُّ وَمَا يُبْدِئُ ٱلْبَٰطِلُ وَمَا يُعِيدُ ﴿٥٠﴾

2403. The verse recommends an objective and detached examination of the Holy Prophet's claim. The disbelievers are urged to ponder dispassionately without prejudice and without being influenced by crowd mentality, whether the Holy Prophet suffers from insanity or unsoundness of mind.

2404. The words, 'nor reproduce it,' embody a mighty prophecy that idolatry will never regain a foothold in Arabia. It will disappear from that country for ever.

قُلْ اِنْ ضَلَلْتُ فَاِنَّمَآ اَضِلُّ عَلٰى نَفْسِىْ ۚ وَاِنِ اهْتَدَيْتُ فَبِمَا يُوْحِىْٓ اِلَىَّ رَبِّىْ ؕ اِنَّهٗ سَمِيْعٌ قَرِيْبٌ ﴿۵۱﴾

53. And they will say, 'We now believe therein.' But how can they attain faith from a position so far-off?[2405]

وَّقَدْ كَفَرُوْا بِهٖ مِنْ قَبْلُ ۚ وَيَقْذِفُوْنَ بِالْغَيْبِ مِنْ مَّكَانٍۢ بَعِيْدٍ ﴿۵۴﴾

وَحِيْلَ بَيْنَهُمْ وَبَيْنَ مَا يَشْتَهُوْنَ كَمَا فُعِلَ بِاَشْيَاعِهِمْ مِّنْ قَبْلُ ؕ اِنَّهُمْ كَانُوْا فِىْ شَكٍّ مُّرِيْبٍ ﴿۵۵﴾ ع ۱۲

55. And a barrier will be placed between them and that which they long for, as was done with the like of them before.[2406] They too were in disquieting doubt.

[a]2:187; 11:62.

2405. The words may mean "after death" and the verse may signify that disbelievers will surely, realize after death that they were in the wrong. Disbelievers make foolish conjectures about the failure of the Prophet's mission, which being far removed from the source of "the unseen" or from reality, reason and truth are foolish and baseless.

2406. The opponents of Islām are here told that like the rejectors of the Prophets of yore they will also utterly fail to realize their heart's desire—failure of the mission of the Holy Prophet.

CHAPTER 35
FĀṬIR
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah was revealed at Mecca, probably at the time at which the preceding Sūrah was revealed. In that Sūrah Muslims were told that like the Israelites they will be given wealth, power, prosperity and prestige and that if in the heyday of their glory and greatness they consigned God to oblivion and abandoned themselves to a life of luxury and ease, they will draw upon their heads His wrath as did the Israelites before them. In the present Sūrah they are promised honour and eminence through the Qur'ān whose commandments they should not fail to observe.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with the declaration that all praise belongs to God Who is the Originator of the heavens and the earth. The declaration implies that being the Creator of the universe God has not only provided for the physical needs of man but also for his moral and spiritual needs, and that for this purpose He has created angels through whose instrumentality He controls the physical universe and conveys His Will to men. It further says that since the creation of man God has been sending Prophets and Messengers to convey His Will and that now He has decreed to bestow His mercy upon mankind in the form of the Qur'ān. After this announcement of the bestowal of Divine mercy upon man he has been warned not to reject it, as this will entail grave consequences. The Sūrah proceeds to draw a moral lesson from the quite insignificant beginning of man, that Islām will, from a humble start, grow into a mighty organization. It further compares it to a sea whose water is sweet which slakes the thirst of spiritual wayfarers. Next, it observes that Islām is no novel phenomenon. Alternate periods of spiritual light and darkness continue to come over the world as day follows night and vice versa. After a long period of darkness and cessation of revelation, the sun of Islām has risen to illumine the dark world and God has decreed to bring into being a new creation and a new order of things through its teachings. Through the Qur'ān God will give eyes to the blind and ears to the deaf and the dead will also receive a new life, but those who will deliberately shut the avenues of their hearts and refuse to listen to the Divine Call will incur spiritual death. The Sūrah then invites attention to the study of the physical phenomenon which bears a striking resemblance to a similar phenomenon in the spiritual realm. When rain falls on dry and parched land, it begins to bloom, blossom and vibrate with a new life, and crops, flowers and fruits of varying hues, tastes and forms, are brought forth. The water that comes down in the form of rain is the same but the crops and fruits are different. Similarly, the same water of Divine revelation produces different results among men of different natures and moral aptitudes. While on the one hand it produces highly righteous and God-fearing men, on the other, a community of vicious and wicked men also comes into being who carry on relentless fight against the cause of truth. This fight between the devotees of truth and the forces of darkness invariably ends in one inevitable result—the triumph of truth over falsehood. Towards its close the Sūrah brings home to idolaters the untenability of their position and warns them that if, in spite of the falsity and futility of their beliefs and practices, they continued to stick to them, Divine punishment will overtake them, though God is very slow in punishing and continues to grant respite to sinners till by persisting in their perverse attitude they shut upon themselves the doors of His mercy.

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

2. All praise belongs to Allāh, [b]the Originator of the heavens and the earth, Who employs the angels as Messengers, having wings, two, three and four. He adds to His creation[2407] whatever He pleases; for Allāh has power over all things.

3. [c]Whatever sources of mercy Allāh lays open for mankind[2408]—there is none to withhold them; and whatever of such sources He withholds, there is none who can release them after that; and He is the Mighty, the Wise.

2407. To angels is entrusted the control, management and supervision of the affairs of the physical world (79:6). This is one duty and responsibility placed upon them. Their other and heavier duty is to carry God's commandments and will to His Messengers. The angels bearing revelation manifest two, three, or four Divine attributes at the same time, and there are others who manifest even a larger number of these attributes. Ajniḥah being a symbol of power and ability (Lane), the verse signifies that angels possess powers and qualities in varying degrees and in accordance with the importance of the work entrusted to each one of them. Some of the angels are endowed with powers and qualities greater than the others. The Archangel Gabriel is the chief of all the angels and, therefore, the most important work of carrying Divine revelation to God's Messengers is entrusted to him and is done under his care and supervision.

2408. After having mentioned in the previous verse that God has created the heavens and the earth and that He has made full provision for man's physical and spiritual needs the verse under comment signifies that God has now decreed to bestow His mercy upon mankind in the form of the revelation of the Qur'ān.

يَٰٓأَيُّهَا ٱلنَّاسُ ٱذْكُرُوا۟ نِعْمَتَ ٱللَّهِ عَلَيْكُمْ ۚ هَلْ مِنْ خَٰلِقٍ غَيْرُ ٱللَّهِ يَرْزُقُكُم مِّنَ ٱلسَّمَآءِ وَٱلْأَرْضِ ۚ لَآ إِلَٰهَ إِلَّا هُوَ ۖ فَأَنَّىٰ تُؤْفَكُونَ ﴿٤﴾

4. O ye men, remember the favour of Allāh that He has bestowed upon you. [a]Is there any creator other than Allāh who provides for you from the heaven and the earth? There is none worthy of worship but He. Whither then are you turned away?

وَإِن يُكَذِّبُوكَ فَقَدْ كُذِّبَتْ رُسُلٌ مِّن قَبْلِكَ ۚ وَإِلَى ٱللَّهِ تُرْجَعُ ٱلْأُمُورُ ﴿٥﴾

5. [b]And if they reject thee, verily, God's Messengers have been rejected before thee; and unto Allāh all matters are brought back for decision.

يَٰٓأَيُّهَا ٱلنَّاسُ إِنَّ وَعْدَ ٱللَّهِ حَقٌّ ۖ فَلَا تَغُرَّنَّكُمُ ٱلْحَيَوٰةُ ٱلدُّنْيَا ۖ وَلَا يَغُرَّنَّكُم بِٱللَّهِ ٱلْغَرُورُ ﴿٦﴾

6. O ye men, assuredly the promise of Allāh is true, so let not the present life deceive you, nor let the Deceiver deceive you with respect to Allāh.

إِنَّ ٱلشَّيْطَٰنَ لَكُمْ عَدُوٌّ فَٱتَّخِذُوهُ عَدُوًّا ۚ إِنَّمَا يَدْعُوا۟ حِزْبَهُۥ لِيَكُونُوا۟ مِنْ أَصْحَٰبِ ٱلسَّعِيرِ ﴿٧﴾

7. [c]Surely, Satan is an enemy to you; so treat him as an enemy. He calls his followers only that they may become inmates of the burning Fire.

ٱلَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا۟ لَهُمْ عَذَابٌ شَدِيدٌ ۖ وَٱلَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا۟ وَعَمِلُوا۟ ٱلصَّٰلِحَٰتِ لَهُم مَّغْفِرَةٌ وَأَجْرٌ كَبِيرٌ ﴿٨﴾

2409. The verse constitutes an eloquent commentary on the solicitude and concern of the Holy Prophet for the spiritual well-being of his people and on his deep grief for their opposition to truth. See also 18:7.

2410. Resurrection here signifying the resurrection of a people from a state of spiritual decline and degradation, the verse means that just as a dead and dry land blossoms into new life when rain falls upon it, so will a people, morally and spiritually dead and steeped in sin and wickedness, rise to a new life by means of the heavenly water of Divine revelation.

أُولَٰئِكَ هُوَ يَبُورُ ﴿١١﴾

12. [a]And Allāh created you from dust, then from a sperm-drop, then He made you pairs. And no female conceives, nor does she bring forth a child save with His knowledge. And no one is granted long life who is granted long life, nor is anything diminished of his life, but it is all recorded in a Book.[2411] That, surely, is easy for Allāh.

2411. The verse implies a prophecy that just as out of an insignificant sperm-drop there grows a well-proportioned and fully-developed human being, similarly the lowly and poor Muslims will one day grow into a mighty community. Reference to what a female conceives and what she gives birth to, and to the lengthening and diminishing of a man's life implies another prophecy that the progeny of opponents of the Holy Prophet will decrease and that of Muslims increase. The words in the text translated as, 'it is all recorded in a Book,' may also mean, 'it is in accordance with Divine law.'

2412. Metaphorically, the two seas spoken of are true and false religions. See 2085. The verse continuing the metaphor purports to say that though saltish water is not fit for drinking and irrigation, it has other uses. From it come out fresh meat and ornaments. Similarly, though the present opponents of Islām are, like saltish water, bitter and worthless, yet out of their loins there will be born those who will be zealous and devout bearers of its Message.

2414. God has decreed to bring into being a new creation, a new order, through the Holy Prophet and it is not at all difficult for Him to do so.

2415. The believers have been called 'the living' because by accepting the truth they receive a new life, and the disbelievers are called 'the dead' because by rejecting the truth which is the elixir of life eternal they bring spiritual death upon themselves.

2416. It is not possible for a Prophet of God to make those who have deliberately shut their hearts and ears listen to and accept the Divine Message. Such people spiritually are as dead and defunct as those buried in the graves.

2417. The verse unfolds a great truth which had remained unknown to the world till the Qur'ān revealed it, viz. that there had been sent to every people in the past a Heavenly Messenger who preached to them the same Message of truth and righteousness. This great and noble principle leads to the belief in the Divine origin of all religions, and in their Founders as Divine Messengers. It is an article of faith with a Muslim to believe in and equally respect and revere all of them. By giving to the world this sublime truth, Islām has sought to create an atmosphere of amity and goodwill among different creeds, and to remove and banish rancour and bitterness which has embittered relations between the followers of these creeds all over the world.

وَمِنَ الْجِبَالِ جُدَدٌۢ بِيْضٌ وَّحُمْرٌ مُّخْتَلِفٌ اَلْوَانُهَا وَغَرَابِيْبُ سُوْدٌ ﴿٢٨﴾

اِنَّ الَّذِيْنَ يَتْلُوْنَ كِتٰبَ اللّٰهِ وَاَقَامُوا الصَّلٰوةَ وَاَنْفَقُوْا مِمَّا رَزَقْنٰهُمْ سِرًّا وَّعَلَانِيَةً يَّرْجُوْنَ تِجَارَةً لَّنْ تَبُوْرَ ﴿٣٠﴾

30. Surely, only those who follow the Book of Allāh and observe Prayer [a]and spend out of what We have provided for them, secretly and in public,[2420] look for a bargain which will never fail;

2418. The verse purports to say that when rain falls upon dry and parched land it gives rise to a vast variety of crops, flowers and fruits of different colours, tastes, forms and kinds. The rain-water is the same but the crops, flowers and fruits it produces are vastly different from one another. This difference is evidently due to the nature of the soil and the seed. Similarly, when Divine revelation, which at many places in the Qur'ān has been likened to water, comes to a people, it produces different effects upon different men according to the soil of their hearts and to the way in which they receive it.

2419. The kaleidoscopic variety in form, colour and kind to which reference has been made in the preceding verse does not only exist in flowers, fruits and rocks but in men, beasts and cattle as well. The words, an-Nās (men), ad-Dawābb (beasts) and al-An'ām (cattle) may also represent men of different capabilities, dispositions and natural aptitudes. The expression, 'Only those of His servants, who are endowed with knowledge fear God,' lends weight to the view that these three words stand for three classes of men from among whom only those endowed with right knowledge fear God. Knowledge, here, however, does not necessarily mean spiritual knowledge but also knowledge of the laws of nature. A reverent study of nature and its laws inevitably leads one to realize the great powers of God and consequently makes him hold God in reverential awe.

2420. This verse gives a description of 'Ulamā' (those who are endowed

اسْتِكْبَارًا فِي الْأَرْضِ وَمَكْرَ السَّيِّئِ ۚ
وَلَا يَحِيقُ الْمَكْرُ السَّيِّئُ إِلَّا بِأَهْلِهِ ۚ
فَهَلْ يَنْظُرُونَ إِلَّا سُنَّتَ الْأَوَّلِينَ ۚ
فَلَنْ تَجِدَ لِسُنَّتِ اللَّهِ تَبْدِيلًا ۖ
وَلَنْ تَجِدَ لِسُنَّتِ اللَّهِ تَحْوِيلًا ﴿٤٣﴾

44. [c]For, they sought exaltation in the earth and devised evil schemes. But the evil schemes encompass none but the authors thereof. Do they, then, look for anything other than Allāh's way of dealing with the people of old? But thou wilt never find any [d]change in the way of Allāh; nor wilt thou ever find any alteration in the way of Allāh.

أَوَلَمْ يَسِيرُوا فِي الْأَرْضِ فَيَنْظُرُوا

45. [e]Have they not travelled in the earth and seen how evil

2423. Both the celestial and terrestrial systems continue to work in perfect harmony without deviating the least from their set courses. This harmony reveals the existence of an Intelligent and All-Powerful Being behind it. That Supreme and Intelligent Being is God Who deserves and demands our worship and adoration.

كَيْفَ كَانَ عَاقِبَةُ الَّذِيْنَ مِنْ قَبْلِهِمْ
وَكَانُوْٓا اَشَدَّ مِنْهُمْ قُوَّةً ؕ وَمَا كَانَ اللّٰهُ
لِيُعْجِزَهٗ مِنْ شَيْءٍ فِي السَّمٰوٰتِ وَلَا
فِي الْاَرْضِ ؕ اِنَّهٗ كَانَ عَلِيْمًا قَدِيْرًا ﴿٤٥﴾ was the end of those who were before them? And they were stronger than these in power. And Allāh is not such that anything in the heavens or the earth can frustrate His plans;[2424] verily, He is All-Knowing, All-Powerful.

وَلَوْ يُؤَاخِذُ اللّٰهُ النَّاسَ بِمَا كَسَبُوْا مَا
تَرَكَ عَلٰى ظَهْرِهَا مِنْ دَآبَّةٍ وَّلٰكِنْ
يُّؤَخِّرُهُمْ اِلٰٓى اَجَلٍ مُّسَمًّى ۚ فَاِذَا جَآءَ
اَجَلُهُمْ فَاِنَّ اللّٰهَ كَانَ بِعِبَادِهٖ بَصِيْرًا ﴿٤٦﴾ ع ١٧

46. [a]And if Allāh were to punish people for what they do, He would not leave a living creature on the surface of the earth; but He gives them respite until an [b]appointed term;[2425] and when their appointed time comes they find that Allāh has all His servants well under His eyes.

[a]10:12; 18:59. [b]7:35; 10:50; 16:62.

2424. It is God's unalterable decree that all the plans and plots of disbelievers to bring the Holy Prophet to naught will end in failure and the cause of Islām will triumph.

2425. The Merciful God is slow to punish. He grants respite and affords chances to the wicked and the rebellious in order that they may mend their ways. If God had meted out swift and quick punishment that the sinners deserved they would have been destroyed in no time, and the world would have come to an end, and all life on earth would have become extinct, because then there would be no purpose left in the beasts, animals, birds, etc. remaining alive after man's destruction. Or, the verse may mean that God will not hesitate to destroy these abominable worms of the earth, i.e. disbelievers.

CHAPTER 36
YĀ SĪN
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

All scholarly opinion is agreed on this point that the Sūrah was revealed at Mecca. Its style and contents support this view. On account of the importance of its subject-matter, the Holy Prophet called it the heart of the Qur'ān. In the preceding Sūrah it was stated that God, being the Maker of the heavens and the earth, has made full provision not only for the physical needs of man but also for his moral and spiritual requirements. This He did by revealing Himself to His chosen servants whom He raised among every people. To the Holy Prophet whom the present Sūrah designates as "The Perfect Leader" or "The Leader par excellence," God revealed Himself in His completest manifestation and gave him the most perfect and infallible Book in the form of the Qur'ān.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with addressing the Holy Prophet as "The Perfect Leader," meaning that the system of Divine Messengers which began with Adam found its most perfect example in him. The Holy Prophet's path is now the only right and straight path that leads to God. All other paths that formerly led to the Supreme Being have now been closed and shall remain closed till the end of time. God will now reveal Himself to the world through the Holy Prophet's followers. In His infallible wisdom He has chosen the Arabs, among whom no Messenger had come for centuries, to preach to humanity the last Divine Message. The land of Arabia was dreary and dry. The water of Divine revelation descended upon it and it has now begun to blossom into a new and vigorous spiritual life. The Sūrah then proceeds to tell in metaphorical language how God had been revealing Himself to mankind through His Messengers. It tells of Moses and Jesus and of the Holy Prophet, who were raised in the fulness of time to call men to God. Then it tells of a "certain man" whom God will raise from among the followers of the Holy Prophet in a land far away from the centre of Islām (36:21) in the Latter Days, when religion would be at its lowest ebb and the very idea of Divine revelation would be doubted and denied. This Divine Reformer will call mankind to Islām. But like the Prophets of yore, his will be a voice in the wilderness. The forces of evil will hold the whole world in their firm grip. Man will worship false gods and Divine punishment will descend upon the world. Next, the Sūrah invites attention to a well-known law of nature, viz. that when all the earth becomes dry and parched, God sends down rain and the dead soil begins to vibrate with a new life; and herbage, vegetables and flowers and fruits of various kinds and colours grow up. Similarly, when man's soul becomes corroded and contaminated God causes spiritual water to descend from heaven in the form of Divine revelation. The Sūrah then gives another simile to explain the same subject. It points to the law of the alternation of day and night. It further points to a revealed truth that God has created all things in pairs; there are pairs even in vegetables and in inorganic matter. This simile points out that all true knowledge is the result of the combination of Divine revelation and human reason. Towards its close the Sūrah draws attention to a great and bright future for Islām. It says that the Divine decree that a people, like the Arabs, who had remained very low in the scale of humanity for long centuries, would now rise to the height of material power and spiritual glory, is not an idle dream or poetic fancy. A Prophet of God, a Divine Messenger, has appeared among them and he will lead them to the highest pinnacle of spiritual and material grandeur and glory.

سُوْرَةُ يٰسٓ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٣٦ — اٰياتها ٨٤ — رکوعاتها ٥

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

يٰسٓ ②

2. Yā Sīn.[2426]

وَالْقُرْاٰنِ الْحَكِيْمِ ③

3. By the Qur'ān,[2427] full of wisdom,

اِنَّكَ لَمِنَ الْمُرْسَلِيْنَ ④

4. Thou art, indeed, one of the Messengers,

عَلٰى صِرَاطٍ مُّسْتَقِيْمٍ ⑤

5. On the right path.[2427A]

تَنْزِيْلَ الْعَزِيْزِ الرَّحِيْمِ ⑥

6. [b]This is a revelation from the Mighty, the Merciful,

لِتُنْذِرَ قَوْمًا مَّآ اُنْذِرَ اٰبَآؤُهُمْ فَهُمْ

7. [c]That thou mayest warn a people whose fathers were

[a]1:1. [b]20:5; 32:3; 40:3; 41:3; 45:3; 46:3. [c]28:47; 32:4.

2426. In the combined abbreviated letters Yā Sīn, the letter Sīn according to Ibn-e-'Abbās stands for al-Insān meaning, man or perfect man; or for Sayyid (chief or leader). Thus the expression Yā Sīn would mean, 'O Perfect Man!' or 'O Perfect Leader!' According to consensus of scholarly opinion, the reference is to the Holy Prophet. He was 'the perfect man' because humanity found its best and most perfect specimen in him and he was 'the perfect leader,' because after his advent great religious Reformers and Divine Teachers were to rise only from among his followers, the door of revelation having been closed to the followers of all other Prophets.

2427. The most effective and convincing argument to prove the truth of the Holy Prophet's mission is the Qur'ān itself. There could be no greater testimony to his truth than the fact that being himself unlettered he gave to the world a Book which is full of wisdom and which far excels all other revealed Scriptures in its multifarious and multitudinous beauties and excellences and is a complete code of laws, meant for the moral uplift and spiritual regeneration of humanity for all time.

2427A. The Holy Prophet's path now is the only right and straight path that leads to God. The verse makes a fine distinction between a Prophet and a philosopher. A philosopher takes long time to find out truth and often gets lost in the quest, but a Prophet of God discovers it by the shortest route and in the shortest time. Unlike philosophers he is guided to it direct by Divine revelation without wandering in the labyrinth of abstract and abstruse ideas.

غٰفِلُوْنَ ۝٧

not warned, and so they are heedless.

لَقَدْ حَقَّ الْقَوْلُ عَلٰٓى اَكْثَرِهِمْ فَهُمْ لَا يُؤْمِنُوْنَ ۝٨

8. Surely, the word has proved true against most of them, for they believe not.

اِنَّا جَعَلْنَا فِيْٓ اَعْنَاقِهِمْ اَغْلٰلًا فَهِيَ اِلَى الْاَذْقَانِ فَهُمْ مُّقْمَحُوْنَ ۝٩

9. [a]We have put round their necks collars[2428] reaching unto their chins, so that their heads are raised up.[2428A]

وَجَعَلْنَا مِنْۢ بَيْنِ اَيْدِيْهِمْ سَدًّا وَّمِنْ خَلْفِهِمْ سَدًّا فَاَغْشَيْنٰهُمْ فَهُمْ لَا يُبْصِرُوْنَ ۝١٠

10. And We have set a barrier before them and a barrier behind them, and have covered them over, so that they cannot see.[2429]

وَسَوَآءٌ عَلَيْهِمْ ءَاَنْذَرْتَهُمْ اَمْ لَمْ تُنْذِرْهُمْ لَا يُؤْمِنُوْنَ ۝١١

11. [b]Alike it is to them whether thou warn them or warn them not; they will not believe.[2430]

اِنَّمَا تُنْذِرُ مَنِ اتَّبَعَ الذِّكْرَ وَخَشِيَ الرَّحْمٰنَ بِالْغَيْبِ ۚ فَبَشِّرْهُ بِمَغْفِرَةٍ وَّاَجْرٍ كَرِيْمٍ ۝١٢

12. [c]Thou canst warn only him who would follow the Reminder and fear the Gracious God in secret. So give him the glad tidings of forgiveness and a noble reward.

[a]13:6; 76:5. [b]2:7. [c]35:19.

2428. Shackles of customs, usages and prejudices, by which disbelievers are fettered and which prevent them from accepting the truth and smother all efforts at reform.

2428A. Even when a person tries to use his intelligence and to get away from the stranglehold of customs, etc. he is under pressure from various quarters, and he can scarcely see aright.

2429. On account of the barriers of usages, prejudices and pride the disbelievers could not have looked forward to the great and bright future which lay before them if they accepted Islām, and they did not look back to the histories of past peoples who rejected the truth and were seized with Divine punishment.

2430. See 26.

إِنَّا نَحْنُ نُحْيِ الْمَوْتَىٰ وَنَكْتُبُ مَا قَدَّمُوا
وَآثَارَهُمْ ۚ وَكُلَّ شَيْءٍ أَحْصَيْنَاهُ فِي
إِمَامٍ مُّبِينٍ ﴿١٣﴾

13. Surely, We alone give life to the dead, and We write down that which they send forward and that which they leave behind; [a]and all things We have recorded in a clear Book.[2431]

R. 2.

وَاضْرِبْ لَهُم مَّثَلًا أَصْحَابَ الْقَرْيَةِ ۘ
إِذْ جَاءَهَا الْمُرْسَلُونَ ﴿١٤﴾

14. And set forth to them the parable of a people of the town,[2432] when the Messengers came to it.

إِذْ أَرْسَلْنَا إِلَيْهِمُ اثْنَيْنِ فَكَذَّبُوهُمَا
فَعَزَّزْنَا بِثَالِثٍ فَقَالُوا إِنَّا إِلَيْكُم
مُّرْسَلُونَ ﴿١٥﴾

15. When We sent to them two Messengers[2433] they rejected them both; so We strengthened them by a third;[2434] and they said, 'Verily, we have been sent to you as Messengers.'

قَالُوا مَا أَنتُمْ إِلَّا بَشَرٌ مِّثْلُنَا ۙ وَمَا أَنزَلَ
الرَّحْمَٰنُ مِن شَيْءٍ ۙ إِنْ أَنتُمْ إِلَّا
تَكْذِبُونَ ﴿١٦﴾

16. They replied, [b]'you are only human beings like us and the Gracious God has not revealed anything. You are only lying.'

[a]18:50; 72:29. [b]14:11; 26:155.

2431. Imām means, a leader of a people or army; a model or an example; the religious Scripture of any people; a road or way, etc. (Lane).

2432. Qaryah may mean any town or place, or metaphorically speaking it may stand for the whole world. Thus Aṣḥābul-Qaryah may signify humanity at large. Or, the word signifying a particular town may refer to Mecca, the Centre and Citadel of Islām. In this case the word 'the Messengers' will apply to the Holy Prophet who represented in his person all the Messengers and Prophets of God.

2433. Moses and Jesus or Abraham and Ishmael.

2434. The Holy Prophet 'strengthened' Moses and Jesus by fulfilling in his person the prophecies they had made about his advent (Deut.18:18 & Matt. 21:33-46). And he 'strengthened' Abraham and Ishmael because in his person was fulfilled their prayer referred to in 2:129, 130.

قَالُوْا رَبُّنَا يَعْلَمُ اِنَّآ اِلَيْكُمْ لَمُرْسَلُوْنَ ﴿١٧﴾

17. They said, 'Our Lord knows that we are, indeed, His Messengers to you;

وَمَا عَلَيْنَآ اِلَّا الْبَلٰغُ الْمُبِيْنُ ﴿١٨﴾

18. [a]'And our duty is only plain delivery of the Message.'

قَالُوْٓا اِنَّا تَطَيَّرْنَا بِكُمْ ۚ لَئِنْ لَّمْ تَنْتَهُوْا لَنَرْجُمَنَّكُمْ وَلَيَمَسَّنَّكُمْ مِّنَّا عَذَابٌ اَلِيْمٌ ﴿١٩﴾

19. The disbelievers said, 'Surely, we augur evil fortune from you; if you desist not, we will, certainly, stone[2435] you, and a painful punishment will, surely, befall you at our hands.'

قَالُوْا طَآئِرُكُمْ مَّعَكُمْ ؕ اَئِنْ ذُكِّرْتُمْ ؕ بَلْ اَنْتُمْ قَوْمٌ مُّسْرِفُوْنَ ﴿٢٠﴾

20. The Messengers replied, 'Your evil fortune is with your ownselves. Do you say this because you have been admonished? Nay, you are a people transgressing all bounds.'

وَجَآءَ مِنْ اَقْصَا الْمَدِيْنَةِ رَجُلٌ يَّسْعٰى قَالَ يٰقَوْمِ اتَّبِعُوا الْمُرْسَلِيْنَ ﴿٢١﴾ۙ

21. [b]And from the farthest part of the town[2436] there came a man[2437] running.[2438] He said, 'O my people, follow the Messengers,

[a]13:41; 16:36; 24:55; 29:19. [b]28:21.

2435. Rajama-hū means, he stoned him; he smote and killed him; he cursed him; he excommunicated him (Lane).

2436. The words 'farthest part of the town' may signify a place far away from the Centre of Islām.

2437. The implied reference in the word Rajulun may be to the Promised Messiah who has been referred to as such in a well-known saying of the Holy Prophet (Bukhārī, Kitābut-Tafsīr).

2438. Words analogous in meaning and significance to the word Yas'ā (running) have also been used about the Promised Messiah by the Holy Prophet in some of his sayings which point to his tireless, quick and indefatigable work for the cause of Islām.

اتَّبِعُوْا مَنْ لَّا يَسْئَلُكُمْ اَجْرًا وَّ هُمْ مُّهْتَدُوْنَ ﴿۲۲﴾

22. 'Follow those who ask of you no reward, and who are rightly guided;

PART XXIII

وَمَا لِيَ لَآ اَعْبُدُ الَّذِيْ فَطَرَنِيْ وَاِلَيْهِ تُرْجَعُوْنَ ﴿۲۳﴾

23. 'And why should I not worship Him Who has created me, and unto Whom you will be brought back?

ءَاَتَّخِذُ مِنْ دُوْنِهٖٓ اٰلِهَةً اِنْ يُّرِدْنِ الرَّحْمٰنُ بِضُرٍّ لَّا تُغْنِ عَنِّيْ شَفَاعَتُهُمْ شَيْـًٔا وَّلَا يُنْقِذُوْنِ ﴿۲۴﴾

24. 'Shall I take others beside Him as gods?[2439] [a]If the Gracious God should intend me any harm, their intercession will avail me naught, nor can they rescue me.

اِنِّيْٓ اِذًا لَّفِيْ ضَلٰلٍ مُّبِيْنٍ ﴿۲۵﴾

25. 'In that case I should, indeed, be in manifest error.

اِنِّيْٓ اٰمَنْتُ بِرَبِّكُمْ فَاسْمَعُوْنِ ﴿۲۶﴾

26. 'I believe in your Lord; so listen to me.'

قِيْلَ ادْخُلِ الْجَنَّةَ ؕ قَالَ يٰلَيْتَ قَوْمِيْ يَعْلَمُوْنَ ﴿۲۷﴾

27. It was said to him, 'Do thou enter Paradise.'[2440] He said, 'O, would that my people knew,

[a]22:13, 14; 39:39.

2439. People will worship various gods in the time of the Promised Messiah—Mammon, material power, false political philosophies and impracticable economic theories, etc.

2440. Special mention of Paradise in this verse in connection with Rajulun Yas'ā is very significant. When all true believers have been promised Paradise in the Qur'ān, this special mention seems to be superfluous and out of place. The establishment by the Promised Messiah, under a special Divine command, of a special graveyard at Qadian known as the Bahishtī Maqbarah (Paradise Graveyard) may be the physical fulfilment of the commandment embodied in the words 'Do thou enter Paradise.' There is a revelation of the Promised Messiah to the effect: Innī Anzaltu Ma'akal-Jannah, i.e. I have caused the Paradise to descend with thee ("Tadhkirah"). The revelation also seems to support this interpretation of the words 'enter Paradise.'

بِمَا غَفَرَ لِيْ رَبِّيْ وَجَعَلَنِيْ مِنَ
الْمُكْرَمِيْنَ ﴿٢٨﴾

28. 'How graciously my Lord has granted me forgiveness and has made me of the honoured ones!'

وَمَآ اَنْزَلْنَا عَلٰى قَوْمِهٖ مِنْۢ بَعْدِهٖ مِنْ جُنْدٍ
مِّنَ السَّمَآءِ وَمَا كُنَّا مُنْزِلِيْنَ ﴿٢٩﴾

29. And We sent not down against his people, after him, any host from heaven, nor do We send down any such.

اِنْ كَانَتْ اِلَّا صَيْحَةً وَّاحِدَةً فَاِذَا هُمْ
خٰمِدُوْنَ ﴿٣٠﴾

30. [a]It was but a single blast and lo! they were extinct.[2441]

يٰحَسْرَةً عَلَى الْعِبَادِ ۚ مَا يَاْتِيْهِمْ مِّنْ
رَّسُوْلٍ اِلَّا كَانُوْا بِهٖ يَسْتَهْزِءُوْنَ ﴿٣١﴾

31. Alas for My servants! [b]there comes not a Messenger to them but they mock at him.[2442]

اَلَمْ يَرَوْا كَمْ اَهْلَكْنَا قَبْلَهُمْ مِّنَ
الْقُرُوْنِ اَنَّهُمْ اِلَيْهِمْ لَا يَرْجِعُوْنَ ﴿٣٢﴾

32. [c]Do they not see how many generations We have destroyed before them, and that [d]they never come back to them?[2443]

وَاِنْ كُلٌّ لَّمَّا جَمِيْعٌ لَّدَيْنَا مُحْضَرُوْنَ ﴿٣٣﴾

33. And all of them, gathered together, will certainly be brought before Us.

[a]21:41; 36:50. [b]15:12; 43:8. [c]17:18; 19:99; 20:129; 50:37. [d]21:96; 23:100, 101.

2441. The description seems to apply to the falling of shells, incendiary and atom bombs, which come down with a crashing sound. The fire caused by the bombs destroys everything on which they fall and reduces it to rubble, and all life for miles around becomes extinct. Elsewhere, the Qur'ān describes this punishment in the words, We shall make all that is thereon a barren soil (18:9).

2442. The words of this verse are full of pathos. The Al-Mighty Himself seems, as it were, to be full of grief over the rejection and mocking of His Prophets by men. While the Prophets grieved and pined for their peoples, the latter requited their grief with contempt and mockery.

2443. The reference seems to be to Divine punishment which will be universal in character.

R. 3.

وَاٰيَةٌ لَّهُمُ الْاَرْضُ الْمَيْتَةُ ۚ اَحْيَيْنٰهَا
وَاَخْرَجْنَا مِنْهَا حَبًّا فَمِنْهُ يَاْكُلُوْنَ ﴿٣٤﴾

34. [a]And the dead earth is a Sign for them; We quicken it and bring forth therefrom grain, of which they eat.

وَجَعَلْنَا فِيْهَا جَنّٰتٍ مِّنْ نَّخِيْلٍ وَّاَعْنَابٍ
وَّفَجَّرْنَا فِيْهَا مِنَ الْعُيُوْنِ ﴿٣٥﴾

35. [b]And We have placed in it gardens of date-palms and grapes, and We have caused springs to gush forth therein,[2444]

لِيَاْكُلُوْا مِنْ ثَمَرِهٖ ۙ وَمَا عَمِلَتْهُ اَيْدِيْهِمْ ؕ
اَفَلَا يَشْكُرُوْنَ ﴿٣٦﴾

36. That they may eat of the fruit thereof, and it was not their hands that made them grow up. Will they not then be grateful?

سُبْحٰنَ الَّذِيْ خَلَقَ الْاَزْوَاجَ كُلَّهَا
مِمَّا تُنْۢبِتُ الْاَرْضُ وَمِنْ اَنْفُسِهِمْ
وَمِمَّا لَا يَعْلَمُوْنَ ﴿٣٧﴾

37. [c]Holy is He Who created all things in pairs,[2445] of what the earth grows and of themselves, and of what they know not.

وَاٰيَةٌ لَّهُمُ الَّيْلُ ۖ نَسْلَخُ مِنْهُ النَّهَارَ فَاِذَا
هُمْ مُّظْلِمُوْنَ ﴿٣٨﴾

38. [d]And a Sign for them is the night from which We strip off the day, and lo! they are left in darkness.

وَالشَّمْسُ تَجْرِيْ لِمُسْتَقَرٍّ لَّهَا ؕ ذٰلِكَ

39. [e]And the sun is moving on to its determined goal.

[a]16:66. [b]13:5; 16:68; 23:20. [c]13:4; 51:50. [d]17:13; 40:62. [e]6:97; 55:6.

2444. The metaphor used in the preceding verse is continued here. The verse means to say that from the dry land of Arabia will gush forth springs and fountains of spiritual knowledge, and trees laden with different kinds of spiritual fruit will grow up all over the land.

2445. Science has discovered the fact that pairs exist in all things—in vegetable kingdom, and even in inorganic matter. Even the so-called elements do not exist by themselves. They also depend upon other things for their sustenance. This scientific truth applies to human intellect also. Until heavenly light descends man cannot have true knowledge which is born of a combination of Divine revelation and human intelligence.

That is the decree of the Almighty, the All-Knowing God.

تَقْدِيْرُ الْعَزِيْزِ الْعَلِيْمِ ﴿٣٩﴾

40. [a]And for the moon We have appointed stages, till it becomes again like an old dry twig of a palm-tree.

وَالْقَمَرَ قَدَّرْنٰهُ مَنَازِلَ حَتّٰى عَادَ كَالْعُرْجُوْنِ الْقَدِيْمِ ﴿٤٠﴾

41. It is not for the sun to overtake the moon, [b]nor can the night outstrip the day. [c]All of them float smoothly in an orbit.[2446]

لَا الشَّمْسُ يَنْۢبَغِيْ لَهَآ اَنْ تُدْرِكَ الْقَمَرَ وَلَا الَّيْلُ سَابِقُ النَّهَارِ ؕ وَكُلٌّ فِيْ فَلَكٍ يَّسْبَحُوْنَ ﴿٤١﴾

42. And a Sign for them is that We carry their offspring in the laden ships.

وَاٰيَةٌ لَّهُمْ اَنَّا حَمَلْنَا ذُرِّيَّتَهُمْ فِي الْفُلْكِ الْمَشْحُوْنِ ﴿٤٢﴾

43. And We will create for them the like thereof [d]whereon they will ride.[2447]

وَخَلَقْنَا لَهُمْ مِّنْ مِّثْلِهٖ مَا يَرْكَبُوْنَ ﴿٤٣﴾

[a]10:6. [b]25:63. [c]21:34. [d]16:9; 43:13.

2446. The reference in this verse is to the floating of the heavenly bodies through space or ether. The Qur'ān contradicted the view held for a long time that the heavens were solid in their formation. It is characteristic of the Qur'ān that it uses expressions which not only contradict erroneous views and ideas but also anticipate new discoveries in the domain of science and philosophy. The verse also points to the excellent design and order that pervade the entire universe; all the celestial and terrestrial bodies performing their allotted tasks regularly, punctually and unerringly, without trespassing on one another's sphere of action. The solar system is but one of hundreds of millions of systems, some of which are incalculably larger than it. Yet the countless millions of suns and stars profusely scattered over the immense void are so arranged and distributed in relation to one another as to secure the safety of one and all and to produce everywhere harmony and beauty. Each orb is reflecting the orbit of every other, yet each proceeds safely on its destined way, and all united form a glorious harmony of structure and motion.

2447. The Qur'ān foretold long ago that God would bring into existence new means of conveyance. Steamers and big liners, airships and aeroplanes, etc. which are so much in use in these days, are a clear fulfilment of this

[a]21:41; 36:30; 38:16. [b]18:100; 39:69; 50:21; 69:14.

2450. The punishment mentioned here will be like a bolt from the blue. It will be so swift and sudden that, as mentioned in the next verse, the guilty people will not be able even to make a will.

2451. The words, 'the trumpet shall be blown,' may signify, besides the blowing of the trumpet on the Judgment Day, the appearance of a great Divine Reformer at whose clarion call those who are spiritually dead rise from their graves (their state of spiritual death) and hasten to listen to and accept the Divine Summons.

2452. When on the Judgment Day men will be raised and disbelievers confronted with their evil deeds, and punishment will stare them in the face, they will be seized with despair and will cry in consternation. 'Woe to us! who has raised us from our place of sleep?' To continue the metaphor of the preceding verse, however, this verse applies to those people who at the time of the appearance of a Prophet of God do not listen to the Divine Call and prefer to remain in their existing state of spiritual death. At hearing the Divine Call they exclaim, 'Why should anyone disturb the even tenor of our lives and cause commotion and excitement amongst us by inviting us to follow him and adopt a new way of life?'

2453. The repeated mention of the word 'blast,' within the space of a few verses signifies that the Sūrah speaks of a time when Divine punishment will take the form of a blast. The reference may be to the attack of atom bombs which will destroy whole towns and cities within a few minutes.

2454. Life in the next world, as generally misunderstood, will not be a life of inaction and inertness but a life of constant work and progressive spiritual advance.

2455. All joy and happiness increases manifold if one shares it with another whom he loves.

2456. In a single word Salām meaning 'peace,' the verse sums up all the various blessings of Paradise—peace with God and peace with oneself, i.e. peace of mind and soul. This is the highest stage of heavenly bliss.

2457. When the guilt of disbelievers will be established and proved to the hilt they will be dumbfounded, their mouths will, as it were, become sealed and they will not be able to say anything in their defence and in extenuation of their guilt, and their hands and feet will also bear witness against them—these being the principal instruments of man's actions, good or bad. The speech and movements of a person can now be exactly reproduced by the tape-recorder and on the screen by television miles away. This is how the tongue and limbs of man even in this world have begun to bear witness for or against him.

2458. As man has been endowed with discretion and free will, he must bear the responsibility of his actions. The disbelievers persistently refuse to see the truth with the result that they become totally deprived of the power to see it. This is also the significance of the words, 'We shall put a seal on their mouths,' in the immediately preceding verse.

2458A. According to Ibn-e-'Abbās the expression means, 'We would have destroyed them in their houses;' and according to Ḥasan, it signifies that all their physical and mental faculties would become paralysed (Jarīr). Or, the expression may mean, 'We would have humiliated them.'

2459. Everything that has life is subject to decay and deterioration. This law applies to nations as to individuals. Like individuals, nations also develop, grow and find their full stature, and then fall a victim to decay, decrepitude and death.

2460. It is inconsistent with the dignity of a Divine Prophet that he should be a poet, because poets are generally given to idle dreaming and making castles in the air. Prophets of God have before them very high and noble ideals and programmes. The verse, however, does not mean that all poetry is bad and that all poets are dreamers, but it does mean that a Divine Prophet is far too dignified and spiritually exalted to be a mere poet.

2461. The words, 'who are alive,' mean, who are not spiritually dead, i.e. who are capable of receiving and accepting the Divine Message and have the aptitude to respond to the call of truth.

2464. Wherever in the Qur'ān the expression, when He intends a thing, He says concerning it, 'Be,' and it comes into being, is used, the reference invariably seems to be to the occurrence of an event of exceptional importance, particularly to the coming into being of a great moral and spiritual revolution through a Divine Reformer. In the verse under comment also the reference is to the great change which was wrought by the Holy Prophet.

CHAPTER 37
AṢ-ṢĀFFĀT
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Place of Revelation and Context

Baihaqī and Ibn-e-Mardawaih report Ibn-e-'Abbās as saying that the Sūrah was revealed at Mecca. According to Qurṭubī the consensus of scholarly opinion also regards the Sūrah as having been revealed very early in the Holy Prophet's ministry at Mecca. Its style and subject matter also support this view. In the preceding Sūrah the Holy Prophet was called "The Perfect Leader" who was given the Qur'ān as an infallible guide for the whole of humanity till the end of time. In the beginning of the present Sūrah it is stated that this "Perfect Leader" will, with the help of the Qur'ān and by his own noble example, succeed in bringing into being a community of righteous men.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with a firm declaration that under the fostering care of the Holy Prophet—"The Perfect Leader"—a community of noble and righteous men will be born who not only themselves will glorify God and sing His praises—so much so that the sandy wilderness of Arabia will resound with them—but by precept and practice will prevent others from idol-worship and evil practices, till the Unity of God will become firmly established in Arabia and from there the light of Islām will spread to the ends of the earth. The Sūrah, then proceeds to say that whenever there appears a Prophet of God in the world, forces of darkness seek to obstruct the spread of his Message by misrepresenting and misinterpreting it, or by misquoting the Prophet and tearing a passage out of his revelation and mixing much falsehood with it. But they completely fail in their evil designs, and truth continues to make progress. It further says that when disbelievers are told that the teachings of the Qur'ān will bring about a great change in Arabia and the spiritually dead Arabs will not only receive a new life but, having received it themselves, will impart it to others, the disbelievers jeer and scoff at the idea and call it the ravings of a maniac and the phenomenon as outside the bounds of possibility like the coming into life of those who are physically dead. The Sūrah replies to the firm denial of the disbelievers of this phenomenon with a firmer affirmation that such a thing will certainly come to pass and they will suffer disgrace and humiliation. Next, the Sūrah gives a brief description of the heavenly blessings that will be bestowed upon the righteous and chosen servants of God. The account of heavenly blessings and bounties, to be bestowed on the believers is followed by an account of the punishment which will be meted out to the rejectors of truth and persecutors of God's Prophets. Further, the Sūrah gives a few illustrations from the lives of Divine Prophets to show that the cause of truth never fails and its rejection is never productive of good results. The illustrations given are from the lives of Noah, Abraham, Moses,

Elias, Jonas and Lot. The Sūrah, then, repudiates and condemns idol-worship, particularly the worship of angels. The idol-worshippers are reprimanded that they are foolish enough not to understand this simple fact that the ascription of Divine powers and attributes to weak human beings or to forces of nature or even to angels who themselves are created beings, offends against human reason, commonsense and conscience. They are further told that the angels are only God's creatures who have specific duties to perform. The Sūrah ends on the note that it is an unalterable Divine decree that when forces of darkness are pitted against God's Prophets and His chosen servants, the latter receive Divine succour, while the votaries of Satan meet with defeat and discomfiture. This fact has been proved again and again in the lives of Divine Messengers and it leads to but one conclusion that 'all praise belongs to God, the Lord of all the worlds.'

2465. The particle wāw means, also; then; while; during; at the same time, together; with; but; however. It is also synonymous with rubba, i.e. frequently; sometimes, perhaps. It is also a particle of swearing meaning, 'by' or 'I swear,' or 'I cite as witness' (Aqrab & Lane). Wāw has been used in the present and the next two verses in the sense of 'by,' or 'I swear,' or 'I cite as witness.' In the Qur'ān God has sworn by certain beings or things or has cited them as witnesses. Ordinarily, when a person takes an oath and swears by Allāh his object is to supply the deficiency of insufficient testimony or to add weight or conviction to his statement. By so doing he calls God to witness that he speaks the truth when there is no other person to bear witness to his statement. But such is not the case with the Quranic oaths. When the Qur'ān adopts such a form the truth of the statement it makes is not sought to be proved by a mere assertion but by a solid argument implied in the oath itself. Sometimes these oaths refer to the obvious laws of nature and by implication draw attention to what may be inferred, i.e. spiritual laws, from what is obvious. Another object of a Quranic oath is to make a prophecy the fulfilment of which establishes its truth. This is the case here.

2466. Muslims standing in battle array facing the enemy or standing behind their Imām in the five daily Prayers.

2467. Waging a relentless war against the enemy of Islām and driving them away vigorously. The words may also signify the custodians of law and order.

2468. Reciters of the Qur'ān.

2469. These verses (2-5) embody both a prophecy and a statement of fact. As a statement of fact they signify that there live in all times and among every people a group of righteous and God-fearing men who, by word and deed and by precept and practice, bear testimony to the truth that God is One. As a prophecy, however, the verses signify that though at present the whole of Arabia is sunk deep in idol-worship and moral turpitude, yet a community of the Faithful will soon be born who not only will themselves glorify God and sing His praises and make the whole country resound with their hosannas but will also succeed in establishing Divine Unity in the land. Thus the Companions of the Holy Prophet, some of whose characteristics are mentioned in these verses, are cited as witnesses to the Unity of God. The verses may have yet another interpretation, viz. that if a representative gathering of the learned men of various Faiths were held in a peaceful atmosphere and the basic religious principles were discussed and debated impartially and dispassionately in a calm atmosphere, under the supervision of the custodians of law and order, the inevitable outcome of the deliberations of such a gathering will be the affirmation of the doctrine that 'God is One.'

[a]19:66; 38:67; 44:8; 78:38. [b]15:17; 41:13; 67:6. [c]15:18; 41:13; 67:6.

2470. The implication may be to the spread of Islām first in eastern countries, then from there to other parts of the world.

2471. The verse points to a parallelism between the physical and spiritual realms, viz. that just as the physical heaven is sustained by physical planets and stars, so is the spiritual heaven sustained by their spiritual counterparts who are the Prophets and Divine Reformers. Each one of them serves as an ornament for the spiritual heaven, as the stars and planets beautify and embellish the physical heaven.

2472. Satans are of two categories: (a) Internal enemies of the Muslim Community such as the hypocrites, etc. They are called 'the rebellious satans' as in this verse: and (b) external enemies or disbelievers who are described as 'satans, the rejected' (15:18).

15. And when they see a Sign, they mock at it.

[a]15:19. [b]6:3; 23:13; 32:8; 38:72.

2473. As long as the Word of God is preserved in the heavens it is quite safe and secure against all interference, stealing or snatching, but after it is revealed to a Prophet, 'satans,' or the enemies of God's Prophets, seek to misrepresent or misinterpret it by misquoting the Prophet, or by tearing a passage out of his revelation and mixing much falsehood with it, or they even try to represent the Prophet's teaching as their own. But their falsehood becomes exposed by the true exposition of his revelation by the Divine Reformer.

2474. In the word man the allusion may be to those righteous Companions of the Holy Prophet to whom reference has been made in vv. 2-5. The reference may also be to the system of the universe.

2475. The coming into being of a company of truly righteous and God-fearing men through the Holy Prophet and the establishment of Islām on a firm footing in Arabia is, indeed, a marvel to wonder at even by the Holy Prophet himself.

Or, the word, Yamīn, may signify power and force, and the verse may mean, 'You approached us with great power and force.' Or, it may mean, 'You came to us swearing that you were truthful.'

2480. The words, 'a known provision,' signify that Muslims knew beforehand that they would receive Divine favours mentioned in the following verses.

2481. The blessings which the believers would get would be the fruit of right beliefs and good deeds of the believers.

[a]56:16, 17. [b]56:18, 19. [c]56:20. [d]55:57. [e]55:59.

2482. 'Īn (women having large beautiful eyes) is the plural of 'Ainā' which means, a woman having large beautiful eyes. The word also means a good or beautiful word or saying. Arḍun 'Ainā'u means, green or black earth (Lane). History bears testimony to the fact that Muslims were endowed with all the blessings mentioned in the foregoing verses. They had gardens of bliss; they sat on thrones and enjoyed power and dominion; they had all the innocent pleasures of life; they had beautiful chaste women as their spouses and, over and above all this, 'God was well-pleased with them and they were well-pleased with Him' (58:23). This was their greatest achievement.

progress.

2486. Zaqqūm denotes the tree of disbelief. The Qur'ān has compared true belief to a good tree which brings forth its fruit at all times (14:25, 26) and disbelief to an evil tree—Zaqqūm (14:27). Taking it in the sense of deadly food, the verse would mean that eating of the fruit of the accursed tree of disbelief brings about spiritual death.

2487. The evil tree of disbelief has always proved a great source of mischief for men.

2488. Eating of the tree of disbelief takes men to the bottom of Hell.

worn ideas and prejudices die hard. Perhaps the greatest obstacle in the way of acceptance of truth by the people, as repeatedly mentioned in the Qur'ān, is their strong disinclination to accept new ideas.

2490. Noah laid the foundations of human civilization and it is an established fact of history that with the progress of a people in civilization their numbers tend to increase and a corresponding decrease takes place in the numbers of less civilized communities living with them in the same or surrounding lands. The descendants of Noah being more civilized and having more material resources at their command seemed to have spread to other lands and subjugated less civilized peoples, who in course of time became absorbed in them and consequently became extinct.

90. And said, 'I am feeling unwell.'[2493]

[a]26:90. [b]19:43; 26:71. [c]6:77.

2491. Man is prone to worship false gods in the form of human beings to whom he attributes Divine powers, or objects of nature such as the sun, the moon and the stars, or inanimate things such as gods hewed out of wood and stone, or his own time-worn customs, usages, prejudices and superstitions, his desires, passions, etc.

2492. It seems that the controversy between Abraham and his people about Divine attributes dragged on till late into the night, and seeing that the talk had served no useful purpose Abraham wanted to cut it short. So he cast a glance at the stars, suggesting thereby that the talk had dragged on long and far into the night and it should better stop.

2493. In view of the useless nature of the talk Abraham told his people that they had better leave him alone as he was not feeling well. Or, the words, Innī Saqīm, may mean, 'I am sick of your worshipping false gods,' or, 'I am sorely distressed at heart because you worship false gods,' or, 'I hate your worship of false gods.'

قَالُوا ابْنُوْا لَهٗ بُنْيَانًا فَاَلْقُوْهُ فِى الْجَحِيْمِ ﴿٩٨﴾

98. They said, 'Build for him a structure and [c]cast him into the fire.'

فَاَرَادُوْا بِهٖ كَيْدًا فَجَعَلْنٰهُمُ الْاَسْفَلِيْنَ ﴿٩٩﴾

99. [d]Thus they designed an evil design against him, but We made them most humiliated.[2496]

[a]21:59. [b]21:67, 68. [c]21:69; 29:25. [d]21:71.

2494. The most distinctive attribute of a Living God is that He speaks to His chosen servants and listens to and answers their prayers. It is a dead and defunct deity that has not the power to speak or listen to and accept the prayers of his votaries.

2495. The right hand being the symbol of power and strength, the verse signifies that Abraham struck the idols with full force and broke them into pieces. Yamīn also meaning a vow, the verse may signify that Abraham broke the idols in fulfilment of his vow (21:58).

2495A. Your hands and feet with which you work.

2496. As the enemies of Abraham were frustrated in their plans against him, they had a deep feeling of humiliation.

101. And he prayed, 'My Lord, grant me a righteous son.'

فَبَشَّرۡنٰهُ بِغُلٰمٍ حَلِیۡمٍ ﴿۱۰۲﴾

102. So We gave him the glad tidings of a forbearing son.

فَلَمَّا بَلَغَ مَعَهُ السَّعۡیَ قَالَ یٰبُنَیَّ اِنِّیۡۤ اَرٰی فِی الۡمَنَامِ اَنِّیۡۤ اَذۡبَحُكَ فَانۡظُرۡ مَاذَا تَرٰی ؕ قَالَ یٰۤاَبَتِ افۡعَلۡ مَا تُؤۡمَرُ ۫

103. And when he was old enough to run along with him, he said, 'O my dear son, I have seen in a dream that I offer thee in sacrifice.[2497] So

[a]19:49; 29:27.

2497. The Qur'ān and the Bible are at variance as to which of his two sons—Ishmael or Isaac—Abraham, in pursuance of God's command, offered for sacrifice. According to the Bible it was Isaac (Gen. 22:2). The Qur'ān, on the other hand, declares clearly and unequivocally that it was Ishmael. The Bible contradicts itself in this respect. According to it, Abraham was commanded to offer his only son for sacrifice, but Isaac was at no time his only son. Ishmael was senior to Isaac by 13 years and for these many years was Abraham's only son, and, being also his first born, was doubly dear to him. It stands to reason, therefore, that Abraham must have been required by God to offer for sacrifice his nearest and dearest thing which was his only and first-born son who was Ishmael. Some Christian evangelists have vainly tried to show that, 'Ishmael being of the handmaid, was born after the flesh while Isaac being born of the free woman was by promise' (Galatians, 4:22, 23). Apart from the fact that Hagar, Ishmael's mother, belonged to the royal family of Egypt and was no handmaid, Ishmael has repeatedly been mentioned in the Bible as Abraham's son, exactly as Isaac has been mentioned as his son (Gen. 16:16; 17:23, 25). Moreover, analogous promises were made to Abraham in regard to the future greatness of Ishmael as were made to him about Isaac (Gen., 16:10. 11; 17:20). Apart from the substitution in the Bible of Isaac for Ishmael which seems to be deliberate, and of Moriah for Marwah, an hillock which lies in the vicinity of Mecca near which Abraham left Ishmael with his mother Hagar while yet a child, there is nothing in the Bible to lend the slightest support to the view that Abraham offered Isaac for sacrifice and not Ishmael. But whereas no trace is to be found in the religious ceremonies of Jews and Christians of the supposed sacrifice of Isaac by Abraham, Muslims who are the spiritual descendants of Ishmael, commemorate with great fervour his intended sacrifice, by slaughtering every year rams and goats all over the world on the tenth day of Dhul-Ḥijjah. This universal sacrifice of rams and goats by Muslims establishes beyond dispute or doubt the fact that it was consider what thou thinkest of it!' He replied, 'O my father, do as thou art commanded; thou wilt find me, if Allāh please, steadfast in my faith.'

سَتَجِدُنِيٓ إِن شَآءَ ٱللَّهُ مِنَ ٱلصَّٰبِرِينَ ﴿١٠٢﴾

فَلَمَّآ أَسۡلَمَا وَتَلَّهُۥ لِلۡجَبِينِ ﴿١٠٣﴾

104. And when they both submitted to the Will of God, and Abraham had thrown him down on his forehead,

وَنَٰدَيۡنَٰهُ أَن يَٰٓإِبۡرَٰهِيمُ ﴿١٠٤﴾

105. We called to him, 'O Abraham,

قَدۡ صَدَّقۡتَ ٱلرُّءۡيَآۚ إِنَّا كَذَٰلِكَ نَجۡزِي ٱلۡمُحۡسِنِينَ ﴿١٠٥﴾

106. 'Thou hast, indeed, fulfilled the dream.' Thus, indeed, do We reward those who do good.

إِنَّ هَٰذَا لَهُوَ ٱلۡبَلَٰٓؤُاْ ٱلۡمُبِينُ ﴿١٠٦﴾

107. That, surely, was a manifest trial.

وَفَدَيۡنَٰهُ بِذِبۡحٍ عَظِيمٖ ﴿١٠٧﴾

108. And We ransomed him with a mighty sacrifice.[2498]

وَتَرَكۡنَا عَلَيۡهِ فِي ٱلۡأٓخِرِينَ ﴿١٠٨﴾

109. And We left for him a good name among the succeeding generations.[2499]

Ishmael whom Abraham offered for sacrifice and not Isaac. In reality Abraham was not required to fulfil his vision in actual fact. It was only a practical demonstration of his intention and preparedness to sacrifice his son which was desired of him. The vision had already symbolically been fulfilled in Hagar and Ishmael having been left by Abraham in the Valley of Mecca which was at that time an arid and barren waste. That brave act, had, in fact, symbolised the sacrifice of Ishmael. The Divine command to Abraham first to sacrifice his son and then to abstain from carrying it into actual fact showed also that it was intended to abolish human sacrifice, a most inhuman practice which was prevalent at that time among most nations.

2498. Abraham's preparedness to sacrifice Ishmael was perpetuated in the Islamic institution of 'Sacrifice' which forms an integral part of the ceremonies of Ḥajj. The implication in the verse may also be to the abolition of human sacrifice which seemed to be in vogue in Abraham's time and to the substitution for it of animal sacrifice.

2499. What greater testimony could there be to Abraham having left behind

2500. The words, 'We bestowed blessings on him,' refer to the blessings that God bestowed upon Abraham's progeny through Ishmael, as Isaac has been mentioned separately by name.

2501. Elias or Elijah lived about 900 B.C. He was a native of Gilead, a place on the eastern bank of the Jordan. His mantle was taken by Elisha (Jew. Enc. & 1 Kings, 17:1).

2502. Ba'l was the name of an idol belonging to the people of the Prophet Elias. These people worshipped the sun. Ba'l may also stand for the sun-god which belonged to the people of a town in Syria now called Bal-Bekk (Lane).

إِلَّا عِبَادَ اللّٰهِ الْمُخْلَصِيْنَ ﴿١٢٩﴾

وَاِنَّ لُوْطًا لَّمِنَ الْمُرْسَلِيْنَ ﴿١٣٤﴾

134. [a]And, assuredly, Lot, too, was one of the Messengers,

135. [b]When We delivered him and all his family,

وَاِنَّكُمْ لَتَمُرُّوْنَ عَلَيْهِمْ مُّصْبِحِيْنَ ﴿١٣٨﴾

138. [e]And, surely, you pass by them in the morning,

وَبِالَّيْلِ ؕ اَفَلَا تَعْقِلُوْنَ ﴿١٣٩﴾ ع ٨

139. And by night.[2504] Will you not understand?

R. 5.

وَاِنَّ يُوْنُسَ لَمِنَ الْمُرْسَلِيْنَ ﴿١٤٠﴾

140. [f]And, surely, Jonah[2505] also was one of the Messengers,

[a]7:81; 26:161; 29:29. [b]26:171; 29:33; 51:36. [c]7:84; 11:82; 15:61; 27:58.
[d]26:173. [e]15:77. [f]21:88; 68:49.

2503. Ilyāsīn may be another form of Ilyās as Sīnīn (95:3) is that of Sīnā' (23:21); or being plural of Ilyās it may mean Ilyās and his people.

2504. Sodom and Gomorrah, the towns to which Lot preached his Message were situated on the highway from Arabia to Syria where the Arab caravans passed by day and night. At another place in the Qur'ān these towns are mentioned as having been situated 'on a road that still exists' (15:77).

2505. Jonah was an Israelite Prophet and lived in the 9th century BC in the reign of Jeroboam II or Jehoahaz. See also 6:87, 88.

اِذْ اَبَقَ اِلَى الْفُلْكِ الْمَشْحُوْنِ ۙ﴿۱۴۱﴾

144. And had he not been of those who glorify God,

لَلَبِثَ فِيْ بَطْنِهٖۤ اِلٰى يَوْمِ يُبْعَثُوْنَ ۚ﴿۱۴۵﴾

145. He would, surely, have tarried in its belly till the Day of Resurrection.

فَنَبَذْنٰهُ بِالْعَرَآءِ وَهُوَ سَقِيْمٌ ۚ﴿۱۴۶﴾

146. Then We cast him on a bare tract of land, and he was sick;

فَاٰمَنُوْا فَمَتَّعْنٰهُمْ اِلٰى حِيْنٍ ؕ﴿۱۴۹﴾

149. [a]And they all believed; so We permitted them to enjoy life for a long while.

فَاسْتَفْتِهِمْ اَلِرَبِّكَ الْبَنَاتُ وَلَهُمُ الْبَنُوْنَ ۙ﴿۱۵۰﴾

150. [b]Now ask them[2506A] whether thy Lord has daughters, whereas they have sons.[2507]

[a]10:99. [b]6:101; 16:58; 43:17; 52:40; 53:22.

2506. According to the Bible Jonah was commissioned by God to go to Nineveh and 'cry against' it, but instead he fled to Tarshish 'from the presence of the Lord' (Jonah, 1:3). The Qur'ān contradicts this biblical statement as it is calculated to impugn a Divine Prophet. In fact, being angry with his people, because they had rejected the Divine Message, Jonah fled from them.

2506A. The disbelieving Meccans.

2507. The Arabs ascribed Divine powers to angels, believing them to be اَمْ خَلَقْنَا الْمَلٰٓئِكَةَ اِنَاثًا وَّهُمْ شٰهِدُوْنَ ﴿١٥٠﴾

151. [a]Did We create the angels females while they were witnesses?

اَلَآ اِنَّهُمْ مِّنْ اِفْكِهِمْ لَيَقُوْلُوْنَ ﴿١٥١﴾

152. Now, surely, it is of their fabrications that they say,

وَلَدَ اللّٰهُ ۙ وَاِنَّهُمْ لَكٰذِبُوْنَ ﴿١٥٢﴾

153. 'Allāh has begotten children;' and they are certainly liars.

اَصْطَفَى الْبَنَاتِ عَلَى الْبَنِيْنَ ﴿١٥٣﴾

154. [b]Has He chosen daughters in preference to sons?

مَا لَكُمْ ۫ كَيْفَ تَحْكُمُوْنَ ﴿١٥٤﴾

155. What is the matter with you? How judge ye?

اَفَلَا تَذَكَّرُوْنَ ﴿١٥٥﴾

156. Will you not take heed?

اَمْ لَكُمْ سُلْطٰنٌ مُّبِيْنٌ ﴿١٥٦﴾

157. [c]Or, have you a clear authority?

فَاْتُوْا بِكِتٰبِكُمْ اِنْ كُنْتُمْ صٰدِقِيْنَ ﴿١٥٧﴾

158. Then produce your Book,[2508] if you are truthful.

وَجَعَلُوْا بَيْنَهٗ وَبَيْنَ الْجِنَّةِ نَسَبًا ۭ وَلَقَدْ عَلِمَتِ الْجِنَّةُ اِنَّهُمْ لَمُحْضَرُوْنَ ﴿١٥٨﴾

159. [d]And they assert a kinship between Him and the jinn while the jinn themselves know well that they will be brought before Allāh for judgment.

سُبْحٰنَ اللّٰهِ عَمَّا يَصِفُوْنَ ﴿١٥٩﴾

160. Holy is Allāh and free from what they attribute to Him!

اِلَّا عِبَادَ اللّٰهِ الْمُخْلَصِيْنَ ﴿١٦٠﴾

161. But the chosen servants of Allāh do not attribute anything derogatory to Him.

[a]17:41; 37:151; 43:20. [b]43:17; 53:22. [c]52:39. [d]6:101.

God's daughters. It is this form of idolatry that has been condemned here.

2508. No Divine Book accords the slightest countenance to this most foolish and obnoxious doctrine.

فَاِنَّكُمْ وَمَا تَعْبُدُوْنَ ﴿١٦٢﴾

162. Verily, you and what you worship—

مَآ اَنْتُمْ عَلَيْهِ بِفٰتِنِيْنَ ﴿١٦٣﴾

163. None of you can mislead anyone[2509] against Him,

اِلَّا مَنْ هُوَ صَالِ الْجَحِيْمِ ﴿١٦٤﴾

164. Except only him who shall burn in Hell.

وَمَا مِنَّآ اِلَّا لَهٗ مَقَامٌ مَّعْلُوْمٌ ﴿١٦٥﴾

165. They say, 'There is not one of us but has a known station;[2510]

وَّاِنَّا لَنَحْنُ الصَّآفُّوْنَ ﴿١٦٦﴾

166. 'And, verily, we are those who stand ranged in rows,

وَاِنَّا لَنَحْنُ الْمُسَبِّحُوْنَ ﴿١٦٧﴾

167. [a]'And we, verily, are those who glorify Allāh.'

وَاِنْ كَانُوْا لَيَقُوْلُوْنَ ﴿١٦٨﴾

168. And, surely, the Meccan disbelievers used to say,

لَوْ اَنَّ عِنْدَنَا ذِكْرًا مِّنَ الْاَوَّلِيْنَ ﴿١٦٩﴾

169. 'If we had with us a Reminder like that of the people of old,

لَكُنَّا عِبَادَ اللّٰهِ الْمُخْلَصِيْنَ ﴿١٧٠﴾

170. 'We would, surely, have been Allāh's chosen servants.'

فَكَفَرُوْا بِهٖ فَسَوْفَ يَعْلَمُوْنَ ﴿١٧١﴾

171. Yet when it has come to them they disbelieve therein, but they will soon come to know.

وَلَقَدْ سَبَقَتْ كَلِمَتُنَا لِعِبَادِنَا الْمُرْسَلِيْنَ ﴿١٧٢﴾

172. And, surely, Our word has gone forth to Our servants, the Messengers, اِنَّهُمْ لَهُمُ الْمَنْصُوْرُوْنَ ﴿١٧٣﴾

173. [b]That it is, certainly, they who will be helped;

[a]2:31; 21:21; 41:39. [b]40:52; 58:22.

2509. It is people of their own ilk that evil spirits can mislead. They have no control or influence over godly men.

2510. The reference may be, as some say, to the angels. According to others it is to the believers.

وَاِنَّ جُنْدَنَا لَهُمُ الْغٰلِبُوْنَ ﴿۱۷۳﴾

174. And that it is Our host that will, certainly, be victorious.

فَتَوَلَّ عَنْهُمْ حَتّٰى حِيْنٍ ﴿۱۷۵﴾

175. So turn thou away from them for a while.

وَّاَبْصِرْهُمْ فَسَوْفَ يُبْصِرُوْنَ ﴿۱۷۶﴾

176. And watch them, for they will soon see their own end.

اَفَبِعَذَابِنَا يَسْتَعْجِلُوْنَ ﴿۱۷۷﴾

177. [a]Is it then Our punishment that they seek to hasten on?

فَاِذَا نَزَلَ بِسَاحَتِهِمْ فَسَآءَ صَبَاحُ الْمُنْذَرِيْنَ ﴿۱۷۸﴾

178. But when it descends into their courtyard,[2511] it shall be an evil morning for those who were warned.

وَتَوَلَّ عَنْهُمْ حَتّٰى حِيْنٍ ﴿۱۷۹﴾

179. So turn thou away from them for a while,

وَّاَبْصِرْ فَسَوْفَ يُبْصِرُوْنَ ﴿۱۸۰﴾

180. And watch, for they will soon see their own end.

سُبْحٰنَ رَبِّكَ رَبِّ الْعِزَّةِ عَمَّا يَصِفُوْنَ ﴿۱۸۱﴾

181. Holy is thy Lord, the Lord of power, far above that which they assert.

وَسَلٰمٌ عَلَى الْمُرْسَلِيْنَ ﴿۱۸۲﴾

182. [b]And peace is ever upon the Messengers![2512]

وَالْحَمْدُ لِلّٰهِ رَبِّ الْعٰلَمِيْنَ ﴿۱۸۳﴾ ع ۴۴ ۹

183. [c]And all praise belongs to Allāh, the Lord of the worlds.

[a]22:48; 27:72; 29:54. [b]27:60. [c]1:2; 6:46.

2511. The reference may be to the day of the Fall of Mecca which was indeed an evil day for the Meccans when a Muslim army ten thousand strong entered its suburbs. Then the cup of their mortification and humiliation became full to the brim, as all their evil designs against Islām had completely failed and it had won a glorious victory over disbelievers.

2512. The reference seems to be to the Holy Prophet who represents in his person all the Prophets and Messengers of God.

CHAPTER 38

ṢĀD

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah was revealed in the early years of the Holy Prophet's life at Mecca. Ibn-e-'Abbās, as reported by Baihaqī and Ibn-e-Mardawaih, subscribes to this view, and other scholars, too, agree with him. From its contents and subject-matter the Sūrah bears a very close resemblance to Aṣ-Ṣāffāt which had ended with the challenging Divine declaration: God's hosts shall be victorious and it shall be an evil day for the disbelievers when Divine punishment shall descend into their courtyard. The Sūrah opens with an equally emphatic declaration that it is an unalterable decree of the Truthful God that the believers shall attain wealth, power and eminence while the disbelievers shall meet with disgrace and destruction.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with a firm declaration—in fact God swears by the Qur'ān—that by acting upon its teachings and by making it a rule of their lives the believers will achieve glory and eminence and will come to occupy a most honoured place among the comity of mighty nations. It further says that the Meccan disbelievers repeat the parrot-like cry that they will not give up the worship of their gods at the behest of a man who is just one of them. In reply to this foolish plea they are told, 'Since when have they begun to arrogate to themselves the possession of the treasures of God's grace and mercy? It is God's own prerogative that He chooses whom He deems fit for the conveyance of His Will to His creatures; and that now He has chosen the Prophet Muḥammad for this purpose.' After making an emphatic prediction that the forces of evil will suffer defeat and disgrace and the votaries of the One God will be given power, wealth and distinction, the Sūrah, by way of introduction, gives a somewhat detailed description of the great glory and prosperity which the Israelite nation had attained in the reigns of two of their Prophet-kings—David and Solomon. It also refers to the plots that were hatched in David's glorious reign to undermine his power and influence and to the seeds of decay and disintegration that had been sown during Solomon's reign when the Israelites rolled in wealth and were at the peak of material prosperity. The Holy Prophet, by implication, is told that, consumed with jealousy at his growing power, his enemies will also hatch plots to take his life and will seek to nip the tender plant of Islām in the bud but they will fail in their wicked designs and Islām will continue to gain power and strength. But if Muslims did not take proper care they would find, to their cost, that in the very heyday of their glory, forces of darkness would seek to undermine the solidarity and stability of Islām. After this a brief mention is made of Prophet Job who had to suffer great hardships, but the temporary phase of his tribulation quickly passed away and he came to his own and his loss was doubly made up. The reference to Job is followed by a fleeting allusion to Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and Prophets Ishmael, Elisha and Dhul-Kifl, and it is added that those good people who copy their example and follow in their footsteps receive God's favours which know no decrease or diminution. The Sūrah closes on the note that whenever men stray away from the path of rectitude, and begin to worship false gods, a Divine Messenger is raised among them to bring them back to the worship of the One True God. The sons of darkness seek to put all sorts of obstacles and impediments in his way and deceive and beguile men away from God. But truth overcomes all hindrances, and triumphs and prevails in the long run.

2513. The letter Ṣād may signify 'the Truthful God,' or 'I am Allāh, the Truthful,' or 'God has spoken the truth.'

2514. The Truthful God swears by the Qur'ān that the followers of the Holy Prophet, by acting upon the teachings of the Qur'ān and making it a rule of their lives, shall achieve eminence and shall come to occupy a most honoured place among the comity of great nations, Dhikr also meaning eminence (Lane).

2515. The root-cause of all sin and disbelief are false pride, conceit and arrogance. The first recorded sin committed by Satan was that he refused to submit to Adam on the plea of his fancied superiority over him (Adam). 'I am better than he' (7:13) has always been the boast of disbelievers which has prevented them from accepting the truth in the time of every Prophet.

2516. According to some scholars Lāta is originally Laisa; some others think that the feminine ta is added to the negative lā to render the negation more intensive. According to a third school it is an independent word, neither originally Laisa nor lā. The fourth school, however, is of the view that it is a word and also a part of a word, namely the negative lā, and ta, prefixed to Ḥīna. It is generally accompanied by Ḥīna or some other word synonymous with it.

2517. The 'previous creed' may refer to Christianity or the idolatrous faith of the pagans of Mecca, or it may refer to all religions preceding Islām, because in no religion before Islām had belief in the Unity of God remained pure and unadulterated.

2518. Let disbelievers collect all their means and resources against the Holy Prophet and multiply them as much as they can and use them against him.

2519. The verse at once contains a prophecy and a challenge. The challenge is to the forces of evil to muster all their resources and form themselves into a strong confederacy to stop the onward march of Islām. And the prophecy is to the effect that the combined forces of disbelief shall be put to an ignominious rout if they dared oppose Islām. This mighty prophecy was literally fulfilled in the Battle of the Trench.

اِذْ دَخَلُوْا عَلٰى دَاوٗدَ فَفَزِعَ مِنْهُمْ ؕ قَالُوْا لَا تَخَفْ ۚ خَصْمٰنِ بَغٰى بَعْضُنَا عَلٰى بَعْضٍ فَاحْكُمْ بَيْنَنَا بِالْحَقِّ وَلَا تُشْطِطْ وَاهْدِنَاۤ اِلٰى سَوَآءِ الصِّرَاطِ ﴿٢٣﴾

[a]21:80; 34:11. [b]2:252.

2522. Prophets David, Solomon and Job possessed great power, influence and wealth and that is why perhaps they have always been mentioned together in the Qur'ān (4:164, 6:85 & 21:80-84).

2523. It appears from history that though Israelite power was at its zenith in the reigns of David and Solomon, yet mischief-mongers were busy stirring up

إِنَّ هٰذَآ أَخِي لَهُۥ تِسْعٌ وَتِسْعُونَ نَعْجَةً وَلِيَ نَعْجَةٌ وَٰحِدَةٌ فَقَالَ أَكْفِلْنِيهَا وَعَزَّنِي فِي الْخِطَابِ ﴿٢٣﴾

24. "Now this my brother has ninety-nine ewes, and I have only one ewe. Yet he says, 'Give it to me,' and he has been overbearing to me in his address."[2524]

قَالَ لَقَدْ ظَلَمَكَ بِسُؤَالِ نَعْجَتِكَ إِلَىٰ نِعَاجِهِۦ ۖ وَإِنَّ كَثِيرًا مِّنَ الْخُلَطَآءِ لَيَبْغِي بَعْضُهُمْ عَلَىٰ بَعْضٍ إِلَّا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا۟ وَعَمِلُوا۟ الصَّٰلِحَٰتِ وَقَلِيلٌ مَّا هُمْ ۗ وَظَنَّ دَاوُۥدُ أَنَّمَا فَتَنَّٰهُ فَٱسْتَغْفَرَ رَبَّهُۥ وَخَرَّ رَاكِعًا وَأَنَابَ ﴿٢٤﴾ ۩

25. David said, 'Surely, he has wronged thee in asking for thy ewe to add to his own ewes. And certainly many partners transgress against one another, except those who believe in Allāh and act righteously; and these are but few.' And David thought that We had tried him; so he asked forgiveness of his Lord, and fell down bowing in worship and turned[2525] to Him.

discord and disaffection; and false charges were constantly raked up and spread against them and some evil-minded persons even sought to kill David. It is to one such attempt at David's life that reference has been made in the verse under comment. Two of his enemies scaled the wall of his private chamber with the intention of taking him unawares, but finding him on his guard and realizing that their plan had miscarried, they tried to put him at ease and pretended as if they were merely two litigants who had come to seek his decision in a dispute. David, however, rightly understood their evil intention, and so naturally he was afraid of them.

2524. This verse refers to the story which the two intending murderers of David, finding him quite vigilant, seemed to have invented, at the spur of the moment, in an endeavour to disabuse his mind of any misgiving he might have entertained about them, and to set his fear at rest.

2525. David was not taken in by the mask of ordinary litigants that the two intruders had put on; he saw through the game. Though he did not lose his presence of mind and gave his decision like a sane and sedate judge, yet he realized that his control over his people had weakened and that, despite the precautions he had taken, he was not quite safe from the schemes and plots of his enemies. He felt that the incident was a reminder from God. So he adopted

فَغَفَرْنَا لَهٗ ذٰلِكَ ؕ وَاِنَّ لَهٗ عِنْدَنَا لَزُلْفٰى وَحُسْنَ مَاٰبٍ ﴿۲۶﴾

26. So We forgave him his default; and, indeed, he had a position of nearness with Us and an excellent resort.[2526]

يٰدَاوٗدُ اِنَّا جَعَلْنٰكَ خَلِيْفَةً فِى الْاَرْضِ فَاحْكُمْ بَيْنَ النَّاسِ بِالْحَقِّ وَلَا تَتَّبِعِ الْهَوٰى فَيُضِلَّكَ عَنْ سَبِيْلِ اللّٰهِ ؕ اِنَّ الَّذِيْنَ يَضِلُّوْنَ عَنْ سَبِيْلِ اللّٰهِ لَهُمْ عَذَابٌ شَدِيْدٌ ۢ بِمَا نَسُوْا يَوْمَ الْحِسَابِ ﴿۲۷﴾ ع ۲۱

27. Then We said to him, 'O David, We have made thee a vicegerent in the earth; so judge between men with justice, and follow not vain desire, lest it should lead thee astray from the way of Allāh.' Surely, those, who go astray from the way of Allāh, will have a severe punishment, because they forgot the Day of Reckoning.

R. 3.

وَمَا خَلَقْنَا السَّمَآءَ وَالْاَرْضَ وَمَا بَيْنَهُمَا بَاطِلًا ؕ ذٰلِكَ ظَنُّ الَّذِيْنَ كَفَرُوْا ۚ فَوَيْلٌ لِّلَّذِيْنَ كَفَرُوْا مِنَ النَّارِ ﴿۲۸﴾

28. [a]And We have not created the heavens and the earth and all that is between them in vain. That is the view of those who disbelieve. [b]Woe, then, to the disbelievers because of the punishment of the Fire that shall overtake them.

the only course which the righteous and the God-fearing adopt in such circumstances. He prayed to God and sought His protection against the schemes and conspiracies of his enemies. The insinuation behind the tale of the litigants was that David was a tyrant who was extending his domination over small and weak neighbouring tribes.

2526. The expression Ghafarnā la-hū may mean, 'We gave him Our protection,' or, 'We set his affairs right' (Lane). The words, 'he had a position of nearness with Us and an excellent resort,' show that David did not suffer from any moral defect or spiritual weakness, and most effectively negative and demolish the wicked charge of David having committed adultery as imputed to him by the Bible (2 Sam. 11:4 & 5).

اَمْ نَجْعَلُ الَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوْا وَعَمِلُوا الصّٰلِحٰتِ كَالْمُفْسِدِيْنَ فِي الْاَرْضِ ۫ اَمْ نَجْعَلُ الْمُتَّقِيْنَ كَالْفُجَّارِ ﴿٢٩﴾

2527. The Qur'ān contains the basic and universal principles of all religions and their permanent and imperishable teachings along with much more that is indispensable for the growing needs and requirements of man. This is the meaning of the word Mubārak.

2528. Ṣāfināt (steeds) is the plural of Ṣāfinah which is feminine of Ṣāfin which means, a horse standing upon three legs and the extremity of the hoof of the fourth leg. Standing in this posture is considered to be the peculiarity of Arabian breed which are regarded as the best bred horses.

2528A. Jiyād (swift-footed horses) is the plural of Jawād, and the expression, Farasun Jawādun means, a quick-footed horse (Lane).

2529. 'An denotes transition; compensation (2:49); superiority (47:39). It also denotes a cause as in the present verse, and it has the same sense as li (53:4).

2530. God had bestowed upon Solomon power and wealth. He ruled over a vast kingdom and, therefore, he had to keep a strong army. Naturally, he had a great liking for horses of good breed because cavalry formed a strong wing of his army. Solomon's love for horses was not that of a race-goer or a professional breeder of horses. It only sprang from his love for his Creator as the horses were used for fighting in the cause of God.

[a]21:82; 34:13.

2531. It seems that Solomon was seeing a horse parade and in order to show his admiration for his horses he stroked their necks and legs.

2532. In 34:15 the expression used is 'a worm of the earth.' The reference may either be to Solomon's son and heir, Rehoboam, a worthless fellow or to Jeroboam who raised the standard of revolt against the House of David (I Kings, 12:28). Solomon had realized that after his death his kingdom would not maintain its integrity under his incompetent and inefficient successors. So he turned to God and prayed to Him. The prayer is given in the next verse.

2533. As it appears from the preceding verse Solomon had foreseen that his temporal kingdom would become disrupted after his death through the imbecility of his foolish and worthless son, so he prayed that the spiritual kingdom which God had bestowed upon his House might continue. If the words, 'a kingdom that may not be inherited by anyone after me,' are taken in their literal sense, then Solomon's prayer would be understood to have been accepted in the sense that after his death no king possessing the power and prestige that he possessed ever appeared among the Israelites.

2534. Solomon, as stated in 21:83 and 34:13, 14, had subdued and subjected to his rule savage and rebellious mountain tribes. He had forced them into his service and had compelled them to do sundry works for him. Shayāṭīn of the preceding verse and jinn of 34:13 are the same people and the work on which they were employed by Solomon was also of the same nature (II Chron. 2:1, 2).

2535. Nuṣb means, fatigue, toil; affliction, distress, disease; misfortune (Lane). In the present and the next three verses the language used is as fittingly metaphorical as that used in the preceding several verses. It seems that Prophet Job lived in a country of which the ruler was, as the word Shaiṭān (leader of mischief) shows, a cruel and tyrannical idol-worshipper, who opposed the monotheistic teaching of Job and severely persecuted him. Job had to leave his native land and take refuge in another country and as a result of this emigration he was separated from his family and followers. If the word Shaiṭān, as some authorities hold, should signify Shaiṭānul-Falāt (satan of the desert), i.e. thirst, the verse would mean that Job in his long and tiresome journey had suffered from extreme thirst and fatigue. According to some other authorities the reference in the words, 'Satan has afflicted me with toil and torment,' is to a skin disease from which Prophet Job is said to have temporarily suffered and which left him very much exhausted.

2536. Job was enjoined to strike and urge on his riding beast in order to reach a place of safety soon. And as in his long and tiresome journey he greatly suffered from thirst and fatigue, he was comforted with the information that there lay ahead of him a fountain of sweet, cool water where he could slake his thirst and wash himself. Or, the meaning may be that having been left alone at a place where there was no water, he was told by God to urge on his riding beast as there lay ahead a fountain of cool, sweet water where he could take rest, satisfy his thirst and take a bath. Or, the verse may signify that as Job suffered from a skin disease, he was directed by God to take bath in a particular fountain whose water contained such minerals as would cure his skin disease. It seems that the country through which Job had to travel abounded in springs and fountains.

2537. When, in obedience to Divine command, Job continued his journey, he not only found cool and refreshing water with which he washed himself and assuaged his thirst, he found also his family and the people from whom he had become separated. It is possible that on account of some skin disease from which he suffered, Job's people might have left him.

2538. While in v. 43 Job was enjoined to urge his riding beast with his foot, in the present verse he is told to strike the beast with a bundle of twigs to make it run fast that he may be out of danger and reach a place of safety soon.

2539. The words, lā Taḥnath mean, do not incline to falsehood, i.e. make

We found him steadfast. An excellent servant was he. Surely, he was constantly turning to God.

وَاذْكُرْ عِبٰدَنَآ اِبْرٰهِيْمَ وَاِسْحٰقَ وَيَعْقُوْبَ اُولِي الْاَيْدِيْ وَالْاَبْصَارِ ﴿٤٦﴾ no compromise with idol-worship or polytheistic beliefs and remain steadfast in your belief in the Unity of God. If the expression means, break not thy oath, the verse would signify that as Job had become separated from his people due to negligence on their part, he had vowed that he would punish the guilty for their negligence after he joined them. When, however, he was united with them he was told by God (as the verse shows) not to treat them severely in the hour of joy and thanksgiving and to fulfil his oath in a way which should cause them least distress.

2540. Yad means, (1) benefit; (2) influence; (3) might; (4) army; (5) wealth; (6) promise; (7) submission (Aqrab).

2541. Elisha was the disciple and successor of Elijah. He lived from 938 B.C. to 828 B.C. See also 870.

2542. Dhul-Kifl, The Prophet known by this name appears to be the Prophet Ezekiel who is called Dhul-Kifl by the Arabs. See 1912.

[a]52:14. [b]7:39.

2545. Besides the meaning given in the text, the verse may also mean, 'And like them there will be other groups with similar records.'

2546. When the leaders of disbelief will see a party of their followers coming to Hell, they will be told that a host of their followers will also enter into fire along with them. As the latter rushed to follow their leaders blindly and unthinkingly rejected truth, so they will enter Hell rushing headlong.

2547. The followers of the leaders of disbelief will curse their leaders in these words. Both the leaders and the led will curse one another. It is human nature that when man is confronted with the evil consequences of his deeds, he tries to shift the blame to others. This is exactly what the guilty people generally do when they find themselves face to face with the dreadful results of their wicked deeds.

2549. The reference in the words, 'the men,' is to the believers.

2550. The inmates of Hell will say to one another, 'What is the matter with us that we do not see here those men whom we looked upon as of no consequence and ridiculed in the earthly life. Did they not deserve our ridicule and were really good and godly men, or are they in Hell but we do not see them?'

2551. Naba' means, a piece of information; an announcement of great importance; message; or news which fills the heart of a person with fear (Lane). The words, 'a big news' may refer to the great event of the revelation of the Qur'ān, or to the advent of the Holy Prophet.

2552. It appears from 2:31 and from the Ḥadīth that when God decrees to raise a Prophet in the world, He discloses His intention to those angels who are nearest to Him. They discuss this affair of the highest import among themselves. These angels are referred to as 'the Exalted Assembly.' The Holy Prophet is represented as saying that he had no knowledge of what was being discussed and debated in heavens about his being entrusted with the great Divine mission.

2553. When a Prophet is raised in the world, angels are commanded to assist him in the furtherance of his cause and to render null and void all the schemes and machinations of his enemies.

2554. Angels or men of angelic nature.

2555. The words, 'with My two hands,' signify, 'I have made him to manifest in himself all My attributes.'

2556. The opponents of a Prophet always regard themselves as superior to him in power, position and prestige. It hurts their sense of pride to give their allegiance to a man whom they consider to be like, or even inferior to, them.

2557. The pronoun hā in the expression, min-hā, does not refer to post-mortal Heaven because Heaven is a place where Satan could not possibly enter and from which no one who has once entered is turned out (15:49). It refers to that state of apparent bliss which men enjoy before the advent of a Prophet, and which is represented in the Qur'ān as Jannah.

2558. Man's spiritual rebirth—when having attained to the stage of 'the soul at peace,' he becomes immune to spiritual fall. See also 1498.

2559. The time when truth finally triumphs over falsehood and the votaries of falsehood are completely crushed.

لَاَمْلَئَنَّ جَهَنَّمَ مِنْكَ وَمِمَّنْ تَبِعَكَ مِنْهُمْ اَجْمَعِيْنَ ﴿٨٦﴾

86. 'That I will, certainly, fill Hell with thee and with those who follow thee, all together.'[2560]

قُلْ مَآ اَسْـَٔلُكُمْ عَلَيْهِ مِنْ اَجْرٍ وَّمَآ اَنَا مِنَ الْمُتَكَلِّفِيْنَ ﴿٨٧﴾

87. Say, 'I ask not of you any reward for it, nor am I of those who are given to affectation.

88. 'The Qur'ān is nothing but a Reminder for all peoples.

وَلَتَعْلَمُنَّ نَبَاَهٗ بَعْدَ حِيْنٍ ﴿٨٩﴾ ع ٢٤ ١٤

89. 'And you shall, surely, know the truth of it after a while.'[2561]

2560. The dialogue between God and Satan does not refer to any talk that actually took place but represents, in metaphorical language, the state of things as they exist at the time when a Prophet of God is raised. The "man" referred to in verse 72 stands particularly for the Prophet of the day, and Iblīs represents those wicked and evil-minded persons who oppose him and seek to impede and retard the progress of his mission.

2561. The Holy Prophet is here represented as saying to disbelievers that they will not have to wait for long to realize the truth of his mission.

CHAPTER 39
AZ-ZUMAR
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

Like the preceding five Chapters with which it has great resemblance in style and subject-matter, this Sūrah was revealed early in the Holy Prophet's ministry. Some writers like Rodwell and Muir assign it to the late Meccan period. Predominance of scholarly opinion, however, is in favour of the Sūrah having been revealed early in the Holy Prophet's life at Mecca. The principal theme of the six Chapters, which begin with Sabā', is Divine revelation with special reference to the revelation of the Qur'ān and the doctrine of the Unity of God. The fact that there is one Designer and One Controller and Creator of the whole universe is inescapably inferable from the order, adaptation, proportion and coordination which pervade the whole universe and to which all the sciences bear undeniable testimony. The success of Divine Messengers with their extremely meagre resources against very heavy odds constitutes another argument to prove God's Existence and His Unity.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with the subject of Quranic revelation and proceeds to deal with the need, purpose and the supreme object of all revealed Books and Divine Prophets which is the establishment of Unity of God on earth. The greatest impediment that bars the way to the achievement of this great and noble object lies in the fact that man is prone to worship false gods—the idols of his own creation. Of all forms of idolatry, perhaps the most hideous and most prevalent, and which has done the greatest injury to the spiritual development of whole communities, is the belief that Jesus is son of God. The Sūrah cites the most beautiful and consummate design and order in the universe as an argument in support of the belief that there is only one Designing Mind behind all creation. The three stages, through which the embryo passes before it develops into a full-fledged human being, are adduced as an additional argument. After having briefly discussed the need and purpose of Divine revelation, the Sūrah gives two very strong and sound arguments in its support, viz. (1) those who invent lies against God, and those who reject truth, never succeed in life. Failure and ignominy dog their footsteps. (2) The Prophets of God and those who accept them and follow their lead always meet with success and their cause prospers. These two arguments constitute an infallible criterion to judge the truth of a claimant to Divine revelation. Judged by these standards, the claim of the Holy Prophet as a Divine Messenger, and of the Qur'ān as Heavenly revelation, stands unchallenged and proved beyond doubt. Next, the Sūrah gives sinners a message of hope and good cheer. It tells them that God is Most Merciful and Forgiving. His mercy encompasses all things. He only requires a change of heart on the part of the sinner. Man has to work out his own destiny and the vicarious sacrifice of nobody can save him. But he is vouchsafed many opportunities to repent and reform, but if he continues to walk in evil ways deliberately, he is severely punished. Towards the close the Sūrah devotes quite a few verses to the description of the Day of Resurrection.

سُوْرَةُ الزُّمَرِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٣٩ — اٰياتها ٧٦ — رکوعاتها ٨

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

تَنْزِيْلُ الْكِتٰبِ مِنَ اللّٰهِ الْعَزِيْزِ الْحَكِيْمِ ②

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

2. [b]The revelation of this Book is from Allāh, the Mighty, the Wise.

اِنَّآ اَنْزَلْنَآ اِلَيْكَ الْكِتٰبَ بِالْحَقِّ فَاعْبُدِ اللّٰهَ مُخْلِصًا لَّهُ الدِّيْنَ ③

3. [c]Surely, it is We Who have revealed the Book to thee comprising the whole truth, so worship Allāh, being sincere to Him in obedience.

اَلَا لِلّٰهِ الدِّيْنُ الْخَالِصُ ؕ وَالَّذِيْنَ اتَّخَذُوْا مِنْ دُوْنِهٖٓ اَوْلِيَآءَ ۘ مَا نَعْبُدُهُمْ اِلَّا لِيُقَرِّبُوْنَآ اِلَى اللّٰهِ زُلْفٰى ؕ اِنَّ اللّٰهَ يَحْكُمُ بَيْنَهُمْ فِيْ مَا هُمْ فِيْهِ يَخْتَلِفُوْنَ ؕ اِنَّ اللّٰهَ لَا يَهْدِيْ مَنْ هُوَ كٰذِبٌ كَفَّارٌ ④

4. Remember, it is to Allāh alone that sincere obedience is due. And those who take as protectors others beside Him, say, 'We serve them only that they may bring us near to Allāh in station.'[2562] Surely, [d]Allāh will judge between them concerning that wherein they differ. Surely, Allāh guides not him who is an ungrateful liar.

لَوْ اَرَادَ اللّٰهُ اَنْ يَّتَّخِذَ وَلَدًا لَّاصْطَفٰى مِمَّا يَخْلُقُ مَا يَشَآءُ ۙ سُبْحٰنَهٗ ؕ هُوَ اللّٰهُ الْوَاحِدُ الْقَهَّارُ ⑤

2562. Man is prone to worship false gods, the idols of his own imagination, such as saints and holy men; wealth, power and passion; inherited beliefs and customs, etc. always pretending to believe that these can help him to understand and realize the Divine Being.

2563. The word, Anzala, when used in connection with the Word of God, means Auḥā, i.e. He revealed; and when used about things of constant daily use, it means A'ṭā, i.e. he gave or bestowed. The word has been used in the latter sense in the present verse and in vv. 7:27 and 57:26.

2564. Special reference in the words 'eight pairs of cattle' is to the pairs of goat, sheep, camel and the ox, mentioned in 6:144, 145, perhaps because they are animals of daily use for man.

2565. The expression, 'three stages of darkness,' may refer to the three stages of development of the embryo, Nutfah (sperm drop), 'Alaqah (clot) and Muḍghah (lump of flesh) or to the three forms mentioned in 86:7, 8; 3:7 and 16:79, or to the three critical periods of pregnancy: (a) from the second to the third month of pregnancy; (b) from the third to the fifth month and (c) the

[a]And no bearer of burden shall bear the burden of another. Then to your Lord is your return; and He will inform you of what you have been doing. Surely, He knows full well all that is hidden in the breasts.

9. [b]And when an affliction befalls man, he calls upon his Lord, turning penitently to Him. Then, when He confers upon him a favour from Himself, he forgets what he used to pray for before, and starts assigning rivals to Allāh, that he may lead people astray from His way. Say, 'Profit from thy disbelief a little; while in the end thou art, surely, of the inmates of the Fire.'

2566. Whereas Shukr denotes the proper use of Divine favours in a manner intended by God (14:8), Kufr is the misuse of these favours.

2567. The verse warns believers that they will be made to pass through trials and tribulations and will have to leave even their hearths and homes for the sake of God. It is when they have met the ordeal successfully that they will find God's earth spacious for them and will have their full reward from God without measure.

20. Can he, then, against whom the sentence of punishment has become due, be saved? Canst thou rescue him who is in the Fire?

[a]7:42; 18:30. [b]7:205.

Prophet has been enjoined to worship Allāh with sincere devotion. The verses seemed to prepare Muslims for the severe trials that lay ahead of them in Medina. The Sūrah was revealed in the later Meccan period, when Muslims were leaving for Medina singly or in small groups.

2569. When two equally permissible courses are open to a believer, he

Then it dries up and thou seest it turn yellow; then He reduces it to broken straw. In that, verily, is a reminder for men of understanding.

2570. The difference in ranks of believers in Paradise shows that there will be a corresponding difference in their endeavour and labour which signifies that the next life will not be a life of inactivity and lassitude but of incessant work and continuous advance.

2571. The teaching of Islām has such depth and vastness that it makes the hearts of believers expand and overflow with Divine knowledge and love. It certainly opens up new and endless vistas of thought, knowledge and truth.

اَللّٰهُ نَزَّلَ اَحْسَنَ الْحَدِيْثِ كِتٰبًا مُّتَشَابِهًا

Such is the guidance of Allāh; He guides therewith whom He pleases. [b]And he whom Allāh adjudges astray—he shall have no guide.

25. Is he, then, who has only his own face[2573] to shield him from the evil punishment on the Day of Resurrection, like him who is secure? And it will be said to the wrongdoers, 'Taste ye the recompense of what you used to earn.'

[a]15:88. [b]17:98.

2572. Divine revelation has found the completest and most perfect expression in the Qur'ān. In the verse under comment the Qur'ān has been described as Kitāban Mutashābihan signifying that it is a Book which is susceptible of different interpretations which are consistent with and support each other. There is no contradiction or inconsistency anywhere in the Qur'ān. This constitutes one of its inimitable excellences. Another excellence of the Qur'ān lies in the fact that it has made use of metaphors, allegories and parables. This greatly adds to the beauty and grace of its style and assures vastness of meaning in the fewest possible words. Again, the Qur'ān is called Mathānī which signifies that it describes its basic beliefs and principles repeatedly and in different ways and forms, in order to emphasize their importance, necessity and purpose. The word also signifies that some of the teachings of the Qur'ān resemble those of other revealed Scriptures and some are new and inapproachable and incomparable in their excellences and beauties.

2573. The words signify the severity of the punishment which disbelievers

كَذَّبَ الَّذِيْنَ مِنْ قَبْلِهِمْ فَاَتٰىهُمُ
الْعَذَابُ مِنْ حَيْثُ لَا يَشْعُرُوْنَ ﴿٢٦﴾

26. Those, who were before them, rejected Our Messengers, so [a]the punishment came upon them whence they knew not.

فَاَذَاقَهُمُ اللّٰهُ الْخِزْيَ فِي الْحَيٰوةِ الدُّنْيَا ۚ وَلَعَذَابُ الْاٰخِرَةِ اَكْبَرُ ۘ لَوْ كَانُوْا

will receive on the Day of Reckoning. They will become so confused and confounded by the severe punishment that, instead of protecting their faces, which are the most sensitive part of the body, they will put them forward.

2574. The verse develops the argument given in v. 24, viz. that the Qur'ān contains the best Message for mankind, in that it has comprehensively dealt with all those principles and teachings which have deep bearing on man's spiritual and moral development, and also with all those subjects which can make his life useful and pleasant. It has provided guidance in matters of belief and conduct.

2575. A polytheist is like a person who has to serve several masters, having mutually antagonistic interests and who also are ill-tempered and quarrelsome. Pitiable indeed is the lot of such a person! Can he be like a true believer who has to serve and please only one Master—Allah?

2577. Though idolaters, out of superstition or traditional attachment, worship false gods, yet if the argument is driven home to them, they have to, and invariably do, confess that God is the Creator of the heavens and the earth and in Him alone resides all real power.

2578. The verse throws out an open challenge to disbelievers to do their worst and use all their power, resources and influence to destroy Islām, but they will never succeed in their evil designs. Islām is humanity's last hope and final destiny and, therefore, its cause is bound to triumph and prevail.

2579. Man himself is the architect of his destiny—good or bad.

2580. With his death man's soul does not die or disintegrate but is taken away from its mortal habitat and is kept in other regions to account for man's actions in due course.

49. [a]And the evil consequences of what they had earned will become apparent to them and that which they used to mock at will encompass them.

فَاِذَا مَسَّ الْاِنْسَانَ ضُرٌّ دَعَانَا ۫ ثُمَّ اِذَا خَوَّلْنٰهُ نِعْمَةً مِّنَّا ۙ قَالَ اِنَّمَآ اُوْتِيْتُهٗ عَلٰى عِلْمٍ ؕ بَلْ هِيَ فِتْنَةٌ وَّلٰكِنَّ اَكْثَرَهُمْ لَا يَعْلَمُوْنَ ﴿٥٠﴾

50. [b]And when harm touches man, he cries unto Us. But when We bestow on him a favour from Us, he says, 'This has been given to me on account of my own knowledge.'[2583] Nay, it is only a trial; but most of them know not.

قَدْ قَالَهَا الَّذِيْنَ مِنْ قَبْلِهِمْ فَمَآ اَغْنٰى عَنْهُمْ مَّا كَانُوْا يَكْسِبُوْنَ ﴿٥١﴾

51. Those who were before them said the same thing, yet all that they had earned availed them not.

2584. The verse holds out a message of hope and good cheer to the sinners. It encourages optimism and kills despair and despondency. It denounces and condemns pessimism because pessimism lies at the root of most sins and failures in life. Again and again the Qur'ān gives a promise of Divine mercy and forgiveness (6:55; 7:157; 12:88; 15:57; 18:59) than which there could be no greater message of solace and comfort for the grieved and the heavy-laden.

2585. Whereas the preceding verse holds out to sinners the message of hope and good cheer, this verse warns them that they will have to work out their destiny themselves by submitting to Divine laws.

2587. Yamīn signifying power and strength, the verse refers to the great Power and Majesty of God and purports to say that nothing is more and exalted is He above that which they associate with Him.

derogatory to his great attributes than that idols made of wood and stone or weak human beings should be worshipped.

2588. The verse seems to apply to Resurrection in the next life. But it may also apply to the spiritual condition of people immediately before the appearance of a Divine Teacher in the world whose advent is here likened to the blowing of the trumpet. In view of this simile the words, 'will fall down into a swoon,' may signify spiritual torpor of the people immediately before the appearance of a Divine Reformer and the words, 'will be standing, awaiting,' may signify their having seen and followed the right path after he has made his appearance.

2589. Applied to the next life, the words, 'And the earth will shine with the light of her Lord,' would mean that the veil will be lifted from the mysteries of life and the consequences of good and bad actions which man will have done in this life and which remain hidden here, will become manifest. With reference, however, to the appearance of a Divine Teacher in the world, particularly to that of the Holy Prophet, the words may signify that now that

وَوُفِّيَتْ كُلُّ نَفْسٍ مَّا عَمِلَتْ وَهُوَ اَعْلَمُ
بِمَا يَفْعَلُوْنَ ﴿٧١﴾ ع ٨

71. [a]And every soul will be fully rewarded for what it did. And He knows well what they do.

the Holy Prophet has appeared the whole earth will shine with Divine Light, and spiritual darkness will be completely dispelled. The words, 'The Prophets and witnesses will be brought, may signify the advent of the Holy Prophet who represents in his person all the Prophets and Divine Teachers; and 'witnesses' refers to his true followers who enjoy the proud privilege of having been appointed witnesses over all men (2:144).

عَلَيْكُمْ طِبْتُمْ فَادْخُلُوهَا خٰلِدِيْنَ ﴿٧٤﴾

76. And thou wilt see the angels going round the Throne, glorifying their Lord with His praise,[2591] and judgment will be given between the people with justice. And it will be said, 'All praise belongs to Allāh, the Lord of the worlds.'

[a]13:25. [b]1:2; 7:44; 37:183; 40:8.

2590. Ṭibtum may also mean, because you led good and pure lives.

2591. God's attributes will see their most complete manifestation on the Judgment Day and the cherubs will be on duty singing alleluias to the Divine Being. Or, the verse may mean that the Unity of God will become established in Arabia, and God's true servants in the world together with the angels in heavens will celebrate His praises.

CHAPTER 40

AL-MU'MIN

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

With this Sūrah begins a group of Chapters all of which have the same abbreviated letters, Ḥā Mīm, affixed to them and which open with the subject of the revelation of the Qur'ān, and belong to the same period. According to Ibn-e-'Abbās and 'Ikrimah, all these Sūrahs were revealed at Mecca at a time when opposition to Islām had become persistent, organized and bitter (vv. 56 & 78) and the Holy Prophet's enemies were even seeking to kill him (v. 29). Towards the close of the last Sūrah the Holy Prophet was comforted with the assurance that very soon Divine judgment will issue forth between him and his enemies. The forces of darkness will be routed; idolatry will disappear from Arabia, and the whole country will reverberate with the praises of God. The present Sūrah opens with the most welcome declaration that the Great and Mighty God has revealed the Qur'ān in order that Divine Majesty and Holiness be established in the world and disbelief obliterated from it.

Subject-Matter

As mentioned above, the Sūrah opens with a firm declaration that the time has come when truth will triumph over falsehood and righteousness over evil, and the praises of God will be sung in the land where idolatry had been rampant. This great consummation will be brought about by means of the Qur'ān. The enemies of truth will strain every nerve and use their influence and powerful resources to nip the tender plant of Islām in the bud. But they will fail in their evil designs and endeavours. The Holy Prophet is told not to be deceived and overawed by the glamour of power and great material resources of disbelievers, because they are destined to come to a sad end. He is further told that his opponents are not the only and the first people to oppose truth. There have been people before who also sought to kill their Prophets and exterminate their missions. But God's punishment overtook them. So will punishment seize his opponents. The Sūrah then refers to the case of Moses as an illustration of the sad end to which the opponents of the Holy Prophet are bound to come. While Pharaoh rejected Moses's invitation to truth, a 'believing man' from his own household gave a most pathetic but convincing speech, exhorting his people not to seek to kill a man (Moses) whose only fault was that he said that Allāh was his Lord, and who possessed sound and solid proofs to support and establish his case. He further warned them that they should not be misled by their wealth, power and material resources, for all these were transitory things. But instead of benefiting by his sincere advice Pharaoh mocked at him. Next, the Sūrah makes pointed reference to the invariable Divine law, viz. that help and succour of God are always with His Messengers and with their followers and that failure and frustration continue to dog the footsteps of disbelievers till the end of time. This Divine law operated in the time of every Prophet and it will see its fullest manifestation in the time of the Holy Prophet. The disbelievers are then told that they have no reason to reject the Holy Prophet. His advent is not a novel phenomenon. Just as day follows night in the physical world, so does spiritual awakening follow a period of moral decadence in the spiritual realm. As the world had become spiritually dead, God raised the Holy Prophet to give it a new life. The Sūrah closes on the note that when God has made adequate provision for the physical needs of man, He could not have ignored to make a similar provision for his spiritual needs. He has been making this provision from time immemorial. He sent His Messengers and Prophets in the world who invited men to their Lord and Creator; but out of ingratitude and folly the sons of darkness rejected the Divine Message in every age and earned God's displeasure.

2592. The abbreviated letters Ḥā Mīm stand for the Divine attributes Ḥamīd, Majīd (Praiseworthy and Lord of Honour), or for Ḥayy, Qayyūm (Living, Self-Subsisting and All-Sustaining). Both these groups of Divine attributes have a strong bearing on the subject-matter of this Sūrah. The Sūrah makes repeated reference to the Glory, Majesty and Power of God as the word 'Arsh which signifies these attributes and which has been twice mentioned in the first few verses, shows. The second main theme is the rise of a spiritually dead people to new life. Both the attributes Ḥayy (Living) and Qayyūm (Self-Subsisting and All-Sustaining) have an obvious connection with this subject. This fact explains why the abbreviated letters Ḥā Mīm have been placed in the beginning. It is worthy of particular note that the present and next six Chapters form a special group. Each of them opening with the same abbreviated letters, which indicates that a deep connection exists between their subject-matter.

2593. Ṭaul means, beneficence; bounty; excellence; superabundance; power; wealth; ampleness of circumstances; superiority, ascendancy (Lane).

2594. Believers are told not to be deceived by the glamour of the material

2595. As 'Arsh signifies Divine attributes (see [986] & [1233]), the words, 'Those who bear the Throne,' would, therefore, mean, those beings or persons through whom those attributes are manifested. As the laws of nature work through the angels, and the Prophets are the instruments through whom God's Word is preached to mankind, the words, 'Those who bear the Throne,' may signify both the angels and the Divine Messengers, and the words, 'those who are around it,' may signify subordinate angels who assist the principal angels in executing the affairs of the world or the true followers of the Prophets who preach and disseminate the teachings of the Prophets. See also [986].

11. It will be announced to those who disbelieve: 'Greater was the abhorrence of Allāh, when you were called to the faith and you disbelieved, than your own abhorrence of yourselves[2597] today.'

[a]13:24; 52:22. [b]6:17.

2596. The verse lays down a great principle. No work is accomplished and no success achieved by anyone in this world single-handed. Several other persons, consciously or unconsciously, make their contribution to it. These conscious or unconscious associates and helpers primarily are a person's parents, wife and children. So these near relatives will also be allowed to participate in the blessings which will be bestowed upon believers for his good works.

2597. It is human nature that when a person is confronted with the evil consequences of his bad deeds, he begins to curse himself. The disbelievers are told that when they are face to face with punishment they feel disgusted with themselves. But the Merciful and Gracious God was more disgusted with them when they rejected His Message and opposed and persecuted His Messengers.

2601. For Korah and Hāmān see 2198 and 2231. Every Prophet of God had had his Pharaoh, Hāmān and Korah. These names respectively may symbolise power, priesthood and material wealth, as Hāmān was the head of priestly class, and Korah an extremely rich man among Pharaoh's nobles. Unlimited political power, servile priesthood and uncontrolled capitalism are the three evils which have ever retarded and arrested the political, economic, moral and spiritual growth of a people, and naturally it is against these enemies of man that Heavenly Reformers have waged relentless war in every age.

2602. God is the ultimate refuge of His Prophets and the Elect. They knock at His door when they see darkness all around them and when the powers of evil are determined to exterminate the truth preached by them.

2603. The believing man had kept hidden his faith in order to give expression to it on a suitable occasion. The bold manner in which he expressed his belief and spoke to the people of Pharaoh shows that the concealment was not due to fear.

46. So Allāh preserved him from the evils of whatever they plotted, and a grievous punishment encompassed the people of Pharaoh—

2608. Whereas the requital of the evil deeds of disbelievers will be proportionate to their deeds, the reward of the good deeds of believers will be without limit or measure. This is the Islamic conception of Heaven and Hell.

2608A. Is not fit to be called upon; ought not to be called upon; has no title

اَلنَّارُ يُعْرَضُوْنَ عَلَيْهَا غُدُوًّا وَّ عَشِيًّا ۚ وَيَوْمَ تَقُوْمُ السَّاعَةُ ۫ اَدْخِلُوْٓا اٰلَ فِرْعَوْنَ اَشَدَّ الْعَذَابِ ﴿۴۷﴾

وَقَالَ الَّذِيْنَ فِي النَّارِ لِخَزَنَةِ جَهَنَّمَ ادْعُوْا رَبَّكُمْ يُخَفِّفْ عَنَّا يَوْمًا مِّنَ الْعَذَابِ ﴿۵۰﴾

50. And those in the Fire will say to the Keepers of Hell, 'Pray to your Lord that He may lighten for us the punishment for a day.'

قَالُوْٓا اَوَلَمْ تَكُ تَاْتِيْكُمْ رُسُلُكُمْ or claim to be called upon.

2609. The implied reference in the words, 'They are exposed to it morning and evening,' may be to the punishment the disbelievers are made to suffer in Barzakh which is an intervening stage and where the realization of pain or joy is incomplete. The complete and full manifestation of Heaven and Hell will take place on the Day of Judgment.

بِالْبَيِّنٰتِ ؕ قَالُوْا بَلٰى ؕ قَالُوْا فَادْعُوْا ۚ وَمَا دُعٰٓؤُا الْكٰفِرِيْنَ اِلَّا فِيْ ضَلٰلٍ ۝٥٠ ع ٤ come to you with manifest Signs?' They will say, 'Yea.' The Keepers will say, 'Then pray on.' [a]But the prayer of disbelievers is of no avail.[2610]

R. 6.

اِنَّا لَنَنْصُرُ رُسُلَنَا وَالَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوْا فِي الْحَيٰوةِ الدُّنْيَا وَيَوْمَ يَقُوْمُ الْاَشْهَادُ ۝٥١

52. [b]Most surely, We help Our Messengers and those who believe,[2611] both in the present life and on the day when the witnesses will stand forth,

يَوْمَ لَا يَنْفَعُ الظّٰلِمِيْنَ مَعْذِرَتُهُمْ وَلَهُمُ اللَّعْنَةُ وَلَهُمْ سُوْٓءُ الدَّارِ ۝٥٢

53. The day when their pleading will not profit the wrongdoers, and [c]for them will be the curse and for them will be the evil abode.

فَاصْبِرْ اِنَّ وَعْدَ اللّٰهِ حَقٌّ وَّاسْتَغْفِرْ

[a]13:15. [b]10:104; 30:48; 58:22. [c]13:26. [d]2:88; 17:3; 23:50; 32:24. [e]30:61.

2610. The efforts and prayers of disbelievers against God's Prophets prove abortive, not that all their prayers as such are not accepted. God does answer the prayers of a distressed person when he calls upon Him whether he be a believer or a disbeliever (27:63).

2611. The verse holds out an emphatic promise to Divine Messengers and their followers that God's help and succour will always be with them and that, try as they might, the evil designs of disbelievers against them are bound to fail.

2612. Ghafaral-Matā'a means, he put the goods in the bag and covered and protected them. Ghufrān and Maghfirah are both infinitive nouns from Ghafara and mean, protection and preservation. Mighfar means helmet, because it protects the head. Dhamb means, such natural failings or frailties as adhere to human nature or such errors as bring about harmful results. Dhanaba-hū means, he followed his trail, not quitting his track (Lane & them for the wrongs they have done thee[2612A] and glorify thy Lord with His praise in the evening and in the morning.

لِذَنْۢبِكَ وَسَبِّحْ بِحَمْدِ رَبِّكَ بِالْعَشِيِّ وَالْاِبْكَارِ ﴿٥٦﴾

اِنَّ الَّذِيْنَ يُجَادِلُوْنَ فِيْٓ اٰيٰتِ اللّٰهِ بِغَيْرِ سُلْطٰنٍ اَتٰىهُمْ ۙ اِنْ فِيْ صُدُوْرِهِمْ اِلَّا كِبْرٌ مَّا هُمْ بِبَالِغِيْهِ ۚ فَاسْتَعِذْ بِاللّٰهِ ؕ اِنَّهٗ هُوَ السَّمِيْعُ الْبَصِيْرُ ﴿٥٧﴾

57. [a]Those who dispute concerning the Signs of Allāh without any authority having come to them from Allāh—there is nothing in their breasts but an ambition to become great[2613] which they will never attain. So seek refuge in Allāh. Surely, He is the All-Hearing, the All-Seeing.

لَخَلْقُ السَّمٰوٰتِ وَالْاَرْضِ اَكْبَرُ مِنْ خَلْقِ النَّاسِ وَلٰكِنَّ اَكْثَرَ النَّاسِ لَا يَعْلَمُوْنَ ﴿٥٨﴾

58. Certainly, the creation of the heavens and the earth is greater than the creation of mankind;[2614] but most men know not.

[a]40:36.

Mufradāt). Istighfār is not only needed by ordinary believers but also by holy men of God, even by God's great Prophets. While the former offer Istighfār to seek protection against future sins as well as from the evil consequences of past lapses, the latter seek protection from human shortcomings and weaknesses that may hinder the progress of their cause. The Prophets also are human and though they are immune to sin, yet they, too, are heirs to human failings and frailties; so they also need offering Istighfār to seek Divine help and protection. See also [2765].

2612A. Dhambaka, means, sins committed against thee; sins alleged by thy enemies to have been committed by thee; thine human shortcomings and frailties. See [2765].

2613. Kibr signifies pride; desire or ambition to become great; great designs (Lane).

2614. According to learned scholars and Commentators, such as Baghvī, Ibn-e-Ḥajr and others, the word an-Nās in the verse signifies the Dajjāl. This interpretation finds its confirmation in a well-known saying of the Holy Prophet, viz. 'From the creation of Adam to the Day of Resurrection there has not been a greater creation than that of the Dajjāl' (Bukhārī). This Ḥadīth points to the mightiness and all-powerfulness of the Dajjāl; and as he is a great deceiver and beguiler, the Faithful are warned to be on their guard against being deceived or intimidated by his glamour and material glory. In view of this Ḥadīth the implication of the verse seems to be that the forces of darkness, of which the Dajjāl is the greatest representative, however, mighty and powerful they may be, will not be able to retard the progress of Islām, and that these forces will eventually be vanquished by it. The verse may also mean that quite insignificant as compared to the great universe created by God, man in his conceit and arrogance refuses to respond to the Divine Call.

كَذٰلِكَ يُؤْفَكُ الَّذِيْنَ كَانُوْا بِاٰيٰتِ اللّٰهِ يَجْحَدُوْنَ ﴿٦٤﴾

2617. The verse embodies two religious principles: (1) Truth must prevail in the long run, but before success comes to men of God they have to go through severe trials and tribulations and their faith has to be tested and proved up to the mark. (2) Prophecies containing warnings of punishment to disbelievers are conditional and subject to postponement, revocation or even cancellation. The word Ba'ḍ signifies that not all prophecies containing threats are literally fulfilled. They change with the change in the attitude of disbelievers.

نَقْصُصْ عَلَيْكَ ۘ وَمَا كَانَ لِرَسُوْلٍ اَنْ of them are some whom We have not mentioned to thee, [a]and it is not possible for any Messenger to bring a Sign except by the leave of Allāh.[2618] But when Allāh's decree comes, the matter is decided with justice and then there perish those who utter falsehoods.

R. 9.

2618. Though the prophecies containing warnings and threats meant for disbelievers are subject to postponement, revocation or cancellation, yet if, by closing the door of repentance upon themselves, they make themselves deserving of Divine punishment, they are punished. But it is not for the Prophet to say when and how they will be punished.

2619. Ḥājah means, want; need; desire; object of want or need (Lane).

كَانُوْٓا اَكْثَرَ مِنْهُمْ وَ اَشَدَّ قُوَّةً وَّاٰثَارًا

كَانُوْا بِهٖ يَسْتَهْزِءُوْنَ ﴿٨٤﴾

84. And when their Messengers came to them with manifest Signs, they exulted in the little knowledge they had. And that at which they mocked encompassed them.

فَلَمَّا رَاَوْا بَاْسَنَا قَالُوْٓا اٰمَنَّا بِاللّٰهِ وَحْدَهٗ
وَكَفَرْنَا بِمَا كُنَّا بِهٖ مُشْرِكِيْنَ ﴿٨٥﴾

85. [a]And when they saw Our punishment they said, 'We believe in Allāh alone and we reject all that which we used to associate with Him.'

فَلَمْ يَكُ يَنْفَعُهُمْ اِيْمَانُهُمْ لَمَّا رَاَوْا
بَاْسَنَا ؕ سُنَّتَ اللّٰهِ الَّتِيْ قَدْ خَلَتْ فِيْ
عِبَادِهٖ ۚ وَخَسِرَ هُنَالِكَ الْكٰفِرُوْنَ ﴿٨٦﴾ ع ١٤

86. [b]But their faith could not profit them when they saw Our punishment.[2620] This is Allāh's law that has ever been in operation in respect of His servants. And thus perished those who disbelieved.

[a]10:52, 91. [b]10:92.

2620. When the cup of the iniquities of disbelievers becomes full, and the Divine decree that they should be punished comes into operation, no profession of faith on their part is of any avail, and repentance then is too late.

CHAPTER 41
ḤĀ MĪM AS-SAJDAH
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah bears the title of Ḥā Mīm As-Sajdah. It is also known as Fuṣṣilat. Being the second of the seven Chapters of Ḥā Mīm group, it possesses a very close resemblance with the Sūrah that goes before it and those that follow it in style and subject-matter, and like them it was revealed at Mecca at a time when opposition to Islam had grown strong, determined and persistent. While towards the close of the preceding Sūrah the disbelievers were warned that when Divine punishment overtook them, belief and repentance would be of no avail, the present Sūrah opens with the statement that it is those people, who close the avenues of their hearts and persistently refuse to listen to the Qur'ān, that render themselves deserving of punishment. It further declares that the Qur'ān contains all that is necessary for the moral development of man and explains fully and completely all its tenets, teachings and principles in the most explicit, expressive and intelligible language and adduces as an argument the creation of the universe in six periods or stages to prove Divine Unity, and proceeds to say that all Prophets brought the self-same Message of Divine Unity. Even the Prophets of antiquity like Hūd and Ṣāliḥ preached the same doctrine. Next, it is stated that whenever a new Prophet comes in the world, the leaders of disbelief try to stifle the voice of Truth by raising a loud hue and cry against it and seek to confuse the minds of the people by using all sorts of guiles and subterfuges; but falsehood has never succeeded in drowning the voice of Truth. Likewise will the efforts of opponents of the Holy Prophet fail against him. The angels of God will descend upon those who believe in him and stand by him through thick and thin, consoling and comforting them, blessing their endeavours with success and telling them that they will inherit Divine blessings in this world and will be God's guests in the next. The Sūrah proceeds to say that night of sin and iniquity will pass away and the sun of righteousness and God's Unity will shine upon Arabia, and a people, who for centuries had groped in the darkness of ignorance, will receive a new life, and Islām, after having taken deep roots in Arabia, will spread and expand to the farthest ends of the earth. This marvellous change will come about through the noble teaching of this wonderful Book—the Qur'ān. God alone knows how and when the seed of truth that the Holy Prophet has sown in the soil of Arabia will develop and grow into a mighty tree, but grow it must, and under its cool and comfortable shade great nations will take rest.

2621. The verse depicts disbelievers as saying sarcastically to the Holy Prophet, 'your teaching is too good for us sinners to accept and your ideals too sublime to be understood and realized by us.' If the words are taken to be spoken seriously they would mean, 'We are fully determined not to accept your teaching. We have closed all the avenues of our hearts, eyes and ears against it.'

11. [b]He placed therein firm mountains rising above its surface, and blessed it with abundance, and provided therein its foods in proper measure in four days[2623]—

[a]11:12; 84:26; 95:7. [b]13:4; 15:20; 77:28.

2622. It is not possible to surmise as to the length of these 'two days.' They may have extended over thousands of years. Even in the Qur'ān Yaum (day) has been spoken of as equal to a thousand years (22:48), or even equal to fifty thousand years (70:5). The making of the earth in two days may signify the two stages through which the earth passed from a formless matter into a gradually evolved form after it had cooled down and become condensed.

2623. The 'two days' or stages mentioned in the previous verse through which the earth had to pass before it assumed its present form are included among the 'four days' mentioned in the present verse, the additional 'two days' signifying the two stages of the placing on it of mountains, rivers, etc. and the

فَقَضٰىهُنَّ سَبْعَ سَمٰوَاتٍ فِىْ يَوْمَيْنِ وَاَوْحٰى فِىْ كُلِّ سَمَآءٍ اَمْرَهَا ؕ وَزَيَّنَّا

13. So He completed them in the form of seven heavens in two days,[2627] and He revealed growth on it of vegetable and animal life. See also v. 13. The words, 'provided therein its foods in proper measure,' signify that the earth is and will ever remain to be fully capable of providing food for all the creatures that live on it.

2624. The expression, 'alike for all seekers,' may signify that the foods which God has provided in the earth are equally accessible to all seekers who try to get them according to the laws of nature. It may also mean that all the physical needs and requirements of man have been adequately met in the foods that grow out of earth. So the fear that the earth may not some day be able to grow sufficient food for the fast increasing population of the world is groundless. 'The world can provide food, fibre and all other agricultural requirements for 28 billion people, ten times the world's present population' (Prof. Cohn Clark, Director of the Agricultural Economics Research Institute of Oxford University). Only recently the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization pointed out in its report, 'The State of Food and Agriculture, 1959,' that the world's food supply grows twice as fast as its population.

2625. Kurhan or Karhan in both forms is infinitive-noun from Kariha (he disliked), the former (Kurhan) meaning, what you yourself do not like and the latter (Karhan) meaning, what you are compelled to do against your will by someone else. Fa'ala-hū Karhan means, he did it unwillingly (Lane).

2626. The verse signifies that everything in the universe is subject to certain laws which it obeys and according to which it works. It has no discretion. It is man alone who has been endowed with volition or discretion to obey or defy the Divine laws and it is not unoften that he uses his discretion to his detriment. This is also the meaning and significance of 33:73.

2627. In vv. 10 and 11 it is stated that the making of the earth took two days and the placing on it of the mountains, rivers, etc. and of vegetable and animal life, another two days. In the present verse, however, it is mentioned that like the earth the solar system with its planets and satellites took two days to become complete. Thus the whole universe came into existence in six days or periods which is quite in harmony with vv. 7:55 and 50:39. Taking the word Yaum in the sense of 'stage,' the three vv. 10, 11 and 13 taken together would mean that the whole physical universe was completed in six stages. After the creation of the universe, man came into existence and his creation also was completed in six stages (23:13-15).

2627A. Divine Messengers continued to appear during the whole span of their national life.

2628. The ears and eyes of the guilty will bear witness against disbelievers in three ways: (1) The evil consequences of their actions will take a physical form. (2) The very organs of their bodies having been vitiated by misuse, their vitiated condition will bear witness against them; and (3) all the movements of the organs of their bodies, having been preserved, will be reproduced on the Last Day.

2629. The skin plays the most important part in man's actions. It includes not only the sense of touch but also all the other senses. While the sins of the eyes and the ears are confined to seeing and hearing, the sins of 'the skin' extend to all organs or limbs of the body.

2630. In fact, all sins are the result of lack of a living faith in God.

And We had assigned to them companions who made to appear attractive[2632] to them what was before them and what was behind them of their deeds, and the same sentence was proved true concerning them as had proved true concerning the communities of jinn and men [b]that had gone before them. Surely, they were the losers.

R. 4.

وَقَالَ الَّذِيۡنَ كَفَرُوۡا لَا تَسۡمَعُوۡا لِهٰذَا الۡقُرۡاٰنِ وَالۡغَوۡا فِيۡهِ لَعَلَّكُمۡ تَغۡلِبُوۡنَ ﴿۲۷﴾

27. And those who disbelieve say, 'Listen not to this Qur'ān, but make noise during its recital[2633] that you may have the upper hand.'

[a]16:85; 30:58. [b]3:138; 7:39; 13:31; 46:19.

2631. The crimes of disbelievers are so heinous and hideous that they will not be granted, or taken back into God's favour, or the meaning is that the disbelievers will not be allowed even to approach the 'Atabah (threshold) of the Throne of God to ask for His mercy.

2632. The evil companions of disbelievers admired and praised their evil acts so as to make those acts appear commendable to them. These evil associates will be made to share the punishment with those whom they beguiled and deceived. The words, 'what was before them and what was behind them,' may mean, the deeds which they did in consequence of association with their bad companions and those they did in imitation of the bad deeds of their forefathers.

فَلَنُذِيقَنَّ الَّذِيْنَ كَفَرُوْا عَذَابًا شَدِيْدًا ۙ وَّ لَنَجْزِيَنَّهُمْ اَسْوَاَ الَّذِيْ كَانُوْا يَعْمَلُوْنَ ﴿۲۸﴾

اِنَّ الَّذِيْنَ قَالُوْا رَبُّنَا اللّٰهُ ثُمَّ اسْتَقَامُوْا تَتَنَزَّلُ عَلَيْهِمُ الْمَلٰٓئِكَةُ اَلَّا تَخَافُوْا وَلَا تَحْزَنُوْا وَاَبْشِرُوْا بِالْجَنَّةِ الَّتِيْ كُنْتُمْ تُوْعَدُوْنَ ﴿۳۱﴾

31. [c]As for those who say, 'Our Lord is Allāh,' and then remain steadfast, the angels descend on them, reassuring them: 'Fear not, nor grieve; and rejoice in the glad tidings of the Garden which you were promised;[2635]

40. And of His Signs is that thou seest the earth lying withered, [b]but when We send down water on it, it stirs and swells with verdure. Surely, He, Who quickened it, can quicken the dead also. Verily, He has power over all things.

اِنَّ الَّذِيْنَ يُلْحِدُوْنَ فِيْۤ اٰيٰتِنَا لَا يَخْفَوْنَ

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا بِالذِّكْرِ لَمَّا جَاءَهُمْ ۚ وَإِنَّهُ لَكِتَابٌ عَزِيزٌ ﴿٤٢﴾

42. Those who disbelieve in the Reminder[2637]—the Qur'ān—when it has come to them are the losers. And, truly, it is a mighty Book,

لَّا يَأْتِيهِ الْبَاطِلُ مِن بَيْنِ يَدَيْهِ وَلَا مِنْ خَلْفِهِ ۖ تَنزِيلٌ مِّنْ حَكِيمٍ حَمِيدٍ ﴿٤٣﴾

43. [a]Falsehood cannot approach it either from before it nor from behind it.[2638] It is a revelation from the Wise, the Praiseworthy.

مَا يُقَالُ لَكَ إِلَّا مَا قَدْ قِيلَ لِلرُّسُلِ مِن قَبْلِكَ ۚ إِنَّ رَبَّكَ لَذُو مَغْفِرَةٍ وَذُو عِقَابٍ أَلِيمٍ ﴿٤٤﴾

44. Nothing is said in opposition to thee but what was said to the Messengers before thee. [b]Thy Lord is, indeed, the Master of great forgiveness; and also the Master of painful chastisement.

وَلَوْ جَعَلْنَاهُ قُرْآنًا أَعْجَمِيًّا لَّقَالُوا لَوْلَا فُصِّلَتْ آيَاتُهُ ۖ ءَأَعْجَمِيٌّ وَعَرَبِيٌّ ۗ قُلْ هُوَ لِلَّذِينَ آمَنُوا هُدًى وَشِفَاءٌ ۖ وَالَّذِينَ لَا يُؤْمِنُونَ فِي آذَانِهِمْ وَقْرٌ وَهُوَ عَلَيْهِمْ عَمًى ۚ أُولَٰئِكَ يُنَادَوْنَ مِن مَّكَانٍ بَعِيدٍ ﴿٤٥﴾ ع ١٩

45. And if We had made it a [c]Qur'ān in a foreign tongue, they, surely, would have said, 'Why have not its verses been made clear? What! a foreign tongue and an Arab Prophet?' 2637. The Qur'ān has been called Dhikr because (a) it presents and repeats its principles and themes in different forms, thus making men remember them; (b) it reminds men of the noble teachings that were revealed in former Scriptures; and (c) by acting upon its teachings men can rise to the heights of spiritual eminence (Dhikr also meaning, honour).

2638. The Qur'ān is such a wonderful Book that not one of the great truths, principles and ideals enunciated by it has ever been contravened or contradicted by ancient learning or modern science.

46. And, indeed, We gave Moses the Book, but differences were created concerning it; [a]and had it not been for a word[2639A] that had gone forth from thy Lord, the matter would have been decided between them, and certainly they are in a disquieting doubt about it.

[a]10:20; 11:111; 20:130; 42:15. [b]3:183; 8:52; 17:8; 22:11. [c]13:9; 35:12.

2638A. The meaning of the Qur'ān is obscure to them and the beauty and usefulness of its teaching are hidden from them.

2639. The expression, They are being called from a far-off place, signifies that on the Day of Judgment the disbelievers will not be allowed to approach the Throne of the Almighty, but will be called from a far-off place to render an account of their evil deeds. It may also mean that the disbelievers have shut their ears to the Qur'ān, and refuse to ponder over it, so it has become as unintelligible to them as an indistinct and confused voice that a person hears from a far-off place.

2639A. The reference is to the Divine words, "My mercy encompasses all things" (7:157).

أُنْثٰى وَلَا تَضَعُ إِلَّا بِعِلْمِهٖ ۚ وَيَوْمَ يُنَادِيْهِمْ أَيْنَ شُرَكَآءِيْ ۙ قَالُوْٓا اٰذَنّٰكَ ۙ مَا مِنَّا مِنْ شَهِيْدٍ ۚ ﴿٤٨﴾ female bear a child, nor does she give birth to it, but with His knowledge.[2640] And on the day when He will call unto them, saying, [a]'Where are My partners?' They will say, 'We declare unto Thee, not one of us is a witness thereto.'

وَضَلَّ عَنْهُمْ مَّا كَانُوْا يَدْعُوْنَ مِنْ قَبْلُ وَظَنُّوْا مَا لَهُمْ مِّنْ مَّحِيْصٍ ﴿٤٩﴾

49. [b]And all that they used to call upon before will be lost to them, and they will know for certain that they have no place of escape.

لَا يَسْئَمُ الْإِنْسَانُ مِنْ دُعَآءِ الْخَيْرِ ۖ وَإِنْ مَّسَّهُ الشَّرُّ فَيَئُوْسٌ قَنُوْطٌ ﴿٥٠﴾

50. [c]Man tires not of praying for good; but if evil touch him, he despairs, giving up all hope.

وَلَئِنْ أَذَقْنٰهُ رَحْمَةً مِّنَّا مِنْ بَعْدِ ضَرَّآءَ مَسَّتْهُ لَيَقُوْلَنَّ هٰذَا لِيْ ۙ وَمَآ أَظُنُّ السَّاعَةَ قَآئِمَةً ۙ وَّلَئِنْ رُّجِعْتُ إِلٰى رَبِّيْٓ إِنَّ لِيْ عِنْدَهٗ لَلْحُسْنٰى ۚ فَلَنُنَبِّئَنَّ الَّذِيْنَ كَفَرُوْا بِمَا عَمِلُوْا ۖ وَلَنُذِيْقَنَّهُمْ مِّنْ عَذَابٍ غَلِيْظٍ ﴿٥١﴾

51. [d]And if We make him taste of mercy from Us after some affliction that has befallen him, he is sure to say, 'This is but my due[2641] and I do not think the Hour will ever come. But even if I am returned to my Lord, I will, surely, have with Him the very best.' Then We will, surely, inform the disbelievers of all that they did, and We will, certainly, make them taste a hard punishment.

2640. God alone knows how the seed that the Holy Prophet has sown in the soil of Arabia would grow, and what kinds of fruit it would bear. If the fruits were rotten they would be destroyed, but if they were wholesome and delicious they would be preserved with care.

2641. It is human nature that when man is in trouble he is despondent and

وَاِذَآ اَنْعَمْنَا عَلَى الْاِنْسَانِ اَعْرَضَ وَنَاٰ بِجَانِبِهٖ ۚ وَاِذَا مَسَّهُ الشَّرُّ فَذُوْ دُعَآءٍ عَرِيْضٍ ﴿٥٢﴾

52. [a]And when We bestow a favour on man, he goes away, turning aside; but when evil touches him, lo! he starts offering long prayers.

قُلْ اَرَءَيْتُمْ اِنْ كَانَ مِنْ عِنْدِ اللّٰهِ ثُمَّ كَفَرْتُمْ بِهٖ مَنْ اَضَلُّ مِمَّنْ هُوَ فِيْ شِقَاقٍ بَعِيْدٍ ﴿٥٣﴾

53. Say, 'Tell me, if it is from Allāh, but you disbelieve in it—who is more astray than one who has drifted far away from the truth?

سَنُرِيْهِمْ اٰيٰتِنَا فِي الْاٰفَاقِ وَفِيْٓ اَنْفُسِهِمْ حَتّٰى يَتَبَيَّنَ لَهُمْ اَنَّهُ الْحَقُّ ؕ اَوَلَمْ يَكْفِ بِرَبِّكَ اَنَّهٗ عَلٰى كُلِّ شَيْءٍ شَهِيْدٌ ﴿٥٤﴾

54. [b]Soon We will show them Our Signs in farthest regions[2642] of the earth and among their own people until it becomes manifest to them that it is the truth. Is it not enough that thy Lord is Witness over all things?

اَلَآ اِنَّهُمْ فِيْ مِرْيَةٍ مِّنْ لِّقَآءِ رَبِّهِمْ ؕ اَلَآ اِنَّهٗ بِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ مُّحِيْطٌ ﴿٥٥﴾ ع

55. Aye, they are, surely, in doubt concerning the meeting with their Lord; aye, He, certainly, encompasses all things.

despairing, but when he is in affluent circumstances, he is the very embodiment of conceit and arrogance, and behaves as if no affliction had ever touched him, and in his conceit he begins to attribute all his success to his own effort and ability.

2642. The verse makes in most clear and emphatic terms the prophecy that Islām will spread not only nearer home among the Arabs but in the remotest parts of the earth, Āfāq meaning remote regions (Lane).

CHAPTER 42
ASH-SHŪRĀ
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

This Sūrah, like the preceding one, was revealed at Mecca about the same time; but according to Noldeke a little later. Ibn-e-'Abbās, as reported by Mardawaih and Ibn-e-Zubair, holds the view that it was revealed at Mecca when opposition to Islām was extremely severe and Muslims were in a tight corner. The preceding Sūrah had ended on the note that anyone who opposes and rejects Heavenly Teaching injures only his own soul and himself suffers the consequences of rejection. The present Sūrah opens with the declaration that the Qur'ān has been revealed by the High, Wise and Mighty God; if the Prophet's people rejected its Message they would be so doing at their own cost.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with the important subject of the Quranic revelation and proceeds to say that man's sins are many and great but God's forgiveness is greater and His grace unbounded. His mercy demanded that the Qur'ān should have been revealed to deliver man from the bondage of sin but he is so constituted that instead of benefiting from God's mercy he worships gods of his own creation. The Prophet, therefore, is told not to grieve over what the disbelievers do, as he is not appointed a guardian over them. His duty only is to convey the Divine Message, the rest is God's own affair. The Sūrah then refers to the invariable Divine practice that whenever differences arise among the followers of various Faiths on the basic principles of religion, God raises a Prophet to remove those differences and to lead them to the right path. But the basic principles of all religions being the same, all Divine Messengers followed the same religion—total submission to God. This "religion" found its best and completest exposition in the revelation of the Qur'ān and, therefore, it received a specific name—Al-Islām. The Holy Prophet is enjoined to invite the whole of mankind to this most perfect and last Divine Teaching, and to let no persecution or persuasion stand in his way. Compliance with the Quranic commandments or their defiance, the Sūrah continues, constitutes good or bad action. It is their deeds which determine the destiny of nations and individuals and make or mar their future. In their lives there comes a day when their actions are weighed in the balance. If their good actions outweigh their bad actions, a life of bliss and happiness awaits them. If, on the other hand, their evil deeds exceed their good deeds, then they have a life of regrets and sighs. Next, the Sūrah says that the Holy Prophet has worked very hard and suffered much in the cause of truth, and this from no personal motives. Being full of the milk of human kindness his only concern and desire is that men should establish true and real relationship with God. Could such a sincere and honest well-wisher of mankind be capable of forging lies against God? Yet his people accuse him of this most heinous of sins. Why cannot they understand this simple fact that the forging of lies against God is a deadly poison which brings about the complete ruin of the forger? Instead of being ruined, however, the noble efforts of the Holy Prophet are producing excellent results and his cause is making uniform and rapid progress. The Sūrah then draws attention to the physical phenomenon that whenever dry earth needs water God sends down rain from the clouds. Similarly, when the spiritual earth had become dry, God had sent down heavenly rain in the form of the Qur'ān. Then after briefly referring to the fundamental principle that the affairs of the Islamic State and other matters of national importance should be transacted by mutual consultation, the Sūrah lays down the basis of the penal laws of Islām. According to it the real object underlying punishment is the moral reformation of the guilty person. There is no place in Islām for the monastic Christian teaching of turning the other cheek under all conditions, nor the Jewish doctrine of "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth." Towards its close the Sūrah tells disbelievers that the Holy Prophet has done his duty. He is but a Warner and he has warned them. He has not been made a guardian over them. He is the Life and the Light and his is the way that leads to the realization of the object of man's creation. At the end, the Sūrah mentions three forms of Divine revelation.

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

2. [b]Ḥā Mīm.[2643]

3. ‘Ain Sīn Qāf.[2643A]

4. Thus does Allāh, the Mighty, the Wise, send revelation to thee as He revealed to those before thee.

5. [c]To Him belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth, and He is the High, the Great.

6. The heavens may well-nigh rend asunder from above them; [d]and the angels proclaim the praises of their Lord and ask forgiveness for those on earth.[2643B] Behold! it is, surely, Allāh Who is the Most Forgiving, the Merciful.

[a]1:1. [b]41:2; 43:2; 44:2; 45:2; 46:2. [c]16:53; 22:65; 31:27. [d]13:14.

2643. Ḥā Mīm may stand for Ḥāfiẓul-Kitāb (Guardian of the Book) and Munazzilul-Kitāb (Revealer of the Book), because all the Chapters which open with these two abbreviated letters deal particularly with the subject of revelation of the Qur’ān and its protection and guardianship.

2643A. ‘Ain stands for Al-‘Aliyy (the High); Al-‘Alīm (the All-Knowing); Al-‘Aẓīm (the Great); Al-‘Azīz (the Mighty). Sīn stands for As-Samī‘ (the All-Hearing), and Qāf may represent Al-Qadīr (the Possessor of Power and Authority).

2643B. Man’s sin is great but greater is God’s mercy which transcends all His attributes. God’s mercy and the asking for forgiveness by angels for man combine to save him from Divine punishment and he is granted respite to make amends.

8. Thus have [b]We revealed to thee the Qur'ān in Arabic, [c]that thou mayest warn the Mother of towns,[2645] and all those around it; and that thou mayest warn them of the Day of Gathering, whereof there is no doubt; when a party will be in the Garden and a party in the blazing Fire.

2644. God is watching over the blasphemous beliefs of men and is keeping an account of them and will punish them if they did not repent.

2645. The reference may be to Mecca, because Mecca was not only the commercial and political metropolis of Arabia at the time when the Qur'ān was revealed but was destined for all time to be the spiritual centre of the whole world and from its breast the whole of humanity was to suck the milk of spiritual life. Geographically also Mecca is situated in the centre of the world. The Qur'ān has also been called Ummul-Kitāb (Mother of the Book)

2646. God multiplies mankind by the relationship that exists between husband and wife.

2647. The words, 'There is nothing whatever like unto Him,' remove a possible misunderstanding to which the sentence, 'God has made a pair of everything,' might have given rise, viz. that God also needs a consort to make a pair. The words signify that it is impossible to conceive of anything like God. He is far above human perception and comprehension. It is, therefore, foolish to try to find likeness between Divine and human attributes, though the two may possess some remote and incomplete resemblance.

18. Allāh is He [b]Who has sent down the Book with truth and also the Balance.[2650] And what will make thee know that the Hour may be nigh?

[a]2:140; 10:42. [b]55:8; 57:26.

2648. The Holy Prophet is here enjoined to tell the followers of earlier Prophets that he believes in all the revealed Scriptures that had come before him. There exists, therefore, no cause for them to quarrel with him.

2649. The truth of Islām has been established and people have begun to enter its fold in large numbers, so it is futile on the part of disbelievers to go on disputing and doubting its Divine origin.

2650. God has sent down two important things for man's guidance and benefit:

(a) "The Book," i.e. the laws of the Sharī'ah; (b) "The Balance," i.e. standards by which human actions are appraised, judged, measured and weighed. Or, "The Balance" may signify the faculty by which man can distinguish between right and wrong. In fact, in this life (and more so in the next life) all human actions are weighed in Divine scales. "The Balance" may also refer to the Qur'ān itself, because it constitutes an infallible criterion (Mīzān) to judge what is right and what is wrong.

Elsewhere in the Qur'ān (57:26) the expression, 'He has sent down,' has also been used about "iron" which represents power that enforces Divine and human laws.

2651. As disbelievers do not believe in the Day of Judgment, they have no fear of it, so they demand its speedy coming; but believers know that on that awful Day they will have to render an account of their actions and, therefore, while they make every preparation for it, they are at the same time afraid of facing it.

2652. Those whose efforts are wholly directed towards acquiring the vain and paltry things of this life will be deprived of the bliss and blessings of everlasting life of the Hereafter, but those who prepare for the next life will have Divine blessings bestowed upon them without measure and diminution.

24. This it is whereof Allāh gives the glad tidings to His servants who believe and do good works. [b]Say, 'I ask of you no reward for my service to you, except such love as subsists between kindred.'[2654] And whoso earns a good deed, We give him increase of good therein. Surely, Allāh is Most Forgiving, Most Appreciating.

2653. In v. 19 disbelievers were stated as scornfully rejecting the very idea of a life after death and defiantly demanded its speedy coming, but the believers being conscious of their great responsibilities were mentioned as being afraid of' facing it. In the present verse it is stated that on the Day of Judgment the tables will be turned upon disbelievers. They will be afraid of confronting the consequences of their evil deeds while believers will be happy in the Gardens of Bliss, basking in the sun of God's love.

return for my solicitude and love for you except that in offering opposition to me you should at least have some regard for the ties of relationship that I have with you. (4) I want no reward from you except that you should learn to develop a liking for attaining nearness to God (the word, Qurbā meaning Qurbah, nearness). This last meaning agrees with 25:58 where the Holy Prophet is depicted as saying: I ask of you naught in return for it except that he, who will, may take a way to his Lord.

2655. The words may mean, 'If God had willed that your enemies should have been punished for calling you a liar and a forger, He would have sealed your heart, i.e. He would have made your heart devoid of all mercy and solicitude for them, so that instead of being solicitous for their spiritual well-being, you would have invoked God's curses upon them, but He has chosen not to do so.' Or, the meaning is, that had the Holy Prophet forged a lie against Allāh, his conduct thereafter would have been that of a man who had rebelled against Allāh. But the Holy Prophet advances continuously towards higher grades of virtue and righteousness which shows that he is under the care and protection of Allāh and is kept immune from error.

وَلَوْ بَسَطَ اللّٰهُ الرِّزْقَ لِعِبَادِهٖ لَبَغَوْا فِي الْاَرْضِ وَلٰكِنْ يُّنَزِّلُ بِقَدَرٍ مَّا يَشَآءُ ؕ اِنَّهٗ بِعِبَادِهٖ خَبِيْرٌۢ بَصِيْرٌ ﴿۲۸﴾

30. [c]And among His Signs is the creation of the heavens and the earth, and of whatever living creatures He has spread forth in both. And He has the power to gather them together whenever He pleases.[2656]

[a]15:22. [b]31:35. [c]30:23.

2656. The verse embodies a unique testimony to the Divine origin of the Qur'ān. It was not possible for any human being, much less for an unlettered son of the desert, to say, as far back as 1400 years, when the science of astronomy was yet in its infancy, that apart from our planet, life in some form or other existed in heavenly bodies. It was reserved for the Qur'ān to disclose this great and marvellous scientific truth as the words of this verse, of whatever living creatures He has spread forth in both, show. The reference in the words, He has the power to gather them together may be to the possibility of the creatures living on earth and in the heavenly bodies becoming united in some future time. Recent archaeological investigations have revealed that "Dropas" or visitors from the heaven came down upon this earth 12,000 years ago' (The Pakistan Times, dated 13-8-1967).

[a]4:80. [b]6:135; 11:34; 29:23. [c]31:32; 55:25. [d]22:4; 40:5.

2657. Disbelievers are told that God has decreed that Islām shall become victorious and they will not be able to frustrate Divine decree and that no obstacle or impediment will be allowed to stand in the way of its onward march.

2658. In this and several other verses the Qur'ān points to the great part that ships were to play in international intercourse. This truth, revealed to a son of the desert, as far back as fourteen hundred years ago, speaks volumes for the Divine origin of the Qur'ān.

فَمَآ اُوْتِيْتُمْ مِّنْ شَيْءٍ فَمَتَاعُ الْحَيٰوةِ

41. [d]Remember that the recompense of an injury is an injury the like thereof; but whoso forgives and thereby brings about an improvement,

[a]28:61. [b]4:32; 53:33. [c]3:160. [d]2:195; 16:127.

2659. These words comprise all kinds of sins and moral lapses, but a separate mention is made of anger because many sins spring from anger when it exceeds legitimate bounds.

2660. The verse lays down Shūrā (mutual consultation) as the basic principle which should guide Muslims in the transaction of their national affairs. This simple word contains the nucleus of a representative form of government of which the West is so proud. The Khalīfah or Head of an Islamic State is bound to take counsel with the representatives of the people when he is to take a decision of vital national importance. See also 621 and 622.

his reward is with Allāh.[2661] Surely, He loves not the wrongdoers.

وَمَنْ يُّضْلِلِ اللّٰهُ فَمَا لَهٗ مِنْ وَّلِيٍّ مِّنْۢ بَعْدِهٖ ؕ وَتَرَى الظّٰلِمِيْنَ لَمَّا رَاَوُا الْعَذَابَ يَقُوْلُوْنَ هَلْ اِلٰى مَرَدٍّ مِّنْ سَبِيْلٍ ﴿٤٥﴾ ج

45. [b]And he whom Allāh adjudges astray—there is no protector for him thereafter. And thou wilt find the wrongdoers, when they see the punishment, saying, 'Is there any way of return?'

[a]16:127. [b]4:144; 17:98; 18:18.

2661. The verse forms the basis of the penal laws of Islām. The real object underlying the awarding of punishment to the guilty person according to Islamic teaching, is his moral reformation. If forgiveness is calculated to do him some moral good, he should be forgiven. But he should be punished, if punishment is likely to lead to his reformation; the punishment, however, should in no case be disproportionate to the offence committed. Islām does not believe in the monastic teaching of turning the other cheek, nor in the Jewish doctrine of "an eye for an eye," under all conditions. It adopts the golden mean.

2662. Islamic principles about punishing an offender may not appeal to visionaries and unpractical idealists, but as a practical religion, Islām has laid down most wholesome and practical solutions for problems of law, economics and morals. It regards self-defence as the moral duty of a Muslim. The Holy Prophet is reported to have said, 'He who is killed in defence of his property

وَتَرٰىهُمْ يُعْرَضُوْنَ عَلَيْهَا خٰشِعِيْنَ مِنَ

[a]5:41; 39:45; 57:3.

2664. In this and the preceding verse the disbelievers have been warned that God has decreed that whereas the followers of Islām will increase and multiply, they will decrease and become barren—their children joining the fold of Islām.

2665. The verse makes mention of the three ways in which God speaks to his servants and reveals Himself to them: (a) He speaks to them direct without the aid of an intermediary. (b) He makes them see a vision which may or may not be interpretable, or, sometimes makes them hear words in a state of wakefulness, when they are not seeing the person speaking to them. This is the significance of the words, 'from behind the veil.' (c) God sends down a messenger—an angel who delivers the Divine Message.

وَكَذٰلِكَ اَوْحَيْنَآ اِلَيْكَ رُوْحًا مِّنْ
اَمْرِنَا ؕ مَا كُنْتَ تَدْرِىْ مَا الْكِتٰبُ وَلَا
الْاِيْمَانُ وَلٰكِنْ جَعَلْنٰهُ نُوْرًا نَّهْدِىْ بِهٖ
مَنْ نَّشَآءُ مِنْ عِبَادِنَا ؕ وَاِنَّكَ لَتَهْدِىْٓ
اِلٰى صِرَاطٍ مُّسْتَقِيْمٍ ۙ﴿۵۳﴾

53. And thus have We revealed to thee the Word[2666] by Our command. Thou didst not know what the Book was, nor what the faith. But We have made the revelation a light, whereby We guide such of Our servants as We please. And, truly, thou guidest mankind to the right path,[2667]

صِرَاطِ اللّٰهِ الَّذِىْ لَهٗ مَا فِى السَّمٰوٰتِ
وَمَا فِى الْاَرْضِ ؕ اَلَآ اِلَى اللّٰهِ تَصِيْرُ
الْاُمُوْرُ ﴿۵۴﴾ ع

54. The path of Allāh, to Whom belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth. Remember, to Allāh do all things return.[2668]

2666. The Qur'ān has been called here Rūḥ, (breath of life, Lane), because through it a morally and spiritually dead people received a new life.

2667. Islām is the Life and the Light and the Way that leads to God and to the realization by man of the great and sublime object of his creation.

2668. The beginning and the end of all things is in the hand of Allāh.

CHAPTER 43
AZ-ZUKHRUF
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

According to Qurṭubī there exists complete unanimity of opinion among scholars that this Sūrah was revealed at Mecca. Ibn-e-'Abbās also lends his powerful support to this view. It is, however, difficult to assign an exact date to its revelation. Scholarly opinion generally is inclined to place it towards the end of the fourth or the beginning of the fifth year of the Call. The previous Sūrah had ended on the note that the revelation which descends on Heavenly Messengers and Prophets by Divine command possesses an element of mystery. It was further stated that before revelation actually descended upon the Holy Prophet, he was not conversant with its nature and significance. The present Sūrah opens with the affirmation that because the Qur'ān has been revealed in a most clear and eloquent language and because also it deals with all basic truths and its teaching is easily comprehensible, therefore, in spite of the element of mystery in its revelation, there is no reasonable ground for anyone to reject it. It further says that God would not stop sending fresh revelation whenever there was genuine need for it, just as Prophets of God did not cease to come because they were mocked and jeered at. The phenomenon of the advent of Divine Reformers will continue despite anything the disbelievers might say or do.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah like the three preceding Chapters opens with the declaration that the Qur'ān has been revealed by God, the Lord of all Honour and Praise, and proceeds to deal with the subject of Divine Unity—its basic theme—in a way and form different from that in which it has been dealt with in other Chapters of the Ḥā Mīm group. It says that God, in order to establish His Unity, has been sending, from time immemorial, His Messengers and Prophets. They preached and taught that God is One. They were rejected and opposed and persecuted. But this did not cause God to stop sending new Prophets and new revelations. Prophets continued to appear in the fulness of time, and the greatest of them came in the person of the Holy Prophet Muḥammad. The Sūrah develops this argument and says that God has created the heavens and the earth for the service of man and has made full provision for his physical needs. When He has taken so much care to provide for his material needs and physical comforts, it is inconceivable that He should have neglected or ignored to make similar provision for his moral and spiritual requirements. It is to meet man's moral needs that God sends a new revelation. But in their ignorance and folly disbelievers set up equals to God in various shapes and forms; and even go so far as to shift the responsibility for their idolatrous practices to God, brazenly saying that if God had so willed they would not have worshipped idols. The plea is against human intelligence and common sense, and no Divine Scripture supports it. The real cause of the disbelief of disbelievers lies in their pride and conceit because the Qur'ān, as they say, has not been revealed to a great man. In answer to this arrogant assumption of superiority the disbelievers receive a severe rebuke that what they call greatness carries no weight in the sight of God. Were it not that the obliteration of disparity of wealth, position and status would have rendered social order impossible and would have created chaos, God would have given to disbelievers tons of gold and silver so much so that even the staircases of their houses would have been made of gold, because these things are nothing in God's sight. As stated above the main theme of the Sūrah is the unsparing denunciation of idolatry. But while the Qur'ān condemns idol-worship it respects Jesus who, according to Christians, is an object of worship, as a great and noble Messenger of God, adding that he invited his people to the worship of One God, but they ignored his teachings and deified him. So the fault lay with them and not with him. The Sūrah ends on a brief but most clear and convincing discourse on Divine Unity.

سُوْرَةُ الزُّخْرُفِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٤٣ — اٰياتها ٩٠ — رکوعاتها ٧

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

حٰمٓ ②

2. [b]Ḥā Mīm.[2668A]

وَالْكِتٰبِ الْمُبِيْنِ ۙ③

3. We cite as evidence this perspicuous Book,

اِنَّا جَعَلْنٰهُ قُرْءٰنًا عَرَبِيًّا لَّعَلَّكُمْ تَعْقِلُوْنَ ۚ④

4. [c]We have made it a Book to be oft read in clear, eloquent language that you may understand.

وَاِنَّهٗ فِيْٓ اُمِّ الْكِتٰبِ لَدَيْنَا لَعَلِيٌّ حَكِيْمٌ ؕ⑤

5. And, surely, it is safe with Us in the Mother of the Book,[2669] exalted and full of wisdom.

اَفَنَضْرِبُ عَنْكُمُ الذِّكْرَ صَفْحًا اَنْ كُنْتُمْ قَوْمًا مُّسْرِفِيْنَ ⑥

6. Shall We then take away the Reminder from you, leaving you without guidance[2670] because you are an extravagant people?[2671]

وَكَمْ اَرْسَلْنَا مِنْ نَّبِيٍّ فِي الْاَوَّلِيْنَ ⑦

7. [d]And how many a Prophet did We send among the earlier peoples!

[a]1:1. [b]44:2; 45:2. [c]39:29; 42:8; 46:13. [d]15:11.

2668A. See 2592 and 2643.

2669. Ummul-Kitāb, meaning sources of the commandments (Lane), the expression signifies that the Qur'ān existed in the knowledge of God—the Original Source—as the basis of the Sharī'ah, or it may signify that it was eternally decreed that the Qur'ān would form the basis of the last Divine Law.

2670. Ḍuraba 'an-hu means, he left him and turned away from him. Ṣafaḥa 'an-hu also means, he turned away from him and left him. The Quranic expression means, 'Shall We take away the Reminder from you and turn Ourselves away from you and leave you without guidance' (Lane)?

2671. Heavenly Reminders in the form of Divine Signs will never cease to come. If rejection of Heavenly Signs had been a reasonable ground that they should discontinue to appear, then no Prophet would have come after the first one. But Prophets continued to appear.

وَمَا يَأْتِيهِمْ مِّنْ نَّبِيٍّ اِلَّا كَانُوْا بِهٖ يَسْتَهْزِءُوْنَ ۝٨

8. [a]But there never came to them a Prophet but they mocked at him.

فَاَهْلَكْنَآ اَشَدَّ مِنْهُمْ بَطْشًا وَّمَضٰى مَثَلُ الْاَوَّلِيْنَ ۝٩

9. And We destroyed those who were mightier in power than these, and the example of the earlier peoples has gone before.

وَلَئِنْ سَاَلْتَهُمْ مَّنْ خَلَقَ السَّمٰوٰتِ وَالْاَرْضَ لَيَقُوْلُنَّ خَلَقَهُنَّ الْعَزِيْزُ الْعَلِيْمُ ۝١٠

10. And if thou ask them, 'Who created the heavens and the earth?' they will, surely, say, 'The Mighty, the All-Knowing God created them,'

الَّذِيْ جَعَلَ لَكُمُ الْاَرْضَ مَهْدًا وَّجَعَلَ لَكُمْ فِيْهَا سُبُلًا لَّعَلَّكُمْ تَهْتَدُوْنَ ۝١١

11. [b]He, Who has made the earth for you a cradle and has made pathways for you therein, that you may follow the right way;

وَالَّذِيْ نَزَّلَ مِنَ السَّمَآءِ مَآءًۢ بِقَدَرٍ ۚ فَاَنْشَرْنَا بِهٖ بَلْدَةً مَّيْتًا ۚ كَذٰلِكَ تُخْرَجُوْنَ ۝١٢

12. And Who sends down water from the clouds in proper measure, and We, thereby, quicken a dead land—even so will you be raised[2672]—

وَالَّذِيْ خَلَقَ الْاَزْوَاجَ كُلَّهَا وَجَعَلَ لَكُمْ مِّنَ الْفُلْكِ وَالْاَنْعَامِ مَا تَرْكَبُوْنَ ۝١٣

13. And Who has created pairs of all things, and has made for you ships and cattle whereon you ride,

لِتَسْتَوٗا عَلٰى ظُهُوْرِهٖ ثُمَّ تَذْكُرُوْا نِعْمَةَ

14. That you may sit firmly upon their backs, and, then,

[a]15:12; 36:31. [b]20:54.

2672. The words signify that even as dry and parched earth blooms and blossoms into new life when rain falls on it, so do a morally and spiritually dead people receive a new life through Divine revelation.

رَبِّكُمْ اِذَا اسْتَوَيْتُمْ عَلَيْهِ وَتَقُوْلُوْا سُبْحٰنَ الَّذِيْ سَخَّرَ لَنَا هٰذَا وَمَا كُنَّا لَهٗ مُقْرِنِيْنَ ﴿١٤﴾ when you are firmly seated thereon, you may remember the favour of your Lord, and say, 'Holy is He Who has subjected these to us, and we were not capable of subduing them ourselves,

وَاِنَّآ اِلٰى رَبِّنَا لَمُنْقَلِبُوْنَ ﴿١٥﴾

15. 'And to our Lord, surely, shall we return.'

وَجَعَلُوْا لَهٗ مِنْ عِبَادِهٖ جُزْءًا ؕ اِنَّ الْاِنْسَانَ لَكَفُوْرٌ مُّبِيْنٌ ﴿١٦﴾ ع ١٦/٧

16. And they assign to Him a part of His servants as His children.[2672A] Indeed man is manifestly ungrateful.

R. 2.

اَمِ اتَّخَذَ مِمَّا يَخْلُقُ بَنٰتٍ وَّاَصْفٰىكُمْ بِالْبَنِيْنَ ﴿١٧﴾

17. [a]Has He taken daughters from what He has created, and favoured you with sons?

وَاِذَا بُشِّرَ اَحَدُهُمْ بِمَا ضَرَبَ لِلرَّحْمٰنِ مَثَلًا ظَلَّ وَجْهُهٗ مُسْوَدًّا وَّهُوَ كَظِيْمٌ ﴿١٨﴾

18. [b]Yet when tidings are given to one of them of that the like of which he ascribes to the Gracious God, his face becomes dark and he is choked with inward grief.

اَوَمَنْ يُّنَشَّؤُا فِي الْحِلْيَةِ وَهُوَ فِي الْخِصَامِ غَيْرُ مُبِيْنٍ ﴿١٩﴾

19. Do they assign to Allāh one who is nurtured among ornaments,[2673] and who is not able to give clear expression to an argument in disputation?

[a]6:101; 16:58; 52:40; 53:22. [b]16:59.

2672A. The reference is to the Christian doctrine of Jesus being God's son.

2673. The reference may be to the idols which were bedecked and bejewelled with ornaments. The verse administers a subtle rebuke to idol-worshippers that they worship idols which can neither speak nor answer their prayers or defend themselves against attacks made upon them.

وَ جَعَلُوا الْمَلٰٓئِكَةَ الَّذِيْنَ هُمْ
عِبٰدُ الرَّحْمٰنِ اِنَاثًا ؕ اَشَهِدُوْا خَلْقَهُمْ ؕ
سَتُكْتَبُ شَهَادَتُهُمْ وَ يُسْـَٔلُوْنَ ۝١٩

20. [a]And they regard as females the angels who are the servants of the Gracious God. Did they witness their creation? Then their testimony will be recorded, and they will be questioned.

وَقَالُوْا لَوْ شَآءَ الرَّحْمٰنُ مَا عَبَدْنٰهُمْ ؕ
مَا لَهُمْ بِذٰلِكَ مِنْ عِلْمٍ ۚ اِنْ هُمْ
اِلَّا يَخْرُصُوْنَ ۝٢٠

21. And they say, [b]'If the Gracious God had so willed, we should not have worshipped them.' They have no knowledge whatsoever of that. They do nothing but conjecture.

اَمْ اٰتَيْنٰهُمْ كِتٰبًا مِّنْ قَبْلِهٖ فَهُمْ بِهٖ

22. [c]Have We given them a Scripture before this, so that they are holding fast[2674] to it?

بَلْ قَالُوْٓا اِنَّا وَجَدْنَآ اٰبَآءَنَا عَلٰٓى اُمَّةٍ وَّ اِنَّا

فَانْتَقَمْنَا مِنْهُمْ فَانْظُرْ كَيْفَ كَانَ عَاقِبَةُ الْمُكَذِّبِيْنَ ﴿٢٦﴾ ع

26. [a]So We exacted retribution from them. Then see what was the end of those who rejected the Prophets!

R. 3.

وَاِذْ قَالَ اِبْرٰهِيْمُ لِاَبِيْهِ وَقَوْمِهٖٓ اِنَّنِيْ بَرَآءٌ مِّمَّا تَعْبُدُوْنَ ﴿٢٧﴾

27. And call to mind when Abraham said to his father and his people, [b]'I do, indeed, disown what you worship,

اِلَّا الَّذِيْ فَطَرَنِيْ فَاِنَّهٗ سَيَهْدِيْنِ ﴿٢٨﴾

28. 'Except Him Who created me, and He will, surely, guide me.'

وَجَعَلَهَا كَلِمَةًۢ بَاقِيَةً فِيْ عَقِبِهٖ لَعَلَّهُمْ يَرْجِعُوْنَ ﴿٢٩﴾

29. And He left this as a permanent legacy among his posterity,[2675] that they might turn to God.

بَلْ مَتَّعْتُ هٰٓؤُلَآءِ وَاٰبَآءَهُمْ حَتّٰى جَآءَهُمُ الْحَقُّ وَرَسُوْلٌ مُّبِيْنٌ ﴿٣٠﴾

[a]7:137; 43:56. [b]6:79; 9:114; 60:5. [c]27:14.

2675. Abraham was such a firm believer in Divine Unity and he preached it to his posterity with such sincerity and persistence that this belief came to stay among them for a long time.

It is We Who distribute among them their livelihood in the present life, and We exalt some of them above others in degrees of rank, so that some of them may make others subservient to themselves. And the mercy of thy Lord is better than that which they amass.

وَلَوْلَآ اَنْ يَّكُوْنَ النَّاسُ اُمَّةً وَّاحِدَةً لَّجَعَلْنَا لِمَنْ يَّكْفُرُ بِالرَّحْمٰنِ لِبُيُوْتِهِمْ سُقُفًا مِّنْ فِضَّةٍ وَّ مَعَارِجَ عَلَيْهَا يَظْهَرُوْنَ ﴿٣٤﴾ ۙ

2678. Were it not that by the obliteration of disparity of means, wealth and position, all men would have become of one type, and human society would have ceased to function. God would have provided disbelievers with houses made of silver, having doors and stairways made of gold, because these things possess no value or worth in His sight.

2679. When man is confronted with the evil consequences of his wicked deeds, he seeks to avoid and shun his erstwhile companions as if he never knew them.

2680. When disbelievers deliberately shut their eyes and ears to the message of truth, they sink deeper and deeper into sin till they are completely lost.

2681. The word Dhikr meaning eminence (Lane), the verse purports to say that through the Qur'ān the Holy Prophet and his followers will acquire great eminence and honour.

فَلَمَّا جَآءَهُمْ بِاٰيٰتِنَآ اِذَا هُمْ مِّنْهَا يَضْحَكُوْنَ ﴿٤٨﴾

2683. The advent of the Messiah was a sign that the Jews were going to be disgraced and humiliated and were about to be deprived of Prophethood for all time. Mathal signifying anything similar or equal to another (6:39), the verse, besides the meaning given in the text, may also signify that when the people of the Holy Prophet—the Muslims—are told that another person, who would be like Jesus and would be his counterpart, would be raised from among them to regenerate them and restore their lost spiritual glory, instead of being glad over these good tidings, they raise a clamour. The verse may thus be taken as referring to the Second Coming of Jesus.

2685. "Hour" may denote the time of the end of the Mosaic Dispensation and the pronoun hū in inna hū may refer either to Jesus or to the Qur'ān and the verse would mean, that after Jesus the Israelites will be deprived of the gift of Prophethood, or that another Dispensation—Quranic Dispensation—will take the place of Mosaic Dispensation.

2689. The Holy Prophet.

2690. There could be no greater testimony to the Holy Prophet's solicitude and concern for the spiritual well-being of his people than the fact that God Himself swears by it. The Holy Prophet's grief over the denial of his people and their opposition to it was so deep and agonizing that it had almost killed him (18:7).

2691. The Holy Prophet is consoled and comforted that though he is now being opposed and persecuted, yet the time was fast approaching when his enemies would come under his power, and Islām would spread all over Arabia and peace would reign throughout the land. When that time comes, he should forgive his enemies.

CHAPTER 44
AD-DUKHĀN
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

All authorities including Ibn-e-'Abbās and Ibn-e-Zubair agree that the Sūrah belongs to the Middle Meccan period. Noldeke assigns its revelation to the sixth or seventh year of the Call. In its closing verses, the preceding Sūrah had made a pathetic reference to the agonized outpourings of the Holy Prophet's lacerated heart that, in spite of his best efforts his Message had failed to evoke adequate response in his people. In answer to his cries of agony, the Holy Prophet was told to overlook their faults and invoke God's mercy on them, for, thus his prayer would draw Divine grace and would make them realize their mistake and listen to him. The present Sūrah opens with the declaration that the Qur'ān which fully explains the truths and realities of life has been revealed in a period of spiritual darkness to reclaim mankind from sin. The Sūrah is the fifth of the Ḥā Mīm group. Like the preceding Chapter it opens with the subject of revelation of the Qur'ān, though in a different form and context. It commences with the theme that whenever darkness enshrouds the face of the earth and humanity is stuck fast in the quagmire of moral turpitude, God raises a Messenger and gives him a new Message to reclaim and regenerate the world. Prophets of God had been appearing at such times of decadence, and now that the moral need of humanity was greatest and spiritual darkness was most intense and overwhelming, God has raised the greatest of His Messengers and has given him the last and most perfect Law—the Qur'ān. The advent of the Holy Prophet is not a novel phenomenon. Divine Messengers had appeared before him in the fulness of time, most prominent among them being Moses. The Sūrah then gives a pathetic description of the dreadful fate that overtook Pharaoh and his people. They went to their doom in disgrace and ignominy, and God chose the Israelites for the bestowal of His special favours. This is how God brings about transformation in the life of a people. It further says that human life has a great mission. It is for the fulfilment of this great mission that God raises His Messengers in the world. The Sūrah ends on the note that the principles and ideals of Islām have been taught in a most clear and convincing manner.

2692. Elsewhere in the Qur'ān, it is called the "Night of Destiny" (97:2). According to authentic traditions of the Holy Prophet, the "Night of Destiny" generally falls in the last ten nights of Ramaḍān, the month in which the Qur'ān began to be revealed (2:186), to be exact, on its 24th night (Musnad & Jarīr). The blessed night, or the "Night of Destiny," is the Quranic metaphor for a period of time when spiritual darkness enshrouds the entire face of the earth and a Divine Reformer is raised to reclaim and regenerate corrupt humanity. The night which gave to humanity its greatest Teacher and the last and most perfect Divine Law was, indeed the "Night of Destiny" for it. This night may also be taken as covering the whole period in which the Qur'ān continued to be revealed.

2693. The "Night of Destiny" or the time of the advent of a great Reformer heralds a new era, a new order of things, when, in fact, the future of humanity is decreed and decided. The time when the Qur'ān was revealed was humanity's greatest "Night of Destiny," for it was then that the foundations were laid of man's destiny for all time to come.

2694. The reference may be to the severe famine that overtook Mecca and lasted for several years till Abū Sufyān, then a great leader of disbelief, came to the Holy Prophet and begged him to pray for deliverance from that terrible scourge. The famine is said to have been so severe that the Meccans ate hides, bones and even dead bodies (Bukhārī, Kitābul-Istisqā'). The famine has been described by the word Dukhān (smoke), because, as the tradition goes, the hunger was so severe that people felt a sort of smoke hanging before their eyes. Or, the word may have been used because there was no rain for a long time in Mecca, and the whole atmosphere had become dusty, for, Dukhān also means dust (Lane). The verse may also be taken as referring to the last two World Wars in which towns and cities were burnt down to rubble and the smoke that rose from their ruins filled the whole atmosphere with smoke and dust.

2697. Rahw is derived from Rahā. They say, Rahā Baina Rijlaihi, i.e. he parted his legs and made an opening between them; Rahal-Baḥru means, the sea became still and calm. Rahw means calm; motionless; depressed place where water collects; an elevated and plain tract of ground (Lane). When Moses and the Israelites arrived at the northern extremity of the Red Sea, the ebb of the tide had begun. As the water receded, it left behind dunes, the tops of which were gradually uncovered, leaving the intervening depressions full of water. The Israelites crossed over at that moment. See also 20:78.

2698. They went to their doom in disgrace and ignominy unwept, unhonoured and unsung. The ill-fated monarch who, in his conceit and arrogance, called himself god, went to the depths of the sea (10:91), with the memorable words, 'I believe that there is no god but He in Whom the Children

2699. God chose the Israelites for His favours because in the Divine scheme of things they were found to be most suited to carry on the Divine mission at that time. The expression, 'Alā 'Ilmin, may also signify, in view of their special circumstances.

2700. Tubba' is said to be the royal title of the Kings of Ḥimyar in Yemen. The Kings of Yemen were known by this title when they also held sway over Ḥimyar, Ḥaḍaramaut and Sabā'. From ancient inscriptions it appears that the Tubba's ruled over these territories from 270 A.D. to 525 A.D. Historical records speak of their glory and despotism. They seemed to have extended their rule over all Arabia, even to East Africa (Enc. of Islām). The particular Tubba' referred to in the verse under comment is mentioned in some traditions as a Prophet of God. The Qur'ān seems to support this view. (50:15)

2701. Human life has a grim purpose and a great mission. The great faculties and inborn powers of man are a sure indication that life is real and earnest. It is to this great principle that the creation of the heavens and the earth emphatically draws our attention.

CHAPTER 45
AL-JĀTHIYAH
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

Like the other Chapters of the Ḥā Mīm group, this Sūrah was revealed at Mecca. But no exact date can be assigned to its revelation, though Noldeke places it immediately after 41st Sūrah. It opens with the statement that just as timely rain gives new life to dead earth, similarly a Divine Prophet is raised when men become morally corrupt. As men had become corrupt, so God now has raised the Holy Prophet Muḥammad to regenerate them.

Subject-Matter

Like the preceding five Chapters the present Sūrah also opens with the subject of the Quranic revelation and Divine Unity which constitute its main themes, and adduces the creation of man and of all animal and vegetable life on earth, the coming down of timely rain from the clouds which quickens the dead earth, the marvellous creation of the universe and the complete and consummate design and order that pervade and permeate it as great Signs to establish the existence of an Unerring and All-Powerful Being behind all this, and proceeds to invite disbelievers to consider how the Wise Being, Who has made such wonderful provision for man's short and temporary life on earth, could have failed to make similar provision for his eternal life. This provision for man's spiritual sustenance has been made in the revelation that descends upon God's Messengers to lead him to the achievement of the great goal of his life. The Sūrah then says that God does not allow the arrangement which He has made for the moral and spiritual regeneration of man to be interfered with, and so He does not allow a forger of lies to prosper. Sooner or later the impostor comes to grief. But the Holy Prophet's mission is making uniform progress. This is proof positive of the fact that he is not a liar but a true Messenger of God. The Sūrah then gives one more argument to prove and substantiate the claim of the Holy Prophet, viz. that all the forces of nature are working in support and furtherance of his cause. It is, therefore, bound to succeed. Next, a brief reference is made to the Mosaic Dispensation and it is stated that the Qur'ān has been revealed because the Torah had failed to satisfy the spiritual needs of man. It also fulfils the prophecies made in the Torah about the advent of a Prophet from among the brethren of the Israelites (Deut. 18:18). The Sūrah further tells disbelievers that God has created man to achieve a great and noble goal; therefore a better and fuller life which knows no end awaits him in the next world. It is only in this way that the creation of man can be justified. The Sūrah closes with a brief but very effective description of the Day of Judgment. But before that day comes, the disbelievers will have to give an explanation in this very life, why they disobeyed and defied the Prophets of God. They are warned that if they did not repent and mend their ways, they will be doomed to a life of failure and frustration.

2706. Just as light follows darkness, similarly when spiritual darkness spreads over the entire earth, God creates a new light in the form of a Prophet or Divine Reformer to whom He reveals Himself. And just as winds carry pollen from male to female trees in order to fecundate them, in the same way the spiritually elevating ideas that emanate from a Divine Reformer impregnate the minds of believers and bring about spiritual revolution in them.

2708. The whole universe has been created to serve man. This shows that he has a great mission to fulfil.

2709. See 1454.

2710. Mention of Prophethood, separate from "the Book" (which means the Law or the Sharī'ah) shows that while Moses was given the Law, the Prophets who came after him brought no new Law but followed the Torah—the Book of Moses (5: 45).

[a]42:15; 98:5. [b]5:49; 6:151. [c]7:204. [d]32:19; 38:29.

2711. "The Affair" signifies "the Affair of the Holy Prophet" and the verse purports to say that the Book of Moses contains many clear prophecies about the advent of the Holy Prophet and that the Israelites did not reject him because there was any dearth of arguments and Signs and Divine prophecies to support and establish his claim but because of 'mutual envy,' i.e. they did not like the very idea that a Prophet should have appeared from among the non-Israelites.

2712. It is clear from the verse that "the Affair" referred to in the preceding verse signifies the advent of the Holy Prophet and the Quranic revelation.

The verse purports to say that when disbelievers are told that they will have to render an account of their deeds before God in the next life, they refuse to believe that there is or can be any such life. On the contrary, they allege that one people die and another people take their place and this process goes on till with the passage of time matter becomes dissolved and is thus utterly destroyed. CHAPTER 46
AL-AḤQĀF
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

This is the last Sūrah of the Ḥā Mīm group. Like other Chapters of this group it was revealed at Mecca towards the middle of the Holy Prophet's ministry before Hijrah. Noldeke places its revelation immediately after Chapter 7. The Sūrah seems to resemble its sister Sūrahs of the Ḥā Mīm group in tone and tenor. The preceding Sūrah had ended on the solemn declaration that 'God is the Mighty, the Wise.' In the present Sūrah the claim made in these words is sought to be justified. The Sūrah claims that the Qur'ān has been revealed by the Wise and Mighty God. God is Wise in the sense that the Quranic teaching is based on sound and solid foundations, and is supported by reason, common sense and accumulated human experience; and He is Mighty in the sense that by living up to its ideals and principles Muslims will gain ascendancy and predominance over their opponents.

Subject-Matter

Like the preceding six Chapters this Sūrah opens with the subject of the Quranic revelation and Divine Unity which constitutes its main theme, and gives the following arguments in refutation of idolatry: (a) Only that Being can command and demand of us that we should adore and worship Him Who, besides being our Creator and Sustainer, is Almighty and All-Powerful and can therefore compel obedience to His laws and commandments. (b) Idolatry finds no support in any revealed Scripture. (c) Human knowledge, reason and experience repel it and revolt against it. (d) A deity which cannot, and does not, answer our prayers is of no use and the so-called gods of idolaters are incapable of responding to the prayers of their votaries. The Sūrah next says that the Holy Prophet's claim to Prophethood is no new phenomenon. Divine Messengers have been appearing at all times and among all peoples to teach them Unity of God and their duty to their fellow-beings. It then dismisses as foolish and unfounded the plea which the disbelievers generally put forward as an excuse for rejecting the Divine Revelation, viz. 'If there had been any good in the revelation presented to us, we, being better informed and better placed in life, would have been the first to accept it.' The Sūrah further says that whereas disbelievers, being proud of their great material resources and social status, reject the Divine Message, others who are endowed with faith and spiritual wealth, accept it and stick to it under the severest trials and tribulations. It then refers to the fate of 'Ād, a people who had flourished in the neighbourhood of the Meccans, to show that disbelief never prospers. The Adites were so completely destroyed that not a vestige of their great and glorious civilization remained. Towards its end the Sūrah sounds a note of warning to the people of the Holy Prophet that they should not be misled by their wealth and prosperity and by the present poverty and weakness of Muslims, and that if they persisted in rejecting the Divine Message, their prosperity itself would prove to be their ruin. The Sūrah ends with an exhortation to the Holy Prophet and his followers, calling upon them, that as brave votaries of Truth they should bear with patience and fortitude all the suffering and persecution to which they are being subjected, as the time was fast approaching, when their cause will triumph and their persecutors will stand before them in utter disgrace and humiliation, begging for forgiveness and mercy.

9. Do they say, 'He has forged it?' [d]Say, 'If I have forged it, you cannot avail me aught against[2721] Allāh. He knows best what idle talk you indulge in. Sufficient is He for a witness between me and you. And He is the Most Forgiving, the Merciful.'

[a]10:30. [b]6:23; 10:29. [c]34:44; 61:7. [d]11:36.

2719. In reality no authority except that of a revealed Scripture and also human science and reason can form the basis for determining whether a certain belief is right or wrong.

2720. Islām presents a Living God Who reveals Himself to His votaries by accepting their prayers and consoles them in the hour of distress by speaking to them words of comfort and consolation (2:187).

2721. The expression, minallāh, means, (a) in opposition to Allāh; (b) from the punishment of Allāh.

قُلْ مَا كُنْتُ بِدْعًا مِّنَ الرُّسُلِ وَمَآ اَدْرِىْ مَا يُفْعَلُ بِىْ وَلَا بِكُمْ ؕ اِنْ اَتَّبِعُ اِلَّا مَا يُوْحٰٓى اِلَىَّ وَمَآ اَنَا اِلَّا نَذِيْرٌ مُّبِيْنٌ ۝١٠

قُلْ اَرَءَيْتُمْ اِنْ كَانَ مِنْ عِنْدِ اللّٰهِ وَكَفَرْتُمْ بِهٖ وَشَهِدَ شَاهِدٌ مِّنْۢ بَنِىْٓ اِسْرَآءِيْلَ عَلٰى مِثْلِهٖ فَاٰمَنَ وَاسْتَكْبَرْتُمْ ؕ اِنَّ اللّٰهَ لَا يَهْدِى الْقَوْمَ الظّٰلِمِيْنَ ۝١١ ع ١

11. Say, 'Tell me, if this Qur'ān is from Allāh and you disbelieve therein, and a [b]witness from among the Children of Israel[2722] bears witness to the advent of one like him, and he believed, but you are too proud to believe, how should you fare?' Verily, Allāh guides not the wrongdoing people.

R. 2.

12. And those who disbelieve say of those who believe, [c]'If the Qur'ān were any good, they could not have been ahead of us in believing in it.' And since they have not been guided thereby, they will say, 'It is an old lie.'

[a]6:51; 7:204. [b]11:18; 61:7. [c]11:28.

2722. The witness from among the Children of Israel is Moses. It is to his prophecy concerning the advent of the Holy Prophet that reference has been made in this verse. The prophecy is to this effect: 'I will raise them up a Prophet from among their brethren like unto thee, and will put My words in his mouth; and he shall speak unto them all that I shall command him. And it shall come to pass that whosoever will not hearken unto My words, which he shall speak in My name, I will require it of him' (Deut. 18:18, 19).

2723. Verse 11 supported by Deut. 18:18 referred to the appearance of a Prophet among the Ishmaelites. The present verse refers to Arabia as the scene of the advent of the Prophet who was to be the like of Moses and also to the Book (the Qur'ān) which was to fulfil the prophecies contained in the Book of Moses and which also was to supersede it. The relevant prophecy is as follows: 'The burden upon Arabia. In the forest in Arabia shall ye lodge, O ye travelling companies of Dedanim. The inhabitants of the land of Tema brought water to him that was thirsty, they presented with their bread him that fled' (Isa. 21:13-15).

2724. What fear or grief, even under the severest trial, can possibly disturb the equanimity and mental poise of a true believer, who possesses an invincible faith that Allāh, the Creator and Lord of the whole universe, is at his back?

2725. In 31:15, it was stated that the weaning of a child takes two years, but in this verse the combined period of pregnancy and suckling is given as thirty 2730. Af'idah (hearts) is the plural of Fu'ād which is synonymous with Qalb, both meaning heart, mind or intellect. In the Qur'ān both these words have been used synonymously. In 28:11 they have been used together, signifying the heart. It is the context which determines, where any of these words is used as signifying the heart and where as signifying the mind. Some authors, however, make a distinction between Fu'ād and Qalb; the latter is said to have a more special signification than the former which is said to be the Ghishā' or the Wi'ā' of the Qalb, or the middle or the interior thereof. Ṭāra Fu'ādu-hū means, his mind, or intellect, or courage fled (Lane).

2731. The peoples of 'Ād and Tubba' held sway over vast territories in the south of Arabia; and the tribe of Thamūd lived in its north-west, and on the shores of the Dead Sea were situated the towns of Sodom and Gomorrah. The destruction of these places constituted an eye opener for the Meccans. The words, 'round about you' may also signify the whole world.

2732. The Qur'ān reverts again and again to the fundamental problems of faith, morals and other kindred subjects, and deals with them from different angles and points of view in order to satisfy doubts and misgivings of men of varied attitudes, mental make-ups and outlooks on life. People of shallow thinking and prejudiced minds may call it a repetition, but in fact it is the right approach to different human problems.

2733. The party of jinn referred to in this verse were the Jews of Naṣībain, or, as some say, of Moṣul or Nineveh in Iraq. Being apprehensive of the Meccans' opposition they met the Holy Prophet at night and after listening to the Qur'ān and to the Holy Prophet's discourse, they became converted to Islām and carried the new Message to their people who also readily accepted it (Bayān, vol. 8). See also 72:2.

2734. The verse shows that the party of jinn mentioned in the previous verse were Jews because they spoke of the Qur'ān as 'the Book which has been sent down after Moses.'

On the day when they see that with which they are threatened, it will appear to them [a]as though they had not tarried in this world save for an hour[2736] of a day. This warning has been conveyed; and none but the disobedient people shall be destroyed.

Neither is it an empty and unsubstantiated claim. With the coming of a great Divine Reformer the old order dies and a new one takes its place. This signifies the coming into being of a new heaven and a new earth.

2736. So severe, swift and overwhelming will be God's punishment for disbelievers that compared to it a whole life, spent in comfort and ease, would seem to them 'but an hour.'

CHAPTER 47

MUḤAMMAD

(Revealed after Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah is also known as Qitāl (war) because it devotes a large portion of its text to the subject of war—its causes, ethics and consequences. Baiḍāwī, Zamakhsharī, Suyūṭī and others hold that the Sūrah was revealed after the Hijrah—a large part of it having been revealed probably before the Battle of Badr, in the early days of the Holy Prophet's life at Medina. Towards the end of the last Sūrah it was unambiguously and emphatically stated that opposition to the Divine Message, however powerful, organized and persistent, can never succeed and that Truth must prevail in the long run. The subject assumes a certain definiteness in this Sūrah and disbelievers are told that the cause of Islām will, after overcoming all difficulties and impediments, triumph.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with the challenging statement that all the efforts of disbelievers to retard and arrest the progress of Islām will come to naught and the condition of the Prophet's followers will improve day by day, and then proceeds to say that since disbelievers have drawn the sword against the Holy Prophet they shall perish by the sword. After holding out to Muslims a definite promise of success against their enemies, the Sūrah briefly lays down important rules of war, as, for instance, prisoners can be taken only after regular fighting in which the enemy is decisively beaten (v. 5), and that after the war is over, they are to be set free either as an act of favour, or, after taking proper ransom. Thus the Sūrah in a short verse, has struck most effectively at the evil practice of slavery. It is further stated that falsehood eventually must suffer defeat. This is a lesson writ large on the pages of history; and the evil fate of peoples nearer home such as ʻĀd, Thamūd, Midian and the people of Lot should open the eyes of the Meccans. Next, the Sūrah says a few words of comfort and good cheer to the Holy Prophet telling him that though he is being driven out of his native place, friendless and apparently helpless, to seek refuge in a distant place among alien people, yet his cause will triumph. Then it briefly mentions the aims and objects of war according to Islām and closes with an exhortation to Muslims to be prepared to spend whatever they possess for the cause they hold so dear, because not to spend when the cause requires its votaries to spend with both hands, is calculated not only to injure the common cause but also the individual himself.

3. But as for those who believe and do righteous deeds and believe in that which has been revealed to Muḥammad—and it is the truth from their Lord—He removes from them their sins and sets right their affairs.

4. That is because those who disbelieve follow falsehood while those who believe follow the truth from their Lord. Thus does Allāh set forth for men their lessons by similitudes.

5. [c]And when you meet in regular battle those who disbelieve, smite their necks; and, when you have overcome them,[2738] by causing great slaughter among them, bind fast the fetters—then afterwards either release them as a favour or by taking

That is the ordinance.[2739] And if Allāh had so pleased, He could have punished them Himself, but He has willed that He may try[2740] some of you by others. And those who are killed in the way of Allāh—He will never render their works vain.[2741]

وَلٰكِنْ لِّيَبْلُوَا۟ بَعْضَكُمْ بِبَعْضٍ ۗ وَالَّذِيْنَ قُتِلُوْا فِيْ سَبِيْلِ اللّٰهِ فَلَنْ يُّضِلَّ اَعْمَالَهُمْ ۝

6. He will guide[2742] them to success and will improve their condition.

سَيَهْدِيْهِمْ وَيُصْلِحُ بَالَهُمْ ۝

[2739] The verse, in a nutshell, lays down some important rules about the ethics of war and its conduct and incidentally deals a deathblow to slavery. Briefly, these are: (a) When they are engaged in regular battle in defence of their faith, honour, lives or property, Muslims are enjoined to fight bravely and relentlessly (8:13-17). (b) When war is once started, it should continue till peace is established and freedom of conscience secured (8:40). (c) Prisoners are to be taken from the enemy only after regular and pitched battle has been fought, and the enemy is decidedly and positively beaten. Thus regular war is declared to be the only reason for taking prisoners; for no other reason free men can be deprived of their liberty. (d) When war is over, prisoners should be released, either as an act of favour, or on taking ransom from them or by negotiating mutual exchange. They should not be held permanently in captivity or treated as slaves. The Holy Prophet set at liberty about a hundred families of Banī Muṣṭaliq and several thousand prisoners of Hawāzin after both these tribes had been decisively beaten in battle. After the Battle of Badr ransom was accepted from the prisoners, and those who could not pay their ransom in money but were literate, were required to teach reading and writing to Muslims. The verse thus has struck very effectively at the roots of slavery, abolishing it completely and for ever.

[2740] Allāh got the believers engaged in fighting with disbelievers so that on the one hand their own good qualities of character should have an opportunity to come into play, and on the other, the bad qualities of disbelievers should become exposed. Perhaps in no other aspect of life was the moral superiority of the Companions of the Holy Prophet so clearly demonstrated as in their treatment of their fallen foes.

[2741] The sacrifice of Muslims slain in the field of battle will not be wasted. In fact, it was their sacrifice that firmly laid the foundation of Islām in Arabia.

[2742] Since Hidāyah means, to follow the right path till one reaches one's destination and achieves the object of one's quest (Lane), the verse purports to say that by their death the martyred Muslims achieved the object for which they gave their lives which was the triumph of the cause of Islām.

2743. The believers had a foretaste of the blessings of Paradise in this life in the sense that they enjoyed in their physical form all those spiritual blessings and favours which are mentioned in the Qur'ān as having been promised to them in the next world. Or the verse may mean that the believers had a spiritual foretaste of "the Garden" because they saw with their own eyes the promise made to them in the Qur'ān about Paradise being fulfilled in this very life.

2744. Three times in the few previous verses it is stated that 'God has made the works of disbelievers vain.' This signifies that disbelievers had bent all their energies of mind and body to the achievement of one supreme desire—to see Islām fail and come to naught. But Islām triumphed. It progressed and prospered and the disbelievers failed to see their desire fulfilled.

2745. As many as fifteen times, the disbelievers of the Holy Prophet have been told in the Qur'ān to travel in the earth and see for themselves the sad end to which the disbelievers of former Prophets had come. How can they, the verse warns them, expect to escape a similar fate? Divine punishment will, destroyed them, and for the disbelievers there will be the like thereof.

دَمَّرَ اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِمْ ۖ وَ لِلْكٰفِرِيْنَ اَمْثَالُهَا ﴿١١﴾

13. Verily, Allāh will cause those who believe and do good works to enter the Gardens underneath which streams flow; [b]while those who disbelieve enjoy themselves and eat even as the cattle[2746] eat, and the Fire will be their last resort.

2746. Whereas believers eat to live in order to serve God and man, the disbelievers live to eat and have no nobler objects to pursue. They do not rise above the level of animals as their whole concept of life is materialistic.

2747. The verse was revealed while the Holy Prophet was on his way from Mecca to Medina, having been driven out of his beloved native place, with a price on his head. He was hourly in fear of being caught, as Medina was far away and the countryside swarmed with adventurers who sought to bring him dead or alive to get the much-coveted prize. The Holy Prophet was Divinely promised a safe journey.

Can those who enjoy such bliss be like those who abide in the Fire and who are given boiling water to drink so that it tears their bowels?

2748. Believers are promised, in this and the next life, rivers of pure water, rivers of milk of which the taste does not change, rivers of wine which gives delight and rivers of clarified honey. The word, Anhār, which has been used four times in the verse, besides other senses, signifies light and amplitude; and 'Asal, among other things, means a good or righteous deed which wins for the doer the love and esteem of men. In view of this signification of these two words the verse may mean that the four things mentioned will be given to the righteous in plenty. Water is the source of all life (21:31); milk gives health and vigour to the body; wine gives pleasant sensations and forgetfulness of worries, and honey cures many a disease. Taken in the physical sense, the verse would signify that in the present life the believers will have in plenty all those things which make life pleasant, delightful and useful; and taken symbolically and in a spiritual sense, it would mean that believers will have a full life—they will be endowed with spiritual knowledge, will drink the wine of God's love and will do deeds that will win for them love and esteem of men.

19. The disbelievers wait not but for the Hour, that it should come upon them [c]suddenly. The signs[2751] thereof have already come. But of what avail will their admonition be to them when it has actually come upon them.

2749. A hypocrite being a double-faced person generally uses language susceptible of double meaning. This he does in order to extricate himself from an awkward position, so that, should one construction of his speech land him in trouble, he might be able to avoid its consequences by putting quite a different construction on it. The above expression is an appropriate instance of the equivocal language used by the Hypocrites of Medina. If one of them, after a meeting with the Holy Prophet, happened to meet a Muslim, he would say, 'What was it that the Prophet said just now,' meaning what beautiful and highly useful things the Prophet had said. But if he chanced to meet a Hypocrite like himself he would use the same expression but meaning 'what nonsense talk the Prophet had indulged in.'

2750. The Quranic expression may mean: (a) God makes them righteous; (b) He discloses to them the ways and means by employing which they could attain righteousness; (c) Allāh bestows upon believers favours and blessings which are the result of a life of righteousness.

2751. The reference in the word, Ashrāṭ (signs), seems to be to the Holy

20. Know, therefore, that there is no god other than Allāh, and ask protection for thy human frailties,[2752] and for believing men and believing women. And Allāh knows the place where you move about and the place where you stay.[2753]

[a]4:83. [b]3:87. [c]4:98; 8:51; 16:29.

2754. Muslims were allowed to fight, because if the power of disbelievers had not been broken they would have created disorder in the land and have severed all ties of kinship and trampled under foot all rightful claims.

2755. The Hypocrites of Medina would not side with disbelievers openly and unreservedly. A hypocrite is too wily a person to burn his boats. He faces both ways.

33. Those, who disbelieve and hinder men from the way of Allāh and oppose the Messenger after guidance has become manifest to them, shall not harm Allāh in the least; and He will make their works fruitless.

2756. A hypocrite never talks straight. He always indulges in ambiguous and equivocal speech in order that it should convey one sense to one person and quite another sense to another person. It is to this crooked manner of speech of the hypocrites that reference has also been made in 2:105.

2757. 'Arafa is synonymous with 'Alima, but 'Ilm is wider and more general in signification than Ma'rifah. The root meaning of 'Ilm is that of a mark or sign by which one thing is distinguished from another (Lane). Knowledge or 'Ilm is of two kinds: (a) knowledge about a thing before its occurrence; and (b) knowledge about it after it has actually happened. The knowledge referred to in the verse under comment belongs to the latter category.

يٰٓاَيُّهَا الَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوْٓا اَطِيْعُوا اللّٰهَ وَاَطِيْعُوا الرَّسُوْلَ وَلَا تُبْطِلُوْٓا اَعْمَالَكُمْ ﴿٣٤﴾

34. O ye who believe! obey Allāh and obey the Messenger and make not your works vain.

35. [a]Verily, those who disbelieve and hinder people from the way of Allāh, and then die while they are disbelievers—Allāh certainly, will not forgive them.

فَلَا تَهِنُوْا وَتَدْعُوْٓا اِلَى السَّلْمِ ۖ وَاَنْتُمُ الْاَعْلَوْنَ ۗ وَاللّٰهُ مَعَكُمْ وَلَنْ يَّتِرَكُمْ اَعْمَالَكُمْ ﴿٣٦﴾

36. [b]So be not slack and sue not for peace,[2758] for you will, certainly, have the upper hand. And Allāh is with you, and He will not deprive you of the reward of your actions.

اِنَّمَا الْحَيٰوةُ الدُّنْيَا لَعِبٌ وَّلَهْوٌ ۭ وَاِنْ تُؤْمِنُوْا وَتَتَّقُوْا يُؤْتِكُمْ اُجُوْرَكُمْ وَلَا يَسْـَٔلْكُمْ اَمْوَالَكُمْ ﴿٣٧﴾

37. [c]The life of this world is but a sport and a pastime, and if you believe and be righteous, He will give you your rewards, and will not ask of you your wealth.[2759]

اِنْ يَّسْـَٔلْكُمُوْهَا فَيُحْفِكُمْ تَبْخَلُوْا وَيُخْرِجْ اَضْغَانَكُمْ ﴿٣٨﴾

38. Were He to ask it of you and press you, you would be niggardly, and He would bring to light your malice.[2760]

[a]3:92; 4:19. [b]3:140. [c]6:33; 29:65; 57:21.

2758. Muslims are enjoined here that once fighting has started, they should never sue for peace, whatever form or shape the fortunes of war may take. They are to win either victory or martyrdom. No other choice is left to them.

2759. The verse purports to say that as Muslims have been enjoined to fight in the cause of Allāh, they will have to bear the expenses of war also and for that purpose they will have to make sacrifice of money. But Allāh does not need their money. It is for their own benefit that sacrifice of life and money is demanded of them because no success is possible without such sacrifice. True believers must understand and realize this supreme lesson.

2760. The verse particularly applies to the hypocrites.

هَآ اَنْتُمْ هٰٓؤُلَآءِ تُدْعَوْنَ لِتُنْفِقُوْا فِيْ
سَبِيْلِ اللّٰهِ ۚ فَمِنْكُمْ مَّنْ يَّبْخَلُ ۚ وَمَنْ
يَّبْخَلْ فَاِنَّمَا يَبْخَلُ عَنْ نَّفْسِهٖ ۗ وَاللّٰهُ
الْغَنِيُّ وَاَنْتُمُ الْفُقَرَآءُ ۚ وَاِنْ تَتَوَلَّوْا
يَسْتَبْدِلْ قَوْمًا غَيْرَكُمْ ۙ ثُمَّ لَا يَكُوْنُوْٓا
اَمْثَالَكُمْ ﴿٣٩﴾ ع

39. Behold! you are those who are called upon to spend in the way of Allāh; but of you there are some who are niggardly. And whoso is niggardly, is niggardly only against his own soul.[2761] And Allāh is Self-Sufficient, and it is you who are needy. [a]And if you turn your backs, He will bring in your place another people; then they will not be like you.[2762]

[a]5:55.

2761. Miserliness is a deadly moral disease that eats into the vitals of man's moral and spiritual well-being. Elsewhere, the Qur'ān has used very strong language about such people (9:35).

2762. When the Holy Prophet was once asked as to whom the words, 'He will bring instead a people other than you,' referred, he is reported to have said, 'If Faith were to go up to the Pleiades, a man of Persian descent will bring it back to the earth' (Rūḥul-Ma'ānī).

CHAPTER 48

AL-FATḤ

(Revealed after Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

According to consensus of scholarly opinion the Sūrah was revealed when, after signing the Treaty of Ḥudaibiyah, the Holy Prophet was on his way back to Medina, in the 6th year of Hijrah in the month of Dhul-Qa'dah (Bukhārī). The Treaty being an epoch-making event, all incidents connected with it have been carefully preserved in Islamic history. So, complete agreement exists concerning the date and place of the revelation of this Sūrah. It bears the title Al-Fatḥ (The Victory). The title is appropriate in that a seemingly diplomatic defeat eventually proved to be a master-stroke of strategy on the part of the Holy Prophet and led to the Fall of Mecca, and consequently to the conquest of the whole of Arabia. Towards the close of the preceding Sūrah, believers were given definite promise of victory over their opponents. The present Sūrah declares in clear and unequivocal terms that the promised victory is not a thing of some indefinite distant future, but is quite near. It is so near that it may be said to have actually arrived; and it will be so decisive and overwhelming that even the most sceptic person will find it hard to deny it.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with a firm declaration that the promised victory has actually arrived and that it would be clear, definite, and overwhelming. The Holy Prophet is further told that as a result of it people will join the fold of Islām in such large numbers that it would prove a formidable task for him adequately to train and educate the new converts into the tenets and principles of the Faith. He should, therefore, implore God's help in the discharge of his onerous duty, and ask for His forgiveness and mercy lest, due to human limitations, some defects should remain in its full execution. The Sūrah proceeds to say that because of lack of proper realization of the full import of the Treaty the believers were downcast, God would send down solace and tranquillity on them and their faith would increase, while the false satisfaction and delight of disbelievers would prove to be short-lived. The believers are further told that they should not have doubted the wisdom of the Holy Prophet's action in signing the Treaty since he was God's Messenger and all his actions were done under Divine direction and guidance. Their duty was 'to believe in him, help him, and honour him.' The Sūrah further says that believers earned the pleasure of God when they swore allegiance to the Holy Prophet under 'The Tree' that they would stand by him through thick and thin, even unto death. It was God's own plan that fighting did not take place at that time because in Mecca there lived some true and sincere Muslims whom believers did not know and who would have unwittingly been killed, if fighting had taken place. Next, the Hypocrites and those, who lagged behind, receive a severe rebuke and their hypocrisy is exposed. Whenever they are invited to fight in the cause of God, the Sūrah says, they invent false excuses to justify their staying behind, but by their foolish subterfuges and false excuses they deceive no one but themselves. Towards its close, the Sūrah reverts to the subject that not only would the Treaty of Ḥudaibiyah prove to be a great victory but that other victories would follow in its wake, and the neighbouring countries would fall to the victorious arms of Muslims.

سُوْرَةُ الْفَتْحِ مَدَنِيَّةٌ ٤٨ — اٰياتها ٣٠ — رکوعاتها ٤

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

اِنَّا فَتَحْنَا لَكَ فَتْحًا مُّبِيْنًا ②

2. Verily, We have given thee a clear Victory,[2763]

[a]1:1.

2763. The reference in the words 'a clear Victory' seems to be to the Treaty of Ḥudaibiyah. It is remarkable that though, during the early brief six years of his life at Medina, the Holy Prophet had gained great victories over his enemies which had crippled and crushed their fighting power, yet none of them is called 'a clear victory' in the Qur'ān. It was reserved for the Treaty of Ḥudaibiyah to receive this single honour, despite the fact that its terms were seemingly very humiliating, and the Muslims were greatly perturbed over this apparently rude rebuff to the prestige of Islām, so much so that even a stalwart like 'Umar exclaimed in extreme grief and indignation that if the terms had been settled by any other person than the Holy Prophet, he would have scorned to listen to them (Hishām). The Treaty was, indeed, a great victory in that it opened the way to the expansion and spread of Islām and led to the Fall of Mecca and ultimately to the conquest of the whole of Arabia. It proved to be a master-stroke of strategy on the Holy Prophet's part as his 'political status as an equal and independent Power was acknowledged by the Quraish' ("Mohammad at Medina" by Montgomery Watt).

The Holy Prophet had seen a vision that he was making a circuit of the Ka'bah along with a party of his followers. In order to fulfil his vision he started for Mecca with about 1500 Muslims to perform the Lesser Pilgrimage ('Umrah) in the Sacred Months in which, according to Arab tradition and usage, fighting was forbidden, and this was so even before Islām. When he reached 'Usfān, a place, a few miles away from Mecca, he was informed by an advance party whom he had sent under the command of 'Abbād bin Bishr that the Quraish were bent upon barring his entry into the town. In order to avoid armed clash the Holy Prophet changed his route and, 'after a fatiguing march through devious and rugged pathways, reached Ḥudaibiyah' where he encamped. The Holy Prophet had declared that he would accept all the demands of the Quraish for the honour of the Holy Place (Hishām), but the Quraish were firmly resolved not to allow him to enter Mecca, whatever he might say. Messages were exchanged in an attempt to find a solution of the impasse. After heated and protracted parleys in which the Holy Prophet left no stone unturned, even at the cost of his prestige, to arrive at a reasonable compromise with the Quraish, a treaty was signed of which the terms were: 'War shall be suspended for ten years. Whosoever would like to join the Holy Prophet or enter into treaty with him, shall have liberty to do so, and likewise

لِّيَغْفِرَ لَكَ اللّٰهُ مَا تَقَدَّمَ مِنْ ذَنْۢبِكَ وَمَا تَاَخَّرَ وَيُتِمَّ نِعْمَتَهٗ عَلَيْكَ وَيَهْدِيَكَ

3. That Allāh may cover up[2764] for thee thy shortcomings,[2765] past and whosoever would like to join the Quraish or enter into treaty with them shall have liberty to do so. If a believing man goes over to the Prophet from Mecca without the permission of his guardian, he shall be sent back to his guardian; but should any of the followers of the Prophet return to the Quraish, he shall not be sent back. The Prophet shall go back this year without entering the city. Next year he and his Companions may visit Mecca only for three days to perform 'Umrah (Lesser Pilgrimage), but they shall carry no arms save sheathed swords' (Bukhārī).

The terms were seemingly very humiliating. The Muslims were greatly upset. No words could adequately describe their anguish and sense of humiliation and injured pride. The third term was particularly galling. But the Holy Prophet was quite calm and tranquil. Being convinced of the moral force of Islām, he knew that 'a believer who had once tasted the sweetness of faith would prefer to be cast into fire rather than to revert to disbelief' (Bukhārī); and that he would prove to be a source of strength to his religion wherever he might happen to be. The Treaty subsequently proved to be 'a clear Victory.' The Companions of the Holy Prophet were rightly proud of being present on the occasion, and quite justified in regarding the Treaty and not the conquest of Mecca as 'the victory referred to in the present verse' (Bukhārī). According to them no victory was greater and more far-reaching in its results and effects than this Treaty (Hishām). And the Holy Prophet himself called it a great victory (Baihaqī). The Qur'ān calls it a clear victory (v.2), the supreme achievement (v.6); a great reward (v.11) and the completion and perfection of God's favour upon the Holy Prophet (v.3), because it opened the floodgates of the spiritual and political conquests of Islām.

2764. The verse has been deliberately misrepresented, or, through lack of knowledge of Arabic idiom and phrase, misinterpreted by some Christian writers as signifying that the Holy Prophet was guilty of moral lapses. It is an article of faith with Muslims, as enjoined by the Qur'ān, that God's Prophets are born sinless and they remain sinless throughout their lives. They do not say or do anything contrary to Divine commandments (21:28). As they are commissioned by God to purge men of sins, so they cannot possibly commit sins themselves. And of Divine Messengers the Holy Prophet was the noblest and the purest. The Qur'ān abounds in verses which speak in glowing terms of the purity and spotlessness of his life (2:130; 3:32; 3:165; 6:163; 7:158; 8:25; 33:22; 48:11; 53:3, 4; 68:5 & 81:20-22). For the expression li-Yaghfira, see 2612.

2765. A man of such high moral stature as the Holy Prophet, who raised a whole people, sunk into the lowest depths of moral turpitude, to the highest pinnacle of spiritual eminence, could not possibly be guilty of such moral future,[2766] and that He may complete His favour upon thee, and may guide thee on a right path;

وَّيَنْصُرَكَ اللّٰهُ نَصْرًا عَزِيْزًا ﴿٤﴾

4. And that Allāh may help thee with a mighty help.[2767]

lapses as his detractors have vainly sought to impute to him. A quite simple and harmless word, Dhanb, has been taken advantage of to malign him. The word signifies such frailties as adhere to human nature, and to errors as are calculated to bring about harmful results. The verse signifies that God would protect the Holy Prophet from the harmful results that would follow in the wake of the promised victory referred to in the preceding verse, inasmuch as large masses of people would enter the fold of Islām, and naturally their moral and spiritual training and upbringing would not be of the desired standard. That is why wherever in the Qur'ān success and victories are promised to the Holy Prophet, he is enjoined to seek protection of God from his Dhanb, i.e. human weaknesses which might stand in the way of the realisation of his great mission. The fact that of the four words, Junāḥ, Jurm, Ithm and Dhanb, which possess almost similar connotations, none of the first three words has been used in the Qur'ān with regard to God's Prophets, shows that Dhanb does not possess the sinister significance which the other three words possess. Besides, according to the Quranic idiom, the expression Dhanbaka, if at all Dhanb be taken to signify a sin or crime, would mean 'the sins alleged to have been committed by thee; or the sins committed against thee.' According to the last meaning of Dhanb the Arabic word laka in the verse would mean 'for thy sake.' Elsewhere in the Qur'ān (5:30) a similar expression Ithmī (my sin) signifies 'the sin committed against me.' Thus the verse under comment would mean that as a result of the great victory—the Treaty of Ḥudaibiyah, all the sins and crimes and faults which his enemies imputed to the Holy Prophet, viz. that he was a cheat, an impostor or a forger of lies against God and man, etc. would prove to be false, inasmuch as all sorts of people by coming into contact with his followers would find out the truth about him. Or the meaning is that 'the sins committed against thee by thine enemies will be pardoned for thy sake.' And so it happened. When Mecca fell and the Arabs accepted Islām, their sins were forgiven. The context also supports this meaning because grant of a clear victory and the completion of Divine favour upon the Holy Prophet, referred to in this and the preceding verse do not seem to possess any relevance to the forgiveness of sins, if Dhanb be taken to mean a sin.

2766. The words 'past and present' signify that the charges, that were levelled against the Holy Prophet in the past by the Quraish, and those that will be levelled against him in future by his enemies, will all be dispelled and he will stand completely vindicated.

2767. Allāh's help came in the form of the rapid spread of Islām in Arabia

هُوَ الَّذِیۡۤ اَنۡزَلَ السَّکِیۡنَۃَ فِیۡ قُلُوۡبِ الۡمُؤۡمِنِیۡنَ لِیَزۡدَادُوۡۤا اِیۡمَانًا مَّعَ اِیۡمَانِہِمۡ ؕ وَ لِلّٰہِ جُنُوۡدُ السَّمٰوٰتِ وَ الۡاَرۡضِ ؕ وَ کَانَ اللّٰہُ عَلِیۡمًا حَکِیۡمًا ۙ﴿۵﴾

after the signing of the Treaty of Ḥudaibiyah, and the Holy Prophet was acknowledged as the Head of an independent sovereign State.

2768. The expression shows that though, due to a misunderstanding about the terms of the Treaty of Ḥudaibiyah the believers were temporarily perturbed, they never lost peace of mind so far as fighting in the cause of Allāh was concerned, and were fully convinced that Divine hosts were with them. That is why when a false news reached Ḥudaibiyah that ‘Uthmān, the Prophet’s envoy to the Meccans, had been killed, and the Holy Prophet invited Muslims to take a solemn oath at his hand that they would avenge the death of ‘Uthmān and would fight under his banner to the bitter end, all of them took the oath without evincing the least hesitation.

11. Verily, those who swear allegiance to thee,[2769] indeed, swear allegiance to Allāh. The hand of Allāh is over their hands. So whoever breaks his oath, breaks it to his own loss; and whoever fulfils the covenant that he has made with Allāh. He will, surely, give him a great reward.

12. Those of the desert Arabs, who contrived to be left

[a]25:57; 33:46; 35:25. [b]5:13.

2769. The reference is to the oath taken by the believers at the hand of the Holy Prophet under a tree at Ḥudaibiyah (Bukhārī).

شَغَلَتْنَآ اَمْوَالُنَا وَاَهْلُوْنَا فَاسْتَغْفِرْ لَنَا ۚ

13. 'Nay, you thought that the Messenger and the believers would never return to their families,[2771] and that was made to appear pleasing to your hearts, and you thought an evil thought, and you were a ruined people.'

[a]3:168.

2770. Bedouin tribes around Medina, who apparently had friendly relations with the Muslims, were also invited to join the party of 1500 Muslims who went to Mecca to perform the Lesser Pilgrimage. Though the Holy Prophet went on a mission of peace, they thought that the Quraish would not allow his entry into Mecca and that in all likelihood there would be a clash of arms and Muslims not being properly armed would be defeated, and, therefore, going with the Holy Prophet was tantamount to marching on into the jaws of death (Muir & Kathīr). The verse may equally apply to those tribes who had remained behind in the expedition to Tabūk because analogous words have been used in Sūrah At-Taubah about them.

2771. Wish being father to the thought, the Hypocrites, whenever invited by the Holy Prophet to join him in an expedition, entertained the fond hope that Muslims being very weak would never return safe to their families. Therefore, on one pretext or another, they asked to be excused. But their wishful thinking always ended in frustration and severe disappointment, and the Muslims returned successful from almost every expedition.

وَمَنْ لَّمْ يُؤْمِنْۢ بِاللّٰهِ وَرَسُوْلِهٖ فَاِنَّاۤ اَعْتَدْنَا لِلْكٰفِرِيْنَ سَعِيْرًا ﴿١٤﴾

14. And as for those who believe not in Allāh and His Messenger—[a]We have, surely, prepared for the disbelievers a blazing fire.

وَلِلّٰهِ مُلْكُ السَّمٰوٰتِ وَالْاَرْضِ ؕ يَغْفِرُ لِمَنْ يَّشَآءُ وَيُعَذِّبُ مَنْ يَّشَآءُ ؕ وَكَانَ اللّٰهُ غَفُوْرًا رَّحِيْمًا ﴿١٥﴾

16. Those, who contrived to be left behind, will say, when you go forth to the spoils to take them, 'Let us follow you.' They seek to change the decree of Allāh. Say, 'You shall not follow us.[2772] Thus has Allāh said beforehand.' Then they will say, 'Nay, but you envy us.' That is not so; in fact they understand not except a little.

[a]18:103; 29:69; 33:9; 76:5. [b]40:17. [c]3:130; 5:19.

2772. The reference is to the booty which fell into the hands of Muslims in the Khaibar expedition. The Sūrah was revealed when the Holy Prophet was on his way back from Ḥudaibiyah. In v.20, the Muslims were promised great spoils. It is to these spoils that the present verse refers. Shortly after his return from Ḥudaibiyah, the Holy Prophet marched against the Jews of Khaibar to punish them for their repeated acts of treachery. Those Bedouin tribes, who had contrived to remain behind when the Holy Prophet went to Mecca for the Lesser Pilgrimage, finding that his cause had prospered and that they would have a good share of the booty if they joined the expedition to Khaibar, requested him to allow them to accompany the Muslim army. They were told that they could not do so as the promise of booty was made only to those sincere Muslims who were with the Holy Prophet at Ḥudaibiyah.

قُلْ لِّلْمُخَلَّفِيْنَ مِنَ الْاَعْرَابِ سَتُدْعَوْنَ

اَوْ يُسْلِمُوْنَ ۚ فَاِنْ تُطِيْعُوْا يُؤْتِكُمُ اللّٰهُ
اَجْرًا حَسَنًا ۚ وَاِنْ تَتَوَلَّوْا كَمَا تَوَلَّيْتُمْ

17. Say to the desert Arabs who contrived to be left behind, 'You shall be called to fight against a people of mighty valour;[2773] you shall fight them until they surrender. Then, if you obey, Allāh will give you a good reward, but if you turn your backs, as you turned your backs before, He will punish you with a painful punishment.'

يَّتَوَلَّ يُعَذِّبْهُ عَذَابًا اَلِيْمًا ﴿۱۸﴾ ع

18. [a]There is no blame on the blind, nor is there blame on the lame, nor is there blame on the sick, if they go not forth to fight. [b]And whoso obeys Allāh and His Messenger, He will cause him to enter the Gardens beneath which streams flow; but whoso turns his back, him will He punish with a grievous punishment.

[a]9:91. [b]4:14; 24:53; 33:72.

2773. The words, 'a people of mighty valour,' may refer to the mighty forces of the Byzantine and Iranian Empires which were far superior in material means and numbers than any other enemy the Muslims had met so far. The verse constituted a warning that the Muslims would come into conflict with those mighty foes and would have to wage prolonged wars with them till the latter would be completely defeated and brought to their knees. The laggards are here told that though they cannot be allowed to march against the Jews of Khaibar and partake of the booty, yet in the near future they would be called upon to fight against a much more powerful enemy and that, if they then responded to the call, they would receive a good reward. The verse also signifies that wars with the Byzantine and Iranian Empires would be fierce and long.

R. 3.

لَقَدْ رَضِيَ اللّٰهُ عَنِ الْمُؤْمِنِيْنَ اِذْ يُبَايِعُوْنَكَ تَحْتَ الشَّجَرَةِ فَعَلِمَ مَا فِيْ قُلُوْبِهِمْ فَاَنْزَلَ السَّكِيْنَةَ عَلَيْهِمْ وَاَثَابَهُمْ فَتْحًا قَرِيْبًا ﴿١٩﴾

19. Surely, Allāh was well-pleased with the believers when they were swearing allegiance to thee under the Tree,[2774] and He knew what was in their hearts,[2775] and He sent down tranquillity on them, and He rewarded them with a victory at hand;[2776]

وَّمَغَانِمَ كَثِيْرَةً يَّاْخُذُوْنَهَا ؕ وَكَانَ اللّٰهُ عَزِيْزًا حَكِيْمًا ﴿٢٠﴾

20. And great spoils[2777] that they will take. Allāh is Mighty, Wise.

وَعَدَكُمُ اللّٰهُ مَغَانِمَ كَثِيْرَةً تَاْخُذُوْنَهَا

21. Allāh has promised you great spoils[2778] that you will 2774. The swearing of allegiance took place at Ḥudaibiyah under an Acacia tree after a report had reached the Holy Prophet that in breach of ambassadorial usage and etiquette his envoy, ‘Uthmān, had been assassinated by the Meccans. It was, perhaps, not so much the reported murder of ‘Uthmān as the violation of a sacred and time-honoured usage that exhausted the Holy Prophet’s patience. The oath came to be known as Bai‘atur-Riḍwān, which signified that those lucky people who had taken the oath had obtained God’s pleasure.

2775. What greater proof could there be that God had sent down tranquillity on Muslims than that, being only about 1500 in number and being far away from home and being friendless and surrounded by hostile tribes and faced by a powerful enemy who was entrenched in his citadel, they were prepared to fight rather than agree to the proposed terms of the Treaty.

2776. The words 'victory at hand' refer to the victory at Khaibar. On his return from Ḥudaibiyah the Holy Prophet led an expedition against the Jews of Khaibar (a great hotbed of Jewish intrigue and conspiracy) with those Muslims who were with him at Ḥudaibiyah.

2777. 'Great spoils' may refer to the great gains which the Muslims got as a result of the 'near victory' promised in the preceding verse.

2778. 'Great spoils' mentioned in this verse may refer to the great booty which fell into the hands of Muslims in the conquests, which followed the victory at Khaibar in the rest of Arabia and the neighbouring countries, but the words, 'He has given you this in advance,' evidently refer to the spoils gained take, and He has given you this in advance, and has [a]restrained the hands of men from you, that it may be a Sign for the believers, and that He may guide you on a right path; at Khaibar. The words, 'has restrained the hands of men from you,' mean that the Treaty of Ḥudaibiyah had ushered in a period of peace for Muslims.

2779. The verse embodies a prophecy that Muslims will achieve other great victories after the victory at Khaibar.

2780. In view of the circumstances in which the Muslims were then placed and of the far-reaching results it produced, the Treaty of Ḥudaibiyah was, indeed, a great victory. The words may also refer to the victories that God had

26. It is they who disbelieved and [a]debarred you from the Sacred Mosque and also prevented the dedicated offerings from reaching their place of sacrifice. And had it not been for some believing men and believing women who were then in Mecca and whom, not having known, you might have trampled down, and thus might have, on their account, incurred an unwitting guilt,[2781] He would have permitted you to fight, but He withheld you that He might admit into His mercy whom He will. If they had been clearly separated from the disbelievers, We would have, surely, punished those of them who disbelieved with a grievous punishment.

سَكِيْنَتَهٗ عَلٰى رَسُوْلِهٖ وَعَلَى الْمُؤْمِنِيْنَ

27. When those who disbelieved harboured in their hearts prideful indignation—indignation of the Days of Ignorance, [b]Allāh sent down

[a]8:35; 22:26. [b]9:26.

granted to Muslims before they came to Ḥudaibiyah—the victory at Badr, the safe return from Uḥud to Medina of Muslims and the Holy Prophet, after they had been placed in a very dangerous and delicate situation, and the complete frustration of the Meccans in their evil designs to destroy Islām in the Battle of the Trench when they were repulsed with severe loss, etc. In a sense these were all victories of believers over disbelievers.

2781. There was a nucleus of Muslims in Mecca and if the fight had taken place, Muslim army would have unknowingly killed their own brethren in Faith, thereby causing great injury to their own cause, and earning obloquy and opprobrium in addition.

وَاَلْزَمَهُمْ كَلِمَةَ التَّقْوٰى وَكَانُوْٓا اَحَقَّ بِهَا وَاَهْلَهَا ؕ وَكَانَ اللّٰهُ بِكُلِّ شَیْءٍ عَلِیْمًا ﴿۲۷﴾ ع

His tranquillity on His Messenger and on the believers, and made them adhere firmly to the principle of righteousness, and they were better entitled to it and more worthy of it.[2782] And Allāh knows everything well.

R. 4.

لَقَدْ صَدَقَ اللّٰهُ رَسُوْلَهُ الرُّءْیَا بِالْحَقِّ ۚ لَتَدْخُلُنَّ الْمَسْجِدَ الْحَرَامَ اِنْ شَآءَ اللّٰهُ اٰمِنِیْنَ ۙ مُحَلِّقِیْنَ رُءُوْسَكُمْ وَمُقَصِّرِیْنَ ۙ لَا تَخَافُوْنَ ؕ فَعَلِمَ مَا لَمْ تَعْلَمُوْا فَجَعَلَ مِنْ دُوْنِ ذٰلِكَ فَتْحًا قَرِیْبًا ﴿۲۸﴾

28. Allāh, indeed, fulfilled for His Messenger the Vision:[2783] You shall, certainly, enter the Sacred Mosque, if Allāh will, in security, some of you having their heads shaven and others having their hair cut short, you will have no fear. But He knew what you knew not. He has, in fact, ordained for you, besides that, a victory near at hand.

2782. Against their own tradition and usage that access to and circuit of the Ka‘bah was not to be prevented in the four Sacred Months, the pagans of Mecca, from a false sense of dignity and national pride, had made it a point of honour with them not to allow Muslims to enter Mecca and perform the ‘Umrah (Lesser Pilgrimage). But 'Allāh sent His tranquillity' upon the Muslims and though they were greatly upset over the seemingly humiliating terms of the Treaty, yet in deference to the wish and command of their beloved Master they bore all this with restrainted and patience and did not abandon the path of rectitude and righteousness under the most severe provocation. The Companions of the Holy Prophet alone were capable of setting such a noble example.

2783. The verse refers to the Vision which the Holy Prophet had seen that he was performing the circuit of the Ka‘bah with his Companions (Bukhārī). He set out for Mecca with about 1500 of his Companions to perform the Lesser Pilgrimage. He was not allowed access to the Ka‘bah by the Quraish though the Sūrah was clear and emphatic that the Prophet’s Vision was true and that the Muslims would most certainly enter the Ka‘bah and perform the ceremonies of the Lesser Pilgrimage. The Holy Prophet’s journey, besides serving other useful purposes to which reference is already made, established an important precedent that sometimes even great Prophets of God are liable to place seemingly erroneous interpretations on their visions.

30. Muḥammad is the Messenger of Allāh. And those who are with him are [c]hard against the disbelievers but tender[2785] among themselves. Thou seest them bowing and prostrating themselves in Prayer, [d]seeking Allāh's grace and pleasure. Their marks are upon their faces, being the traces of prostrations. This is their description in the Torah.[2786]

2784. The verse makes a very bold prophecy that Islām would eventually triumph over all other religions.

2785. These are the two essential characteristics of a progressive and prosperous people who seek to leave their mark on the course of world events. Elsewhere in the Qur'ān (5:55), the true and good Muslims have been described as kind and humble towards believers and hard and firm against disbelievers.

2786. The words, 'This is their description in the Torah,' may refer to the biblical description, viz. 'he shined forth from mount Paran and he came with ten thousands of saints' (Deut. 33:2). And the expression, And their description in the Gospel is like unto a seed-produce, may refer to another biblical parable, viz. 'Behold, a sower went forth to sow; and when he sowed seeds; some fell into good ground and brought forth fruit, some hundredfold, some sixtyfold, some thirtyfold' (Matt. 13:3-8). The former description seems to apply to the Companions of the Holy Prophet and the latter parable to the

And their description in the Gospel is like unto a seed-produce that sends forth its sprout, then makes it strong; it then becomes stout, and stands firm on its stem, delighting the sowers—that He may cause the disbelievers to boil with rage at the sight of them. Allāh has promised, unto those of them, who believe and do good works, forgiveness and a great reward.

followers of Jesus's counterpart, the Promised Messiah, who, from a very small and insignificant beginning, are destined to develop into a mighty organization and gradually but progressively to carry the Message of Islām to the ends of the earth till it will prevail and triumph over all religions, and its opponents will wonder at, and be jealous of, its power and prestige.

CHAPTER 49
AL-ḤUJURĀT
(Revealed after Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah was revealed in the 9th year of the Hijrah, after the Fall of Mecca. When with the Fall of Mecca Islām had become a great political power and large masses of people had entered its fold, it was in the fitness of time that the newly initiated people should have been taught good manners and morals. The Sūrah teaches Muslims those good manners and morals. It also deals with some social evils which find their way into a materially-advanced and wealthy society (the Muslims had become such a society after the conquest of Arabia) and speaks of the accession to Islām of great political power and material wealth. Naturally, and quite appropriately, it embodies regulations for the settlement of international disputes. It opens with strict injunctions to Muslims to show full regard and respect to the Holy Prophet which befits his status as a great Divine Messenger. They are further enjoined not to anticipate his decisions but to give unquestioning obedience to him. They should not raise their voices above his voice; this not only constitutes bad manners but also shows lack of proper respect for the Leader which is calculated to undermine discipline in the Muslim Community. The Sūrah, then, warns Muslims to be on their guard against giving credence to false rumours, as such rumours are calculated to land Muslims into very awkward situations and lays down, in brief words, rules on which a League of Nations, or a United Nations Organization, can be built on sound and solid foundations. Next, it mentions some social evils which, if not guarded against and effectively checked in time, are calculated to eat into the vitals of a community and undermine its whole social structure. Of these social evils the common ones are suspicion, false accusation, spying, backbiting; and most pronounced and far-reaching in their evil consequences are conceit and pride born of a false sense of racial superiority. The Qur'ān recognizes no basis of superiority save that of piety and righteous conduct.

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

2. O ye who believe! be not forward[2787] in the presence of Allāh and His Messenger, but fear Allāh. Verily, Allāh is All-Hearing, All-Knowing.

3. O ye who believe! raise not your voices above the voice of the Prophet,[2788] nor speak loudly to him as you speak loudly to one another, lest your works come to naught while you perceive not.

4. Verily, those who lower their voices in the presence of the Messenger of Allāh—those are they whose hearts Allāh has purified for righteousness.[2789] For them is forgiveness and a great reward.

[a]1:1.

2787. Believers are enjoined to show proper respect to, and regard for, the Holy Prophet and to give him unqualified obedience and not to anticipate his commands or to prefer their own wishes to his.

2788. The verse lays great stress on observing an attitude of utmost respectfulness towards the Holy Prophet. The Muslims should not talk loudly in his presence or address him aloud which not only constitutes bad manners, but is calculated to do moral injury to one so rude as not to show due respect to the Leader.

2789. To speak in low tones in the presence of the Holy Prophet is indicative for respect for him and of one's own humility of heart, while the raising of voice unnecessarily smacks of conceit and arrogance.

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ يُنَادُونَكَ مِن وَرَاءِ الْحُجُرَاتِ أَكْثَرُهُمْ لَا يَعْقِلُونَ ﴿٥﴾

5. Those who call out to thee from without thy private apartments—most of them have no sense.[2790]

وَلَوْ أَنَّهُمْ صَبَرُوا حَتَّىٰ تَخْرُجَ إِلَيْهِمْ لَكَانَ خَيْرًا لَّهُمْ ۚ وَاللَّهُ غَفُورٌ رَّحِيمٌ ﴿٦﴾

6. And if they had waited patiently until thou camest out to them, it would be better for them. But Allāh is Most Forgiving, Merciful.

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا إِن جَاءَكُمْ فَاسِقٌ بِنَبَإٍ فَتَبَيَّنُوا أَن تُصِيبُوا قَوْمًا بِجَهَالَةٍ فَتُصْبِحُوا عَلَىٰ مَا فَعَلْتُمْ نَادِمِينَ ﴿٧﴾

7. O ye who believe! if an unrighteous person brings you any news, [a]investigate[2791] it fully, lest you harm a people in ignorance, and then you repent of what you did.

وَاعْلَمُوا أَنَّ فِيكُمْ رَسُولَ اللَّهِ ۚ لَوْ يُطِيعُكُمْ فِي كَثِيرٍ مِّنَ الْأَمْرِ لَعَنِتُّمْ وَلَٰكِنَّ اللَّهَ حَبَّبَ إِلَيْكُمُ الْإِيمَانَ

8. And know that among you is the Messenger of Allāh; if he were to follow your wishes in many matters, you would, surely, come to trouble;[2792]

[a]4:95.

2790. Calling out to the Prophet in a loud voice from outside his house amounts to intruding upon his privacy and shows lack of respect for his person and his valuable time; and only an ill-mannered person would be guilty of such foolish behaviour.

2791. Though after the Fall of Mecca almost the whole of Arabia had entered the fold of Islām, some tribes had still refused to accept the new order of things and were determined upon fighting the Muslims to the bitter end. Moreover, the neighbouring Byzantine and Iranian Empires were also awakening to a realization of the challenge to their power and prestige, which challenge they thought had arisen in Arabia, and war with Islām seemed inevitable. So this injunction was necessary. The Muslims are told that even when the exigencies of war necessitate prompt action to forestall a military move on the enemy's part, rumours which are naturally very rife in time of war should not be given ready credence. They should be fully examined and tested and their correctness ascertained before action is taken upon them.

2792. Muslims are here told that the Holy Prophet might seek counsel in matters concerning them, but he should not be expected necessarily to follow their advice as he receives guidance from on High and because also his is the final responsibility.

وَزَيَّنَهٗ فِيْ قُلُوْبِكُمْ وَكَرَّهَ اِلَيْكُمُ

10. And if two parties of believers fight each other, [a]make peace between them;[2793] then if after that one of them transgresses against the other, fight the party that transgresses until it returns to the command of Allāh. Then if it returns, make peace between them with equity, and act justly. Verily, Allāh loves the just.

11. Surely, all believers are brothers. So make peace between your brothers,[2794]

[a]8:2.

2793. A great danger to the security and solidarity of a Muslim State are the disputes and quarrels that haply might arise between different Muslim groups or parties. This verse provides an effective remedy to compose such differences. Primarily, it deals with the settlement of disputes between Muslim parties, but it equally embodies a sound basis on which a really effective League of Nations or a United Nations Organization can be built. The verse lays down a sound principle for the maintenance of international peace.

2794. The verse lays special stress on Islamic brotherhood. If there happens to arise a quarrel or dispute between two Muslim individuals or groups, other Muslims are enjoined to take immediate steps to bring about reconciliation between them. Islām's real strength lies in this ideal of brotherhood, which transcends all barriers of caste, colour or clime.

2795. The principal theme of the Sūrah being the establishment of concord, amity and goodwill among Muslim individuals and groups, this and the preceding verse mention some of those social evils which cause discord, dissensions and differences; and corrode, corrupt and contaminate a society and eat into its vitals; and enjoins Muslims to be on their guard against them. Ridiculing and taunting others, spying, and calling by nicknames, and suspicion and backbiting, are some of these social evils. Women have been particularly mentioned in this connection in that they are more prone to fall a victim to them. The main cause which lies at the root of these evils are conceit and a false sense of superiority, which the next verse expressly deals with. By removing these basic causes of disharmony and disagreement among Muslims the Sūrah has laid the foundation of a firm and solid brotherhood of Islām.

مَيْتًا فَكَرِهْتُمُوْهُ ؕ وَاتَّقُوا اللّٰهَ ؕ اِنَّ اللّٰهَ تَوَّابٌ رَّحِيْمٌ ﴿۱۳﴾ brother? Certainly, you would loathe it. And fear Allāh, surely, Allāh is Oft-Returning with compassion and is Merciful.

يٰۤاَيُّهَا النَّاسُ اِنَّا خَلَقْنٰكُمْ مِّنْ ذَكَرٍ وَّ اُنْثٰى وَ جَعَلْنٰكُمْ شُعُوْبًا وَّ قَبَآىِٕلَ لِتَعَارَفُوْا ؕ اِنَّ اَكْرَمَكُمْ عِنْدَ اللّٰهِ اَتْقٰىكُمْ ؕ اِنَّ اللّٰهَ عَلِيْمٌ خَبِيْرٌ ﴿۱۴﴾

14. O mankind, We have created you from a male and a female; and We have made you tribes and sub-tribes that you may know one another.[2796] Verily, the most honourable[2797] among you, in the sight of Allāh, is he who is the most righteous among you. Surely, Allāh is All-Knowing, All-Aware.

2796. Shu'ūb is the plural of Sha'b which means, a great tribe; the parent of the tribes called Qabīlah to which they refer their origin and which comprise them; a nation (Lane).

2797. After having dealt with the subject of Islamic brotherhood in the preceding two verses, the present verse lays down the basis of an all-comprehensive, all-pervading brotherhood of man. The verse, in fact, constitutes the Magna Carta of human fraternity and equality. It lays the axe at the false and foolish notions of superiority, born of racial arrogance or national conceit. All men having been "created from a male and a female" as human beings all men have been declared equal in the sight of God. The worth of a man is not to be judged by the pigment of his skin, the amount of wealth he possesses, or by his rank or social status, descent or pedigree, but by his moral greatness and by the way in which he discharges his obligations to God and man. The whole human race is but one family. Division into tribes, nations, and races is meant to give them better knowledge of one another, in order that they might benefit from one another's national characteristics and good qualities. On the occasion of the Last Pilgrimage at Mecca, a short time before his death, the Holy Prophet addressing a vast concourse of Muslims said, 'O ye men! Your God is One and your ancestor is one. An Arab possesses no superiority over a non-Arab, nor does a non-Arab over an Arab. A white is in no way superior to a red, nor, for that matter, a red to a white, but only to the extent to which he discharges his duty to God and man. The most honoured among you in the sight of God is the most righteous among you' (Baihaqī). These noble words epitomize one of Islām's loftiest ideals and strongest principles. In a society riven with class distinctions the Holy Prophet preached a principle intensely democratic.

قَالَتِ الْاَعْرَابُ اٰمَنَّا ؕ قُلْ لَّمْ تُؤْمِنُوْا وَلٰكِنْ قُوْلُوْٓا اَسْلَمْنَا وَلَمَّا يَدْخُلِ الْاِيْمَانُ فِيْ قُلُوْبِكُمْ ؕ وَاِنْ تُطِيْعُوا اللّٰهَ وَرَسُوْلَهٗ لَا يَلِتْكُمْ مِّنْ اَعْمَالِكُمْ شَيْـًٔا ؕ اِنَّ اللّٰهَ غَفُوْرٌ رَّحِيْمٌ ﴿۱۵﴾

15. The Arabs of the desert say, 'We believe.' Say, 'You have not truly believed yet, but rather say, "We have submitted, for true faith has not yet entered into your hearts."[2798] But if you obey Allāh and His Messenger, He will not detract anything from your deeds. Surely, Allāh is Most Forgiving, Merciful.'

اِنَّمَا الْمُؤْمِنُوْنَ الَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوْا بِاللّٰهِ وَرَسُوْلِهٖ ثُمَّ لَمْ يَرْتَابُوْا وَجٰهَدُوْا بِاَمْوَالِهِمْ وَاَنْفُسِهِمْ فِيْ سَبِيْلِ اللّٰهِ ؕ اُولٰٓئِكَ هُمُ الصّٰدِقُوْنَ ﴿۱۶﴾

16. [a]The believers are only those who truly believe in Allāh and His Messenger, and then doubt not, but strive with their possessions and their persons in the cause of Allāh. It is they who are truthful.

قُلْ اَتُعَلِّمُوْنَ اللّٰهَ بِدِيْنِكُمْ ؕ وَاللّٰهُ يَعْلَمُ مَا فِي السَّمٰوٰتِ وَمَا فِي الْاَرْضِ ؕ وَاللّٰهُ بِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ عَلِيْمٌ ﴿۱۷﴾

2798. All Muslims form an integral part of the Islamic brotherhood. Islām confers as equal rights on the unlettered and uncultured sons of the desert as it does on the civilized and cultured dwellers of cities and towns; only it exhorts the former to make greater efforts to learn and assimilate the teachings of Islām and make them the rule of their lives.

CHAPTER 50

QĀF

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

All competent authorities assign the revelation of this Sūrah to the early Meccan period. Its tenor and contents support this view. The preceding two Sūrahs had dealt with the prospects of a great and glorious future for Islām, and also with the social and political problems that arise when power and wealth come to a people. The present Sūrah, having the abbreviated letter Qāf in its beginning, points to the fact that the Almighty God has the power to make the weak and disorganised Arabs into a powerful nation, and that He will certainly bring about this consummation, using the Qur'ān as the means and instrument for achieving this purpose.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah is the first of a group of seven Chapters which end with Sūrah Al-Wāqi'ah. Like all Meccan Chapters it lays special stress, in emphatic and prophetic language, on the Qur'ān being the revealed Word of God, on Resurrection being an undoubted reality, and particularly on the ultimate triumph of the cause of Islām. The Sūrah points to the phenomena of nature and to the histories of the past Prophets as guides which lead to this inevitable conclusion. It opens to deal with the all-important subject of Resurrection, and in order to prove the truth of this primal fact, uses as an argument the phenomenon that a people, who for long centuries had remained spiritually dead and defunct, will receive a new and vigorous life through the Qur'ān. The Sūrah further says that disbelievers cannot bring themselves to accept the fact that a Warner can appear from among them to tell them that they will be raised to life after 'they are dead and have become dust.' They are told to study the wonderful creation of the celestial firmament with the beautiful stars and planets which adorn it and which work with a regularity and punctuality that knows no deviation, and to ponder over the creation of the vast expanse of the earth which grows all sorts of fruits and foods for its dwellers. They will then realize that the Author and Architect of this great and complex universe possesses the power and wisdom to give man a new life after his physical habitat has disintegrated. The Sūrah then points to the purposefulness of the creation of man—God's supreme creature and His noblest handiwork—and to his discretion and complete responsibility and accountability for his actions. The Sūrah ends on the note that the creation of the universe and of man, its apex and acme, shows that the wise Creator could not have brought into existence this complex universe without a great purpose behind its creation. This leads to the conclusion that there must be and there is a life beyond the grave.

5. We know how much the earth diminishes of them and how much it adds to them, and with Us is a Book that preserves everything.[2801]

[a]1:1. [b]13:6; 23:37.

2799. The letter Qāf may stand for the Divine Attribute Qādir meaning, the Mighty God, or for the expression, Al-Qiyāmatu Ḥaqqun, i.e. the Resurrection is an undoubted reality.

2800. The Qur'ān is cited as an evidence that the Great Resurrection will, certainly, take place.

2801. The verse refutes the disbelievers' objection mentioned in the preceding verse, viz. how when they are dead and reduced to broken bones and particles of dust they would be raised again. It is the physical body, it says, that disintegrates and perishes. The soul is imperishable and will be given a new body in the next world to account for the deeds done in this world which are recorded in 'a Book that preserves everything.' The verse may also mean that even the particles of objects which the earth disintegrates are well preserved in God's knowledge. It may also signify that as complete knowledge about all the details of a thing presupposes the power to create it,

بَلْ كَذَّبُوْا بِالْحَقِّ لَمَّا جَآءَهُمْ فَهُمْ فِيْٓ اَمْرٍ مَّرِيْجٍ ۝٦

6. Nay, they rejected the truth when it came to them, and so they are in a state of confusion.

اَفَلَمْ يَنْظُرُوْٓا اِلَى السَّمَآءِ فَوْقَهُمْ كَيْفَ بَنَيْنٰهَا وَزَيَّنّٰهَا وَمَا لَهَا مِنْ فُرُوْجٍ ۝٧

7. Do they not look at the sky above them, how We have made it and [a]adorned it, and there are no flaws[2802] in it?

وَالْاَرْضَ مَدَدْنٰهَا وَاَلْقَيْنَا فِيْهَا رَوَاسِيَ وَاَنْۢبَتْنَا فِيْهَا مِنْ كُلِّ زَوْجٍۢ بَهِيْجٍ ۝٨

8. And the earth—We have spread it out, and placed therein firm mountains; and We have made to grow therein [b]every kind of beautiful species,

تَبْصِرَةً وَّذِكْرٰى لِكُلِّ عَبْدٍ مُّنِيْبٍ ۝٩

9. As a means of enlightenment and as a reminder[2803] to every servant that turns to Us.

وَنَزَّلْنَا مِنَ السَّمَآءِ مَآءً مُّبٰرَكًا فَاَنْۢبَتْنَا بِهٖ

10. [c]And We send down from the clouds water which is full and God is the Possessor of full knowledge of human anatomy and of the process of its disintegration, He, therefore, could and would recreate it after it had perished.

[a]37:7; 41:13; 67:6. [b]31:11. [c]25:49.

2802. This and the following few verses draw attention to the marvels of creation—the wonderful design in the universe, the celestial firmament with its countless beautiful planets and stars, the earth and its wide expanse teeming with human and animal life—and then points to the inevitable inference that the Great and Wise Designer, the Architect and the Controller, Who could bring into being this wonderful universe and Who placed man at its centre, does possess the power to recreate it after its disintegration and to give man a new life after he is dead.

2803. It is logical to assume a purpose behind physical nature. The concept of God as Designer and Creator of all things gives a coherent and complete picture of origin, design and purpose. And the existence of a purpose behind the creation implies the existence of a Life after death because the very idea, that with the dissolution of its physical tabernacle the human soul suffers death, militates against the whole design and wisdom of God and against His purpose in creating the universe.

of blessings, and We produce therewith gardens and crops,

12. As a provision for Our servants; [a]and We quicken thereby a dead land. Even so shall be the Resurrection.[2804]

رِّزْقًا لِّلْعِبَادِ ۙ وَاَحْيَيْنَا بِهٖ بَلْدَةً مَّيْتًا ؕ كَذٰلِكَ الْخُرُوْجُ ﴿۱۲﴾

13. [b]The people of Noah rejected the Truth before them and so did the People of the Well and the tribe of Thamūd,

كَذَّبَتْ قَبْلَهُمْ قَوْمُ نُوْحٍ وَّ اَصْحٰبُ الرَّسِّ وَثَمُوْدُ ۙ﴿۱۳﴾

14. And the tribe of ʻĀd, and Pharaoh and the brethren of Lot,

وَعَادٌ وَّ فِرْعَوْنُ وَ اِخْوَانُ لُوْطٍ ۙ﴿۱۴﴾

15. [c]And the Dwellers of the Wood, and the People of Tubbaʻ. All of them rejected the Messengers with the result that My threatened punishment befell them.

وَّ اَصْحٰبُ الْاَيْكَةِ وَقَوْمُ تُبَّعٍ ؕ كُلٌّ كَذَّبَ الرُّسُلَ فَحَقَّ وَعِيْدِ ﴿۱۵﴾

16. [d]Were We then wearied by the first creation?[2805] Nay, but they are in confusion about the new creation.

اَفَعَيِيْنَا بِالْخَلْقِ الْاَوَّلِ ؕ بَلْ هُمْ فِيْ لَبْسٍ مِّنْ خَلْقٍ جَدِيْدٍ ﴿۱۶﴾ ع

R. 2.

17. And assuredly, We have created man and We know

وَلَقَدْ خَلَقْنَا الْاِنْسَانَ وَنَعْلَمُ مَا تُوَسْوِسُ

[a]25:50; 43:12. [b]9:70; 14:10; 38:13. [c]15:79; 26:177; 38:14. [d]50:39.

2804. Just as God sends down rain from heaven and causes a dry, dead land to bloom and blossom and pulsate with a new vigorous life, and brings forth from the earth all sorts of flowers and fruits, similarly He can and will give a new life to man after he is dead.

2805. In all these verses 'creation,' besides its ordinary meaning, signifies spiritual awakening or revolution which is brought about by a Prophet among his people.

what his mind whispers to him, and We are nearer to him than even his jugular vein.

بِهٖ نَفْسُهٗ ۚ وَنَحْنُ اَقْرَبُ اِلَيْهِ مِنْ حَبْلِ الْوَرِيْدِ ﴿١٧﴾

18. When the two Recording angels record everything, sitting on his right and on his left;[2806]

اِذْ يَتَلَقَّى الْمُتَلَقِّيٰنِ عَنِ الْيَمِيْنِ وَعَنِ الشِّمَالِ قَعِيْدٌ ﴿١٨﴾

19. He utters not a word but [a]there is by him a guardian angel ready to record it,

مَا يَلْفِظُ مِنْ قَوْلٍ اِلَّا لَدَيْهِ رَقِيْبٌ عَتِيْدٌ ﴿١٩﴾

20. [b]And the stupor of death, certainly, comes. 'This is what thou wast striving to run from.'

وَجَآءَتْ سَكْرَةُ الْمَوْتِ بِالْحَقِّ ؕ ذٰلِكَ مَا كُنْتَ مِنْهُ تَحِيْدُ ﴿٢٠﴾

21. [c]And the trumpet shall be blown. That will be the Day of Promise.

وَنُفِخَ فِي الصُّوْرِ ؕ ذٰلِكَ يَوْمُ الْوَعِيْدِ ﴿٢١﴾

22. And every soul shall come forth and along with it there will be an angel to drive it and an angel to bear witness.[2807]

وَجَآءَتْ كُلُّ نَفْسٍ مَّعَهَا سَآئِقٌ وَّشَهِيْدٌ ﴿٢٢﴾

[a]43:81; 82:11, 12; 86:5. [b]6:94; 23:100. [c]18:100; 23:102; 36:52; 39:69; 69:14.

2806. According to some Commentators the angel sitting on man's right records his good actions and that on his left his bad actions—the words 'on the right' standing for his good actions and 'on the left' for his bad actions. Every deed or spoken word leaves its impress in the atmosphere and thus is preserved. Elsewhere in the Qur'ān (24:25 & 36:66) it is stated that the limbs of man—his hands, feet and tongue—will bear witness against him on the Judgment Day. Thus the different parts of a man's body may also be 'the recorders' referred to in the present verse as the Recording Angels.

2807. Sā'iq may be the angel that sits on man's left and records his bad deeds and as a punishment for them will drive him to Hell, and Shahīd may be the angel that sits on his right and records his good actions and will bear witness in his favour. Or, the two words metaphorically may stand respectively for man's misused limbs and faculties and those well and properly used.

لَقَدْ كُنْتَ فِيْ غَفْلَةٍ مِّنْ هٰذَا فَكَشَفْنَا عَنْكَ غِطَآءَكَ فَبَصَرُكَ الْيَوْمَ حَدِيْدٌ ﴿٢٣﴾

23. Then We shall say, 'Thou wast heedless of this; now We have removed from thee thy veil, and keen is thy sight this day.'[2808]

وَقَالَ قَرِيْنُهٗ هٰذَا مَا لَدَيَّ عَتِيْدٌ ﴿٢٤﴾

24. And his companion will say, 'This is what I have ready of his record.'

اَلْقِيَا فِيْ جَهَنَّمَ كُلَّ كَفَّارٍ عَنِيْدٍ ﴿٢٥﴾

25. We shall say to his two companions, 'Cast ye twain[2809] into Hell every disbelieving enemy of Truth,' مَّنَّاعٍ لِّلْخَيْرِ مُعْتَدٍ مُّرِيْبِ ﴿٢٦﴾

26. [a]'Hinderer of good, transgressor, doubter;'

الَّذِيْ جَعَلَ مَعَ اللّٰهِ اِلٰهًا اٰخَرَ فَاَلْقِيٰهُ فِي الْعَذَابِ الشَّدِيْدِ ﴿٢٧﴾

27. 'Who sets up another god beside Allāh, so do, ye twain, cast him into the severe torment.'

قَالَ قَرِيْنُهٗ رَبَّنَا مَآ اَطْغَيْتُهٗ وَلٰكِنْ كَانَ فِيْ ضَلٰلٍ بَعِيْدٍ ﴿٢٨﴾

28. [b]His associate will say, 'O our Lord, it was not I that caused him to rebel; but he himself was too far gone in error.'[2810]

[a]68:13. [b]14:23.

2808. In the next world the veil will be lifted from the eyes of man and his vision and mental perception will become clearer and sharper. He will see the consequences of his actions in an embodied form which were hidden from his eyes in this world and will realize that, which he used to regard merely as an illusion, was a hard and stark reality.

2809. The dual form of Alqiyā is used either because the command is given to the two angels—the Sā'iq and the Shahīd, or, in order to impart emphasis to the command. This form of expression is also used in 23:100 where a plural verb is used for the subject in the singular. This is quite in consonance with the rules of Arabic grammar.

2810. It is human nature that when an evil-doer is confronted with the evil consequences of his deeds, he seeks to shift his responsibility to others. It is this state of mind of the disbeliever which is depicted in this verse. He will

قَالَ لَا تَخْتَصِمُوْا لَدَيَّ وَقَدْ قَدَّمْتُ

29. Allāh will say, 'Quarrel not in My presence; I gave you the warning beforehand,'

مَا يُبَدَّلُ الْقَوْلُ لَدَيَّ وَمَآ اَنَا بِظَلَّامٍ

30. 'The sentence passed by Me cannot be changed, [a]and I am not in the least unjust to My servants.'

R. 3.

يَوْمَ نَقُوْلُ لِجَهَنَّمَ هَلِ امْتَلَاْتِ وَتَقُوْلُ

31. On that day We will say to Hell, 'Art thou filled up?' And it will answer,[2811] 'Are there any more?'[2812]

وَاُزْلِفَتِ الْجَنَّةُ لِلْمُتَّقِيْنَ غَيْرَ بَعِيْدٍ ﴿٣٢﴾

32. [b]And Heaven will be brought near[2813] to the righteous, no longer remote.

هٰذَا مَا تُوْعَدُوْنَ لِكُلِّ اَوَّابٍ حَفِيْظٍ ﴿٣٣﴾ ج

33. And it will be said, 'This is what was promised to you—to everyone who constantly turned to God and was watchful of his actions,' hold Satan responsible for his own transgressions and sins.

[a]3:183; 8:52; 22:11; 41:47. [b]26:91; 81:14.

2811. The dialogue is metaphorical. Hell has been personified here and words are put in its mouth to express its state or condition and not that it will actually speak, or, for that matter, it can speak. The word, Qāla, has also been used in this sense in 41:12 where the heaven and the earth have been described as saying that they obey Divine laws willingly. It is one of the peculiarities and beauties of the Arabic language that it uses words and expressions for inanimate things which are used for human beings. See also 57 and 18:78.

2812. The expression, in fact, points to man's unlimited capacity for committing sins and his inordinate desire for worldly comforts by which he paves his way to Hell.

2813. Whereas in the preceding verse, it is mentioned that more and more persons will be thrown into Hell in order to be purged and purified of their spiritual maladies, the present verse says that Heaven will also be brought near for the righteous and the God-fearing.

مَنْ خَشِيَ الرَّحْمٰنَ بِالْغَيْبِ وَجَآءَ بِقَلْبٍ مُّنِيْبِ ۙ﴿٣٤﴾

34. 'Who feared the Gracious God in private and came to Him with a penitent heart.'

ادْخُلُوْهَا بِسَلٰمٍ ؕ ذٰلِكَ يَوْمُ الْخُلُوْدِ ﴿٣٥﴾

لَهُمْ مَّا يَشَآءُوْنَ فِيْهَا وَلَدَيْنَا مَزِيْدٌ ﴿٣٦﴾

36. They will have therein whatever they desire, and with Us is [b]a good deal more.[2815]

وَكَمْ اَهْلَكْنَا قَبْلَهُمْ مِّنْ قَرْنٍ هُمْ اَشَدُّ مِنْهُمْ بَطْشًا فَنَقَّبُوْا فِي الْبِلَادِ ؕ هَلْ مِنْ مَّحِيْصٍ ﴿٣٧﴾

37. [c]And how many a generation, who were mightier than they in prowess, have We destroyed before them! But when the punishment came, they went about in the lands, devising plans to escape it.[2815A] But was there any place of refuge for them?

اِنَّ فِيْ ذٰلِكَ لَذِكْرٰى لِمَنْ كَانَ لَهٗ قَلْبٌ اَوْ اَلْقَى السَّمْعَ وَهُوَ شَهِيْدٌ ﴿٣٨﴾

38. Therein, verily, is a reminder for him who has an understanding heart,[2816] or, who gives ear and is attentive.

[a]14:24; 15:47; 36:59. [b]10:27. [c]19:75; 47:14.

2814. However dreadful its punishments may appear, Hell, according to the Qur'ān, is a temporary penitentiary, while Heaven is an eternal abode; its blessings know no limit or end (11:109).

2815. The righteous will have in Paradise what they desire to their heart's content, but as man's desires at best are limited, they will be given much more than what they desire or deserve, much more than what they would even contemplate or conceive.

2815A. The words in the text literally mean: 'Burrowed into the earth to save themselves,' and seem to refer to the present day underground trenches as protection against bombing attacks.

2816. Qalb, means, the heart; the soul; the conscience; the mind; and signifies the best part of a thing. They say mā la-hū Qalbun, i.e. he has no intellect or intelligence (Lane).

وَلَقَدْ خَلَقْنَا السَّمٰوٰتِ وَالْاَرْضَ وَمَا بَيْنَهُمَا فِيْ سِتَّةِ اَيَّامٍ ۖ وَّمَا مَسَّنَا مِنْ لُّغُوْبٍ ﴿٣٩﴾

39. And, verily, We created the heavens and the earth and all that is between them [a]in six periods[2817] and [b]no weariness touched Us.[2818]

فَاصْبِرْ عَلٰى مَا يَقُوْلُوْنَ وَسَبِّحْ بِحَمْدِ رَبِّكَ قَبْلَ طُلُوْعِ الشَّمْسِ وَقَبْلَ الْغُرُوْبِ ﴿٤٠﴾

40. So bear with patience what they say, and celebrate the praises of thy Lord, before the rising of the sun and before its setting;

وَمِنَ الَّيْلِ فَسَبِّحْهُ وَاَدْبَارَ السُّجُوْدِ ﴿٤١﴾

41. And in parts of the night also do thou glorify Him, and after prescribed prostrations.

وَاسْتَمِعْ يَوْمَ يُنَادِ الْمُنَادِ مِنْ مَّكَانٍ قَرِيْبٍ ﴿٤٢﴾

42. Hearken! On the day when the caller[2819] will call from a place nearby,[2820]

يَّوْمَ يَسْمَعُوْنَ الصَّيْحَةَ بِالْحَقِّ ۭ ذٰلِكَ يَوْمُ الْخُرُوْجِ ﴿٤٣﴾

43. The day when they will hear the inevitable blast;[2821] that will be the day of coming forth from the graves.

[a]7:55; 10:4; 11:8; 25:60. [b]50:16.

2817. See [984] and 41:10-13.

2818. It is characteristic of the Qur'ān that not only does it exonerate God's noble Prophets from all the vices and immoralities imputed to them in the Bible but also clears the Divine Being of the flaws and defects which are inconsistent with His Majesty and Holiness. The Bible depicts God as 'having rested on the seventh day from all His work which He had made' (Gen. 2:2), but according to the Qur'ān no weariness can touch Him.

2819. The 'crier' may refer to the Holy Prophet. The context supports this, as the next few verses seem to refer to the spiritual resurrection brought about by him among his people who at his call rose, as it were, from their graves.

2820. The words 'from a place nearby' may also signify that the call of the Holy Prophet will not remain a call in the wilderness, a distant cry, but will be listened to and accepted.

2821. 'The blast' may also signify the stentorian call of the Holy Prophet.

44. Verily, it is We Who give life and cause death, and to Us is the final return.

اِنَّا نَحْنُ نُحْيٖ وَنُمِيْتُ وَ اِلَيْنَا الْمَصِيْرُ ﴿٤٤﴾

45. On the day when the earth will cleave asunder and in consequence of their misdeeds they will come forth hastening—that will be a raising up of the dead easy for Us.

يَوْمَ تَشَقَّقُ الْاَرْضُ عَنْهُمْ سِرَاعًا ؕ ذٰلِكَ حَشْرٌ عَلَيْنَا يَسِيْرٌ ﴿٤٥﴾

46. We know best what they say; and [a]thou art not to compel them in any way. So admonish, by means of the Qur'ān,[2822] him who fears My warning.

نَحْنُ اَعْلَمُ بِمَا يَقُوْلُوْنَ وَمَآ اَنْتَ عَلَيْهِمْ بِجَبَّارٍ ۫ فَذَكِّرْ بِالْقُرْاٰنِ مَنْ يَّخَافُ وَعِيْدِ ﴿٤٦﴾ ع ١٧

[a]39:42; 42:7.

2822. The resurrection to which reference has been made in the Sūrah has been brought about by the Qur'ān.

CHAPTER 51
ADH-DHĀRIYĀT
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

Like the preceding one this Sūrah was revealed early in the Holy Prophet's ministry at Mecca. Noldeke assigns its revelation to the fourth year of the Call. The preceding Sūrah had dealt with two resurrections—a spiritual resurrection which was to be brought about by the teachings of the Qur'ān and the Final Resurrection in the Life after death, the former resurrection having been cited as an argument in support of the latter. The Sūrah opens with an important prophecy that a body of highly righteous men would come into existence through the influence of the Quranic teaching. Like moisture-laden clouds which give rain to vast areas of parched and burnt land and make them blossom into new life, this holy band of righteous believers, having themselves awakened to a new spiritual life, would carry the Quranic Message to the ends of the earth, sweeping all opposition before their onward march. The prediction, seemingly impossible of fulfilment, would constitute, when turned into a palpable reality, an invincible argument in support of the fact of the Final Resurrection. The Sūrah, further, says that whenever a Divine Messenger appears in the world to tell his people that there is a life beyond the grave in which they will have to account for their deeds they laugh him to scorn, and oppose and persecute him; and cites the case of the people of Lot who were punished for their iniquities and unnatural and immoral practices. It also briefly refers to the punishment that overtook Pharaoh, 'Ād, Thamūd and the people of Noah, and towards the end draws pointed attention to the supreme object of man's creation which is that he should cultivate and demonstrate in himself Divine attributes and should discharge fully and faithfully his obligations to God and his fellow-beings.

سُوْرَةُ الذّٰرِيٰتِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٥١ — اٰياتها ٦١ — رکوعاتها ٣

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

وَالذّٰرِيٰتِ ذَرْوًا ②

2. By[2823] those that scatter with a true scattering,[2823A]

فَالْحٰمِلٰتِ وِقْرًا ③

3. Then carry the load,

فَالْجٰرِيٰتِ يُسْرًا ④

4. Then speed lightly along,

فَالْمُقَسِّمٰتِ اَمْرًا ⑤

5. And then distribute by Our command,[2824]

اِنَّمَا تُوْعَدُوْنَ لَصَادِقٌ ⑥

6. Surely, that which you are promised is [b]true,

وَّاِنَّ الدِّيْنَ لَوَاقِعٌ ⑦

7. And Judgment will, surely, come to pass.

وَالسَّمَآءِ ذَاتِ الْحُبُكِ ⑧

8. And by the heaven full of tracks,[2825]

[a]1:1. [b]52:8.

2823. See 2465.

2823A. For a collective note on this and the next three verses see 2824.

2824. From a phenomenon in physical nature, the four verses (2-5) draw attention to a parallel spiritual phenomenon. The parallelism is very striking. The four words—adh-Dhāriyāt (those that scatter), al-Ḥāmilāt (those that carry), al-Jāriyāt (those that speed lightly along) and al-Muqassimāt (those that distribute)—when pointing to the physical phenomenon, may stand for winds that scatter far and wide, the vapours that rise from the oceans, carry the clouds laden with rain-water, blow gently and then cause rain to fall on dry, parched and burnt land and turn it into a smiling, blooming and blossoming piece of earth, full of verdure, beautiful flowers and sweet fruits. Spiritually speaking, these four words may stand for that band of righteous men, who drinking deep at the spiritual fountain that the Holy Prophet caused to flow, and who, after assimilating and being impregnated with the beautiful and life-giving Quranic teaching, went forth to the remote corners of Arabia and afterwards to far-off lands, carrying their blessed load and scattering the revealed Word of God in countries, reeking with polytheistic beliefs and immoral practices, not with the sword but with love and peace, like winds that blow gently and carry rain to withered lands.

إِنَّكُمْ لَفِي قَوْلٍ مُّخْتَلِفٍ ﴿٩﴾

9. Truly, you are at variance[2826] in what you say.

يُؤْفَكُ عَنْهُ مَنْ أُفِكَ ﴿١٠﴾

10. He alone is turned away from the truth who is decreed[2827] to be turned away.

قُتِلَ الْخَرَّاصُونَ ﴿١١﴾

11. Cursed be the liars,

الَّذِينَ هُمْ فِي غَمْرَةٍ سَاهُونَ ﴿١٢﴾

12. Who are heedless of truth in the depths of ignorance.[2828]

يَسْأَلُونَ أَيَّانَ يَوْمُ الدِّينِ ﴿١٣﴾

13. They ask, [a]'When will the Day of Judgment be?'

يَوْمَ هُمْ عَلَى النَّارِ يُفْتَنُونَ ﴿١٤﴾

14. Say, 'It will be the day when they will be tormented with the torment of the Fire.'

ذُوقُوا فِتْنَتَكُمْ هَٰذَا الَّذِي كُنتُم بِهِ تَسْتَعْجِلُونَ ﴿١٥﴾

15. And it will be said to them, 'Taste ye your torment. [b]This is what you asked to be hastened.'

[a]7:188; 79:43. [b]26:205; 27:72, 73; 29:54, 55.

2825. Tracks or paths of heaven are the orbits of planets, comets, and stars with which the vault of heaven is strewn. These celestial bodies float in their respective orbits performing their allotted tasks regularly, punctually and unerringly, without trespassing on one another's sphere of action and all united forming a glorious harmony of structure and motion. That the heaven is full of such tracks on which planets and stars travel, was a discovery made to the world by the Qur'ān, at a time when it was believed that the heavens were solid in their formation.

2826. The great astronomical truth revealed in the preceding verse leads to the inference that the Qur'ān is God's own revealed Word and that there exists a unity of purpose and harmony in Divine work, and yet the materialistic philosophers coin far-fetched theories, groping and floundering in ill-founded surmises and conjectures, not believing in God's Word and in His Prophet.

2827. The words may also mean, 'he who himself would turn away.'

2828. Ghamrah means, depth of ignorance; error; obstinacy and perplexity; overwhelming heedlessness; a state of obstinate perseverance in a vain and false thing (Lane).

اِنَّ الْمُتَّقِيْنَ فِيْ جَنّٰتٍ وَّعُيُوْنٍ ﴿١٦﴾

16. But, surely, the righteous will be in the midst of [a]gardens and springs,

اٰخِذِيْنَ مَآ اٰتٰىهُمْ رَبُّهُمْ ؕ اِنَّهُمْ كَانُوْا قَبْلَ ذٰلِكَ مُحْسِنِيْنَ ﴿١٧﴾

17. Taking what their Lord will bestow upon them; for they used to do good before that;[2829]

كَانُوْا قَلِيْلًا مِّنَ الَّيْلِ مَا يَهْجَعُوْنَ ﴿١٨﴾

18. They slept but [b]a little of the night;

وَبِالْاَسْحَارِ هُمْ يَسْتَغْفِرُوْنَ ﴿١٩﴾

19. And at dawn they prayed for [c]Divine pardon;

وَفِيْٓ اَمْوَالِهِمْ حَقٌّ لِّلسَّآئِلِ وَالْمَحْرُوْمِ ﴿٢٠﴾

20. And in their wealth was a [d]share for those who asked for help and for those who could not.[2830]

وَفِي الْاَرْضِ اٰيٰتٌ لِّلْمُوْقِنِيْنَ ﴿٢١﴾

21. And in the earth are Signs for those who have certainty of faith,

وَفِيْٓ اَنْفُسِكُمْ ؕ اَفَلَا تُبْصِرُوْنَ ﴿٢٢﴾

22. And also in your ownselves. Will you not then see?

وَفِي السَّمَآءِ رِزْقُكُمْ وَمَا تُوْعَدُوْنَ ﴿٢٣﴾

23. And in heaven is your [e]sustenance, and also that

[a]15:46; 52:18; 68:35; 77:42; 78:32. [b]32:17. [c]3:18. [d]70:25, 26. [e]40:14; 45:6.

2829. A Muttaqī is one who discharges his obligations faithfully and fully to God and man, and a Muḥsin is he who does more good to others than the good he receives from them and acts and behaves as though he is actually seeing God, or, in a lesser degree, he is conscious of God watching over him. Thus a Muḥsin is a person of higher spiritual stature and calibre than a Muttaqī.

2830. In the wealth of a rich Muslim, according to Islām, those who can express their needs, as also those who cannot, have a share, as of right. Thus a Muslim's wealth is a trust to the benefit of which the poor are also entitled. So when he satisfies the need of a poor brother, he, in fact, does him no favour but only discharges the obligation he owes to him and returns to him what was his due. The word, al-Maḥrūm, not only includes in its connotation those poor people who, from a sense of self-respect or a feeling of shame, do not ask for alms (2:274), but also dumb animals. The word has been taken here as signifying a person who is debarred from earning his livelihood due to physical infirmity or some other similar cause.

which you are promised.[2831]

فَوَرَبِّ السَّمَآءِ وَالْاَرْضِ اِنَّهٗ لَحَقٌّ مِّثْلَ مَآ اَنَّكُمْ تَنْطِقُوْنَ ﴿٢٤﴾ ع ١٨

24. And by the Lord of the heaven and the earth it is certainly the truth, just as it is true that you speak.[2832]

2831. Promises of triumph and prosperity to believers and warnings to disbelievers.

2832. The fact mentioned in the preceding verse is neither wishful thinking on the Holy Prophet's part, nor is it a figment of his imagination, but is solid and hard truth as sure and true as it is true 'that you speak.' Or, the verse may mean that the Qur'ān is as undoubtedly God's own revealed Word as 'you speak.'

2833. See 11:70, 71.

2834. In the present verse as also in 15:54 'the promised son,' has been described as 'a son endowed with knowledge,' while in 37:102 he has been called 'a forbearing son.' In the former verse the reference is to Isaac and in the latter to Ishmael.

فَاَقْبَلَتِ امْرَاَتُهٗ فِيْ صَرَّةٍ فَصَكَّتْ وَجْهَهَا وَقَالَتْ عَجُوْزٌ عَقِيْمٌ ﴿٣٠﴾

2837. Yad signifies, (1) favour; (2) power; dignity; (3) protection; (4) wealth; (5) arm; etc. (Aqrab). Thus the expression in the text means: 'We have created the heaven with power and might,' or 'We have made the heaven as a manifestation of Our power and might,' i.e. in the creation of the heavens and the earth there is proof of many Divine attributes, the prominent being God's Glory, Might and Majesty.

Reformers by their opponents in all ages that it seems that the disbelievers of one age bequeath it as a legacy to their successors to go on repeating those accusations.

2840. The primary signification of the word 'Ibādah is to subject oneself to a rigorous spiritual discipline, working with all one's inherent powers and capacities to their fullest scope, in perfect harmony with and in obedience to Divine commandments, so as to receive God's impress and thus to be able to assimilate and manifest in oneself His attributes. This is, as stated in the verse, the great and noble aim and object of man's creation and this is exactly what worship of God means. The external and internal endowments of human nature give us clearly to understand that of God-given faculties the highest is the one which awakens in man the urge to search after God and incites in him the noble desire completely to submit himself to His Will.

2841. If the spiritual wayfarer pursues his course towards the noble object of his life steadfastly and with perseverance, he does no good to God, or to anybody else, but himself profits by it and attains the object of his quest.

CHAPTER 52

AṬ-ṬŪR

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

This Sūrah was revealed at Mecca in the early years of the Call. Noldeke places it after Chapter 51, while according to Muir it was revealed somewhat later. In the preceding Sūrah attention was drawn to the great spiritual revolution, which was brought about by the Qur'ān. It was in the fitness of things and quite in accordance with the laws of nature (the Sūrah stated) that because men had become corrupt and had forgotten God, a new Revelation should have come. The Sūrah had ended on the note that like the former Prophets the Holy Prophet will meet with severe opposition, but the cause of Truth will triumph and disbelievers will be punished. The present Sūrah refers to the biblical prophecies about the Holy Prophet and warns disbelievers that if they persisted in their opposition Divine punishment will overtake them.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with a direct and emphatic reference to the prophecies about the Qur'ān and the Holy Prophet in the Bible and states that the Bible, the Qur'ān and the Ka'bah all bear witness to the truth of Islām and the Holy Prophet, and warns disbelievers that opposition to Truth is never productive of good results. But those righteous servants of God, who accept the Divine Teaching and mould their lives in accordance with it, would receive Divine favours. Next, the Sūrah declares that the Holy Prophet is neither a soothsayer nor a madman nor a poet but a true Messenger of God, because the great moral and spiritual revolution brought about by him could not be the work of a madman or a poet; nor could the great Divine Book—the Qur'ān—that has been revealed to him, be the work of a forger of lies. It has been revealed by the Great Creator of the heavens and the earth. The Holy Prophet seeks no reward nor will disbelievers' plans against him succeed, because he is under God's protection. But Divine punishment, which is fast approaching, will overtake the disbelievers.

2843. For the philosophy, importance and significance of oaths see [2465].

2844. The Qur'ān or the Book of Moses, preferably the former.

2845. The Temple at Jerusalem, or any sacred house of worship. Preferably the word may refer to the Ka'bah, which is described in the Qur'ān as "a Resort" (2:126); "the Sacred House" (5:3); "the Sacred Mosque" (17:2); "the Ancient House" (22:30); and "the Town of Security" (95:4); etc.

2846. The tabernacle which Moses set up in the wilderness, in the form of a canopy under which the Israelites worshipped, or the Ka'bah; or the sky, the last reference being more appropriate and relevant.

It is characteristic of the Qur'ān that when it has to make a firm declaration and impart emphasis and certainty to that declaration it swears by, or cites as witnesses, certain beings or objects or natural laws or phenomena. In the first few verses the Sūrah swears by certain things intimately connected with Moses—the counterpart of the Holy Prophet. It was on Ṭūr that the revelation was vouchsafed to Moses which embodied his Law and the prophecies which spoke about the appearance of a great Divine Prophet from among the brethren of the Israelites (Deut. 18:18 & 33:2). Evidently, the Holy Prophet was the Divine Messenger spoken of in the prophecy. His advent is likened in the Qur'ān to the advent of Moses (73:16). The Sūrah then cites, as evidence, the "Inscribed Book" (the Bible or the Qur'ān, preferably the latter), which stands as a standing and incontrovertible testimony to the truth of the claims of the Holy Prophet. "The Frequented House"—the Ka'bah—more than anything else, shows that the religion of which it forms the citadel and the centre is God's Final Dispensation. Here, long centuries ago, a holy man of God, the Patriarch Abraham, assisted by his son, Ishmael, while raising its foundations, had prayed to God that the place might become a haven of safety and security and might constitute the centre from where God's Unity and Oneness might be proclaimed and preached. The reference in the words "the Elevated Roof," being to heaven, the verse (v.6) signifies that the disbelievers are so unwise as not to see this simple fact that whereas the Holy Prophet continuously receives Divine help and his cause continues to progress and prosper, failure dogs their footsteps and all their designs and plans against him prove abortive.

2847. The words, "the Swollen Sea," may refer to the Red Sea where Pharaoh and his mighty hosts were drowned while pursuing the Israelites, or to the battlefield of Badr where all the great leaders of the Quraish were killed, as it was known as Al-Baḥr, i.e. the sea (Nihāyah).

2848. On that day all the heavenly forces will operate in favour of the Holy Prophet. So did it happen on the Day of Badr.

2849. On the day of retribution the leaders of disbelievers will meet with a terrible end. They will be blown away like chaff before the wind. Or, the verse may signify that the great Empires of the time will be broken and shattered. This and the preceding verse make a subtle allusion to the new order of things before which the old, decrepit and decayed systems will he swept away. These verses may equally apply to the Day of Judgment.

2850. The verse depicts the disbelievers' condition after their guilt will have been fully established and the time for repentance will have passed.

2851. Zawwaja Shai'an bi Shai'in means, he paired or coupled a thing with a thing; he united it as its fellow or like. Ḥūr is the plural of Aḥwar (masc.) and Ḥaurā' (fem.) and means, a person whose eyes are characterized by the companions fair maidens, having wide, beautiful eyes.[2851A] quality termed Ḥawarun, i.e. intense whiteness of the white of the eye and intense blackness of the black thereof, with intense whiteness or fairness of the rest of the person. Aḥwar also means, pure or clear intellect.

2851A. 'Īn is the plural of both A'yan and 'Ainā' which respectively mean, man and woman having black wide large eyes, the latter word also meaning, a good or beautiful saying or word (Lane, Mufrādāt & Tāj). Thus the two words Ḥūr and 'Īn signify beauty and purity of person and character.

Life after death is only an image and manifestation of the present life, and the rewards and punishments of the next world would be only so many embodiments and images of the actions done in this life. Heaven and Hell are no new material worlds which come from outside. It is true that they shall be visible and palpable, call them material if you please, but they are only embodiments of the spiritual facts of this life. The entanglements of this world shall be seen as fetters on the feet in the next. The heart-burning of this world shall likewise be clearly seen as flames of burning fire, and the love, which a believer feels for his Lord and Creator, will appear embodied as wine in the life to come, etc. Thus there will be gardens, streams, milk, honey, flesh of birds, wine, fruits, thrones, companions and many other things in Paradise but they will not be the things of this world, but will be the embodiments of spiritual facts of the life of this world. The words Zawwajnā, Ḥūr and 'Īn, as explained above, show that in Paradise the righteous servants of God will be made to live with pure and clean companions whose faces will be shining with radiant spiritual beauty; or, they will have as companions fair maidens, i.e. their own wives.

To understand and realize the nature of the rewards and punishments of the Life after death it should be borne in mind that that life is the continuation of the life which one leads in this world. As soon as the human soul leaves this tabernacle of clay, it is given a new body, because the soul can make no progress or enjoy no bliss or feel no pain without a body. The new body is as fine and delicate as the soul was in this world. As the form and nature of the new body will be incomprehensibly different from that of our present physical body, the nature of the rewards and punishments of the next world also are beyond our comprehension. This is why the Qur'ān says, And no soul knows what joy of the eyes is hidden for them, as a reward for their good works (32:18). And the Holy Prophet is reported to have said, 'No eye has seen the blessings of Paradise, nor has any ear heard of them, nor can human mind conceive of them' (Bukhārī). The fact that there will be no sin, levity or vain talk in Paradise, no pleasure of the flesh as we understand them, but all pervading peace and pleasure of God (56:26, 27), sheds a flood of light on Paradise as conceived and promised to the righteous by the Qur'ān. See also [2326].

2852. Whereas in the former verse it was stated that the righteous will be made to live with their pure, beautiful wives, this verse explains that their children will also be united with them, thus making their joy complete.

2853. The mere fact of being related to a righteous man would do the believer no good. It is his own good works that will earn him his place in Paradise.

2854. Tanāza'ul-Ka'sa means, they took the cup from one another's hand (Aqrab).

2855. Ghilmān (youths) is plural of Ghulām which means, a youth; servant; son; etc. (Lane). The word has also been used in the Qur'ān synonymously with Walad in the sense of son (3:41; 15:54; 19:8; 37:102; 51:29). Elsewhere in the Qur'ān (76:20), the word Wildān (sons) has been substituted for Ghilmān which shows that the youths who will move about in the company of the righteous in Paradise will be their own sons. The verse may also refer to the Divine promise of great wealth and power which was to fall into the possession of the Muslims and to the hosts of servants who were to wait upon them.

[a]69:43. [b]21:6; 69:42. [c]9:52; 32:31.

2856. Besides the meanings given in the text the verse may also signify, 'Being surrounded by enemies, their threats would sometimes frighten and terrify us. But now we enjoy perfect peace and security.'

2857. Raib means, disquietude of mind; doubt combined with evil opinion; calamity (Lane); Manūn means, death; destiny or fate; time (Aqrab).

2858. The verse purports to say that the disbelievers call the Holy Prophet a poet, who indulges in building castles in the air about his great future, a soothsayer who plays upon the credulity of simple-minded folk, a raving maniac, and as such naturally they expect that sooner or later he will come to a sad end. But they will have to wait till doomsday for the realization of their futile expectations. Time alone will decide the issue between them and the Holy Prophet.

اَمْ عِنْدَهُمْ خَزَآئِنُ رَبِّكَ اَمْ هُمُ

38. Do they have the treasures

2859. Is it their reason that has misled them, or have they thrown all restraint and moderation to the winds, and in rejecting the Divine Message have transgressed all legitimate bounds?

2860. Taqawwala means, he lied; he attributed to a person a thing which he did not say (Aqrab).

2861. The verse refutes the disbelievers' allegation of forgery against the Holy Prophet. If the Holy Prophet, it seems to hold out a challenge to them, receives no revelations from God and the Qur'ān is his own fabrication, then let them produce a book like it, couched in such beautiful style and inapproachably exquisite diction as the Qur'ān, and should, like the Qur'ān, deal thoroughly and effectively with all the complex and difficult moral and spiritual human problems and satisfy the multitudinous and multifarious needs of man, and exert such powerful influence on the lives of its followers, and above all, should be the repository of all eternal truths and imperishable teachings. The disbelievers are further challenged to produce a book like the Qur'ān with their combined and concerted effort, calling in "all the men and jinn" to help and assist them in its composition. The Qur'ān emphatically declares that they will not be able to produce such a book because the Qur'ān is God's own revealed word. See also 2:24; 14:25 and 17:89.

43. Do they intend to devise a plot? But the disbelievers themselves will be the victims of their plot.

اَمْ لَهُمْ اِلٰهٌ غَيْرُ اللّٰهِ ؕ سُبْحٰنَ اللّٰهِ عَمَّا يُشْرِكُوْنَ ﴿٤٤﴾

44. Have they a god other than Allāh? Exalted is Allāh above all that which they associate with Him.

[a]68:47.

2862. If disbelievers have access to the secrets of the heavens, then let them produce proofs for the allegation that the Holy Prophet is not the appointed Messenger of God.

2863. It is repugnant, says the verse, to God's Unity that He should have even a son, and yet the disbelievers have the hardihood to assign to Him daughters whose birth is considered as a mark of humiliation and disgrace for them.

2864. The verse seems to appeal to the good sense of disbelievers and purports to say to them that when, out of a sincere solicitude for their moral and spiritual well-being the Holy Prophet calls them to the ways of righteousness and asks for no reward for his labours, then why do they not accept him?

وَاِنْ يَّرَوْا كِسْفًا مِّنَ السَّمَآءِ سَاقِطًا يَّقُوْلُوْا سَحَابٌ مَّرْكُوْمٌ ﴿٤٥﴾

45. And if they should see a fragment of the sky falling down, they would say, just clouds piled up.[2865]

فَذَرْهُمْ حَتّٰى يُلٰقُوْا يَوْمَهُمُ الَّذِيْ فِيْهِ يُصْعَقُوْنَ ﴿٤٦﴾

46. So leave them until they meet that day of theirs, on which they will be thunder-struck;

يَوْمَ لَا يُغْنِيْ عَنْهُمْ كَيْدُهُمْ شَيْـًٔا وَّلَا هُمْ يُنْصَرُوْنَ ﴿٤٧﴾

47. The day when their scheming shall avail them naught, nor shall they be helped.

وَاِنَّ لِلَّذِيْنَ ظَلَمُوْا عَذَابًا دُوْنَ ذٰلِكَ وَلٰكِنَّ اَكْثَرَهُمْ لَا يَعْلَمُوْنَ ﴿٤٨﴾

48. And, verily, for those, who do wrong, there is a punishment besides that.[2866] But most of them know not.

وَاصْبِرْ لِحُكْمِ رَبِّكَ فَاِنَّكَ بِاَعْيُنِنَا وَسَبِّحْ بِحَمْدِ رَبِّكَ حِيْنَ تَقُوْمُ ﴿٤٩﴾

49. So wait patiently for the judgment of thy Lord; for, assuredly, thou art before Our eyes;[2867] and [a]celebrate the praises of thy Lord when thou risest up for prayer,

وَمِنَ الَّيْلِ فَسَبِّحْهُ وَاِدْبَارَ النُّجُوْمِ ﴿٥٠﴾ ع ٢ ٤

50. [b]And for part of the night also do thou glorify Him and at the setting of the stars.

[a]73:3-5. [b]76:27.

2865. Such is the state of utter heedlessness and false sense of security of disbelievers that they do not benefit by the timely Divine warning, so much so that even if they see a piece of the sky actually falling down upon them, they would deceive themselves by considering it as a piece of God's mercy in the form of 'piled up clouds.'

2866. Dūn means, before and behind in respect of place or time; nearby; present with; other; besides (Lane).

2867. Under Our protection (5:68).

CHAPTER 53

AN-NAJM

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

According to overwhelming scholarly opinion the Sūrah was revealed in the 5th year of the Call, shortly after the first Emigration to Abyssinia which took place in the month of Rajab of that year. In the preceding Sūrah the truth of the Quranic revelation and that of the Divine claim of the Holy Prophet was sought to be established by a fleeting reference to biblical prophecies and natural phenomena. In this Sūrah the same subject has been dealt with in a very exquisite and forceful style. It is stated that the Holy Prophet is a Divine Messenger par excellence and that he has been commissioned by God as humanity's last and infallible guide and preceptor.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with citing the falling of an-Najm as an evidence in support of the Divine claim of the Holy Prophet. The Prophet, having been initiated into Divine mysteries, and having drunk deep at the fountain of Divine grace and knowledge and of Divine realisation, attained to the highest peak of spiritual eminence to which a human being can conceivably rise. Then he became filled to the fullest extent with the milk of human kindness, love and sympathy, and having been thus spiritually equipped, was appointed to preach Divine Unity to a world given to the worship of gods, made of wood and stone. The Sūrah then gives very strong, solid and sound arguments from human reason and history and from the insignificant beginnings of man, in support of the doctrine of the Oneness of God, and condemns idolatry in forceful terms. This foolish practice, it declares, is born of lack of true knowledge and rests on baseless conjecture which 'avails naught against truth.' Next, it says that idolaters should have learnt from the life-stories of Abraham, Moses and other Prophets that idolatrous beliefs and practices have always landed the idolaters into moral and spiritual ruin. It further says that every man will have to bear his own cross and to render account of his actions to God Who is the Final Goal of all. The Sūrah closes on a note of warning to disbelievers that if they persisted in rejecting the Divine Message, they would meet with a sad fate as did the people of Noah and ʻĀd and Thamūd tribes, and that it was inevitable that falsehood will perish and nothing could avert it.

سُوْرَةُ النَّجْمِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٥٣ — اٰياتها ٦٣ — رکوعاتها ٣

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

وَالنَّجْمِ اِذَا هَوٰى ②

2. By the star[2868] when it falls,

مَا ضَلَّ صَاحِبُكُمْ وَمَا غَوٰى ③

3. Your Companion has neither erred, nor has he gone astray.[2869]

وَمَا يَنْطِقُ عَنِ الْهَوٰى ④

4. Nor does he speak out of his own desire.

اِنْ هُوَ اِلَّا وَحْيٌ يُّوْحٰى ⑤

5. It is nothing but pure

[a]1:1.

2868. An-Najm means, a star; or a stemless plant. But when used as a proper noun it signifies "the Pleiades." The word is also taken by some scholars to signify the gradual revelation of the Qur'ān in pieces, and by some other authorities it refers to the Holy Prophet himself. Its plural an-Nujūm also means, chiefs of a people, or small states or principalities (Kashshāf, Tāj & Gharā'ibul-Qur'ān). In view of its different meanings the word An-Najm in the verse may be explained (1) by a well-known saying of the Holy Prophet which is to the effect: 'When spiritual darkness will spread over the entire face of the earth and there will remain nothing of Islām but its name, and of the Qur'ān but its letters, and faith will go up to heaven, a man of the Persian descent will bring it back to earth' (Bukhārī). (2) It may signify that the Quranic revelation bears witness to its own truth. (3) The tender plant of Islām, which now seems to be going down before the strong and adverse winds of opposition which are fiercely blowing against it, will very shortly rise and develop into a mighty tree under whose cool shade great nations will take rest. (4) As the Arabs are used to determine the course and direction of, and are guided in, their travels by the movements of the stars in the sandy waste of Arabia (16:17), so will they now be led to their spiritual goal by the star par excellence, i.e. the Holy Prophet. (5) The verse may also embody a prophecy about the fall of the ramshackle State of Arabia, a prophecy much more explicitly stated in 54:2.

revelation, revealed by God.[2870]

عَلَّمَهٗ شَدِيْدُ الْقُوٰى ۙ﴿۶﴾

6. The Lord of Mighty Powers has taught him,[2871]

ذُوْ مِرَّةٍ ؕ فَاسْتَوٰى ۙ﴿۷﴾

7. The One Possessor of Powers[2872] which manifest themselves repeatedly. So He settled[2873] Himself on the throne.

وَهُوَ بِالْاُفُقِ الْاَعْلٰى ؕ﴿۸﴾

8. And He revealed His Word when he was on the uppermost [a]horizon.[2874]

ثُمَّ دَنَا فَتَدَلّٰى ۙ﴿۹﴾

9. Then the Prophet drew near to Allāh; then Allāh leaned down towards him.[2875]

[a]81:24.

2870. Whereas the present verse speaks of the Divine source of the Holy Prophet's revelation, the preceding two verses allude to the hallucinations of a deranged mind and to the ideas that proceed from one's own desires and the promptings of the Evil Spirit.

2871. The Qur'ān is a mighty and powerful Revelation before which all former revealed Scriptures pale into insignificance.

2872. Mirrah means, strength of make or intellect; sound judgment; firmness (Aqrab). Dhū Mirrah may also mean, one whose powers perpetually manifest themselves.

2873. The expression, Istawā 'alash-Shai'i means, he gained or had the mastery or complete ascendancy over the thing. If applied to the Holy Prophet, the expression would mean that his physical and intellectual powers have attained their fullest vigour and maturity.

2874. The Holy Prophet had attained to the highest point in his spiritual ascension when God revealed Himself to him in full Glory and Majesty. Or, the verse may mean that the light of Islām was set on a very high place from where it could illumine the whole world. The pronoun, huwa, may refer both to God and the Holy Prophet. See also verse 10.

2875. Dallad-Dalwā means, he sent down the bucket in the well; he pulled up or out the bucket from the well. Tadallā means, he or it lowered or came down; he drew near or approached or increased in nearness (Lane & Lisān). The verse signifies that the Holy Prophet drew near to God and God leaned towards him. It may also mean that the Prophet attained the utmost nearness to God, and after having drunk deep at the Divine fountain of spiritual

فَكَانَ قَابَ قَوْسَيْنِ اَوْ اَدْنٰى ۚ﴿۱۰﴾

10. So that he became, as it were, one chord to two bows,[2876] or closer still.

knowledge, he came down to impart that knowledge to mankind.

[2876] Qāb means, the portion of a bow that is between the part which is grasped by the hand and the curved extremity; (2) from one extremity of the bow to the other; (3) measure or space. The Arabs say, Bainahumā Qāba Qausaini, i.e. between them two is the measure of a bow, which means that there is very close relationship between them. The Arab proverb, Ramauna 'an Qausin Wāḥidin, i.e. they shot at us from one bow, signifies that they were unanimous against us. The word thus denotes complete agreement (Lane, Lisān & Zamakhsharī). Whatever may be the significance of the word Qāb, the expression, Qāba Qausaini, indicates very close union between two persons. The verse purports to say that the Holy Prophet continued to scale the heights of Spiritual Ascension and to approach near God till all distance between them disappeared and the Holy Prophet became, as it were, "one chord to two bows." The proverb reminds us of an ancient Arab custom according to which when two persons pledged themselves to firm friendship they would join their bows in such a way that they appeared as one, and then they would shoot an arrow from that combined bow, thus indicating that they had become, as it were, one person, and that an attack on one would be an attack on the other. If the word, Tadallā, be taken to apply to God, the verse would mean that the Holy Prophet went up to God and God came down to him till they both became, as it were, united into one person. The expression possesses yet another very beautiful and subtle significance, viz. that while on the one hand the Holy Prophet became so completely merged in his Lord and Creator that he became, as it were, His very image, on the other, he came down to mankind and became so full of love, sympathy and solicitude for them that Divinity and Humanity became united in him, and he became the central point of the chord of the two bows of Divinity and Humanity. The words, "or closer still," signify that the relationship between the Holy Prophet and God became closer and more intimate than could he conceived.

Verses 8-18 describe the Mi'rāj or the Spiritual Ascension of the Holy Prophet, when he was spiritually transported to heavens and was vouchsafed the view of a spiritual manifestation of God, and ascended spiritually very close to his Maker. It was, in fact, a double spiritual experience, comprising the spiritual ascent of the Holy Prophet, and the descent towards him of God's manifestation. The Mi'rāj (Spiritual Ascension) has become confused in popular mind with Isrā' (Spiritual Night Journey of the Holy Prophet to Jerusalem), from which it is quite distinct and separate. The Isrā' took place in the eleventh or twelfth year of the Call (Zurqānī), while the Holy Prophet

11. Then Allāh revealed to His servant that which He revealed.[2877]

مَا كَذَبَ الْفُؤَادُ مَا رَاٰى ﴿١٢﴾

12. The heart of the Prophet lied not in seeing what he saw.[2878]

اَفَتُمٰرُوْنَهٗ عَلٰى مَا يَرٰى ﴿١٣﴾

13. Will you, then, dispute with him about what he saw?

15. Near the farthest Lote-tree,[2880]

عِنْدَهَا جَنَّةُ الْمَاْوٰى ﴿١٦﴾

16. Near which is the Garden of Eternal Abode.

had the experience of the Mi'rāj (Spiritual Ascension to Heavens) in its 5th year, shortly after the first Emigration to Abyssinia, six or seven years earlier. A careful and minute study of the details of these two incidents mentioned in the Ḥadīth also supports this view. For a somewhat detailed exposition of the two incidents—the Mi'rāj and the Isrā'—being separate and distinct from each other see [1590].

2877. Mā is sometimes used to denote honour, surprise or for emphasis (Aqrab). The verse signifies that God revealed to His servant, and what an excellent and mighty revelation it was!

2878. The implication is that what the Holy Prophet had seen was a real experience; it was veritable truth and no figment of his imagination.

2879. The Holy Prophet's vision was a double spiritual experience.

2880. In his Spiritual Ascension the Holy Prophet had reached such a high stage of nearness to God as was beyond human mind to conceive; or, the verse may signify that at that stage a sea of endless vistas of Divine knowledge and eternal realities and verities opened out before him; Sidrah which is derived from the same root meaning the sea (Lane). Or, the verse may possess a symbolic allusion to the fact that Divine knowledge vouchsafed to the Holy Prophet would, like the lote-tree, give comfort and shelter to the tired and jaded limbs of the spiritual wayfarers. Moreover, as the leaves of the lote-tree possess the quality of safeguarding a dead body from becoming corrupt, the verse may signify that the Teaching revealed to the Holy Prophet not only is itself immune to, but is eminently fitted to save and preserve mankind from, corruption. Or, it may possess a prophetic reference to the tree under which the Companions of the Holy Prophet took the oath of fealty at his hand at the time of the Truce of Ḥudaibiyah.

اِذْ يَغْشَى السِّدْرَةَ مَا يَغْشٰى ﴿١٧﴾

20. Now tell me about Lāt and ‘Uzzā;

وَمَنٰوةَ الثَّالِثَةَ الْاُخْرٰى ﴿٢١﴾

21. And Manāt, the third one,[2882] another goddess.

2881. The words, 'that which covers,' signify Divine manifestation.

2882. Some prejudiced critics of the Holy Prophet have woven quite a fantastic story of his having once fallen a victim to the machinations of Satan. It is stated that one day at Mecca, when the Holy Prophet recited this Sūrah before a mixed assembly of Muslims and disbelievers and during the recitation he came to these verses, Satan contrived to put in his mouth the words: Tilkal-Gharānīqul-‘ulā wa inna shafā‘atahunna laturjā, i.e. these are exalted goddesses and their intercession is hoped for (Zurqānī). The critics call it the "lapse of Muḥammad" or his "compromise with idolatry" and seem to rely for this entirely baseless story upon Wāqidī, that inveterate liar and fabricator of reports, and on Ṭabarī, who is generally regarded as a credulous and indiscriminate narrator of events. These gentlemen have the audacity to attribute this blasphemous utterance to that great iconoclast (the Holy Prophet) whose entire life was spent in denouncing and condemning idolatry and who carried out his noble mission with unremitting vigour and fearless devotion, spurning all offers of compromise with idol-worship, and whom blandishments, bribes, cajolery or intimidation failed to move an inch from his set purpose, and to whose unshakable firmness against idolatry the Almighty Himself has borne testimony (18:7; 68:10). Moreover, the whole context belies this baseless assertion. Not only do the verses that follow but the entire Sūrah contains an unsparing condemnation of idolatry and an uncompromising insistence on Divine Unity. It is strange that this patent fact should have escaped the notice of the Holy Prophet’s critics and carpers. Historical data, too, lend no support whatever to this so-called "lapse." The story has been rejected as completely unreliable by all the learned Commentators of the Qur’ān, Ibn-e-Kathīr and Rāzī among them. The renowned leaders of Muslim religious thought, well-versed in the science of Ḥadīth, such as ‘Ainī, Qāḍī ‘Ayyāḍ and Nawawī, have regarded it as pure invention. No trace of this story is to be found in the Six Reliable Collections of Ḥadīth. Imām Bukhārī, whose collection, the Ṣaḥīḥ Bukhārī, is regarded by Muslim scholars as the most reliable book of Ḥadīth and who himself was a contemporary of Wāqidī to whom goes the unenviable credit of forging and reporting this story, makes no mention of it, nor does the great historian, Ibn-e-Isḥāq, who was born more than 40 years before him. It may be, as stated by Qasṭalānī and Zurqānī and supported by some other eminent scholars, that when the Holy Prophet, during the recital of the present Sūrah before a mixed assembly of Muslims and disbelievers, recited these verses, some evil-minded person from among the disbelievers might have loudly interjected the above-mentioned words, as was the disbelievers' wont to create confusion by resorting to such low tactics when the Qur'ān was being recited (41:27). It is also on record that in the "Days of Ignorance," the Quraish, when making a circuit of the Ka'bah used to recite these words (Mu'jamul-Buldān, vol. 5, under 'Uzzā). It is further alleged that the 53rd verse of Sūrah Al-Ḥajj was revealed in connection with this incident. The fact that the present Sūrah was revealed in the 5th year of the Call and Sūrah Al-Ḥajj in the 12th or 13th year, takes the bottom completely from under this baseless assertion. See also 1962.

2883. Whereas a true believer stands on the bedrock of certainty and sure knowledge (12:109), an idolater possesses no rational argument and no revealed authority for his false beliefs and doctrines. He falls a helpless victim to conjecture and superstition and is a slave to his own desires and fancies. This verse, as also v.29, speak of the utter untenability of an idolater's position, who stands on a broken reed.

2885. Lamam means, a chance leaning towards evil; a temporary and light lapse; a passing evil idea which flashes across the mind and leaves no impression on it; a chance, unintentional look at a woman. The root-word possesses the sense of temporariness, haste and infrequency and of doing a thing unintentionally (Lane).

2886. When used about a person Akdā means, he gave niggardly or grudgingly; he did not succeed in getting what he wanted. When used about a mine it means, it refused to bring out diamonds and jewels, but when used about a digger it means, in the course of digging he came across a hard or stony piece of ground or clod and could dig no further (Aqrab).

2887. Every man shall have to carry his own cross and bear his own burden.

2888. It is after unremitting, incessant and persistent striving, accompanied by noble ideals and sublime principles, that one can achieve the object of one's quest. The verse also signifies that one should earn one's livelihood by the sweat of one's brow.

2889. The whole system of cause and effect ends with God. He is the Cause of all causes or the First Cause. A natural order of cause and effect pervades the whole universe. Every cause, which is not itself primary, is traceable to some other cause and this to another, and so on.

57. This Messenger of Ours is a Warner like the Warners of old.

2889A. Aqnallāhu Fulānan means, Allāh made such a one rich and gave him so much as made him contented (Lane).

2890. The Arabs worshipped Sirius because they regarded it as a great source of good or bad luck for them.

2891. After having given arguments in support of Divine Unity from human reason and from the insignificant beginning of man, the Sūrah, from this verse, introduces history to prove the same thesis.

2892. The particle mā has been used here to denote respect or dignity, meaning that an overwhelming punishment enveloped them.

2893. After having seen so many and so clear and invincible arguments and Signs that support and substantiate the claims of the Holy Prophet, the verse says to the obstinate disbelievers, in words full of pathos mixed with irony, how long will they continue to deny Truth and wander in the wilderness of disbelief?

اَزِفَتِ الْاٰزِفَةُ ﴿۵۸﴾

58. The Hour of Judgment[2894] which was to come has drawn nigh,

62. While you make merry?

فَاسْجُدُوْا لِلّٰهِ وَاعْبُدُوْا ﴿۶۳﴾ ع ۳ ۷

63. So prostrate yourselves before Allāh and [a]worship[2895] Him.

[a]7:206; 22:78; 41:38; 96:20.

2894. Āzifah means, the Hour of Judgment; the Resurrection; the near event; death (Lane). The Sūrah was revealed very early in the Holy Prophet's ministry, in the fifth year of the Call, when in the midst of mockery, threats and persecution, the fate of Islām hung in the balance. It was at that time that the prophecy was made about the overthrow of the Quraishite power in this Sūrah and in much more forceful accents in the next (54:46).

2895. It seems that as the Holy Prophet finished reciting the Sūrah before the mixed gathering of Muslims and disbelievers, and along with his followers prostrated himself on the ground, the disbelievers too, being deeply impressed with the solemnity of the recitation of the Quranic words as well as with God's Majesty and Glory, might have fallen in prostration. This was not unlikely since they regarded God as the Supreme Lord and Creator and their own deities as mere intercessors with Him (10:19). By connecting this plausible incident, however, with the baseless legend woven round vv. 20-22 by some "inventive minds," the traducers of the Holy Prophet have persuaded themselves to detect in it a "lapse" on his part.

CHAPTER 54
AL-QAMAR
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah was revealed about the same time as the preceding one, An-Najm, which was revealed in the 5th year of the Call. Sūrah An-Najm had ended on a note of warning to disbelievers that the Hour of their doom had drawn near, and the present Sūrah opens with the expression that the threatened Hour has almost arrived—it is at their very door. This is the fifth of the group of seven Quranic Chapters which begin with Sūrah Qāf and end with Al-Wāqi'ah. All these Chapters were revealed very early in the Holy Prophet's ministry and deal with the basic doctrines of Islām—Existence and Unity of God, Resurrection and Revelation; and adduce laws of nature, human reason, commonsense and histories of the past Prophets as arguments to prove these theses. In some of them special emphasis is laid on one kind of arguments with a fleeting reference to other kinds and vice versa. In the present Chapter the Holy Prophet's Divine claim and Resurrection have been dealt with, with special reference to the histories of the past Prophets, particularly to those of Noah, the tribes of 'Ād and Thamūd and Lot's people. Towards its end the Chapter makes a pointed reference to the fulfilment of the prophecy about the destruction and overthrow of the power of pagan Arabs about which a warning had been given in the preceding Sūrah (53:58).

سُوْرَةُ الْقَمَرِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٥٤ — اٰياتها ٥٦ — رکوعاتها ٣

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

2. [b]The Hour has drawn nigh, and the moon is rent asunder.[2896]

[a]1:1. [b]21:2.

2896. Whether or not "splitting of the moon" into two parts, observable by the naked eye, had contravened any physical law of nature, it is difficult to deny that the event seems to lack unimpeachable historical evidence. On the other hand nobody can presume to have fathomed all Divine mysteries or fully comprehended or encompassed all the secrets of nature. It is not possible to imagine that such an event, affecting a considerable area of the globe, should have remained unnoticed in the observatories of the world, or that it should have remained unrecorded in books of history. But the incident, having found a mention in such reliable collections of Ḥadīth as Bukhārī and Muslim and having been narrated successively in traditions of reliable authority and reported by such a learned Companion of the Holy Prophet as Ibn-e-Mas'ūd, does show that some natural phenomenon of unusual importance must have taken place in the time of the Holy Prophet. Some Commentators of the Qur'ān—Rāḍī among them—have sought to solve the difficult problem by declaring the incident to be a lunar eclipse. Imām Ghazālī and Shāh Waliyullāh also hold the view that the moon had not, in fact been rent asunder, but that God has so designed that it appeared to the beholders as such. According to Ibn-e-'Abbās and Shāh 'Abdul-'Azīz it was a kind of lunar eclipse. However, taking into consideration the forceful language in which it has been mentioned in the Qur'ān, the incident appears to be something more than a mere lunar eclipse. It indeed constituted a great miracle shown by the Holy Prophet at the insistent demand of disbelievers (Bukhārī & Muslim). It seems that it was a vision of the Holy Prophet in which some of his Companions and some of the disbelievers also were made to share—just as the rod turning into a serpent was a vision of Moses, in which the sorcerers were made to share. Or, it may be that just as the striking of sea-water by Moses with his rod coincided with the ebb of the tide and thus assumed the character of a miracle, similarly God may have commanded the Holy Prophet to show the miracle of the cleaving asunder of the moon at a time when some heavenly body was to take such a position in front of the moon that it caused the moon to appear to the beholders as being split into two parts. But the most plausible explanation, which is also possessed of very deep spiritual significance, lies in the fact that the moon was the national emblem of the Arabs and the symbol of their political power, just as the sun was the national ensign of the Persians. When Ṣafiyyah, the daughter of Ḥuyay ibn Akhṭab, a leader of the Jews of Khaibar, mentioned to her father that she had seen in a dream that the moon had fallen into her lap, he slapped her face saying that she wanted to marry the leader of the Arabs. After the fall of Khaibar Ṣafiyyah's dream was fulfilled when she was married to the Holy Prophet (Zurqānī & Usudul-Ghābbah). Similarly, 'Ā'ishah had seen in a dream that three moons had fallen in her private apartment which saw its fulfilment when the Holy Prophet, Abū Bakr and 'Umar were buried there one after the other (Mu'aṭṭā', Kitābul-Janā'iz). According to this symbolical significance of Qamar, the verse would signify that the hour of the destruction of their political power with which the disbelieving Arabs had been threatened in 53:58 has already arrived. The word "Hour" in this case would refer to the Battle of Badr in which almost all the chiefs and leaders of the Quraish were killed and the foundations of the complete destruction of their power were laid. Thus the verse constituted a mighty prophecy which met with remarkable fulfilment, nearly eight or nine years after its announcement. Moreover, according to some writers the Arabic expression, Inshaqqal-Qamaru, means, the affair has become manifest. In this sense of the word the verse would mean that the hour of the destruction of the Quraishite power has arrived and it would then become manifest that the Holy Prophet is a true Divine Messenger. See also [1023].

[a]21:3. [b]10:102.

2897. Mustamirr means, (1) passing, fleeting, transient; (2) continuous; (3) strong, firm (Aqrab).

2898. The destruction of the political power of the Quraish has been decreed by God, and the Divine decree must come to pass.

فَتَوَلَّ عَنْهُمْ ۘ يَوْمَ يَدْعُ الدَّاعِ اِلٰى ۟ شَيْءٍ نُّكُرٍ ۙ﴿۷﴾

كَذَّبَتْ قَبْلَهُمْ قَوْمُ نُوْحٍ فَكَذَّبُوْا عَبْدَنَا وَقَالُوْا مَجْنُوْنٌ وَّازْدُجِرَ ﴿۱۰﴾

10. The people of Noah[2901] [c]rejected the Truth before them; they called Our servant a liar and said, 'He is a [d]madman, afflicted by our idols.'

[a]70:45. [b]14:44; 36:52. [c]6:35; 22:43; 35:26; 40:6. [d]23:26.

2899. "Graves" here signifies the houses of disbelievers. At several places in the Qur'ān disbelievers have been likened to the dead because of their being completely devoid of spiritual life (27:81; 35:23).

2900. This and the preceding two verses give a graphic picture of the utter confusion, consternation and bewilderment of the Quraish when they saw the Summoner—the Holy Prophet—whom they had driven out of Mecca and upon whose head they had laid a price only a few years earlier—at the very gates of their capital city.

2901. The cases of the people of Noah, of the tribes of 'Ād and Thamūd and that of the people of Lot have received repeated and somewhat detailed mention in the Qur'ān because these peoples lived on the confines of the Ḥijāz, and the Quraish were quite familiar with their histories and also had commercial relations with them. Noah's people lived in Iraq which lies to the north-east of Arabia, and the tribe of 'Ād lived in Yemen and Ḥaḍaramaut which form the southern part of it, while the tribe of Thamūd throve and flourished in the north-west of Arabia which extends from the Ḥijāz to Palestine, and the ill-fated people of Lot lived in Sodom and Gommorah in Palestine.

18. And, indeed, We have made the Qur'ān [f]easy to remember.[2903] Is there anyone who would take heed?

[a]23:27; 26:118, 119. [b]11:41. [c]26:120; 29:16. [d]11:42, 43. [e]29:16. [f]19:98; 44:59.

2902. The rain-water pouring down in torrents from the skies and the water gushing forth from under the earth—the two waters—caused a huge flood which engulfed the entire land and thus the Divine decree was fulfilled, destroying the people of Noah.

2903. The Qur'ān has been made easy in this sense also that it comprehends all those permanent and imperishable teachings that are found in other revealed Scriptures, with a great deal more that is indispensable for the guidance of man till the end of time (98:4). The treasures of Divine realisation and deep mysteries of the unknown, which lie hidden in the Qur'ān are 2904. The verse does not mean that any particular time is auspicious or inauspicious, lucky or unlucky. The meaning is that for the tribe of ‘Ād the day proved unlucky.

2905. As all Prophets are commissioned by God and their revelation proceeds from the same Divine Source and it also contains analogous eternal basic truths, the rejection of one Prophet amounts to the rejection of all of them. That is why the verse describes the ‘Ād and the Thamūd, the people of Noah and those of Lot as having rejected all Divine Messengers while, in fact, they had rejected only their own particular Prophets.

2910. Pharaoh was a very powerful monarch. He regarded himself as "the most high lord of the Israelites" (79:25). So the might of the real Omnipotent, Lord of Moses and Aaron was pitted against that self-designated lord, who was completely annihilated.

2911. The verse repeats a warning to the pagan Quraish in another form. 'Are you in any way better,' it asks them, 'than those who rejected Noah, Hūd, Lot or Moses? Or, have you received a Divine promise recorded in Divine Scriptures that you will not be punished for your rejection of the Holy Prophet?'

2912. The emphatic prophecy embodied in the verse is definitely about the crushing defeat which the Meccan army suffered in the Battle of Badr. The odds were so heavy against the Muslims that when fighting began the Holy Prophet prayed to God in utmost humility and extreme agony in a tent set up for him for this purpose in the memorable words: 'O Lord, I humbly beseech Thee to fulfil Thy covenant and Thy promise. If this small band of Muslims were destroyed, Thou wilt never be worshipped again on this earth' (Bukhārī). After having finished the prayer, the Holy Prophet came out of the tent and facing the field of battle recited the verse, "The hosts shall soon be routed and 2913. The defeat at Badr was, indeed, a most formidable and calamitous misfortune for the Quraish. Their power and prestige sustained a crushing blow. Most of their leaders were killed and their dead bodies were dragged along and thrown into a pit. The Holy Prophet went up to its brink and, addressing the dead bodies is reported to have said, 'Have you found true what your Lord had promised you? I have, indeed, found true what my Lord had promised me' (Bukhārī, Kitābul-Maghāzī). The prophecy was fulfilled to the very letter.

CHAPTER 55
AR-RAḤMĀN
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

Being the 6th of the special group of the Sūrahs, which begin with Qāf and end with Al-Wāqi'ah, and which were revealed, more or less at the same time at Mecca, in the early years of the Call, this Sūrah has close resemblance with other members of the group in the subject-matter, and deals like them with the basic principles of Islām—Divine attributes, particularly with God's Unity, with Resurrection and Revelation. In Sūrah Al-Qamar instances were given of the peoples of some Prophets of antiquity with whom the Arabs were quite familiar and who were punished for rejecting the Divine Message, and then the pagan Quraish were asked, would they not benefit from the sad fate of those peoples and accept the Quranic Message which was so easy to understand and to follow? The present Sūrah also gives the reasons why the Qur'ān was revealed.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with the Divine attribute—Ar-Raḥmān, signifying that after having created the universe, God created man, the apex and crown of all creation, and that his creation was the result of God's Raḥmāniyyah (Beneficence). After man's creation God revealed Himself to him through His Prophets and Messengers, because he could not attain the sublime object of his creation and fulfil his high destiny without being guided to his great goal by Divine revelation. Prophethood found its most complete and perfect manifestation in the person of the Holy Prophet Muḥammad to whom God gave the Qur'ān, the last and final code of Divine Laws for the guidance of the whole of humanity for all time. But God's gifts to man did not end with his creation. He made the whole universe subservient to him. The heavens with all the celestial bodies, and the earth with all its treasures, the deep seas and high mountains, were all created for his sake. Over and above all that God endowed him with great intellectual and discretionary powers so that by sifting the right from the wrong he might follow Divine guidance and thus attain the object of his creation. But man seems to be so constituted that, instead of benefiting from the endless vistas of spiritual progress and development opened up to him by the Gracious, Beneficent and Merciful Providence, in his conceit and arrogance he ignores and defies Divine Laws and consequently brings down upon himself God's displeasure. The disobedience and defiance of Divine Laws, the Sūrah hints, will assume a most heinous form in sometime to come (which seems to be the present time) and man will then be visited with such destructive and annihilating Divine punishment as he had not known before. But whereas punishment which will be meted out to the guilty and the iniquitous will be most grievous and frightful, the Divine favours which will be bestowed upon the righteous and the God-fearing in that age of Mammon-worship and hankering after pleasures of the flesh will also be beyond measure or count, and thus both Divine punishment and favours would show that whereas God is 'Swift at reckoning, He is also the Master of glory and honour.' The Sūrah seems to deal particularly with the time when the power and prestige of Western nations will be at their highest.

سُوْرَةُ الرَّحْمٰنِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٥٥ — اٰياتها ٧٩ — رکوعاتها ٣

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

اَلرَّحْمٰنُ ۙ② — 2. The Gracious God.

عَلَّمَ الْقُرْاٰنَ ؕ③ — 3. He taught the Qur'ān.[2918]

خَلَقَ الْاِنْسَانَ ۙ④ — 4. [b]He created man,[2919]

عَلَّمَهُ الْبَيَانَ ⑤ — 5. And taught him plain speech.

اَلشَّمْسُ وَالْقَمَرُ بِحُسْبَانٍ ۖ⑥ — 6. [c]The sun and the moon run their courses according to a fixed reckoning.

وَّالنَّجْمُ وَالشَّجَرُ يَسْجُدٰنِ ⑦ — 7. And the stemless plants and the trees humbly submit to His Will.[2920]

وَالسَّمَآءَ رَفَعَهَا وَوَضَعَ الْمِيْزَانَ ۙ⑧ — 8. And the heaven He has raised high and set up the [d]measure,[2921]

[a]1:1. [b]96:3. [c]6:97; 36:39, 40. [d]42:18; 57:26.

2918. God revealed Himself through His Prophets and Messengers to whom He gave His Word. The Qur'ān constituted the culmination of Divine revelation. This revelation of God to man through His Word was not due to any good act on his part. It was a sheer Divine gift flowing from God's beneficence.

2919. The word, 'man,' besides its general connotation, may here signify 'the perfect man,' i.e. the Holy Prophet, in whom Divine attributes found their most perfect and complete manifestation. The verse thus signifies that, out of beneficence, God created man in order that he may rise to the highest peaks of spiritual development and may reflect in his person Divine attributes.

2920. The verse, read along with the preceding one, shows that from the largest celestial body to the smallest stemless plant, all things are subject to certain laws, and they perform regularly, punctually and unerringly their allotted tasks. In the huge solar system which is but one of millions of such systems, every orb proceeds safely on its destined course and never deviates from it.

اَلَّا تَطْغَوْا فِي الْمِيْزَانِ ۝٩

9. That you may not exceed the measure.[2922]

وَاَقِيْمُوا الْوَزْنَ بِالْقِسْطِ وَلَا تُخْسِرُوا الْمِيْزَانَ ۝١٠

10. So weigh all things with justice and [a]fall not short of the measure.

وَالْاَرْضَ وَضَعَهَا لِلْاَنَامِ ۝١١

11. And He has set the earth for His creatures;

فِيْهَا فَاكِهَةٌ ۙ وَّالنَّخْلُ ذَاتُ الْاَكْمَامِ ۝١٢

12. Therein are all kinds of [b]fruit and palm-tree with sheaths,

وَالْحَبُّ ذُو الْعَصْفِ وَالرَّيْحَانُ ۝١٣

13. And grain with its husk and fragrant plants.

فَبِاَيِّ اٰلَآءِ رَبِّكُمَا تُكَذِّبٰنِ ۝١٤

14. Which, then, of the favours of your Lord will ye twain,[2923] O men and jinn, deny?

خَلَقَ الْاِنْسَانَ مِنْ صَلْصَالٍ كَالْفَخَّارِ ۝١٥

15. He created man of dry ringing clay which is [c]like baked[2924] pottery.

[a]11:85, 86; 17:36; 26:182. [b]50:10, 11. [c]15:27, 29.

2921. The whole universe is subject to one uniform law and all its constituent parts unite to form a glorious harmony of structure and motion. If this harmony or equilibrium between different things is in the least disturbed, the whole universe would fall to pieces. But God has kept all the laws that regulate the world under His exclusive control, beyond the reach of man.

2922. As there is an all-comprehensive harmony in the whole universe, so is man—the crown and object of creation—enjoined to maintain a just balance and to treat with equity and justice his fellow beings, giving everyone his due, and to avoid extremes and follow the golden mean in the discharge of his duties towards his Creator.

2923. The dual form in Tukadhdhibān may have been used for the two classes of jinn and men referred to in v.34, or it may signify two classes of men, viz. believers and disbelievers, leaders and their followers, the rich and the poor, or the white and the coloured races. Or, the dual form may have been used to impart emphasis in order to denote the dignity of the commandment embodied in the various verses. Such dual form is generally used in the Arabic language. See also 50:25. The Holy Prophet is reported to have said that when this verse is recited the believers present should respond by uttering the words 'None of Thy favours, Our Lord, do we deny and for Thee is all praise' (Kathīr).

2924. After having mentioned the creation of the celestial firmament and

وَخَلَقَ الْجَآنَّ مِنْ مَّارِجٍ مِّنْ نَّارٍ ﴿١٦﴾

16. [a]And the jinn He created of the flame of Fire.[2925]

فَبِاَيِّ اٰلَآءِ رَبِّكُمَا تُكَذِّبٰنِ ﴿١٧﴾

17. Which, then, of the favours of your Lord will ye twain deny?

رَبُّ الْمَشْرِقَيْنِ وَرَبُّ الْمَغْرِبَيْنِ ﴿١٨﴾

18. [b]The Lord of the two Easts and the Lord of the two Wests.[2926]

فَبِاَيِّ اٰلَآءِ رَبِّكُمَا تُكَذِّبٰنِ ﴿١٩﴾

19. Which, then, of the favours of your Lord will ye twain deny?

[a]7:13; 15:28; 38:77. [b]2:116; 26:29.

the placing in it of the sun and the moon, followed by a mention of the spreading of the earth and of the vegetables that grow on it, the Sūrah, in this verse, refers to the coming into existence of man. Man's creation from dry ringing clay may signify that man has been created from matter in which the faculty and attribute of speech lies latent. As Ṣalṣāl emits a sound only when struck with something extraneous, the word is used here to hint that man's power to respond is subject to his being able to receive the Divine Call. Three words have been used in the Qur'ān to express the different stages of the creation and spiritual development of man. The first stage is expressed by the words, 'God created him out of dust' (3:60). The second stage is described by the expression, 'He created you from clay' (6:3), which means that after having received a sprinklings of Divine Word man attained the power of discrimination by which he could distinguish between right and wrong. At the third stage, which is called the stage of "baked pottery," man is tested and tried and is made to pass through the fire of trials and tribulations. It is after he has successfully passed all the tests and has attained spiritual maturity that he is received into Divine Presence.

2925. See 15:28.

2926. Every spot on earth, in relation to other spots, is an East and a West. This phenomenon is described as the two Easts and the two Wests. Moreover, the earth being round, the East of the Eastern Hemisphere is the West of the Western Hemisphere and the West of the Western Hemisphere is the East of the Eastern Hemisphere, and thus there are two Easts and two Wests. In the modern political parlance the two Easts may be the Near East and the Far East, and the two Wests, Europe and America. The verse seems to signify that, God being the Lord of the whole world, the light of the Qur'ān will first spread in the East and then will illumine the West, and thus the 'whole earth will shine with the light of her Lord' (39:70).

26. Which, then, of the favours of your Lord will ye twain deny?

[a]25:54; 27:62. [b]42:33.

2927. 'The two bodies of water' may be the Red Sea and the Mediterranean Sea, or the Atlantic Ocean and the Pacific Ocean, particularly the former two seas. The verse embodies a great prophecy which was remarkably fulfilled by the construction of the Suez and the Panama canals, the former linking the first two seas and the latter the mighty Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. The world had to wait for thirteen long centuries to see the fulfilment of this prophecy. Or, 'the two bodies of water' may signify the physical and spiritual sciences. Or, the natural laws and Divine revelation, which mistakenly considered to be mutually antagonistic, are corroborative of each other, the one being the Work of God and the other His Word.

2928. Curiously enough pearls and coral are found in both the Suez and Panama canals.

2929. The reference seems to be to modern "leviathans," which ride the seas like mountains. The Sūrah may be dealing with the progress and prosperity of the Western nations which are the result of their making proper use of the great sea-routes for extending their commerce and trade.

[a]28:89.

2930. The whole universe is subject to decay and death and eventually is destined to perish. God alone will abide because He is Self-Subsisting, All-Sustaining, Independent and Besought of all.

2931. Wajh, among other things, means, that which is under one's care, or, 'to which one directs one's attention' (28:89); the thing itself; favour; countenance (Aqrab). Since the earth will be reduced to nothing and heavenly bodies all brought to naught and the whole material universe made non-existent, still human reason demands that there should be a Being Who should never die nor be subject to change or decay. Such a Being is God Who created the whole universe and Who is the First and Final Cause of all things. The present and the previous verses point to two immutable laws of nature which work simultaneously, viz. (1) everything is subject to decline, decadence and death; and (2) compliance with Divine laws ensures continuity of life.

2932. All creatures depend for their life and sustenance on God Who is their Creator, Sustainer and Nourisher. His attributes know no limit or count, and they keep finding their manifestation in diverse ways all the time.

2933. Ath-Thaqalān meaning two weighty things (Lane), may signify "the men" and "the jinn" as the context shows, or the Arabs and the non-Arabs or in the present political parlance the two main blocs—Russia or China and their allies on one side and the United States of America and its allies on the other; or the word may signify the Capitalist and the Labour classes. From the way in which these two great blocs are behaving, it seems that any day they may become locked into mortal conflict, completely destroying man's accumulated labour of centuries, spent in developing arts and sciences, and may render life on earth almost extinct. The verse seems to embody a warning to that effect.

2934. The verse has been variously interpreted. According to one interpretation the scientists and philosophers, who are proud of the great advance they have made in the material sciences, have been told that they cannot, however great advance they might make in knowledge and science, so completely comprehend all the laws of nature governing the universe as to acquire their complete mastery. Try as they might, they will fail in their quest. According to another interpretation, the verse warns sinners: 'Let them dare break through the confines of the heavens and earth, they shall not be able to defy Divine laws with impunity and escape Divine punishment.' The verse may also point to the making of rockets, sputniks, etc. by means of which the Russians and the Americans are seeking to reach heavenly bodies. They are told that at best they may reach only some of the planets which are nearest to the earth, but God's universe is unfathomable.

2935. The verse points to the most destructive and dreadful punishment which might overtake the two hostile camps. The world seems to stand on the brink of a terrible conflagration which threatens to consume in its flames the entire human civilization.

2938. The foregoing few verses together with the present one seem to point to the state of restlessness which will seize mankind when the two blocs referred to above are pitted against each other and the fear of atomic-war will, like the Sword of Damocles, hang over their heads. The present international groupings and tensions are bound to lead to an armed conflict of unparalleled destructiveness. The conflict itself would be a veritable Hell; but preparations for it have brought about conditions which are not far removed from perpetual torment of one kind or other.

2939. The "two gardens" may signify, (1) peace of mind which is the result of leading a good life, and (2) freedom from gnawing cares and anxieties which come in the wake of life spent in the pursuit of material pleasures and comforts. One "garden" consists in giving up one's desires for the sake of God in this world and the other in being blessed with God's pleasure in the next. A true believer perpetually basks in the sun of God's grace in this life which cares cannot disturb. This is Paradise upon earth which is granted to a God-fearing man and in which he constantly dwells; the promised heaven in the next world is only an image of the present Paradise, being an embodiment of the spiritual blessings which such a one enjoys in this life. It is to this paradisiacal state of a true believer that the Qur'ān refers in 10:65 and 41:32. The "two gardens" may also be the two fertile valleys watered by two sets of rivers—Jaihān and Saihān; and Furāt and Nīl, which according to the Ḥadīth are the rivers of Paradise (Muslim). These two valleys fell into the hands of Muslims in the caliphate of 'Umar.

2940. Just as in the present life true believers undergo various kinds of tribulations for the sake of their Lord and do all sorts of good and righteous deeds, so in the next life those tribulations and good works will assume the form of flowers and fruits of various hues and tastes.

فَبِاَيِّ اٰلَآءِ رَبِّكُمَا تُكَذِّبٰنِ ﴿٥٦﴾

56. Which, then, of the favours of your Lord will ye twain deny?

[a]44:56; 52:23; 56:21. [b]38:52.

2941. The two fountains flowing freely may be the spiritual embodiments of Ḥuqūqullāh (the obligations owed to God) and Ḥuqūqul-'Ibād (the obligations a Muslim owes to his fellow-beings) which the believers fully and faithfully discharge in this life. The discharge of these two obligations would assume the form of two fountains in the Hereafter. As a true believer ceaselessly continues to discharge these obligations, the fountains have been depicted as constantly flowing.

2942. Again the word "pairs" may metaphorically represent two kinds of righteous works of the believers—(1) those they do for their own spiritual advancement and (2) those services which they render to their fellow-beings.

2943. Three times the words "two gardens" have been used in this Sūrah. This is to emphasize that apart from the great blessings and boons of Paradise in the next world, believers will have all the good things of this world also.

فِيْهِنَّ قٰصِرٰتُ الطَّرْفِ ۙ لَمْ يَطْمِثْهُنَّ

57. Therein will also be chaste maidens [a]restraining their glances,[2944] whom neither man nor jinn will have touched[2945] before them—

فَبِاَيِّ اٰلَآءِ رَبِّكُمَا تُكَذِّبٰنِ ۚ﴿۵۸﴾

58. Which, then, of the favours of your Lord will ye twain deny?

59. As if they were rubies and small [b]pearls;[2946]

فَبِاَيِّ اٰلَآءِ رَبِّكُمَا تُكَذِّبٰنِ ﴿۶۰﴾

60. Which, then, of the favours of your Lord will ye twain deny?

هَلْ جَزَآءُ الْاِحْسَانِ اِلَّا الْاِحْسَانُ ۚ﴿۶۱﴾

61. Is the reward of goodness anything but[2947] goodness?

فَبِاَيِّ اٰلَآءِ رَبِّكُمَا تُكَذِّبٰنِ ﴿۶۲﴾

62. Which, then, of the favours of your Lord will ye twain deny?

[a]37:49; 38:53. [b]56:24.

2944. The expression, 'restraining their glances,' signifies that their whole attention would be devoted to God and they would not even cast a look at any other thing besides their Lord and Creator.

2945. Far from their bodies being touched by any man, even impure thoughts will not have found access to their hearts, the word jinn also signifying those invisible things that excite carnal passions in the mind. It is relevant to state here again, that according to Islamic conception, the blessings of Paradise would resemble the pleasures of the life on earth. There will be palaces, gardens, rivers, trees, fruits, wives, children, friends, etc. in Paradise, only the nature of these things will be different from that of the things of this world. In fact, they will be the spiritual representations of the good deeds the righteous will have done in this life.

2946. Whereas in v.57 purity of mind and heart of the consorts of believers in Paradise has been mentioned, the verse under comment speaks of the beauty of their persons.

2947. Iḥsān means to worship God as if the worshipper is seeing Him, or at least God is seeing the worshipper (Bukhārī). This means that in all his deeds and actions God is constantly before the eyes of a believer and as a reward he receives God's pleasure—the sum total of all the blessings of Heaven.

وَمِنْ دُوْنِهِمَا جَنَّتٰنِ ﴿٦٢﴾

63. And besides these two, there are two[2948] other gardens—

فَبِاَيِّ اٰلَآءِ رَبِّكُمَا تُكَذِّبٰنِ ﴿٦٤﴾

64. Which, then, of the favours of your Lord will ye twain deny?

مُدْهَآمَّتٰنِ ﴿٦٥﴾

65. Dark green with foliage[2949]—

فَبِاَيِّ اٰلَآءِ رَبِّكُمَا تُكَذِّبٰنِ ﴿٦٦﴾

66. Which, then, of the favours of your Lord will ye twain deny?

فِيْهِمَا عَيْنٰنِ نَضَّاخَتٰنِ ﴿٦٧﴾

67. Therein also will be two springs,[2950] gushing forth with water.

2948. The "two gardens" mentioned in v.47, may be the gardens of Paradise, and the "two gardens" referred to in this verse may be the gardens of this world. The Muslims were promised gardens in the next world and as a proof of the fulfilment of this Divine promise, they were also promised the gardens of this world which indeed they came to possess when they conquered the fertile valleys of Egypt and Iraq. But the description of the "two gardens" mentioned in v.47 is different from that in the present verse. This shows that two categories of believers have been mentioned in this Sūrah. The believers to whom "gardens" mentioned in v.47 have been promised seem to be of a higher spiritual status than those to whom "gardens" mentioned in the verse under comment have been promised. A careful study of the relevant verses brings out this fact. These two classes of believers have been mentioned in the next Sūrah in vv.11 and 28 respectively.

2949. Whereas in v.49 above the "gardens" are described as having many varieties of trees, which points to the vast variety of the good works of the believers to whom they are promised, the "gardens" mentioned in the verse under comment are described as "dark green with foliage" which indicates the intensity of the goodness of their works.

2950. In the present verse and in v.51 above, two different descriptions of the fountains and springs promised to believers have been given. In v.51 the fountains promised are described as flowing freely and ceaselessly (Tajriyāni). This signifies that believers to whom springs mentioned in that verse have been promised are of a higher spiritual status than the believers to whom springs mentioned in the present verse have been promised, since the believers of former category are engaged in doing good to others ceaselessly and freely without any idea or expectation of reward while those of the latter class do good works out of natural impulse but their doing of good is mainly confined to themselves. The qualifying word used is Naḍḍākhatān (gushing forth).

2951. As compared with the words "good and beautiful" used with regard to the maidens in the present verse which possess only a general connotation, the words "rubies and small pearls" used in v.59 have a particular significance and are expressive of beauty of special excellence.

2952. The words 'restraining their glances' in v.57 evidently are expressive of chastity and modesty of a higher degree than the expression "guarded in pavilions" in the verse under comment.

مُتَّكِـِٔيْنَ عَلٰى رَفْرَفٍ خُضْرٍ وَّ عَبْقَرِيٍّ حِسَانٍ ﴿٧٧﴾

تَبٰرَكَ اسْمُ رَبِّكَ ذِى الْجَلٰلِ وَالْاِكْرَامِ ﴿٧٩﴾

79. Blessed is the name of thy Lord, Master of glory and honour.

[a]55:55.

2953. Again the words used in v.55 about believers show that they possess greater dignity, respect and authority than those to whom the present verse refers. With this verse the comparison between these two categories of believers specifically mentioned in the next Sūrah, i.e. "the foremost" (56:11) and "those on the right hand" (56:28) comes to an end.

2954. It is not without significance that this verse has been used as many as 31 times in the present Sūrah. The Sūrah seems particularly to refer to the great favours and blessings which God has bestowed upon man. In view of these multifarious and multitudinous favours, the repeated use of the verse seems quite appropriate. But then the Sūrah also speaks of the unprecedentedly destructive Divine punishment in the form of atomic wars which will overtake man if he does not repent and mend his ways. This forewarning of an imminent danger also constitutes a blessing in disguise.

CHAPTER 56
AL-WĀQI‘AH

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

This is the last of the group of seven Chapters which begin with Sūrah Qāf. These seven Chapters were revealed at Mecca, more or less at the same time, in the early years of the Holy Prophet’s ministry. Naturally, therefore, they are very much similar in tone and tenor; but in no other case perhaps, is this similarity so marked as it is between this Sūrah and its predecessor, Sūrah Ar-Raḥmān. The subject in Sūrah Ar-Raḥmān is completed in this Sūrah and thus it forms a befitting sequel to Sūrah Ar-Raḥmān. In Sūrah Ar-Raḥmān, for instance, three groups of people—(a) those fortunate ones who are granted special nearness to God, (b) the general body of believers who have achieved Divine pleasure, and (c) the rejectors of Divine Messengers—were referred to only by implication. In the present Sūrah, however, they have been expressly mentioned. The Sūrah dealing particularly with the important subjects of the Resurrection, Revelation and the repudiation of idolatry, was quite appropriately revealed early at Mecca where the preaching of the Quranic Message was directed exclusively to the idolatrous Quraish, who believed neither in Resurrection nor in Revelation. The seven Chapters also contain certain prophecies about the great and glorious future of Islām, side by side with direct and emphatic mention of the inevitability of the Resurrection, thus drawing attention to the inescapable conclusion that the fulfilment of those prophecies about the progress of Islām would prove that the Resurrection was also an undeniable fact.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with a firm and emphatic declaration that the great and Inevitable Event, which was foretold in the preceding Sūrah, will most surely come to pass, and when it came to pass it will shake the earth to its depths, and the mountains shall be shattered, causing a new world to emerge from the ashes of the old. Further, as a result of this Great Event people will become sorted out into three groups: (a) The fortunate ones who will enjoy God’s special nearness, (b) the true and righteous believers who will receive handsome rewards for their good deeds and (c) the unfortunate disbelievers who will be punished for their evil deeds. The Sūrah then gives a graphic description of the Divine blessings and favours in store for the first two classes, following with a description of the punishment to be meted out to the deniers of the Divine Message. Next, it advances the usual argument of the creation of man and of his development from a seminal drop into a full-fledged human being, to prove his second birth after death. Towards its close the Sūrah reverts to the subject with which it had begun, and explains that the great reformation to which it refers in its opening verses will be brought about by the Qur’ān which is indubitably the revealed Word of God, and which is protected and guarded like a precious treasure. The Sūrah closes with a beautiful homily that when the inevitable end of all life is death, from which there is no escape, then why should people be neglectful of this hard fact and consign God to oblivion?

2956. (a) The Final Resurrection; (b) total annihilation of idolatry from Arabia and complete defeat and discomfiture of the idolatrous Quraish; (c) appearance of a great religious Reformer—the Holy Prophet.

2957. The "Inevitable Event" will bring about a great revolution in the lives of men. A new world will come into being; the high and the mighty will be laid low and the oppressed and downtrodden will be exalted.

2958. The whole of Arabia will be shaken to its foundations. Old beliefs, ideas, moral values, customs, ways of life etc. will undergo a complete change. In fact, the old order will die, giving place to a completely new one. The verse along with the one preceding it and those that follow it may equally apply to the Resurrection after death.

2959. Elsewhere (75:3) the Qur’ān applies the term "self-accusing soul" to this group of believers.

2960. The soul prone to evil (12:54).

2961. The soul at rest (89:28).

2962. The blessings of Paradise to be bestowed upon as-Sābiqūn (those lucky believers who will be favoured with special Divine nearness, mentioned in vv. 11-27 of the present Sūrah), closely resemble those Divine gifts which have been mentioned in vv. 47-62 of Sūrah Ar-Raḥmān. This shows that the believers referred to in vv. 47-62 of Sūrah Ar-Raḥmān are of the class of as-Sābiqūn (those who have been granted special nearness to God) of this Sūrah.

2963. The verse points to the innocence and perpetual freshness of the servants who will wait upon believers.

28. Those on the right hand—how lucky are those on the right hand!—

فِيْ سِدْرٍ مَّخْضُوْدٍ ﴿٢٩﴾

29. They will be amidst thornless lote-trees,[2965]

[a]52:23. [b]44:55; 52:21. [c]19:63; 78:36; 88:12.

2964. This and the preceding verse, like many other verses of the Qur’ān, most effectively repudiate all those foolish notions about a sensual Paradise which ignorant and evil-minded carpers and critics of Islām pretend to find in it; and give an insight into its nature, essence and reality. The Heaven as conceived and promised to Muslims by the Qur’ān would be a place of spiritual bliss where no sin, vain or idle talk or lying will find access (78:36). All its blessings would find their culmination and consummation in peace—complete peace of the mind and soul than which there could be no greater blessing. The Paradise promised to a Muslim has been designated as the "abode of peace" in the Qur’ān (6:128); the highest stage of spiritual development to which a believer can rise is that of the "soul at peace" (89:28) and the greatest gift which the dwellers of Paradise will receive from God will be "peace" (36:59), because God Himself is the Author of peace (59:24). Such is the sublime Quranic conception of Paradise.

2965. When the shade of lote-tree becomes dense and crowded, it is very pleasant, and in the hot and dry climate of Arabia the tired and fatigued travellers take shelter and find rest under it. The word Sidr having been qualified by Makhḍūd signifies that the trees of Paradise will not only give

37. And made them virgins, فَجَعَلْنٰهُنَّ اَبْكَارًا ﴿٣٧﴾

38. Loving, [b]of equal age;[2968] عُرُبًا اَتْرَابًا ﴿٣٨﴾

[a]4:58; 13:36. [b]78:34.

pleasant and plenteous shade but will also bend down on account of the abundance of their fruit, i.e. the blessings of Paradise will both be pleasant and plentiful.

2966. Whereas lote-tree mentioned in the preceding verse grows in dry climate, bananas require plenty of water for their growth. The mentioning together of these two fruits signifies that the fruits of Paradise will not only be plentiful and delightful but will also be found in all climatic conditions.

2967. The blessings promised to the dwellers of Paradise in this and other Sūrahs of the Qur'ān possess the following qualities: (a) They will be abundant; (b) will be easily accessible and at the entire disposal of the believers; (c) will know no diminution or end; and (d) they will cause no discomfort or disease.

2967A. Furush (spouses) is the plural of Firāsh which means, a bed; a man's wife; a woman's husband (Lane). In order to complete their happiness and peace of mind, the believers will have for their companions pure, beautiful spouses of noble descent and high dignity.

2968. 'Urub is the plural of 'Arub which means, a woman who loves her husband passionately and is obedient to him (Lane). Atrāb is the plural of Tirb, which means, one equal in age; a peer; one having similar tastes, habits, views, etc. (Lane). A beautiful, chaste and faithful wife, having views and tastes and outlook on life similar to that of her husband, is the greatest Divine blessing a person possibly can have. There will be good and virtuous women in Paradise, says the Qur'ān, as there will be good and righteous men. It is good 2971. This and the preceding verses describe the punishment that will be meted out to the guilty in the afterlife in a language which suits the enormity of their sins in the present life. They devoured what other people had earned with the sweat of their brows and suffered from an insatiable lust for wealth, amassing it by fair means and foul and, being proud of it, rejected the Divine Message. As a punishment, they will be given the tree of Zaqqūm to eat, which will burn their inside, and they will have scalding water to quench their thirst, and like sick thirsty camels their thirst will remain unsatisfied.

[a]71:5. [b]57:21.

2972. The disintegration of man’s physical tabernacle does not mean the end of his life. Death is only a change of state or form. After its flight from the physical habitat human soul is given another body, which grows and develops and takes forms which it is not possible for man to know or even to conceive of.

2973. Verses 64-72 give a brief account of things upon which man’s life on earth depends. The three principal things are food, water and fire.

لَوْ نَشَآءُ جَعَلْنٰهُ اُجَاجًا فَلَوْ لَا تَشْكُرُوْنَ ﴿۷۱﴾

77. And, indeed, that is a grand testimony, if you only knew—

[a]36:81. [b]69:53; 87:2.

2974. Fire plays a most important part in the life of man. Much of his physical comfort depends upon it. It is a thing of very great utility, also of destruction if not used properly. In this mechanistic age life is inconceivable without the use of fire. No industry, trade or travel is possible without it.

2975. Needy and hungry people; wayfarers in a desert or those who alight at a desolate place (Aqrab).

2976. The particle lā is generally used to impart emphasis to an oath, meaning that the thing which is going to be explained next is so self-evident that it does not need calling anything else to bear witness to its truth. When the refutation of a certain hypothesis is intended lā is used to signify that which is said before is not correct and the right thing is that which follows.

2977. The verse swears by, and holds forth, Nujūm which means, portions of the Qur’ān (Lane), as evidence to support the claim that the Qur’ān is eminently fitted to fulfil the grand object of man’s creation, as well as to establish its own Divine origin. Taking the word Mawāqi‘ as meaning, the places and times of the falling of stars, the verse signifies that it is an unfailing Divine Law that, at the time of the appearance of a great Divine Reformer or Prophet, stars fall in unusually large numbers, and that this has happened in the time of the Holy Prophet also.

78. This is, indeed, a [a]noble Qur’ān,	اِنَّهٗ لَقُرْاٰنٌ كَرِيْمٌ ۙ﴿۷۸﴾

[a]50:2. [b]85:23. [c]20:5; 26:193.

2978. That the Qur’ān is a well preserved and well protected Divinely revealed Book is an open challenge to the whole world which has remained unaccepted during the past fourteen centuries. No effort has been spared by its hostile critics to find fault with the purity of its text. But all efforts in this direction have led to but one inevitable—albeit unpalatable for its enemies—result that the Book which the Holy Prophet Muḥammad gave to the world fourteen hundred years ago has come down to us without the change of a single vowel (Muir). The Qur’ān is also a well preserved Book in the sense that only those believers who are pure of heart can have access to its spiritual treasures as the next verse signifies. The verse may also signify that the ideals and principles embodied in the Qur’ān are inscribed in the book of nature, i.e. they are in complete harmony with natural laws. Like the laws of nature they are immutable and unalterable and cannot be defied with impunity. Or, the verse may mean that the Qur’ān is preserved in 'the nature which God has bestowed upon man' (30:31). Human nature is based upon fundamental truths and has been endowed with the faculty to arrive at right judgment. A person who honestly calls human nature into action can easily recognize the truth of the Qur’ān.

2979. Only those lucky ones who by leading righteous lives achieve purity of the heart are granted true understanding of, and insight into, the real meanings of the Qur’ān, and are initiated into those spiritual mysteries of Divine knowledge to which the impure of heart are denied access. Incidentally, one should not touch or read the Qur’ān while one is not physically clean.

2980. The disbelievers are afraid lest by accepting truth they might be

أَفَبِهَٰذَا ٱلْحَدِيثِ أَنتُم مُّدْهِنُونَ ﴿٨١﴾

81. Then do you consider this recital as a matter to be slighted?

وَتَجْعَلُونَ رِزْقَكُمْ أَنَّكُمْ تُكَذِّبُونَ ﴿٨٢﴾

82. And do you make your livelihood to be that you deny it?

فَلَوْلَآ إِذَا بَلَغَتِ ٱلْحُلْقُومَ ﴿٨٣﴾

83. Why then, when it comes up to the throat,

وَأَنتُمْ حِينَئِذٍ تَنظُرُونَ ﴿٨٤﴾

84. And you at that time look on,

وَنَحْنُ أَقْرَبُ إِلَيْهِ مِنكُمْ وَلَٰكِن لَّا تُبْصِرُونَ ﴿٨٥﴾

85. And We are nearer to him than you, but you see not.

فَلَوْلَآ إِن كُنتُمْ غَيْرَ مَدِينِينَ ﴿٨٦﴾

86. Why then, if you are not to be requited,

تَرْجِعُونَهَآ إِن كُنتُمْ صَٰدِقِينَ ﴿٨٧﴾

87. Do you not bring back the soul, if you are truthful?

فَأَمَّآ إِن كَانَ مِنَ ٱلْمُقَرَّبِينَ ﴿٨٨﴾

88. Then if he is of those who are brought near (to Allāh), فَرَوْحٌ وَرَيْحَانٌ وَجَنَّتُ نَعِيمٍ ﴿٨٩﴾

89. Then (for him) is rest and sweet provision and a Garden of delight.

وَأَمَّآ إِن كَانَ مِنْ أَصْحَٰبِ ٱلْيَمِينِ ﴿٩٠﴾

90. And if he is of the companions of the right hand,

فَسَلَٰمٌ لَّكَ مِنْ أَصْحَٰبِ ٱلْيَمِينِ ﴿٩١﴾

91. Then (for him) is peace from the companions of the right hand.

وَأَمَّآ إِن كَانَ مِنَ ٱلْمُكَذِّبِينَ ٱلضَّآلِّينَ ﴿٩٢﴾

92. And if he is of the deniers, the erring ones,

فَنُزُلٌ مِّنْ حَمِيمٍ ﴿٩٣﴾

93. Then (for him) is entertainment of boiling water,

وَتَصْلِيَةُ جَحِيمٍ ﴿٩٤﴾

94. And burning in Hell.

إِنَّ هَٰذَا لَهُوَ حَقُّ ٱلْيَقِينِ ﴿٩٥﴾

95. Verily, this is the certain truth.

فَسَبِّحْ بِٱسْمِ رَبِّكَ ٱلْعَظِيمِ ﴿٩٦﴾

96. So glorify the name of thy Lord, the Incomparably Great.

CHAPTER 57
AL-ḤADĪD

(Revealed after Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

This is the first of the last ten Medinite Chapters of the Qur'ān which end with Chapter 66. It seems to have been revealed after the conquest of Mecca or the Treaty of Ḥudaibiyah, as is clear from the mention of al-Fatḥ (the Victory) in v. 11 which refers to the Fall of Mecca or, according to some, more appropriately to the Treaty of Ḥudaibiyah. The series of the Meccan Chapters which began with As-Sabā' and which, with the exception of the three intervening Medinite Chapters—Muḥammad, Al-Fatḥ and Al-Ḥujurāt—had continued without interruption, ended with the preceding Chapter and had completed the subject matter of the Meccan Sūrahs. With the present Sūrah, however, begins a new series of Medinite Chapters, which end with At-Taḥrīm. In the preceding Sūrah it is stated that the Qur'ān is a well-preserved Book (v. 79) which among other things signifies that its teachings are in perfect harmony with natural laws and with the dictates and demands of human nature, reason and commonsense. The present Sūrah opens with the Divine attributes: the Mighty, the Wise. And quite naturally, the Being Who is Wise and Mighty must have revealed a Book whose teachings are consistent with the laws of nature and with human reason and conscience.

Subject-Matter

In the previous seven Meccan Sūrahs, especially in the three immediately preceding ones—Al-Qamar, Ar-Raḥmān and Al-Wāqi'ah—it was repeatedly declared, in a forceful though metaphorical language, that a great reformation, a veritable resurrection, was about to be brought about by the Holy Prophet among a people who for long centuries had grovelled in moral dust and dirt; and who, because they had no living relations with civilized society, were looked down upon as pariahs among nations. The present Sūrah points out that the great day of the phenomenal progress and power of that pariah nation—the Arabs—has already dawned and that the eventual victory of truth over falsehood is in sight. But there are essential conditions to be fulfilled before that consummation takes place. There must be on the part of Muslims a firm and invincible faith in the truth of Islamic ideals and a preparedness to make necessary sacrifice of life and property for the furtherance of its cause. The believers then are told that after they have acquired power and prosperity they should not neglect moral ideals and indulge in the pursuit of transitory material pleasures. The Sūrah continues the theme, namely, that from time immemorial God's Messengers have been appearing in the world to lead men to the goal of their lives which is to win the pleasure of God, and which cannot be attained by leading a life of complete renunciation or flight from the world, as Jesus's followers mistakenly had thought and practised, but by making proper use of natural powers and faculties, bestowed by God on man and of the things He has created for his use.

سُوْرَةُ الْحَدِيْدِ مَدَنِيَّةٌ ٥٧ — اٰياتها ٣٠ — رکوعاتها ٤

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

سَبَّحَ لِلّٰهِ مَا فِي السَّمٰوٰتِ وَالْاَرْضِ ۚ وَهُوَ الْعَزِيْزُ الْحَكِيْمُ ②

لَهٗ مُلْكُ السَّمٰوٰتِ وَالْاَرْضِ ۚ يُحْيٖ وَيُمِيْتُ ۚ وَهُوَ عَلٰى كُلِّ شَيْءٍ قَدِيْرٌ ③

هُوَ الْاَوَّلُ وَالْاٰخِرُ وَالظَّاهِرُ وَالْبَاطِنُ ۚ وَهُوَ بِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ عَلِيْمٌ ④

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

2. Whatever is in the heavens and the earth [b]glorifies[2981] Allāh; and He is the Mighty, the Wise.

3. His is the Kingdom of the heavens and the earth; He gives life and [c]He causes death,[2982] and He has power over all things.

4. He is the First[2983] and the Last,[2984] and the Manifest[2985] and the Hidden,[2986] and He

[a]1:1. [b]17:45; 24:42; 61:2; 62:2; 64:2. [c]3:157; 7:159; 44:9.

2981. Sabaḥa Fī Ḥawā'ijihī means, he busied himself in earning his subsistence or in his affairs. Sabḥ signifies doing one's work or doing it with utmost effort and quickly, and the expression Subḥānallāh denotes quickness in betaking oneself to God and agility in serving or obeying Him. In view of the root-meaning of this word, the Infinitive Noun Tasbīḥ from Sabbaḥa means, declaring God to be far from every imperfection or defect or betaking oneself quickly to God's service and to be prompt in obeying Him saying Subḥānallāh (Lane). The verse thus means that everything in the universe is doing its allotted task punctually and regularly, and by making use of the faculties and powers bestowed upon it by God is fulfilling the object of its creation in such a wonderful manner that one is irresistibly drawn to the conclusion that the Designer and Architect of the universe is, indeed, Mighty and Wise and that the whole world collectively and every created thing individually and in its own limited sphere, bears testimony to the undeniable truth that God's handiwork is absolutely free from every flaw, defect or imperfection in all its multifarious and multitudinous aspects. This is the significance of Tasbīḥ.

2982. The process of construction and destruction is in operation simultaneously every moment in everything in the universe.

2983. God is the First Cause of all things.

2984. He is the Last and Final Cause.

2985. He is manifest in His works; or is more manifest than anything else.

2986. There is nothing hidden from God; or whereas He comprehends has full knowledge of all things.

هُوَ الَّذِیْ خَلَقَ السَّمٰوٰتِ وَ الْاَرْضَ
فِیْ سِتَّةِ اَیَّامٍ ثُمَّ اسْتَوٰی عَلَی الْعَرْشِ ؕ
یَعْلَمُ مَا یَلِجُ فِی الْاَرْضِ وَ مَا یَخْرُجُ
مِنْهَا وَ مَا یَنْزِلُ مِنَ السَّمَآءِ وَ مَا یَعْرُجُ
فِیْهَا ؕ وَ هُوَ مَعَكُمْ اَیْنَ مَا كُنْتُمْ ؕ
وَ اللّٰهُ بِمَا تَعْمَلُوْنَ بَصِیْرٌ ۝۴

5. He it is Who created the heavens and the earth [a]in six periods, then He settled Himself on the Throne. He knows what enters the earth and [b]what comes out of it, and what comes down from heaven and what goes up into it.[2987] And He is with you wheresoever you may be. And Allāh sees all that you do.

لَهٗ مُلْكُ السَّمٰوٰتِ وَ الْاَرْضِ ؕ وَ اِلَی اللّٰهِ
تُرْجَعُ الْاُمُوْرُ ۝۵

6. His is the [c]Kingdom of the heavens and the earth; and to Allāh are all affairs returned for final judgment.

یُوْلِجُ الَّیْلَ فِی النَّهَارِ وَ یُوْلِجُ النَّهَارَ فِی
الَّیْلِ ؕ وَ هُوَ عَلِیْمٌۢ بِذَاتِ الصُّدُوْرِ ۝۶

7. [d]He causes the night to pass into the day and causes the day to pass into the night; and He knows well all that is in the breasts.

اٰمِنُوْا بِاللّٰهِ وَ رَسُوْلِهٖ وَ اَنْفِقُوْا مِمَّا جَعَلَكُمْ
مُّسْتَخْلَفِیْنَ فِیْهِ ؕ فَالَّذِیْنَ اٰمَنُوْا مِنْكُمْ
وَ اَنْفَقُوْا لَهُمْ اَجْرٌ كَبِیْرٌ ۝۷

8. Believe in Allāh and His Messenger, and spend in the way of Allāh out of that to which He has made you heirs. And those of you who believe and spend will have a great reward.

[a]7:55; 11:8; 25:60; 32:5. [b]34:3. [c]2:108; 7:159. [d]22:62; 31:30; 35:14.

everything He Himself is Incomprehensible.

2987. The meaning is that God alone knows when a particular Divine Teaching is needed for a particular people; also when to take it back to heaven, i.e. to abrogate it, when it is corrupted and ceases to fulfil the spiritual needs of the people to whom it is given. And He alone knows when to reveal a new Teaching.

وَمَا لَكُمْ لَا تُؤْمِنُوْنَ بِاللّٰهِ ۚ وَالرَّسُوْلُ يَدْعُوْكُمْ لِتُؤْمِنُوْا بِرَبِّكُمْ وَقَدْ اَخَذَ مِيْثَاقَكُمْ اِنْ كُنْتُمْ مُّؤْمِنِيْنَ ۝٩

9. Why is it that you believe not in Allāh, while the Messenger calls you to believe in your Lord, and He has already taken a covenant[2988] from you, if indeed you are believers?

هُوَ الَّذِيْ يُنَزِّلُ عَلٰى عَبْدِهٖٓ اٰيٰتٍۢ بَيِّنٰتٍ لِّيُخْرِجَكُمْ مِّنَ الظُّلُمٰتِ اِلَى النُّوْرِ ؕ وَاِنَّ اللّٰهَ بِكُمْ لَرَءُوْفٌ رَّحِيْمٌ ۝١٠

10. He it is Who [a]sends down clear Signs to His servant, that He [b]may bring you out of every kind of darkness into light. And, verily, Allāh is Compassionate and Merciful to you.

وَمَا لَكُمْ اَلَّا تُنْفِقُوْا فِيْ سَبِيْلِ اللّٰهِ وَلِلّٰهِ مِيْرَاثُ السَّمٰوٰتِ وَالْاَرْضِ ؕ لَا يَسْتَوِيْ مِنْكُمْ مَّنْ اَنْفَقَ مِنْ قَبْلِ الْفَتْحِ وَقٰتَلَ ؕ اُولٰٓئِكَ اَعْظَمُ دَرَجَةً مِّنَ الَّذِيْنَ اَنْفَقُوْا مِنْۢ بَعْدُ وَقٰتَلُوْا ؕ وَكُلًّا وَّعَدَ اللّٰهُ الْحُسْنٰى ؕ وَاللّٰهُ بِمَا تَعْمَلُوْنَ خَبِيْرٌ ۝١١ ع ١٧

11. And why is it that you spend not in the way of Allāh, while to Allāh belongs the heritage[2989] of the heavens and the earth? Those of you who spent and fought before the Victory[2990] are not equal to those who did so later. They are greater in rank than those who spent and fought [c]afterwards. And to all has Allāh promised good. And Allāh is Well-Aware of what you do.

R. 2.

مَنْ ذَا الَّذِيْ يُقْرِضُ اللّٰهَ قَرْضًا حَسَنًا

12. [d]Who is he who will lend to Allāh a goodly loan? So He 2988. "The covenant" spoken of in the verse signifies the faith in God implanted in human nature and the longing to achieve His nearness.

2989. Man will have to leave behind in this world all his material possessions, which in truth belong to God.

2990. Fall of Mecca or the Treaty of Ḥudaibiyah.

فَيُضٰعِفَهٗ لَهٗ وَلَهٗۤ اَجْرٌ كَرِيْمٌ ﴿۱۲﴾ will increase it manifold for him, and he will have a noble reward.

يَوْمَ تَرَى الْمُؤْمِنِيْنَ وَالْمُؤْمِنٰتِ يَسْعٰى نُوْرُهُمْ بَيْنَ اَيْدِيْهِمْ وَبِاَيْمَانِهِمْ بُشْرٰىكُمُ الْيَوْمَ جَنّٰتٌ تَجْرِيْ مِنْ تَحْتِهَا الْاَنْهٰرُ خٰلِدِيْنَ فِيْهَا ؕ ذٰلِكَ هُوَ الْفَوْزُ الْعَظِيْمُ ﴿۱۳﴾

13. And think of the day when thou wilt see the believing men and the believing women, their light running before [a]them and on their right hands, and angels will say to them, 'Glad tidings for you this day of Gardens through which streams flow, wherein you will abide. That is the supreme triumph.'

يَوْمَ يَقُوْلُ الْمُنٰفِقُوْنَ وَالْمُنٰفِقٰتُ لِلَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوا انْظُرُوْنَا نَقْتَبِسْ مِنْ نُّوْرِكُمْ ۚ قِيْلَ ارْجِعُوْا وَرَآءَكُمْ فَالْتَمِسُوْا نُوْرًا ؕ فَضُرِبَ بَيْنَهُمْ بِسُوْرٍ لَّهٗ بَابٌ ؕ بَاطِنُهٗ فِيْهِ الرَّحْمَةُ وَظَاهِرُهٗ مِنْ قِبَلِهِ الْعَذَابُ ﴿۱۴﴾

14. That is the day when the hypocritical men and the hypocritical women will say to those who believe, 'Wait for us a while that we may borrow some of your light,'[2991] it will be said to them, 'Go back[2992] if you can, and seek for light.' Then there will be set up between them a wall[2993] with a door in it. The inside of it will be all mercy and outside of it, in front, will be torment.

[a]66:9.

2991. "Your light" may mean the light of your faith and good actions or, the light of Divine realization and of the capacity to seek and achieve the pleasure of God in this very life.

2992. The word Warā'akum may signify the present life.

2993. "A wall" might signify the wall of Islām or of the Qur'ān. As the disbelievers remain outside this wall so this action of theirs will take the form of a wall in the Hereafter.

يُنَادُوْنَهُمْ اَلَمْ نَكُنْ مَّعَكُمْ ؕ قَالُوْا بَلٰى

اَمْرُ اللّٰهِ وَغَرَّكُمْ بِاللّٰهِ الْغَرُوْرُ ﴿١٥﴾

15. The hypocrites will call out to believers saying, 'Were we not with you?' The believers will answer, 'Yea, but you let yourselves fall into temptation and you hesitated and doubted and your vain desires deceived you till the decree of Allāh[2994] came to pass. And the deceiver deceived you concerning Allāh.

فَالْيَوْمَ لَا يُؤْخَذُ مِنْكُمْ فِدْيَةٌ وَّلَا
مِنَ الَّذِيْنَ كَفَرُوْا ؕ مَاْوٰىكُمُ النَّارُ ؕ

16. 'So this day no ransom shall be accepted from you, nor from those who disbelieved. Your final abode is the Fire; that is your comrade;[2995] and an evil destination it is.'

اَلَمْ يَاْنِ لِلَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوْٓا اَنْ تَخْشَعَ

قَبْلُ فَطَالَ عَلَيْهِمُ الْاَمَدُ فَقَسَتْ
قُلُوْبُهُمْ ؕ وَكَثِيْرٌ مِّنْهُمْ فٰسِقُوْنَ ﴿١٧﴾

17. Has not the time yet arrived for those who believe that their hearts should feel humbled at the remembrance of Allāh and at the truth which has come down to them, and that they should not become like those who were given the Book before them, but because the period of the bestowal of Allāh's grace upon [a]them was prolonged for them, their [b]hearts became hardened, and many of them became rebellious?

[a]21:45; [b]2:75; 6:44.

2994. Divine punishment.

2995. The words, 'that is your comrade,' seem to have been used ironically. Or, they may mean that only the fire of Hell will purify them of the impurities and dross of sins committed by disbelievers in this life and will make them fit for spiritual progress and thus will be a "friend" to them.

اِعْلَمُوْٓا اَنَّ اللّٰهَ يُحْيِ الْاَرْضَ بَعْدَ مَوْتِهَا ؕ قَدْ بَيَّنَّا لَكُمُ الْاٰيٰتِ لَعَلَّكُمْ تَعْقِلُوْنَ ﴿۱۸﴾

18. Know, then, that Allāh [a]quickens the earth after its death. We have made the Signs manifest to you, that you may understand.

اِنَّ الْمُصَّدِّقِيْنَ وَالْمُصَّدِّقٰتِ وَاَقْرَضُوا اللّٰهَ قَرْضًا حَسَنًا يُّضٰعَفُ لَهُمْ وَلَهُمْ اَجْرٌ كَرِيْمٌ ﴿۱۹﴾

19. Surely, the men who give alms, and the women who give alms, and those who lend to Allāh a [b]goodly loan—it will be increased manifold for them, and theirs will also be an honourable reward—

وَالَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوْا بِاللّٰهِ وَرُسُلِهٖٓ اُولٰٓئِكَ هُمُ الصِّدِّيْقُوْنَ ۖ وَالشُّهَدَآءُ عِنْدَ رَبِّهِمْ ؕ لَهُمْ اَجْرُهُمْ وَنُوْرُهُمْ ؕ وَالَّذِيْنَ كَفَرُوْا وَكَذَّبُوْا بِاٰيٰتِنَآ اُولٰٓئِكَ اَصْحٰبُ الْجَحِيْمِ ﴿۲۰﴾ ع ۲ ۱۸

20. Those who believe in Allāh and His Messengers, they are the Truthful and the Witnesses in the sight of their Lord. They will have their full reward and their light. But those who disbelieve and reject Our Signs, these are the inmates of Hell.

R. 3.

2996. 'Arḍ meaning value and vastness, the verse signifies that (a) the reward of the righteous in the Hereafter will be beyond measure or count. (b) Paradise being as extensive as both the heavens and the earth—the whole space—it comprises Hell also. This shows that Paradise and hell are not two distinct and separate places but two conditions or states of mind. A well-known saying of the Holy Prophet gives an insight into the Quranic conception of Paradise and Hell. Once on being asked by some of his Companions: 'If Paradise comprises in its vastness heavens and earth, where is Hell,' the Holy Prophet is reported to have replied, 'Where is the night when the day comes' (Kathīr).

causes and cures of miseries befalling nations and individuals have been mentioned in the Qur'ān.

2997. Mīzān may mean, (a) Principles of equity which people are enjoined to observe in their dealings with others. (b) Standards by which human actions are measured, weighed, appraised and judged. (c) Balance which pervades the whole universe maintaining just equilibrium among all things. (d) Practice of the Holy Prophet and right use of the Book of God. (e) Following the golden mean and avoiding extremes. (f) Reasons and arguments based on observation and experience.

2998. Al-Ḥadīd (iron) is the metal which perhaps has played the greatest and most useful part in the growth and development of human civilization. The word may also signify the power to compel obedience to the laws upon which the whole existence of human society depends. Thus the verse means that God has sent down three things: (a) Divine Laws; (b) the system which maintains just equilibrium in human social relations and (c) political power which compels obedience to Divine Laws.

2999. The verse may mean that the followers of Jesus invented monasticism in order to seek Allāh's pleasure but Allāh had not prescribed it for them; or the meaning is that they invented monasticism which God had not prescribed for them—He had only prescribed for them the seeking of His pleasure. In v. 26 it was stated that God had sent down al-Mīzān in order that by avoiding extremes people should adopt the golden mean in all their affairs and actions. In the present verse the example of a people—the Christians—has been cited to show that the adoption of an extreme course by them, with howsoever good intentions, led them away from the goal they had sought to

يٰٓاَيُّهَا الَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوا اتَّقُوا اللّٰهَ وَاٰمِنُوْا بِرَسُوْلِهٖ يُؤْتِكُمْ كِفْلَيْنِ مِنْ رَّحْمَتِهٖ وَيَجْعَلْ لَّكُمْ نُوْرًا تَمْشُوْنَ بِهٖ وَيَغْفِرْ لَكُمْ ۭ وَاللّٰهُ غَفُوْرٌ رَّحِيْمٌ ﴿٢٩﴾ۙ

29. O ye who believe! fear Allāh and believe in His Messenger. He will give you a double portion of His mercy, and will provide for you a light wherein you will walk, and will grant you forgiveness—verily, Allāh is Most Forgiving, Merciful—

لِّئَلَّا يَعْلَمَ اَهْلُ الْكِتٰبِ اَلَّا يَقْدِرُوْنَ عَلٰي شَيْءٍ مِّنْ فَضْلِ اللّٰهِ وَاَنَّ الْفَضْلَ بِيَدِ اللّٰهِ يُؤْتِيْهِ مَنْ يَّشَاۗءُ ۭ وَاللّٰهُ ذُو الْفَضْلِ الْعَظِيْمِ ﴿٣٠﴾ۧ

30. Thus it is that the People of the Book may know that they have no power over anything of the grace[3000] of Allāh; [a]and that grace is entirely in the hands of Allāh, He gives it to whomsoever He pleases. And Allāh is the Master of immense grace.

attain. They invented the institution of monkery in order, as they mistakenly thought, to seek the pleasure of God, and in conformity with, according to them, Jesus's own teaching and practice, but it proved to be a source of many social evils. They started with adopting monasticism and ended by giving themselves up to the worship of Mammon. Islām, however, has decried and deplored monasticism as repugnant to human nature. The Holy Prophet is reported to have said: "There is no monasticism in Islām" (Athīr). Islām is not a religion of visionaries who live in a world of their own conception or creation, entirely divorced from the hard realities of life. There is no place in Islām for such an impracticable teaching as "take no thought for the morrow" (Matt. 6:34). It emphatically enjoins a Muslim "to look to what he sends forth for the morrow" (59:19). A true Muslim is one who discharges equally and completely all his obligations to God and man.

3000. Let the People of the Book disabuse their minds of the false notion that Divine grace is their monopoly and know that now God had transferred it to another people—the followers of Islām.

CHAPTER 58
AL-MUJĀDALAH
(Revealed after Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah is the second of the last seven Medinite Chapters of the Qur'ān. It contains a somewhat detailed reference to the evil custom of Ẓihār (calling one's wife one's mother) which was only cursorily dealt with in Sūrah Al-Aḥzāb which shows that this Sūrah was revealed before Al-Aḥzāb. But as Al-Aḥzāb was revealed between 5th and 7th year of the Hijrah, the present Sūrah, therefore, must have been revealed earlier; very likely between the 3rd and the 4th year. In the immediately preceding Sūrah—Sūrah Al-Ḥadīd—"the People of the Book" were sternly told that Divine grace was not their monopoly and that since they had repeatedly defied and opposed and persecuted God's Messengers, it would now be transferred for all time to the House of Ishmael. In the present Sūrah Muslims are warned that as their material prosperity would excite the enmity of their external and internal foes, they should be on their guard against their evil designs and machinations. And, it is an invariable practice of the Qur'ān that whenever it deals with the machinations of the enemies of Islām, it also makes a pointed reference to some social evils. This method was adopted in Sūrahs, An-Nūr and Al-Aḥzāb, and it has been adopted in the present Sūrah also.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with a sharp denunciation of the evil custom of Ẓihār and by citing the case of Khaulah, a Muslim lady, lays down the ordinance that if anyone calls his wife "mother," he has to atone for this heinous moral lapse by either freeing a slave, if he has one, or by fasting for two successive months, and failing that by feeding sixty needy persons. The Sūrah then proceeds to deal with the plots and conspiracies of the internal enemies of Islām and condemns the formation of secret societies and holding secret conferences to injure its cause. Then with befitting relevance it lays down some rules of conduct about social gatherings; and towards its close it sternly warns the enemies of Islām that by their opposition to it they will incur God's wrath but will never be able to arrest or impede its progress. This warning to disbelievers is followed by an equally strong warning to believers, that under no circumstances should they make friends with the enemies of their Faith, however closely related the latter might be to them, as by opposing Islām they have waged a veritable war against God, and friendship with God's enemies is inconsistent with true faith.

3. Those among you who put away their wives by calling them mothers—they do not thereby become their mothers; their mothers are only those who gave them birth. They certainly utter words that are manifestly evil and untrue; but, surely, Allāh is the Effacer of sins, Most Forgiving.

3001. Khaulah, wife of Aus bin Ṣāmit and daughter of Tha'labah had become separated from her husband because the latter had called her "mother," the exact words used by him being, 'thou art to me as the back of my mother;' and thus according to an old Arab custom all conjugal relations had ceased between her and her husband. The unfortunate woman could neither demand divorce in order to contract a second marriage, nor could she enjoy conjugal rights and thus remained a suspended woman, uncared for. She came to the Holy Prophet and complained to him of the awkward situation in which she was placed, and sought his advice and help in the matter. The Holy Prophet pleaded his inability to do anything for her, as it was his wont that he would not give a decision in matters of this nature unless he was guided by revelation. The revelation came, and the custom of Ẓihār was declared unlawful.

وَالَّذِيْنَ يُظٰهِرُوْنَ مِنْ نِّسَآئِهِمْ ثُمَّ

وَاللّٰهُ بِمَا تَعْمَلُوْنَ خَبِيْرٌ ۝

4. Those who put away their wives by calling them mothers, and then would go back[3002] on what they have said, must free a slave before they touch one another. This is what you are admonished with. And Allāh is Well-Aware of what you do.

فَمَنْ لَّمْ يَجِدْ فَصِيَامُ شَهْرَيْنِ مُتَتَابِعَيْنِ
مِنْ قَبْلِ اَنْ يَّتَمَآسَّا ۚ فَمَنْ لَّمْ يَسْتَطِعْ
فَاِطْعَامُ سِتِّيْنَ مِسْكِيْنًا ؕ ذٰلِكَ
لِتُؤْمِنُوْا بِاللّٰهِ وَرَسُوْلِهٖ ؕ وَتِلْكَ حُدُوْدُ
اللّٰهِ ؕ وَلِلْكٰفِرِيْنَ عَذَابٌ اَلِيْمٌ ۝

5. But he who does not find a slave, he must fast for two successive months, before they touch one another. And he who is not able to do so shall feed sixty poor people.[3003] This is enjoined on you so that you may have faith in Allāh and His Messenger. And these are the limits prescribed by Allāh; and for the disbelievers is a painful punishment.

اِنَّ الَّذِيْنَ يُحَآدُّوْنَ اللّٰهَ وَرَسُوْلَهٗ كُبِتُوْا

6. [a]Those who oppose Allāh[3004] and His Messenger

[a]9:63.

3002. The words, "they would go back on what they have said," may signify that after calling their wives "mothers" they seek to re-establish conjugal relations with them, or they may mean that after having once called their wives "mothers" they repeat what they have said. According to this meaning, it is deliberate repetition of the obnoxious words and not their casual or inadvertent utterance that renders the utterer liable to the punishment prescribed in this and the following verse.

3003. The drastic punishment mentioned in these verses indicates the extreme seriousness of the crime of calling one's wife "mother." The relationship with "mother" is too sacred to be trifled with.

3004. Calling one's wife "mother" is tantamount to opposing God—so hideous is the offence. Befittingly the subject of opposition to truth by the Jews and the Hypocrites is introduced in this verse.

كَمَا كُبِتَ الَّذِيْنَ مِنْ قَبْلِهِمْ وَقَدْ اَنْزَلْنَآ اٰيٰتٍۭ بَيِّنٰتٍ ؕ وَلِلْكٰفِرِيْنَ عَذَابٌ مُّهِيْنٌ ۚ﴿۶﴾

There is no secret counsel of three, but He is their fourth, nor of five but He is their sixth, nor of less than that, nor of more, but He is with them wheresoever they may be. Then on the Day of Resurrection He will inform them of what they did. Surely, Allāh has full knowledge of all things.

9. Seest thou not those who were forbidden to hold secret counsels, then they return to that which they were forbidden, and confer in secret for sin and transgression and disobedience to the Messenger?[3005] And 3005. The verse refers to the secret plots and conspiracies against Islām of the Jews and the Hypocrites of Medina and condemns this evil practice. The when they come to thee, they greet thee with a [a]greeting with which Allāh, has not greeted thee;[3006] but among themselves they say, 'Why does not Allāh punish us for what we say?' Sufficient for them is Hell, wherein they will burn; and a most evil destination it is!

10. O ye who believe! when you confer together in private, confer not for the purpose of promoting sin and transgression and disobedience to the Messenger, but confer for the purpose of promoting virtue and righteousness,[3007] and fear Allāh unto Whom you shall all be gathered.

11. Holding of secret counsels for evil purposes is only of Satan, that he may cause grief to those who believe; but it cannot harm them in the least, except by Allāh's leave. And in Allāh should the believers put their trust.

expulsion of the three Jewish tribes from Medina was the result of their repeated acts of defection and infidelity and their secret plots against Islām and the life of the Holy Prophet.

3006. The meaning is that they go beyond proper limits in hypocritically praising thee; or they invoke death and destruction upon thee. The words seem to refer to the evil practice of some of the Jews of Medina that when they came to the Holy Prophet they, with a little twist of the tongue, would invoke curses upon him by saying As-Sāmu 'Alaika (death to thee), instead of saluting him with the usual As-Salāmu 'Alaika, i.e. 'peace be upon thee' (Bukhārī).

3007. In this and the preceding two verses secret societies have been condemned, but the condemnation is not unqualified. The believers have been

12. O ye who believe! when it is said to you, 'Make room in your assemblies,' then do make room; Allāh will make ample room for you. And when it is said, 'Rise up'[3008] then rise up; Allāh will raise those who believe from among you, and those whom knowledge is given, to degrees of rank. And Allāh is Well-Aware of what you do.

14. Are you afraid of giving alms before your consultation?[3010] So, when you do not do so and Allāh has been allowed to hold secret conferences to promote good and righteous causes.

3008. As in the preceding verses the subject of holding an assembly was dealt with, it was in the fitness of things that its ethics and etiquette should also have been pointed out and this has been done in the present verse.

3009. The believers should have due regard for the precious time of the Holy Prophet and as a compensation for taking his time to spend some money in charity before going to him for consultation. The Holy Prophet has been called "Counsellor" in the Bible (Isa. 9:6).

3010. The commandment about the giving of alms before seeking the Holy Prophet's consultation is not obligatory but optional, though preferable. The apprehension of the Companions of the Holy Prophet was whether they had given enough in alms to have complied with God's commandment.

وَ تَابَ اللّٰهُ عَلَيْكُمْ فَاَقِيْمُوا الصَّلٰوةَ وَاٰتُوا الزَّكٰوةَ وَ اَطِيْعُوا اللّٰهَ وَرَسُوْلَهٗ ؕ وَاللّٰهُ خَبِيْرٌۢ بِمَا تَعْمَلُوْنَ ﴿۱۴﴾ ع ۲/۴

3013. It is writ large on the face of History that eventually Truth has always prevailed against falsehood.

3014. Obviously, there could be no true or sincere friendship or relationship of love between the believers and the disbelievers. The ideals, principles and religious beliefs of the two being poles apart, and the community of interests which is the sine qua non of real intimate relationship being non-existent, believers are required not to have intimate and affectionate friendship with disbelievers. The bonds of Faith transcend all other bonds, even the close ties

AL-ḤASHR
(Revealed after Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah is the third of the seven last Medinite Chapters of the Qur'ān. The preceding Sūrah had dealt with the secret plots and machinations against Islām of the Jews of Medina. The present one, however, deals with their punishment, particularly with the expulsion from Medina of the Banū Naḍīr, one of the three Jewish tribes—Banū Qainuqā', Banū Naḍīr and Banū Quraiẓah—a few months after the Battle of Uḥud in the fourth year of the Hijrah. The expulsion was an act of great wisdom and political foresight on the Holy Prophet's part. Because, if the Jews had been allowed to remain in Medina they would have proved, on account of their conspiracies and secret plots, a source of constant danger to Islām. Next, the Sūrah deals with the Hypocrites of Medina who were neither true to Muslims nor to Jews. A hypocrite is essentially a coward, and a cowardly person is never sincere or honest to anyone. The Hypocrites of Medina proved dishonest even to the Jews in the latter's hour of peril. The Sūrah opens with Divine glorification and ends with an exhortation to Muslims to sing the praises of the Beneficent and Merciful Lord, Who had nipped the wicked designs of their enemies in the bud and had opened out endless vistas of progress and prosperity for them. The Sūrah has close resemblance with Sūrah Al-Anfāl.

3015. See [2981]. Whereas Tasbīḥ (glorifying) is used with regard to God's attributes, Taqdīs (extolling His holiness) is used concerning His actions.

3016. There lived in Medina three Jewish tribes—Banū Qainuqā', Banū Naḍīr and Banū Quraiẓah. The verse refers to the banishment from Medina of the Banū Naḍīr. This tribe like Banū Qainuqā' before them had acted treacherously towards Muslims on several occasions. They had hatched plots and entered into secret alliances against them, with their enemies. They had repeatedly broken their plighted word and had repudiated the solemn agreement that they would remain neutral between the Holy Prophet and his enemies, and even had conspired to take his life. Their leader Ka'b bin Ashraf had gone to Mecca to enlist the help of the Quraish and of other pagan tribes around Mecca to drive out the Muslims from Medina. After the temporary reverse suffered by Muslims at Uḥud, their machinations and defiance of the Holy Prophet had greatly increased. It was when the cup of their iniquities had become full to the brim and their presence in Medina had proved to be a constant source of mortal danger to Muslims and the Islamic State that the Holy Prophet had to take action against them. He laid siege to their fortresses and, after vainly holding out for about 21 days, they surrendered. They were told to leave Medina upon which they all left for Syria, only two families choosing to remain behind at Khaibar. The Holy Prophet was exceptionally kind and considerate to them. He allowed them to carry their goods and chattels with them. They departed from Medina in perfect safety, but not until they had despaired of the help they expected from their Meccan allies and from the Hypocrites of Medina, and had also found that their fortresses, which they thought were impregnable, could not save them. In view of their evil not think that they would go forth and they thought that their fortresses would defend them against Allāh.[3017] But [a]Allāh came upon them whence they did not expect, and [b]cast terror into their hearts, so that they demolished their houses with their own hands[3018] and with the hands of the believers. So take a lesson, O ye who have eyes.

اَنَّهُمْ مَّانِعَتُهُمْ حُصُوْنُهُمْ مِّنَ اللّٰهِ فَاَتٰىهُمُ اللّٰهُ مِنْ حَيْثُ لَمْ يَحْتَسِبُوْا ۗ وَقَذَفَ فِيْ قُلُوْبِهِمُ الرُّعْبَ يُخْرِبُوْنَ بُيُوْتَهُمْ بِاَيْدِيْهِمْ وَاَيْدِي الْمُؤْمِنِيْنَ ۗ فَاعْتَبِرُوْا يٰٓاُولِي الْاَبْصَارِ ۝٢

وَلَوْلَآ اَنْ كَتَبَ اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِمُ الْجَلَآءَ لَعَذَّبَهُمْ فِي الدُّنْيَا ۭ وَلَهُمْ فِي الْاٰخِرَةِ عَذَابُ النَّارِ ۝٣

4. And had it not been that Allāh had decreed exile for them, He would have, surely, punished them otherwise in this world.[3019] And in the designs and machinations, their conspiracies and secret plots, their repeated acts of treachery and infidelity and the breach of their plighted word every now and then, the punishment meted out to them was extremely light.

The reference in the words, at the time of the first banishment, may be to the banishment of Banū Qainuqā‘ from Medina after the Battle of Badr, or the words may refer to the banishment by the Holy Prophet from Medina of all the three above-mentioned Jewish tribes. That was their first banishment. ‘Umar, the Holy Prophet’s Second Successor, however, banished all the Jews from the rest of Arabia for the second and last time. Thus the words may be taken as embodying a prophecy that after the Jewish tribes of Medina will have been banished by the Holy Prophet, all the Jews of Arabia would suffer the same fate at some later time.

3017. In view of the material resources, political alliances and organization of the Jews of Medina, the Muslims could never think that the Jews could be driven out of Medina so easily and without any loss of human life on either side.

3018. Before departing from Medina the Banū Naḍīr had destroyed, with their own hands, their houses and other movable property before the very eyes of Muslims. The Holy Prophet had given them ten days to dispose of their affairs as they liked. Thus the Jews of Medina were the originators of the scorched earth policy, centuries before the Russians had adopted it in World War II.

3019. The exile of the Banū Naḍīr from Medina was a very light

Hereafter they will, certainly, have the punishment of the Fire.

[a]4:116; 8:14; 47:33.

punishment. They deserved a much heavier punishment, and had they not been exiled they would have been severely punished in some other way.

3020. The reference is to the cutting, by orders of the Holy Prophet, of the palm trees of the Banū Naḍīr who, as stated in v. 3, had shut themselves up in their fortresses in defiance of the Holy Prophet's orders to surrender. After the siege had lasted for some days, the Holy Prophet, in order to compel them to surrender, ordered that some of their palm trees of the līnah kind, of which the dates are of very inferior quality and quite unfit for human consumption, (Ar-Rauḍul-Unuf), should be cut down. It was after only six trees had been cut down, that they surrendered (Zurqānī). The orders of the Holy Prophet were extremely light and lenient and quite in conformity with the laws of civilized warfare.

3021. As Fai' consists of such booty as is attained without difficulty or labour and accrues to Muslims without war, the soldiers have no share in it, and the whole of it goes to the public treasury. The verse may have special reference to the spoils the Muslims got from the Jews of Khaibar. It lays down the principle that the circulation of wealth should not remain confined to the privileged and propertied class. As an individual's health requires that his physical needs be reasonably met, the health of the society requires that material goods be widely distributed and wealth be in easy circulation. This is the basic principle of Muslim economics. Finding humanity ground down under the tyranny of vested interests, Islām propounded measures that broke the barriers of economic caste and enormously reduced the injustice of special privilege. It does not, however, oppose the profit motive or economic competition, but only insists that acquisitiveness and competition be balanced by fair play and compassion. Since human nature automatically takes care for the former, it falls to social laws to safeguard the latter. The Zakāt is Islām's basic device for institutionalising regard for the need of others, but it is supplemented by a number of other measures.

3022. The words, whatsoever the Messenger gives you, take it, show that the Sunnah forms an integral part of the Islamic Law.

وَالَّذِيْنَ تَبَوَّؤُ الدَّارَ وَالْاِيْمَانَ مِنْ

They love those who come to them for refuge, and find not in their breasts any desire for that which is given them (the Refugees), but give preference to the Refugees above themselves, even though poverty be their own lot.[3023] Whoso is rid of the covetousness of his own soul—it is these [a]who will be successful;

[a]64:17.

3023. The words constitute a great testimonial to the spirit of self-sacrifice, hospitality and goodwill of the Anṣār (Helpers). The Refugees (Muhājirīn) from Mecca came to them, deprived and denuded of all their possessions, and they received them with open arms and made them equal partners in their belongings. The bond of love and brotherhood which the Holy Prophet established between the Refugees from Mecca and the Helpers of Medina and to which this verse bears an eloquent testimony, stands unrivalled in the whole history of human relationships.

3024. The words may apply to the Refugees who came later to Medina, or to all the coming generations of Muslims.

brethren who disbelieve from among the People of the Book, 'If you are turned out of Medina, we will, surely, go out with you and we will never obey any one against you, and if you are fought against, we will, certainly, help you.[3025] But Allāh bears witness that, surely, they are liars.

13. If they are turned out, they will never go out with them; and if they are fought against, they will never help them. And even if they help them, they will, certainly, [a]turn their backs, and then they themselves shall not be helped.

14. Assuredly, they have greater [b]fear of you in their hearts than of Allāh. That is because they are a people who understand not.

لَا يُقَاتِلُوْنَكُمْ جَمِيْعًا اِلَّا فِيْ قُرًى

15. They will not fight you in a body except in strongly fortified towns or from behind the walls. Their fighting among themselves is severe.

[a]3:112. [b]4:78.

3025. The Hypocrites had urged the Jews of Medina to defy the Holy Prophet and break their plighted word with him, holding out to them false promises of help and succour in time of need. But when relying upon their promises the Jews defied the Holy Prophet and marched against him, they left them in the lurch.

شَتّٰى ؕ ذٰلِكَ بِاَنَّهُمْ قَوْمٌ لَّا يَعْقِلُوْنَ ﴿۱۵﴾

Thou thinkest them to be united, but their hearts are divided.[3026] That is because they are a people who have no sense.

كَمَثَلِ الَّذِيْنَ مِنْ قَبْلِهِمْ قَرِيْبًا ذَاقُوْا وَبَالَ اَمْرِهِمْ ۚ وَلَهُمْ عَذَابٌ اَلِيْمٌ ﴿۱۶﴾

16. Their case is like the case of those people who passed away only a short time before them. They tasted the evil consequences of their evil conduct.[3027] And for them is a painful punishment.

كَمَثَلِ الشَّيْطٰنِ اِذْ قَالَ لِلْاِنْسَانِ اكْفُرْ ۚ فَلَمَّا كَفَرَ قَالَ اِنِّيْ بَرِيْٓءٌ مِّنْكَ اِنِّيْٓ اَخَافُ اللّٰهَ رَبَّ الْعٰلَمِيْنَ ﴿۱۷﴾

17. [a]Or it is like that of Satan, when he says to man, 'Disbelieve,' but when he disbelieves, he says, I have nothing to do with thee, I fear Allāh, the Lord of the worlds.'

فَكَانَ عَاقِبَتَهُمَآ اَنَّهُمَا فِي النَّارِ خَالِدَيْنِ فِيْهَا ؕ وَذٰلِكَ جَزٰٓؤُا الظّٰلِمِيْنَ ﴿۱۸﴾

18. The end of both is that they are both in the Fire, abiding therein. Such is the reward of the wrongdoers.

[a]8:49; 14:23.

3026. The verse means that the disbelievers, particularly the Jews and the Hypocrites of Medina, present a false facade of unity against Islām, but as they have no common cause to fight for, and as their interests are diverse and divergent, there can possibly exist no real unity among them. There were three parties in Arabia who appeared to be united against the Islamic State—the Jews, the Hypocrites of Medina and the pagan Quraish of Mecca. The Quraish saw in the rising power of Islām a great danger to their all-round supremacy, the Hypocrites (of whom 'Abdullah bin Ubayy was the leader) to their domination in Medina, and the Jews to their organization and racial superiority. Having no common objective their seeming unity had no real basis and it never materialized in time of danger.

3027. The reference may be to the Quraish of Mecca who sustained ignominious defeat at Badr, or to Banū Qainuqā' who were punished for their mischiefs and machinations after Badr. The latter were the first of the three Jewish tribes who were banished from Medina one month after the Battle of Badr because they had broken their pledged word with the Holy Prophet. Eventually they settled in Syria.

3027A. The verse may signify that the proud pagan Arabs whom no pre-Islamic teaching could wean from their polytheistic beliefs and idolatrous practices and who, like a strong rock, remained unmoved and firmly wedded to their Bedouin usages, unaffected by the corrosive influence of the glamour and glitter of the neighbouring Christian civilization, would be humbled

(Revealed after Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

Like the preceding three Chapters, this Sūrah was revealed, as its contents show, at Medina, in the 7th or 8th year of Hijrah, sometime during the interval between the Treaty of Ḥudaibiyah and the Fall of Mecca. The preceding Sūrah had dealt with the intrigues and machinations of the Hypocrites and the Jews of Medina and with the punishment which was meted out to them. The present Sūrah deals with the believers' social relations with disbelievers in general, and with those at war with Islām in particular. It opens with an emphatic prohibitory injunction to Muslims against having intimate friendly relations with those disbelievers who are at war with and are bent upon extirpating Islām. The injunction is so strict and comprehensive that even very near blood relations have not been exempted from it. The prohibitory injunction is followed by an implied prophecy that very soon the implacable enemies of Islām would become its devoted followers. The injunction, however, has its exception. It does not apply to those disbelievers who have good neighbourly relations with Muslims. Such disbelievers are to be treated equitably and with kindness. The Sūrah then lays down some important injunctions with regard to believing women who migrated to Medina, and also with regard to those women who left Medina and went over to disbelievers. In order to bring home to Muslims the seriousness of the matter, the Sūrah closes with repeating the injunction that Muslims are not to make friends with those people, who, by adopting an openly hostile attitude towards Islām, have incurred God's wrath.

When you go forth to strive in My cause and to seek My pleasure, some of you send them messages of love in secret, while I know best what you conceal and 3028. The prohibitory injunction is of very strict character. Muslims are not to have friendly relations with the avowed enemies of God—those who drove out the Prophet and the Muslims from their hearths and homes and sought to destroy Islām. It is all-comprehensive in this respect that no consideration of bonds or ties of even the nearest blood relationship is allowed to interfere with it. The enemy of Islām is God's enemy, whosoever he may be.

[a]1:1. [b]3:119; 4:145; 5:58. [c]17:77.

The immediate occasion of the revelation of this verse seems to be when the Quraish dishonoured the Treaty of Ḥudaibiyah, and the Holy Prophet had to take stern punitive action against them, Ḥāṭib bin Abī Balta'ah had written a secret letter to the Meccans informing them of the Holy Prophet's intended march on Mecca. The Prophet, informed by revelation about it, sent 'Alī, Zubair and Miqdād in search of the bearer of the letter. They overtook the Messenger—she was a woman—on the way to Mecca and the letter was brought back to Medina. Ḥāṭib's offence was extremely grave. He had sought to divulge an important State secret. He deserved exemplary punishment, but he was forgiven because he had committed the offence inadvertently, not realizing its grave consequences. Incidentally, the episode of the letter fixes the date of the revelation of the Sūrah.

what you reveal. And whoever of you does it has, indeed, strayed away from the right path.

اِنْ يَّثْقَفُوْكُمْ يَكُوْنُوْا لَكُمْ اَعْدَآءً وَّيَبْسُطُوْٓا اِلَيْكُمْ اَيْدِيَهُمْ وَاَلْسِنَتَهُمْ بِالسُّوْٓءِ وَوَدُّوْا لَوْ تَكْفُرُوْنَ ۝٣

3. If they get the upper hand of you, they will be your active enemies, and will stretch forth their hands and their tongues towards you to do you harm; and they ardently desire that you should become disbelievers.

لَنْ تَنْفَعَكُمْ اَرْحَامُكُمْ وَلَآ اَوْلَادُكُمْ ۚ يَوْمَ الْقِيٰمَةِ ۚ يَفْصِلُ بَيْنَكُمْ ۭ وَاللّٰهُ بِمَا تَعْمَلُوْنَ بَصِيْرٌ ۝٤

4. [a]Neither your ties of kindred, nor your children will avail you aught on the Day of Resurrection. Allāh will decide between you. And Allāh sees all what you do.

5. [b]Indeed there is a good example for you in Abraham[3029] and those with him when they said to their people, [c]'We have nothing to do with you and with that which you worship beside Allāh. We disbelieve all that you believe in. There has become manifest enmity and hatred between us and you for 3029. Abraham's example has been mentioned here to emphasize that whenever it becomes clear that a certain person or persons are inimically disposed towards truth and are bent upon extirpating it, all friendly relations with them are to be given up. The expression, Kafarnā Bikum, which is generally translated as 'we disbelieve all that you believe in' may also mean, We have nothing to do with you; the expression, Kafara Bikadhā, meaning, he declared himself to be clear or quit of such a thing (Lane).

ever, until you believe in Allāh alone—except that Abraham said to his father, [a]'I will, surely, ask forgiveness for thee, though I have no power to do aught for thee against Allāh.' Their prayer was: 'Our Lord, in Thee do we put our trust and to Thee do we turn in repentance, and towards Thee is the final return;

رَبَّنَا لَا تَجْعَلْنَا فِتْنَةً لِّلَّذِيْنَ كَفَرُوْا

6. 'Our Lord, make us not a [b]trial for those who disbelieve, and forgive us, our Lord; for, Thou alone art the Mighty, the Wise.'

لَقَدْ كَانَ لَكُمْ فِيْهِمْ اُسْوَةٌ حَسَنَةٌ لِّمَنْ

7. [c]Surely, there is a good example in them for you—for all who have hope to see Allāh and the Last Day. And whosoever turns away—truly, Allāh is Self-Sufficient, Worthy of all praise.

R. 2.

عَسَى اللّٰهُ اَنْ يَّجْعَلَ بَيْنَكُمْ وَبَيْنَ الَّذِيْنَ

8. It may be that Allāh will bring about love between you and those of them with whom you are now at enmity,[3030]

[a]19:48. [b]10:86. [c]60:5.

3030. The verse implied a prophecy. The Companions of the Holy Prophet were told that though they had been enjoined to renounce all friendly relations with the enemies of their Faith, even though the latter might be their very near blood relations, the prohibition was destined to be very short-lived. The time was fast approaching when the erstwhile enemies would become their loving friends. The commandment applies only to such disbelievers, as the next verse and Allāh is All-Powerful; and Allāh is Most Forgiving, Merciful.

وَاللّٰهُ غَفُوْرٌ رَّحِيْمٌ ۝٨

لَا يَنْهٰىكُمُ اللّٰهُ عَنِ الَّذِيْنَ لَمْ يُقَاتِلُوْكُمْ فِي الدِّيْنِ وَلَمْ يُخْرِجُوْكُمْ مِّنْ دِيَارِكُمْ اَنْ تَبَرُّوْهُمْ وَتُقْسِطُوْٓا اِلَيْهِمْ ۭ اِنَّ اللّٰهَ يُحِبُّ الْمُقْسِطِيْنَ ۝٩

9. Allāh forbids you not respecting those who have not fought against you on account of your religion, and who have not driven you out from your homes, that you be kind to them and deal equitably with them; surely, Allāh loves those who are equitable.

اِنَّمَا يَنْهٰىكُمُ اللّٰهُ عَنِ الَّذِيْنَ قٰتَلُوْكُمْ فِي الدِّيْنِ وَاَخْرَجُوْكُمْ مِّنْ دِيَارِكُمْ وَظٰهَرُوْا عَلٰٓى اِخْرَاجِكُمْ اَنْ تَوَلَّوْهُمْ ۚ وَمَنْ يَّتَوَلَّهُمْ فَاُولٰۗىِٕكَ هُمُ الظّٰلِمُوْنَ ۝١٠

10. Allāh only forbids you respecting those who have fought against you on account of your religion and have driven you out of your homes, and have helped others in driving you out, that you make friends with them, and whosoever makes friends with them—it is these that are the transgressors.

11. O ye who believe! when believing women come to you as Refugees, examine[3031] shows, who are at war with Muslims. Friendly relations with all non-Muslims as such are not forbidden.

3031. Though when Muslims were being bitterly persecuted and it was not safe to leave Mecca and join the Muslim Community at Medina, a continuous stream of believers was pouring into Medina, leaving behind in Mecca their dear and near ones. These Refugees contained a fair number of women among them. The verse refers to such refugee Muslim women. It constitutes an eloquent commentary on the Holy Prophet's anxiety not to accept into the Muslim Community any woman who had fled from Mecca unless there was proof available, after subjecting her to searching examination, that she was sincere and honest in her faith and was accepting Islām from no ulterior or otherwise objectionable motives. The verse further states that the marriage-tie them. Allāh knows best their faith. Then, if you find them true believers, send them not back to the disbelievers. These women are not lawful for them, nor are they lawful for these women. But give their disbelieving husbands what they have spent on them. Thereafter it is no sin for you to marry them, when you have given them their [a]dowries. And hold not to your matrimonial ties of the disbelieving [b]women, but should they join the disbelievers, then demand the return of that which you have spent; and let the disbelieving husbands of believing women demand that which they have spent. That is the judgment of Allāh. He judges between you. And Allāh is All-Knowing, Wise.

between a refugee believing woman and her disbelieving husband becomes automatically dissolved when she joins the Muslim Community; and a believer is allowed to marry her provided he fulfils two conditions: (a) He should have paid back to her disbelieving husband what the latter had spent on her, and (b) he should also have fixed and paid her dowry. Similarly, the marriage-tie between a Muslim and his wife who gives up Islām could not continue and the same procedure would be adopted if such an apostate woman marries a disbeliever as in the case of marriage between a Muslim and a refugee believing woman. The reciprocal arrangement prescribed in this verse is not the private affair of the individuals concerned but is to be carried out by the State, as is the practice in time of war, to which these verses particularly apply. There could not and should not then continue any social relations between individual believers and individual disbelievers.

وَاِنْ فَاتَكُمْ شَيْءٌ مِّنْ اَزْوَاجِكُمْ اِلَى الْكُفَّارِ فَعَاقَبْتُمْ فَاٰتُوا الَّذِيْنَ ذَهَبَتْ اَزْوَاجُهُمْ مِّثْلَ مَآ اَنْفَقُوْا ؕ وَاتَّقُوا اللّٰهَ الَّذِيْٓ اَنْتُمْ بِهٖ مُؤْمِنُوْنَ ﴿۱۲﴾

12. And if any of your wives goes away from you to the disbelievers, and afterwards you retaliate and get some spoils from the disbelievers, then give to those believers whose wives have gone away the like of that which they had spent on them.[3032] And fear Allāh in Whom you believe.

يٰٓاَيُّهَا النَّبِيُّ اِذَا جَآءَكَ الْمُؤْمِنٰتُ يُبَايِعْنَكَ عَلٰٓى اَنْ لَّا يُشْرِكْنَ بِاللّٰهِ شَيْـًٔا وَّلَا يَسْرِقْنَ وَلَا يَزْنِيْنَ وَلَا يَقْتُلْنَ اَوْلَادَهُنَّ وَلَا يَاْتِيْنَ بِبُهْتَانٍ يَّفْتَرِيْنَهٗ بَيْنَ اَيْدِيْهِنَّ وَاَرْجُلِهِنَّ وَلَا يَعْصِيْنَكَ فِيْ مَعْرُوْفٍ فَبَايِعْهُنَّ وَاسْتَغْفِرْ لَهُنَّ اللّٰهَ ؕ اِنَّ اللّٰهَ غَفُوْرٌ رَّحِيْمٌ ﴿۱۳﴾

13. O Prophet! when believing women come to thee, taking the oath of allegiance a*t thy hands* that they will not associate anything with Allāh, and that they will not steal, and will not commit adultery, nor kill their children, nor bring forth a scandalous charge which they themselves have deliberately forged, nor disobey thee in what is right, then accept their allegiance and ask Allāh to forgive them. Verily, Allāh is Most Forgiving, Merciful.

3032. If the wife of a Muslim deserts to disbelievers and thereafter a woman from among disbelievers is taken prisoner by the Muslims, or she flees from disbelievers and joins the Muslim Community, then the believing husband is to be compensated from the loss of the dowry paid by him to his deserting wife from the sum due to the disbelieving husband whose wife has joined the Muslim Community if the dowries are equal, but the deficiency, if any, is to be made up collectively by Muslims, or, as some authorities say, from the booty acquired by the State, the word 'Āqabtum also meaning Ghanimtum, i.e. you have acquired booty. This arrangement was necessary as disbelievers would refuse to return the dowries paid by their believing husbands to the women who had deserted to the former.

يٰٓاَيُّهَا الَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوْا لَا تَتَوَلَّوْا قَوْمًا
غَضِبَ اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِمْ قَدْ يَئِسُوْا مِنَ
الْاٰخِرَةِ كَمَا يَئِسَ الْكُفَّارُ مِنْ
اَصْحٰبِ الْقُبُوْرِ ﴿١٤﴾ ع ٢ ٨

14. O ye who believe! take not for friends a people with whom [a]Allāh is wroth; they have, indeed, despaired of the Hereafter[3033] just as have the disbelievers despaired of those who are in the graves.

[a]58:15.

3033. The words, they (disbelievers) have indeed despaired of the Hereafter, mean that they have no faith in the Hereafter, just as they have no faith that dead will ever come to life. The word "they" may particularly apply to the Jews, since the expression, with whom Allāh is wroth, has been used about the Jews in several verses of the Qur'ān.

CHAPTER 61

AṢ-ṢAFF

(Revealed after Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah was revealed at Medina, probably in the third or fourth year of the Hijrah, after the Battle of Uḥud, as v. 5 seems to possess an implied reference to the lack of discipline or unquestioning obedience to the Holy Prophet of which some of the Muslims were guilty in that battle. The preceding two Chapters had dealt with the subject of war against disbelievers, and with social and political problems arising out of it. The present Sūrah emphasizes the importance of giving unqualified and unquestioning obedience to the Leader, and of presenting, under his guidance, a solid, compact and united front to disbelievers.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with the glorification of God's wisdom and might, and proceeds to admonish believers that when they glorify God and extol His Holiness with their tongues, they should give a practical proof of their profession with their actions, thus making their actions harmonize with their verbal declarations. And when they are called upon to fight in the cause of Truth, they should present a firm and solid front to disbelievers, and should give unqualified obedience to their Leader. The Sūrah then makes a brief reference to the misbehaviour of the followers of Moses who, by maligning and defying him, caused him much vexation and mental anguish, and, by implication, warns Muslims never to behave like them. Next, mention is made of the prophecy of Jesus about the advent of the Prophet Aḥmad, followed by a firm declaration that all the attempts of the votaries of darkness to extinguish the Light of Allāh will come to naught. The Light will continue to shine in all its glory and effulgence and Islām will prevail over all religions. But before this eventually comes to pass, the Muslims will have to 'strive with their wealth and persons in the cause of Allāh.' Only then will they deserve to be blessed with God's pleasure and material glory, 'with gardens through which streams flow.' The Sūrah closes with exhorting Muslims to help God's cause, as did the disciples of Jesus by undergoing all manner of sacrifice and suffering for it.

سُوْرَةُ الصَّفِّ مَدَنِيَّةٌ ٦١ — اٰياتها ١٥ — رکوعاتها ٢

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

سَبَّحَ لِلّٰهِ مَا فِي السَّمٰوٰتِ وَ مَا فِي الْاَرْضِ ۚ وَهُوَ الْعَزِيْزُ الْحَكِيْمُ ②

2. [b]Whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth glorifies Allāh; and He is the Mighty, the Wise.

كَبُرَ مَقْتًا عِنْدَ اللّٰهِ اَنْ تَقُوْلُوْا مَا لَا تَفْعَلُوْنَ ④

4. It is most hateful in the sight of Allāh that you say what you do not.

اِنَّ اللّٰهَ يُحِبُّ الَّذِيْنَ يُقَاتِلُوْنَ فِيْ سَبِيْلِهٖ صَفًّا كَاَنَّهُمْ بُنْيَانٌ مَّرْصُوْصٌ ⑤

5. Verily, Allāh loves those who fight in His cause arrayed in solid ranks, as though they were a strong structure[3035] cemented with molten lead.

وَاِذْ قَالَ مُوْسٰى لِقَوْمِهٖ يٰقَوْمِ لِمَ تُؤْذُوْنَنِيْ وَقَدْ تَّعْلَمُوْنَ اَنِّيْ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ

6. And call to mind when Moses said to his people, 'O my people, why do you malign[3036] me and you know

[a]1:1. [b]17:45; 24:42; 57:2; 62:2; 64:2.

3034. The action of a Muslim should correspond to his professions. Boastful, empty talk carries one nowhere and verbal professions not accompanied by actual deeds smack of hypocrisy and insincerity.

3035. Muslims are expected to present a firm, compact and solid front to the forces of evil, under the command of their Leader whom they should give full and unqualified obedience. But a people who seek to become united into a solid and strong community, must possess one code of life, one ideal, one objective and one goal and one programme to achieve that objective.

3036. Perhaps no Prophet of God suffered so much mental agony at the hands of his followers as did Moses. Moses's people had seen the mighty hosts of Pharoah drown before their very eyes and yet they had hardly crossed the sea when they sought to revert to idolatry, and seeing some people that I am Allāh's Messenger unto you?' So when they deviated from the right course, Allāh caused their hearts to deviate; for Allāh guides not the rebellious people.

اِلَيْكُمْ ؕ فَلَمَّا زَاغُوْۤا اَزَاغَ اللّٰهُ قُلُوْبَهُمْ ؕ وَاللّٰهُ لَا يَهْدِى الْقَوْمَ الْفٰسِقِيْنَ ۝٥

7. And call to mind when Jesus, son of Mary, said, 'O Children of Israel, surely, I am Allāh's Messenger unto you, fulfilling that which is before me of the prophecies of the Torah, and giving glad tidings of a Messenger who will come after me, his name being Aḥmad.[3037] And when worshipping idols asked Moses to set up one such idol for them also (7:139). When asked to march into Canaan which God had promised to give them, they scornfully and brazen-facedly told Moses to go with his Lord upon Whom he had relied so much; they were not going to budge an inch from the place where they had settled (5:25). Thus Moses was repeatedly insulted by, and baulked in his efforts to reclaim from idolatry, the very people whom he had delivered from the crushing bondage of Pharoah. They even slandered and defamed him.

وَاِذْ قَالَ عِيْسَى ابْنُ مَرْيَمَ يٰبَنِىْۤ اِسْرَآءِيْلَ اِنِّىْ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ اِلَيْكُمْ مُّصَدِّقًا لِّمَا بَيْنَ يَدَىَّ مِنَ التَّوْرٰىةِ وَمُبَشِّرًا بِرَسُوْلٍ يَّاْتِىْ مِنْۢ بَعْدِى اسْمُهٗۤ اَحْمَدُ ؕ فَلَمَّا جَآءَهُمْ بِالْبَيِّنٰتِ قَالُوْا

3037. For the prophecy of Jesus about the coming of Paraclete or the Comforter or the Spirit of Truth see John, 12:13; 14:16, 17; 15:26; 16:7, from which the following inferences are clearly deducible:—

(a) Paraclete or the Comforter or the Spirit of Truth could not come unless Jesus should have departed from the world. (b) He was to abide in the world for ever; and was to say many things which Jesus himself could not say because the world could not then bear them. (c) He would guide men unto all truth. (d) He would not speak of himself but whatever he would hear that would he speak. (e) He would glorify Jesus and testify to his truth. This description of Paraclete or the Comforter or the Spirit of Truth is in complete harmony with the status and mission of the Holy Prophet as given in the Qur'ān. The Holy Prophet appeared after Jesus had departed from this world; he was the last Law-giving Prophet and the Qur'ān the last revealed Divine Law for the whole of mankind till the end of time (5:4). He did not speak of himself but whatever he heard from God that did he spake (53:4). He glorified Jesus (2:254; 3:56). The above prophecy in the Gospel of John closely

هٰذَا سِحْرٌ مُّبِيْنٌ ۝٧

he came to them with clear proofs, they said, 'This is manifest [a]sorcery.'

وَمَنْ اَظْلَمُ مِمَّنِ افْتَرٰى عَلَى اللّٰهِ الْكَذِبَ وَهُوَ يُدْعٰٓى اِلَى الْاِسْلَامِ ؕ

8. [b]But who does greater wrong than he who forges a lie against Allāh while he is invited to Islām?[3038] Allāh resembles the prophecy mentioned in the verse under comment except that instead of Aḥmad the name stated therein is Paraclete. Christian writers challenge the correctness of the Quranic version of the prophecy, basing their contention on this difference of the two names, irrespective of the otherwise identical features of the biblical and Quranic versions. In fact, Jesus spoke both Aramaic and Hebrew. Aramaic was his mother tongue and Hebrew his religious language. The present biblical version is the translation of Aramaic and Hebrew into Greek. A translation naturally cannot fully convey the beauty of the original text. Languages have their limitations. The same is true of the people who speak them. Their limitations are reflected in their works. The Greek language has another word, i.e. Periklutos, with a similar meaning as Aḥmad in Arabic. Jack Finegan, the renowned Christian theologian, in his book, "The Archaeology of World Religions," says: 'Where in Greek the word Parakletos (Comforter) is very similar to Periklutos (renowned), the latter word being the meaning of the names Aḥmad and Muḥammad.' Moreover, "The Damascus Document," a scripture discovered towards the end of the nineteenth century in Ezra synagogue, Old Cairo (p. 2), describes Jesus as having foretold the advent of a "Holy Spirit," named Emeth: And by His Messiah, He has made them know his Holy Spirit. For it is he who is Emeth, i.e. the Truthful One, and in accordance with His name are also theirs… "Emeth" in Hebrew means "the Truth," or "the Truthful One and a person of constant goodness" (Strachan's Fourth Gospel, p. 141). This word was interpreted by the Jews as "God's Seal." Naturally, though Jesus must have used the name Aḥmad, the phonetic resemblance between the two words (Aḥmad and Emeth) led later writers to substitute "Emeth" for Aḥmad, its Hebrew synonym. Thus the prophecy mentioned in the verse applies to the Holy Prophet, but as a corollary it may also apply to the Promised Messiah, Founder of the Aḥmadiyya Movement, because he has also been called Aḥmad in Divine revelation (Barāhīn-e-Aḥmadiyya) and because also in his person the Second Manifestation or Second Advent of the Holy Prophet took place. To this Second Manifestation of the Holy Prophet, the third verse of Sūrah Al-Jumu'ah pointedly refers. It may be mentioned in passing that a prophecy about the Holy Prophet is also clearly stated in the Gospel of Barnabas which is treated by the Church as apocryphal, but which has as much claim to be accepted as authentic as any of the four Gospels.

3038. The verse refers to disbelievers to whom the Holy Prophet addressed his Message, since he was the inviter and they the invitees (20:109 & 33:47). Moreover, they have been stigmatised in the Qur'ān as forgers of lies against God (6:138, 141). But if the prophecy be taken to apply to the Promised Messiah the expression, 'he is invited to Islām,' would signify that the Promised Messiah would be invited by the so-called defenders of Islām to recant, repent and be a Muslim like them, for, according to them, by his claim to be the Promised Messiah and Mahdī he would cease to be one.

3039. The Holy Prophet has been repeatedly called the "Light of Allāh," in the Qur'ān (4:175; 5:17; 64:9).

3040. Most Commentators of the Qur'ān are agreed that this verse applies to the Promised Messiah, because in his time all religions will have made their appearance and the superiority of Islām over all of them will become established.

3041. This verse also seems to refer to the time of the Promised Messiah when trade and commerce were to flourish and there was to be a mad rush for striking profitable bargains.

3042. Of the three religious groups among the Jews to whom Jesus preached his Message—the Pharisees, the Sadducees and the Essenes—Jesus belonged to the last, while he had not yet been commissioned as a Divine Preacher. The Essenes were a highly righteous people who lived away from the world's hustle and bustle, passing their time in meditation and prayer and in the service of humanity. It was from these people that most of Jesus's early followers came ("The Dead Sea Community" by Kurt Schubert & "The Crucifixion by An Eye-Witness"). They have been called "Helpers" by Eusephus. The concluding words of the Sūrah are indeed very prophetic. Throughout the ages the followers of Jesus have enjoyed power and predominance over their eternal enemies—the Jews. They have founded and ruled over vast and powerful empires while the Jews have remained a dispersed people so much so that "The Wandering Jew" has become a byword.

CHAPTER 62

AL-JUMU‘AH

(Revealed after Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

This Sūrah seems to have been revealed several years after Hijrah (see v. 4). In the preceding Sūrah Jesus’s prophecy about the advent of the Prophet Aḥmad was mentioned. The present Sūrah further deals with that prophecy. Like the preceding Sūrah it opens with the glorification of the might and wisdom of God, and, as a proof and demonstration of these two Divine attributes, points to the appearance of the Holy Prophet among the unlettered Arabs, who from an uncivilized, uncultured and unlettered people, became, through the teaching of the Qur’ān and the Prophet’s noble example, the teachers and leaders of mankind, spreading light and learning wherever they went. The Sūrah then refers to the same spiritual phenomenon which will take place at some later time through a great Deputy of the Holy Prophet, the Promised Messiah, and proceeds to condemn the Jewish people for their rejection of the Holy Prophet, in spite of the fact that their Scriptures abound in prophecies concerning him. Thus by implication the Sūrah warns Muslims against behaving like Jews when the Great Deputy of the Holy Prophet appears among them. Towards its close, importance of the Friday Prayer is emphasized and an implied hint is made that at the time of the Second Advent of the Holy Prophet which has been likened to the Friday Prayer, there would be a mad craze for trade, commerce and worldly gains and many other diversions to amuse and turn men away from God; and Muslims are exhorted not to let these things distract their attention in the midst of their religious duties.

3043. The four Divine attributes concern the fourfold mission of the Holy Prophet, mentioned in the next verse.

3044. See 3:76 and 7:158.

3045. The Divine mission of the Holy Prophet consisted in the performance of the fourfold sacred duty referred to in this verse. This was the great and noble task which was entrusted to him; because it was to his appearance among the unlettered Arabs that the Patriarch Abraham had prayed several thousand years ago, when in company with his son, Ishmael, he was raising the foundations of the Ka‘bah (2:130). In fact, no Reformer can truly succeed in his mission unless he prepares, by his noble and purifying example, a community of sincere, devoted and righteous followers, whom he first teaches the ideals and the principles of his Message and their philosophy, significance and importance, and then sends them abroad to preach that Message to other people. The training he imparts to his followers refines their intellect, and the philosophy of his teaching engenders in them certainty of faith, and his noble example creates in them purity of heart. It is to this basic fact of religion that the verse refers.

قُلْ يٰٓاَيُّهَا الَّذِيْنَ هَادُوْٓا اِنْ زَعَمْتُمْ

3046. The Message of the Holy Prophet was meant not only for the Arabs among whom he was raised but for all non-Arabs as well, and not only for his contemporaries but also for the generations to come till the end of time. Or, the verse may signify that the Holy Prophet will be raised among another people who have not yet joined his immediate followers. The reference in the verse and in a well-known saying of the Holy Prophet is to the Second Advent of the Holy Prophet himself in the person of the Promised Messiah in the Latter Days. Says Abū Hurairah: 'One Day we were sitting with the Holy Prophet when Sūrah Jumu‘ah was revealed. I enquired from the Holy Prophet, Who are the people to whom the words, 'And among others of them who have not yet joined them,' refer.' Salmān, the Persian, was sitting among us. Upon my repeatedly asking him the same question, the Holy Prophet put his hand on Salmān and said, 'If Faith were to go up to the Pleiades, a man from these would, surely, find it' (Bukhārī). This saying of the Holy Prophet shows that the verse applies to a man of Persian descent. The Promised Messiah, the Founder of the Ahmadiyya Movement, was of Persian descent. Other sayings of the Holy Prophet speak of the appearance of the Messiah at a time when there would remain nothing of the Qur'ān but its words and of Islām but its name, i.e. the true spirit of Islamic teaching will have been lost (Baihaqī). Thus the Qur'ān and the Ḥadīth both agree that the present verse refers to the Second Advent of the Holy Prophet in the person of the Promised Messiah.

اَنَّكُمْ اَوْلِيَآءُ لِلّٰهِ مِنْ دُوْنِ النَّاسِ فَتَمَنَّوُا الْمَوْتَ اِنْ كُنْتُمْ صٰدِقِيْنَ ۝٧

8. [b]But they will never wish for it, because of that which their hands have sent on before them. And Allāh knows well those who do wrong.

قُلْ اِنَّ الْمَوْتَ الَّذِيْ تَفِرُّوْنَ مِنْهُ فَاِنَّهٗ مُلٰقِيْكُمْ ثُمَّ تُرَدُّوْنَ اِلٰى عٰلِمِ الْغَيْبِ وَالشَّهَادَةِ فَيُنَبِّئُكُمْ بِمَا كُنْتُمْ تَعْمَلُوْنَ ۝٩ ع

9. Say, [c]'The death from which you flee will, surely, overtake you. Then you will be returned unto Him Who knows the unseen and the seen, and He will inform you of what you had been doing.'

R. 2.

يٰۤاَيُّهَا الَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوْۤا اِذَا نُوْدِيَ لِلصَّلٰوةِ مِنْ يَّوْمِ الْجُمُعَةِ فَاسْعَوْا اِلٰى ذِكْرِ اللّٰهِ وَذَرُوا الْبَيْعَ ؕ ذٰلِكُمْ خَيْرٌ لَّكُمْ اِنْ كُنْتُمْ تَعْلَمُوْنَ ۝١٠

10. O ye who believe! when the call is made for Prayer on Friday,[3047A] hasten to the remembrance of Allāh, and leave off all business. That is best for you, if you only knew.

[a]2:95. [b]2:96. [c]2:97; 4:79; 33:17.

3047. The Promised Messiah will challenge the so-called Muslim Ulema, who will reject his claim, to Mubāhalah, i.e. prayer-contest by which Divine curse is invoked upon those who forge lies against God (3:62).

3047A. In the preceding verses mention was made of the Jews who rejected the Holy Prophet's Message and who profaned their Sabbath and consequently incurred God's displeasure. In the present verse, however, Muslims have been enjoined to be particularly careful about the obligatory Friday Prayer. Every people has a Sabbath and the Muslim Sabbath is Friday. As the Sūrah seems particularly to deal with the time of the Promised Messiah, the call for Friday Prayer may also signify his clarion call to Muslims to listen to his Message.

فَاِذَا قُضِيَتِ الصَّلٰوةُ فَانْتَشِرُوْا فِي

11. And when the Prayer is finished, then disperse in the land and seek of Allāh’s grace,[3048] and remember[a] Allāh much that you may prosper.

وَاِذَا رَاَوْا تِجَارَةً اَوْ لَهْوَا ِۨانْفَضُّوْٓا اِلَيْهَا

12. But when they see some merchandise or amusement, they break up for it, and leave thee standing. Say, ‘That which is with Allāh is better than amusement and merchandise, and Allāh is the Best of providers.’

[a]3:192; 4:104; 8:46.

3048. Unlike the Jewish or Christian Sabbath, the Muslim Sabbath is not a day of rest. Before the Friday Prayer and after it Muslims may as usual pursue their daily avocations. The words 'of Allāh’s grace,' have generally been understood to mean doing business and earning one’s livelihood.'

CHAPTER 63
AL-MUNĀFIQŪN
(Revealed after Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

This also is a Medinite Sūrah, having been revealed, as its subject-matter shows, sometime after the Battle of Uḥud. Whereas the preceding Sūrah had specifically dealt with the Jews of Medina, this Sūrah deals with other enemies of Islām—the Hypocrites, and exposes their evil designs, their infidelity and dishonesty, and condemns their loud professions of faith as false and treacherous. They are the real enemies of Islām, says the Sūrah, since they try to deceive Muslims by their oaths and their false professions of faith, using them as a screen for that purpose. They have, by their evil designs and nefarious activities, condemned themselves beyond redemption. They mistakenly think that, like themselves, the Companions of the Holy Prophet are a band of self-seekers who will leave him when their material interests so demanded. The Sūrah closes with the exhortation to Muslims that they should spend their wealth in the cause of God, before the time comes when Islām will no longer need their money.

3049. It is characteristic of a hypocrite that he makes loud profession of his faith and thereby seeks to conceal the treachery and infidelity of his heart.

3050. The hypocrites seem to have lost all reason and understanding since they labour under the misconception that by their wiles and glib talk they can deceive Allāh and His Prophet.

3051. A hypocrite lacks self-reliance. He is always in search of someone upon whom to lean. Or, the verse may signify that his interior does not correspond to his exterior. He so conducts himself that while outwardly he appears to be a reasonable, dignified and honest person, inwardly he is quite hollow and rotten to the core. He seeks to please people with his glib talk but, being a coward, he suspects and sees danger everywhere.

3052. Insincere and dishonest himself, a hypocrite considers others to be like him. The Hypocrites of Medina had made an entirely foolish and wrong estimate of the sincerity of purpose of the Holy Prophet's Companions in that they thought that they (his Companions) had gathered round him from considerations of their material interests, and that the moment they found that their expectations had not materialized, they would desert him. Time completely belied their fond and futile expectations.

11. [b]And spend out of that which We have given you before death comes upon one of you and he says, [c]'My Lord! if only Thou wouldst respite me for a little while, then I would give alms and be among the righteous.'

وَ اَنْفِقُوْا مِنْ مَّا رَزَقْنٰكُمْ مِّنْ قَبْلِ اَنْ يَّاْتِيَ اَحَدَكُمُ الْمَوْتُ فَيَقُوْلَ رَبِّ لَوْ لَآ اَخَّرْتَنِيْٓ اِلٰٓى اَجَلٍ قَرِيْبٍ ۙ فَاَصَّدَّقَ وَ اَكُنْ مِّنَ الصّٰلِحِيْنَ ۝١١

[a]8:29; 24:38; 64:16; 102:2. [b]2:196; 9:34. [c]14:45.

3053. In the course of a campaign (probably the one against Banū Muṣṭaliq) 'Abdullāh bin Ubayy, leader of the Medina Hypocrites whose fond expectations to become the Chief of Medina were shattered by the Holy Prophet's arrival on the scene is reported to have said that on his return to Medina he, 'the most honourable of its inhabitants' meaning himself would drive out therefrom 'the meanest of them,' meaning the Holy Prophet. 'Abdullāh's son heard of this vile boast of his father, and as the party reached Medina, he drew his sword and barred his father's entry into the town until he had confessed and declared that he himself was the meanest of the citizens of Medina and the Holy Prophet the most honourable of them. Thus his boast recoiled on his head.

12. [a]And Allāh will not grant respite to a soul when its appointed time has come;[3054] and Allāh is Well-Aware of what you do.

وَلَنْ يُّؤَخِّرَ اللّٰهُ نَفْسًا اِذَا جَآءَ اَجَلُهَا ؕ وَاللّٰهُ خَبِيْرٌۢ بِمَا تَعْمَلُوْنَ ﴿۱۲﴾ ع ۲

[a]71:5.

3054. When it loses the God-given opportunity to serve a good cause.

CHAPTER 64
AT-TAGHĀBUN
(Revealed after Hijrah)

Introductory Remarks

The Sūrah was revealed at Medina. The previous Sūrah had closed on an exhortation to believers to spend liberally in the cause of Truth before the day arrived when they would have to render an account of their actions before God. In the present Sūrah some description is given of that awful day, which is called 'the day of losses and gains.' The believers are exhorted again with greater emphasis not to allow any consideration of ties of relationship to stand in the way of their resolve to spend their wealth in Allāh's way. The Sūrah further says that God had brought into existence the entire universe for man's service and had endowed him with great natural powers and faculties in order that he should achieve the object of his creation. Unfortunately, ungrateful men defy God's commandments. They are warned that they should make preparation for the day when the realization of the loss resulting from disobedience of Heavenly Messengers will be brought home to them. Towards the close of the Sūrah the believers are told that they can make up for remissness, if any, in the discharge of their obligations to God and their fellow beings, by giving unquestioning obedience to the commandments of God, and by spending liberally in the cause of Truth.

سُوْرَةُ التَّغَابُنِ مَدَنِيَّةٌ ٦٤ — اٰياتها ١٩ — رکوعاتها ٢

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

يُسَبِّحُ لِلّٰهِ مَا فِي السَّمٰوٰتِ وَمَا فِي الْاَرْضِ ۚ لَهُ الْمُلْكُ وَلَهُ الْحَمْدُ ۖ وَهُوَ عَلٰى كُلِّ شَيْءٍ قَدِيْرٌ ②

هُوَ الَّذِيْ خَلَقَكُمْ فَمِنْكُمْ كَافِرٌ وَّمِنْكُمْ مُّؤْمِنٌ ۭ وَاللّٰهُ بِمَا تَعْمَلُوْنَ بَصِيْرٌ ③

خَلَقَ السَّمٰوٰتِ وَالْاَرْضَ بِالْحَقِّ وَصَوَّرَكُمْ فَاَحْسَنَ صُوَرَكُمْ ۚ وَاِلَيْهِ الْمَصِيْرُ ④

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

2. [b]Whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth glorifies[3055] Allāh. His is the Kingdom and His is the praise, and He has power over all things.

3. It is He Who has created you, but some of you are disbelievers and some of you are believers.[3056] And Allāh sees what you do.

4. He created the heavens and the earth with an eternal purpose and [c]He gave you shape and made your shapes beautiful, and to Him is the ultimate return.[3057]

[a]1:1. [b]17:45; 24:42; 59:25; 61:2; 62:2. [c]3:7; 7:12.

3055. Every creature, by discharging its allotted task punctually and regularly and thus by fulfilling the object for which it has been created, declares God to be free from every defect, imperfection or impurity and to be its Master, Creator and Controller. This is the real significance of Tasbīḥ.

3056. God has bestowed upon men great natural powers and has provided for them opportunities for their moral and spiritual progress but while some of them, by failing to make proper use of them, practically refuse to acknowledge God's beneficence, others employ them in the service of their fellow beings and thus win the pleasure of Allāh. This is the significance of the words Kāfir and Mu'min.

3057. The universe is governed and controlled by certain fixed natural laws and man is not the victim of chance; on the contrary, he has been endowed with such powers and faculties as are suited to his exalted position as God's vicegerent on earth. He shall have to render to God an account of his deeds and actions.

يَعْلَمُ مَا فِي السَّمٰوٰتِ وَالْاَرْضِ وَيَعْلَمُ مَا تُسِرُّوْنَ وَمَا تُعْلِنُوْنَ ؕ وَاللّٰهُ عَلِيْمٌۢ بِذَاتِ الصُّدُوْرِ ۝٤

5. He knows whatever is in the heavens and the earth, and He knows [a]what you hide and what you disclose;[3058] and Allāh knows full well all that which is hidden in the breasts.

اَلَمْ يَاْتِكُمْ نَبَؤُا الَّذِيْنَ كَفَرُوْا مِنْ قَبْلُ ۫ فَذَاقُوْا وَبَالَ اَمْرِهِمْ وَلَهُمْ عَذَابٌ اَلِيْمٌ ۝٥

6. [b]Has there not come to you the account of those who disbelieved before? They tasted the evil consequences of their conduct, and for them is decreed painful punishment.

ذٰلِكَ بِاَنَّهٗ كَانَتْ تَّاْتِيْهِمْ رُسُلُهُمْ بِالْبَيِّنٰتِ فَقَالُوْٓا اَبَشَرٌ يَّهْدُوْنَنَا ۫ فَكَفَرُوْا وَتَوَلَّوْا وَّاسْتَغْنَى اللّٰهُ ؕ وَاللّٰهُ غَنِيٌّ حَمِيْدٌ ۝٦

7. That was because their Messengers came to them with manifest Signs, but they said, 'Shall mere mortals guide us?' So they disbelieved and turned away, but Allāh had no need of them; and Allāh is Self-Sufficient. Worthy of all praise.

زَعَمَ الَّذِيْنَ كَفَرُوْٓا اَنْ لَّنْ يُّبْعَثُوْا ؕ قُلْ بَلٰى وَرَبِّيْ لَتُبْعَثُنَّ ثُمَّ لَتُنَبَّؤُنَّ بِمَا عَمِلْتُمْ ؕ وَذٰلِكَ عَلَى اللّٰهِ يَسِيْرٌ ۝٧

8. Those who disbelieve think[3059] that [c]they will not be raised up.[3059A] Say, 'Yea, by my Lord, you shall, surely, be raised up; then you shall, certainly, be informed of what you did. And that is easy for Allāh.'

[a]2:78; 16:20; 27:26. [b]40:22, 23. [c]36:79, 80; 46:18; 50:4.

3058. God being the Creator and Controller of the universe, nothing is hidden from Him or can escape His notice. It is, therefore, futile on man's part to think that he can avoid or escape responsibility for his actions.

3059. Za'ama means, he thought; claimed; believed; asserted (Lane).

3059A. Does man think that there is no future life or that he has been endowed with great natural powers, attributes and faculties for nothing, or, does he imagine that he can escape responsibility for his actions? He is sadly mistaken if he so imagines. There is certainly a life after death wherein you

فَاٰمِنُوْا بِاللّٰهِ وَرَسُوْلِهٖ وَالنُّوْرِ الَّذِيْٓ
اَنْزَلْنَا ؕ وَاللّٰهُ بِمَا تَعْمَلُوْنَ خَبِيْرٌ ۝٩

9. Believe, therefore, in Allāh and His Messenger, and in the [a]Light[3060] which We have sent down. And Allāh is Well-Aware of all that you do.

يَوْمَ يَجْمَعُكُمْ لِيَوْمِ الْجَمْعِ ذٰلِكَ يَوْمُ
التَّغَابُنِ ؕ وَمَنْ يُّؤْمِنْ بِاللّٰهِ وَيَعْمَلْ
صَالِحًا يُّكَفِّرْ عَنْهُ سَيِّاٰتِهٖ وَيُدْخِلْهُ
جَنّٰتٍ تَجْرِيْ مِنْ تَحْتِهَا الْاَنْهٰرُ
خٰلِدِيْنَ فِيْهَآ اَبَدًا ؕ ذٰلِكَ الْفَوْزُ
الْعَظِيْمُ ۝١٠

10. The day when He shall gather you for the Day of Gathering; that will be the day of the determination of losses and gains.[3061] And whoso believes in Allāh and acts righteously—[b]He will remove from them the evil consequences of their deeds, and He will admit them into Gardens through which streams flow, to abide therein for ever. That is the supreme achievement.

وَالَّذِيْنَ كَفَرُوْا وَكَذَّبُوْا بِاٰيٰتِنَآ
اُولٰٓئِكَ اَصْحٰبُ النَّارِ خٰلِدِيْنَ فِيْهَا ؕ
وَبِئْسَ الْمَصِيْرُ ۝١١ ع ١٥

11. [c]But those who disbelieve and reject Our Signs, these shall be the inmates of the Fire, wherein they shall abide; and an evil destination it is!

[a]4:175; 7:158. [b]8:30; 48:6; 66:9. [c]2:40; 7:37; 22:58.

shall certainly be informed of what you did.

3060. The light of revelation, wisdom, spiritual enlightenment and insight and Divine knowledge and discernment, with which the Holy Prophet was specially gifted.

3061. The expression, Yaumut-Taghābun, has been variously interpreted as: (1) The day of losses and gains, i.e. when believers will know what they had gained and disbelievers what they had lost. (2) The day of the manifestation of loss, i.e. on that day disbelievers will realize how much they had been deficient in the discharge of their duties to God and man and thus their loss will become manifest to them. (3) The day when believers will attribute defect or deficiency to lack of wisdom of disbelievers in that they had preferred disbelief to belief (Mufradāt).

R. 2.

مَآ اَصَابَ مِنْ مُّصِيْبَةٍ اِلَّا بِاِذْنِ اللّٰهِ ؕ وَمَنْ يُّؤْمِنْۢ بِاللّٰهِ يَهْدِ قَلْبَهٗ ؕ وَاللّٰهُ بِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ عَلِيْمٌ ﴿۱۲﴾

12. [a]There befalls not any affliction but by the leave[3062] of Allāh. And whosoever believes in Allāh—He guides his heart aright. And Allāh knows all things well.

وَاَطِيْعُوا اللّٰهَ وَاَطِيْعُوا الرَّسُوْلَ ۚ فَاِنْ تَوَلَّيْتُمْ فَاِنَّمَا عَلٰى رَسُوْلِنَا الْبَلٰغُ الْمُبِيْنُ ﴿۱۳﴾

13. [b]And obey Allāh and obey the Messenger. But if you turn away, then Our Messenger is responsible only for conveying the Message clearly.

اَللّٰهُ لَآ اِلٰهَ اِلَّا هُوَ ؕ وَعَلَى اللّٰهِ فَلْيَتَوَكَّلِ الْمُؤْمِنُوْنَ ﴿۱۴﴾

14. Allāh! there is no god but He; so in Allāh let the believers put their trust.

يٰٓاَيُّهَا الَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوْٓا اِنَّ مِنْ اَزْوَاجِكُمْ وَاَوْلَادِكُمْ عَدُوًّا لَّكُمْ فَاحْذَرُوْهُمْ ۚ وَاِنْ تَعْفُوْا وَتَصْفَحُوْا وَتَغْفِرُوْا فَاِنَّ اللّٰهَ غَفُوْرٌ رَّحِيْمٌ ﴿۱۵﴾

15. O ye who believe! surely, among your wives and your children are some who are your enemies, so beware of them. And if you overlook and forgive and pardon, then, surely, Allāh is Most Forgiving, ever Merciful.

اِنَّمَآ اَمْوَالُكُمْ وَاَوْلَادُكُمْ فِتْنَةٌ ؕ وَاللّٰهُ عِنْدَهٗٓ اَجْرٌ عَظِيْمٌ ﴿۱۶﴾

16. Verily, your wealth and [c]your children are but a trial; but with Allāh is an immense reward.

[a]30:17; 78:29; 4:79. [b]5:93; 24:55. [c]8:29; 63:10.

3062. God governs the universe according to certain laws. When man contravenes any of those laws he involves himself in trouble. But as God is the Creator of all natural laws and man's affliction is due to the contravention of one or other of these laws, or to one of God's special decrees, the trouble may be said to have emanated from Him, or to have come into being by His leave.

فَاتَّقُوا اللّٰهَ مَا اسْتَطَعْتُمْ وَاسْمَعُوْا وَاَطِيْعُوْا وَاَنْفِقُوْا خَيْرًا لِّاَنْفُسِكُمْ ؕ وَمَنْ يُّوْقَ شُحَّ نَفْسِهٖ فَاُولٰٓئِكَ هُمُ الْمُفْلِحُوْنَ ﴿۱۷﴾

17. So be mindful of your duty to Allāh as best you can, and listen and obey, and spend in His cause, it will be good for yourselves. [a]And whoso is rid of the covetousness of his own soul—it is they who shall succeed.

اِنْ تُقْرِضُوا اللّٰهَ قَرْضًا حَسَنًا يُّضٰعِفْهُ لَكُمْ وَيَغْفِرْ لَكُمْ ؕ وَاللّٰهُ شَكُوْرٌ حَلِيْمٌ ﴿۱۸﴾ۙ

18. [b]If you lend to Allāh a goodly loan,[3063] He will multiply it for you, and will forgive you; and Allāh is Most Appreciating, Forbearing;

عٰلِمُ الْغَيْبِ وَالشَّهَادَةِ الْعَزِيْزُ الْحَكِيْمُ ﴿۱۹﴾ ع ۱۶

19. [c]The Knower of the unseen and the seen,[3063A] the Mighty, the Wise.

[a]59:10. [b]2:246; 57:12; 73:21. [c]6:74; 9:94; 13:10; 59:23.

3063. Spending one's wealth in the cause of Truth is tantamount to giving a loan to the Bountiful and Appreciating God which He pays back manifold.

3063A. The invisible and the visible.

CHAPTER 65

AṬ-ṬALĀQ

(Revealed after Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah was revealed at Medina, sometime in the fifth or sixth year of the Hijrah. The immediate cause of its revelation seems to be the divorce pronounced by ‘Abdullāh bin ‘Umar against his wife during her monthly course, a procedure which the Sūrah is intended to prohibit (Bukhārī). In the preceding Sūrah a note of warning was sounded against some of the wives and children of believers, as sometimes they tend to become an impediment in the way of men wishing to make monetary sacrifice in the cause of Truth. This may possibly lead to estrangement between the husband and the wife and ultimately to divorce, or the divorce may result from incompatibility of dispositions, or from some other cause. It was, therefore, necessary to lay down the correct procedure for divorce. This may be regarded as the immediate connection of this Sūrah with the preceding one. But there also runs a deeper connection in the subject-matter of the Qur’ān as a whole. It is characteristic of the style of the Qur’ān that when any of its Sūrahs deals with a particular subject in its opening verses, then in order to emphasize its importance it briefly, but pointedly, reverts to the same subject in its closing verses. The same procedure has been adopted in the Qur’ān as regards the whole Sūrahs. Thus some of the social and political problems which were dealt with in detail in the opening Medinite Chapters such as Al-Baqarah, Āl-e-‘Imrān, An-Nisā’, have again been briefly treated in the last ten Medinite Chapters. The subject of divorce with which this Sūrah briefly deals has already been dealt with in detail in Sūrah Al-Baqarah.

Subject-Matter

The Sūrah opens with the procedure to be adopted when a man intends to divorce his wife, and also with the treatment to be extended to her after the divorce has been pronounced and she is waiting for her ‘Iddah (period of waiting) to expire. It is enjoined that during this period she should be provided with all the necessities of life, commensurate with the financial means of the husband. It is significant that four times in the course of five brief verses of the Sūrah believers have been exhorted to observe fear of God in their dealings. This shows that in the matter of divorce husbands are generally tempted to treat their divorced wives unjustly. Hence the repeated injunction to observe fear of God.

سُوْرَةُ الطَّلَاقِ مَدَنِيَّةٌ ٦٥ — اٰياتها ١٣ — رکوعاتها ٢

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

يٰٓاَيُّهَا النَّبِيُّ اِذَا طَلَّقْتُمُ النِّسَآءَ
فَطَلِّقُوْهُنَّ لِعِدَّتِهِنَّ وَاَحْصُوا الْعِدَّةَ ۚ
وَاتَّقُوا اللّٰهَ رَبَّكُمْ ۚ لَا تُخْرِجُوْهُنَّ مِنْۢ
بُيُوْتِهِنَّ وَلَا يَخْرُجْنَ اِلَّآ اَنْ يَّاْتِيْنَ
بِفَاحِشَةٍ مُّبَيِّنَةٍ ۭ وَتِلْكَ حُدُوْدُ اللّٰهِ ۭ
وَمَنْ يَّتَعَدَّ حُدُوْدَ اللّٰهِ فَقَدْ ظَلَمَ
نَفْسَهٗ ۭ لَا تَدْرِيْ لَعَلَّ اللّٰهَ يُحْدِثُ
بَعْدَ ذٰلِكَ اَمْرًا ②

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

2. O Prophet! [b]when you divorce women,[3064] divorce them for the prescribed period, and thereafter reckon the period; and fear Allāh, your Lord. Turn them not out of their houses,[3064A] nor should they themselves leave unless they commit manifest indecency. [c]These are the limits set by Allāh; and whoso transgresses the limits of Allāh, he, indeed, wrongs his own soul. Thou knowest not; it may be that thereafter Allāh will bring something[3065] new to pass.

[a]1:1. [b]2:232, 233. [c]2:230.

3064. This is one of those verses of the Qur'ān in which the address made to the Holy Prophet is, in reality, meant for the believers. Since the Holy Prophet was debarred from divorcing any of his wives (33:53), the injunction is meant clearly for his followers.

3064A. The pronouncement of divorce should be made in the interval between two monthly courses, during which the husband and wife should not have conjugal relations. This ensures that the decision to divorce has not been taken hastily in a fit of anger or under the influence of some other momentary impulse but after cool and deliberate reflection. Moreover, a divorced wife is to remain in her house till the expiry of 'Iddah (period of waiting). This procedure of divorce is enjoined because it is possible that during the period of waiting the causes of friction may wear out and reconciliation may take place between the estranged parties.

3065. Amr here signifies reconciliation between the estranged husband and wife.

فَإِذَا بَلَغْنَ أَجَلَهُنَّ فَأَمْسِكُوهُنَّ
بِمَعْرُوفٍ أَوْ فَارِقُوهُنَّ بِمَعْرُوفٍ
وَأَشْهِدُوا ذَوَيْ عَدْلٍ مِّنكُمْ وَأَقِيمُوا
الشَّهَادَةَ لِلَّهِ ۚ ذَٰلِكُمْ يُوعَظُ بِهِ مَن كَانَ
يُؤْمِنُ بِاللَّهِ وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ ۚ وَمَن يَتَّقِ
اللَّهَ يَجْعَل لَّهُ مَخْرَجًا ۝٢

3. Then, [a]when they are about to reach the limit of their prescribed term, retain them with kindness, or part with them in a suitable manner, and call to witness two just persons from among you; and bear true witness for Allāh. Thus is admonished he who believes in Allāh and the Last Day. And he who fears Allāh—He will make for him a way out,[3066]

وَيَرْزُقْهُ مِنْ حَيْثُ لَا يَحْتَسِبُ ۚ وَمَن
يَتَوَكَّلْ عَلَى اللَّهِ فَهُوَ حَسْبُهُ ۚ إِنَّ اللَّهَ
بَالِغُ أَمْرِهِ ۚ قَدْ جَعَلَ اللَّهُ لِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ
قَدْرًا ۝٣

4. And will provide for him from whence he expects not. And he who puts his trust in Allāh—He is sufficient for him. Verily, Allāh will accomplish His purpose. For everything has Allāh appointed a measure.

وَاللَّائِي يَئِسْنَ مِنَ الْمَحِيضِ مِن نِّسَائِكُمْ
إِنِ ارْتَبْتُمْ فَعِدَّتُهُنَّ ثَلَاثَةُ أَشْهُرٍ ۙ وَاللَّائِي
لَمْ يَحِضْنَ ۚ وَأُولَاتُ الْأَحْمَالِ
أَجَلُهُنَّ أَن يَضَعْنَ حَمْلَهُنَّ ۚ وَمَن

5. And if you are in doubt[3067] as to the prescribed period for such of your women as have despaired of monthly courses, then know that the prescribed period for them is [b]three months, and also for such as do not have their monthly

[a]2:232. [b]2:229.

3066. If differences between husband and wife are due to the poverty of the husband, God will provide for him from sources he never could imagine, provided he fears Allāh and makes an honest effort to tide over the difficult situation.

3067. The words 'if you are in doubt' have been added because the stoppage of monthly course may be due to some disorder in the womb or to some other cause, though menopause may not yet have arrived.

يَّتَّقِ اللّٰهَ يَجْعَلْ لَّهٗ مِنْ اَمْرِهٖ يُسْرًا ۝٤ courses yet. And as for those who are with child, their period shall be until they are delivered of their burden. And whoso fears Allāh, He will provide facilities for him in his affair.

ذٰلِكَ اَمْرُ اللّٰهِ اَنْزَلَهٗۤ اِلَيْكُمْ ؕ وَمَنْ يَّتَّقِ اللّٰهَ يُكَفِّرْ عَنْهُ سَيِّاٰتِهٖ وَ يُعْظِمْ لَهٗۤ اَجْرًا ۝٥

6. That is the command of Allāh which He has sent down to you. And whoso fears[3068] Allāh—He will remove the evil effects of his deeds and will enlarge his reward.

اَسْكِنُوْهُنَّ مِنْ حَيْثُ سَكَنْتُمْ مِّنْ وُّجْدِكُمْ وَلَا تُضَآرُّوْهُنَّ لِتُضَيِّقُوْا عَلَيْهِنَّ ؕ وَاِنْ كُنَّ اُولَاتِ حَمْلٍ فَاَنْفِقُوْا عَلَيْهِنَّ حَتّٰى يَضَعْنَ حَمْلَهُنَّ ۚ فَاِنْ اَرْضَعْنَ لَكُمْ فَاٰتُوْهُنَّ اُجُوْرَهُنَّ ۚ وَاْتَمِرُوْا بَيْنَكُمْ بِمَعْرُوْفٍ ۚ وَاِنْ تَعَاسَرْتُمْ فَسَتُرْضِعُ لَهٗۤ اُخْرٰى ۝٦

7. Lodge the divorced women during the prescribed period in the houses wherein you dwell, according to your means,[3068A] and harass them not that you may create hardships for them and thus force them to leave. And if they be with child, spend on them until they are delivered of their burden. [a]And if they give suck to the child for you, give them their due recompense, to be fixed in consultation with one another

[a]2:234.

3068. In the preceding five verses the believers have been repeatedly enjoined to fear God. This shows that in the matter of divorce men are generally tempted to deal unjustly with their divorced wives and to deprive them of their just rights.

3068A. In her 'Iddah a divorced woman is to be looked after by the husband with the same care and consideration as when she was the mistress of his house, according to the best of his means, till she leaves the house and is free to adopt the way of life she chooses.

according to what is customary; but if you meet with difficulty from each other, then let another woman suckle the child for the father.

لِيُنْفِقْ ذُوْ سَعَةٍ مِّنْ سَعَتِهٖ ؕ وَمَنْ قُدِرَ

8. [a]Let him who has abundance of means spend out of his abundance. And let him whose means of subsistence are straitened spend out of what Allāh has given him. Allāh burdens not any soul beyond that which He has bestowed upon it. Allāh will soon bring about ease after hardship.

عَلَيْهِ رِزْقُهٗ فَلْيُنْفِقْ مِمَّآ اٰتٰىهُ اللّٰهُ ؕ لَا
يُكَلِّفُ اللّٰهُ نَفْسًا اِلَّا مَآ اٰتٰىهَا ؕ سَيَجْعَلُ

CHAPTER 66
AT-TAḤRĪM

(Revealed after Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

With this Chapter ends the series of Medinite Sūrahs which began with Sūrah Al-Ḥadīd. A part of it may be assigned to the 7th or 8th year of Hijrah and a part of it to a later period, as the incident mentioned therein shows. The preceding Sūrah had dealt with some aspects of Ṭalāq— permanent separation between husband and wife. The present Sūrah , however, deals with the subject of temporary separation, that is to say, with cases wherein a man, due to some disagreement or conflict in domestic affairs, temporarily gives up conjugal relations with his wife, or swears not to use a lawful thing. The Sūrah opens with an injunction addressed personally to the Holy Prophet not to forbid himself the use of things which God has made lawful for him. The specific incident referred to in the opening verse indicates that due to misunderstanding or disagreement that may disturb, though temporarily, domestic harmony and peace, friction might sometimes arise in the otherwise most peaceful atmosphere of even a Prophet's household. The injunction, which applies to the Holy Prophet as much as to his followers, signifies that in such a case of temporary disharmony extreme measures should not be resorted to. The Holy Prophet's wives are further warned that they should never lose sight of his very exalted position as God's Messenger and should not make demands from him which are inconsistent with it. The Sūrah then tells believers to take care that members of their household do not deviate from the path of rectitude lest they might land themselves into trouble. As the Sūrah opens with mentioning an incident concerning relationship of the Holy Prophet with his wives, it ends fittingly with a simile, comparing disbelievers to the wives of the Prophets Noah and Lot; and believers to the wife of Pharaoh, and the highly and righteous ones among them, to Mary, mother of Jesus.

سُوْرَةُ التَّحْرِيْمِ مَدَنِيَّةٌ ٦٦ — اٰياتها ١٣ — رکوعاتها ٢

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

يٰٓاَيُّهَا النَّبِيُّ لِمَ تُحَرِّمُ مَآ اَحَلَّ اللّٰهُ لَكَ ۚ تَبْتَغِيْ مَرْضَاتَ اَزْوَاجِكَ ۭ وَاللّٰهُ غَفُوْرٌ رَّحِيْمٌ ②

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

2. O Prophet! why dost thou forbid thyself that which Allāh has made lawful to thee. Thou seekest the pleasure of thy wives?3071 And Allāh is Most Forgiving, Merciful.

[a]1:1.

3071. It is related that one day one of the wives of the Holy Prophet gave him a drink made from honey, which he appeared to like. Some of his other wives, out of pique, pointed out to him that his breath smelt of Maghāfīr, a shrub the taste of which resembles that of honey but which gives out a bad smell. The Holy Prophet, because of his delicate nature, promised not to take honey any more (Buldān). It is to this incident that the verse under comment is generally taken to refer. But it seems improbable that the Holy Prophet, merely to satisfy the pique of his wife or wives, should have taken such a drastic step as to have permanently forbidden himself the use of something which was lawful, particularly of a thing in which, according to the Qur'ān, there is cure for men' (16:70). It appears that the narrator or narrators of this 'incident had suffered from some misunderstanding or mental confusion, particularly when, according to one tradition, the Holy Prophet took honey from the house of Zainab, and 'Ā'ishah and Ḥafṣah contrived to draw him into making the aforesaid promise, while, according to another tradition, it was at the house of Ḥafṣah herself that he was served with honey and that the wives who objected were 'Ā'ishah, Zainab and Ṣafiyyah. Moreover, according to the Ḥadīth, two, or at the most three, of the Holy Prophet's wives were concerned in the affair, but according to vv. 2 and 6 of the Sūrah, all of them were connected with it, two of them taking a leading part (v. 5). These facts show that the Sūrah refers to some incident of much greater significance than the mere taking of honey by the Holy Prophet at the house of one of his wives. In the commentary on this Sūrah, Bukhārī (Kitābul-Maẓālimi wal-Ghaṣb) quotes Ibn-e-'Abbās as relating that he was always on the lookout to enquire of 'Umar as to who were the two wives to whom reference is made in the verse: Now, if you two turn unto Allāh, it will be better for you, and your hearts are already so inclined. One day, finding 'Umar alone, he sought to satisfy his curiosity. He had hardly finished his question, says Ibn-e-'Abbās, when 'Umar said that they were 'Ā'ishah and Ḥafṣah, and then proceeded to relate the story thus: "One day, when my wife offered me her advice concerning

3. Allāh has, indeed, enjoined on you the expiation of such قَدْ فَرَضَ اللّٰهُ لَكُمْ تَحِلَّةَ اَيْمَانِكُمْ ۚ some domestic affair, I curtly told her that it was no business of hers to advise me, for in those days we did not hold our women-folk in much respect. My wife sternly replied: 'Your daughter Ḥafṣah takes so much liberty with the Prophet that she retorts back when he says something which she does not like till he feels offended, and you do not allow me to speak to you even about our domestic affairs.' Upon this I went to Ḥafṣah and warned her that she should not be misled by ‘Ā’ishah in this matter as she was nearer to the Prophet’s heart. Then I went to Umm-e-Salmah and had hardly broached the matter with her when she also curtly told me not to interfere in affairs concerning the Prophet and his wives. A short time after this the Holy Prophet separated himself from his wives and decided not to go to the house of any of them for sometime. The news went round that the Holy Prophet had divorced his wives. I went to him and asked him if it was true that he had divorced his wives to which he replied in the negative."

This incident shows that ‘Umar, and Ibn-e-‘Abbās were of the view that the relevant verses of the Sūrah referred to this temporary separation of the Holy Prophet from his wives. The fact that the preceding Sūrah mentions the subject of Ṭalāq which is separation of a permanent character, lends weight to the inference that these verses relate to the Prophet’s separation from his wives which, however, was of a temporary nature. Besides, as reported by ‘Ā’ishah in the above-mentioned tradition, immediately after the period of separation was over, v. 33:29 was revealed and the Prophet’s wives were given the choice between the Prophet’s companionship with a life of poverty and austere simplicity on the one hand, and separation from him with a life of ease and comfort and all sorts of material benefits on the other. The choice was given to all the wives and the verse under comment speaks of all the wives, as also v. 4. This shows that the incident referred to in these verses concerns all the wives in which two of them took a prominent part. And it is on record that the incident occurred when the Prophet’s wives, led by ‘Ā’ishah and Ḥafṣah, demanded of him that since the financial condition of the Muslims had greatly improved they, like other Muslim ladies, may be allowed to enjoy amenities of life and comfortable living (Fatḥul-Qadīr). In this context the words 'thou seekest the pleasure of thy wives' would seem to signify something like this: 'Since thou always desirest to please thy wives and meet their wishes, they have become so emboldened by this loving attitude of thine as to lose sight of thy high position as a great Prophet of God and to make excessive demands from thee.'

The alleged incident of Mary, the copt, being too foolish and fantastic, a concoction of Christian writers and lacking all reliable historical evidence, does not merit serious notice. Incidentally, Mary was the Holy Prophet’s wedded consort and the respected Mother of the Faithful. The Holy Prophet never kept a slave girl.

وَاللّٰهُ مَوْلٰىكُمْ ۚ وَهُوَ الْعَلِيْمُ الْحَكِيْمُ ۝٢ of your oaths as would occasion trouble,[3072] and Allāh is your Friend; and He is All-Knowing, Wise.

وَاِذْ اَسَرَّ النَّبِيُّ اِلٰى بَعْضِ اَزْوَاجِهٖ حَدِيْثًا ۚ فَلَمَّا نَبَّاَتْ بِهٖ وَاَظْهَرَهُ اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ عَرَّفَ بَعْضَهٗ وَاَعْرَضَ عَنْۢ بَعْضٍ ۚ فَلَمَّا نَبَّاَهَا بِهٖ قَالَتْ مَنْ اَنْۢبَاَكَ هٰذَا ۭ قَالَ نَبَّاَنِيَ الْعَلِيْمُ الْخَبِيْرُ ۝٣

4. And when the Prophet confided a matter unto one of his wives and she divulged it, and Allāh informed him of it, he made known to her part thereof, and avoided mentioning part of it. And when he informed her of it, she said, 'Who has informed[3073] thee of it?' He said, 'The All-Knowing, the All-Aware God has informed me.'

3072. The Holy Prophet had severely taken to heart his wives' demand for amenities of life, and in order to show his extreme displeasure had sworn to keep away from them for one month. The present verse describes that a lawful thing does not become unlawful for a person merely by his swearing not to use it. In such a contingency he is required only to expiate his broken oath.

3073. It is difficult to say to what particular incident the present verse, in fact, refers. The reference which seems to be supported by the context may be to the incident described by 'Ā'ishah herself, which is to this effect: When verse 33:29 was revealed, giving the Holy Prophet's wives the choice between his companionship and separation from him in reply to their demand for a life of comfort and ease, the Prophet first of all broached the matter with 'Ā'ishah (Bukhārī, Kitābul-Maẓālimi wal-Ghaṣb). The Holy Prophet appears to have taken that course because it was 'Ā'ishah who had led the demand along with Ḥafṣah, and it is not unlikely that 'Ā'ishah should have passed on the Holy Prophet's secret communication to Ḥafṣah. Whatever the actual facts of the case may be, the verse emphasizes the obligation of a person to whom a secret is confided not to divulge it, particularly when the parties concerned are husband and wife and the secret relates to a private domestic affair; or for that matter, when the parties are a Prophet of God and one of his followers.

إِنْ تَتُوبَآ إِلَى اللّٰهِ فَقَدْ صَغَتْ قُلُوبُكُمَا ۚ وَإِنْ تَظٰهَرَا عَلَيْهِ فَإِنَّ اللّٰهَ هُوَ مَوْلٰىهُ وَجِبْرِيلُ وَصَالِحُ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ ۚ وَالْمَلٰٓئِكَةُ بَعْدَ ذٰلِكَ ظَهِيرٌ ۝٥

5. Now if you two[3074] turn unto Allāh repentant—and your hearts are already so inclined—it will be better for you. But if you back up one another against him, surely, Allāh is his helper and Gabriel and the righteous among the believers, and all the angels besides are his helpers.

عَسٰى رَبُّهٗٓ إِنْ طَلَّقَكُنَّ أَنْ يُّبْدِلَهٗٓ أَزْوَاجًا خَيْرًا مِّنْكُنَّ مُسْلِمٰتٍ مُّؤْمِنٰتٍ قٰنِتٰتٍ تٰٓئِبٰتٍ عٰبِدٰتٍ سٰٓئِحٰتٍ ثَيِّبٰتٍ وَّأَبْكَارًا ۝٦

6. Maybe, His Lord, if he divorces you, will give him instead wives better than you—resigned, believing, obedient, always turning to God, devout in worship, given to fasting, both widows and virgins.

يٰٓأَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ اٰمَنُوا قُوٓا أَنْفُسَكُمْ وَأَهْلِيكُمْ نَارًا وَّقُودُهَا النَّاسُ وَالْحِجَارَةُ عَلَيْهَا مَلٰٓئِكَةٌ غِلَاظٌ شِدَادٌ لَّا يَعْصُونَ اللّٰهَ مَآ أَمَرَهُمْ وَيَفْعَلُونَ مَا يُؤْمَرُونَ ۝٧

7. O ye who believe! save yourselves and your families from [a]Fire whose fuel is men and stones over which are appointed angels, stern and severe, who disobey not Allāh in what He commands them and do as they are commanded.

[a]2:25.

3074. The words, "you two," seem to refer to ‘Ā’ishah and Ḥafṣah who had led the demand for worldly comforts in their domestic lives. All the other wives of the Holy Prophet had, however, joined in the demand, though the leading part was taken by these two, and this, perhaps because they were the daughters respectively of Abū Bakr and ‘Umar, the two most respected among the Holy Prophet’s Companions. The phraseology of the verse indicates that the matter referred to in these verses was of a very serious nature, but taking honey from the house of one’s wife evidently is not so serious an affair as to have led to separation of the Holy Prophet from all his wives for about a month. Nor was the admonition to the Prophet’s wives implied in the words,

يٰٓاَيُّهَا الَّذِيْنَ كَفَرُوْا لَا تَعْتَذِرُوا الْيَوْمَ ؕ
اِنَّمَا تُجْزَوْنَ مَا كُنْتُمْ تَعْمَلُوْنَ ۝٨ ع ١٩

8. [a]O ye who disbelieve! make no excuses this day. You are requited for what you did.

R. 2.

يٰٓاَيُّهَا الَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوْا تُوْبُوْٓا اِلَى اللّٰهِ تَوْبَةً
نَّصُوْحًا ؕ عَسٰى رَبُّكُمْ اَنْ يُّكَفِّرَ عَنْكُمْ

اَتْمِمْ لَنَا نُوْرَنَا وَاغْفِرْ لَنَا ۚ اِنَّكَ عَلٰى
كُلِّ شَيْءٍ قَدِيْرٌ ۝٩

9. O ye who believe! turn to Allāh in sincere repentance. It may be that your Lord will remit the evil effects of your deeds and admit you into [b]Gardens through which streams flow, on the day when Allāh will not abase the Prophet nor those who have believed with him. Their light will run before them and on their right hands. They will say, 'Our Lord, perfect our light for us[3075] and forgive us;[3076] surely, Thou hast power over all things.'

[a]9:66. [b]48:6; 64:10.

'Allāh is his helper and Gabriel and righteous among the believers' called for in such a case.

3075. The never-ceasing desire for perfection on the part of believers in Paradise as expressed in the words, 'Our Lord perfect our light for us,' shows that life in Paradise will not be one of inaction. On the contrary, spiritual advance in Paradise will know no end, for as the believers will attain excellence, characteristic of a certain stage, they will not stop at that, but seeing in front of it a higher stage of excellence and finding that the stage at which they had arrived was not the highest stage will proceed further, and so on without end.

3076. It further appears that after entering Paradise, the believers will seek Maghfirah, i.e. suppression of defects (Lane). They will be continually praying to God for the attainment of perfection and complete immersion in Divine Light and will be continually going upwards regarding each state as defective in comparison with a higher one, to which they will aspire, and will therefore pray to God to suppress the defective state that they may be able to get to the higher one. This is the true significance of Istighfār of which the يٰٓاَيُّهَا النَّبِيُّ جَاهِدِ الْكُفَّارَ وَالْمُنٰفِقِيْنَ

وَبِئْسَ الْمَصِيْرُ ۝١٠

10. O Prophet! strive hard[3077] against the disbelievers and the Hypocrites; and be stern with them; their resort is Hell, and an evil destination it is!

ضَرَبَ اللّٰهُ مَثَلًا لِّلَّذِيْنَ كَفَرُوا امْرَاَتَ

ادْخُلَا النَّارَ مَعَ الدّٰخِلِيْنَ ۝١١

11. Allāh sets forth as an example, for those who disbelieve, the wife of Noah and the wife of Lot. They were under two righteous servants of Ours, but they acted treacherously[3078] to them. So they availed them naught against Allāh, and it was said to them, 'Enter the Fire, ye twain, along with those who enter it.'

وَضَرَبَ اللّٰهُ مَثَلًا لِّلَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوا امْرَاَتَ

12. And Allāh holds forth as an example, for those who literal meaning is, 'asking forgiveness for one's lapses.'

3077. No advance is possible unless the disbelievers and the Hypocrites are strenuously striven against. Incidentally, the verse explains the real significance of Jihād which means, 'striving hard.' Since the Hypocrites were regarded as part of the Muslim Community, Jihād in the sense of fighting with the sword was never waged against them.

3078. The disbelievers are compared to the wives of Noah and Lot in order to show that the companionship of a righteous man, even a Prophet of God, does not benefit an evilly-inclined person who is bent upon rejecting truth. The wife of Pharaoh represents those believers, who though passionately desiring and praying to get rid of sin, cannot fully dissociate themselves from evil influences which are represented by Pharaoh, and having arrived at the stage of the "self-accusing soul" sometimes fail and falter. Mary, the mother of Jesus, represents those righteous servants of God who, having closed all avenues of sin and having made peace with God, are blessed with Divine inspiration; the pronoun hi in fīhi standing for such fortunate believers. Or, the pronoun may stand for Farj which, literally meaning a cleft or fissure, signifies an opening through which sin can find access.

CHAPTER 67

AL-MULK

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

With this Sūrah begins a series of Chapters, extending to the end of the Qur'ān, which were revealed before Hijrah with the solitary exception of Sūrah An-Naṣr which, though belonging to the Medinite period, was actually revealed at Mecca on the occasion of the Holy Prophet's Last Pilgrimage. The whole of the Qur'ān being God's own revealed Word is simply inimitable and inapproachable in subject-matter, style and diction but the Chapters revealed at Mecca in the early years of the Prophet's Call possess a majesty and grandeur, all their own. The beauty of rhythm and the charm of cadence of the revelations of this period are beyond human power adequately to describe. As these Chapters generally deal with matters of belief and doctrine, e.g., prophecies about the great and glorious future of Islām, Existence of God and His attributes, Revelation, Resurrection and Life after death, much symbolism has necessarily been used to describe the mystical and the spiritual in terms of what we can perceive by our physical senses. This Sūrah belongs to the middle Meccan period—8th year of the Call being the approximate time when, according to competent authorities, it was revealed.

Subject-Matter

As stated above, the Meccan Sūrahs generally deal with matters of belief. The present Sūrah naturally opens with proclaiming the Lordship, Sovereignty and Almightiness of God, and as proof of these Divine attributes adduces the fact that God is the Creator of life and death and of the whole universe through whose component parts, from the smallest atom to the largest planet, there runs a wonderful and flawless design and arrangement. The creation of the universe and the beautiful order that pervades the cosmos are proofs positive of the fact that God is and that He has created man to serve a sublime object and to achieve a noble goal. But man in his perversity and ingratitude has always rejected God's Message and consequently has incurred His displeasure. The Sūrah recounts the manifold Divine blessings and favours without which man cannot exist for a single moment and, by implication, calls upon him to make proper use of them for the realization of the purpose for which he has been created. It closes with a beautiful homily, thereby bringing home to man the supreme truth that just as no physical life can exist without water, so spiritual life, too, needs for its sustenance the heavenly water of Divine revelation.

3079. The law of life and death works in all nature. Every living creature is subject to decay and death. "Death," as also in vv. 2:29 and 53:45, has been mentioned in this verse before "life." The reason seems to be that death or non-existence is the state before life or perhaps because "death" is more important and is of greater significance than "life," since it opens to man the portals of everlasting life and unending spiritual progress, while life on earth is only a temporary sojourn and a preparation for permanent and everlasting life beyond the grave.

3080. Wonderful indeed is God's creation. The solar system of which our earth is but a small member is vast, varied and orderly and yet it is but one of hundreds of millions of systems, some of which are incalculably larger than it, yet the countless millions of suns and stars are so arranged and distributed in relation to one another as to produce everywhere harmony and beauty. The order that covers and pervades the universe is obvious to the ordinary naked eye and is spread far beyond the range of disciplined vision, assisted by all the instruments and appliances which science and art have been able to invent.

frustration, dismay and dejection.

3087. The Divine attribute Ar-Raḥmān (the Beneficent) has been repeatedly mentioned in this Sūrah, as at many other places in the Qur'ān, because all the Divine bounties and favours mentioned in it, whether pertaining to man's physical sustenance or his spiritual development, are the direct result of God's beneficence (Raḥmāniyyah).

3088. All life, whether physical or spiritual, depends on water—the former on rain-water and the latter on the water of Divine revelation.

CHAPTER 68

AL-QALAM

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation, Context and Subject-Matter

This is one of the first four or five Chapters which were revealed at Mecca in the very beginning of the Call. According to some authorities it was revealed just after Sūrah Al-'Alaq, which was the first Quranic Sūrah to have been revealed, but some other authorities place it after Sūrahs, Al-Muzzammil and Al-Muddaththir. There is, however, no doubt about it that all these Chapters were revealed more or less in consecutive order, because there exists a strong likeness in their subject-matter. The present Sūrah deals principally with the Holy Prophet's claim as a Divine Messenger. Like all the Meccan Sūrahs which mainly deal with matters of doctrine and belief, it deals with the truth of the Holy Prophet's claim, and gives sound and solid arguments to support it. A large part of the Sūrah is also devoted to a discussion of the fight of disbelievers against Truth, and to the evil end to which they ultimately come, and gives reasons why they reject Truth and strive and struggle against it and how, when their efforts appear to be on the point of bearing fruit they come to naught, and Truth, which seems to be going under, begins to prosper, prevail and predominate. Towards the close of the Sūrah, the Holy Prophet is enjoined to bear with patience and fortitude all the mockery, opposition and persecution to which he is subjected, because his cause is bound to succeed.

4. And for thee, most surely, there is an unending reward.[3090]

وَاِنَّكَ لَعَلٰى خُلُقٍ عَظِيْمٍ ⑤

5. And thou dost, surely, possess sublime moral excellences.[3091]

[a]1:1. [b]34:47; 52:30.

3089. In this verse the inkstand and the pen and all the written material are cited as evidence to support and substantiate the statement made in the next three verses.

3089A. The verse means that by whatever test of knowledge and learning the claim of the Holy Prophet is examined, he will be found to be not a maniac, as the disbelievers say, but the sanest and the wisest of men. The next verse gives the reason why this charge is not only unfounded but is also foolish and fantastic.

3090. This verse, along with the next one, most effectively exposes the absurdity of the charge of madness. It purports to say that the actions of a madman produce no abiding and useful result, but the Holy Prophet is eminently succeeding in fulfilling the object of his Divine mission and in bringing about a wonderful revolution in the lives of his degenerate people. And this revolution will not end with his death. Whenever in future his followers will deviate from the path of rectitude, God will raise among them Reformers who will regenerate them and will infuse in them a new life. And this process will continue till the end of time.

3091. This verse constitutes a further eloquent commentary on the charge of madness, imputed to the Holy Prophet, as being foolish. The Prophet, it says, not only is not a maniac but is the noblest and sublimest of men, possessing in full measure all those moral excellences that combine to make their possessor a perfect image of his Creator. He is a complete embodiment of all good moral qualities that a man is capable of possessing. All the high

9. So comply not with the wishes of those who reject the Truth.

وَدُّوۡا لَوۡ تُدۡهِنُ فَيُدۡهِنُوۡنَ ﴿۱۰﴾

12. [c]Backbiter, one who goes about slandering,[3094]

[a]16:126; 53:31. [b]17:74. [c]104:2.

moral qualities are blended in his person in a perfect and harmonious whole. ‘Ā’ishah, the Prophet’s talented spouse, when once asked to shed some light on the Prophet’s morals, said, 'He possessed all those moral excellences which are mentioned in the Qur’ān as the special marks of a true servant of God' (Bukhārī).

3092. The verse turns the tables upon the accusers of the Holy Prophet, and tells them in challenging words that time will show whether it was he or they who suffered from madness, or whether his claim to be God’s Messenger was the outpouring of a heated brain, or they themselves were so demented as not to read the signs of time and so refused to believe in him.

3093. The verse may have special reference to the offers which the Quraish of Mecca made to the Holy Prophet in order to tempt him away from his fixed purpose; or it may possess general application, since Truth is as firm as rock while falsehood has no legs to stand upon and gives way to pressure or temptation and is ready to make compromises.

3094. The reference in this and the preceding three verses may particularly be to Walīd bin Mughīrah or Abū Jahl; or, for that matter, to every leader of falsehood.

17. We will brand him on the snout.[3096]

اِنَّا بَلَوْنٰهُمْ كَمَا بَلَوْنَاۤ اَصْحٰبَ الْجَنَّةِ ۚ اِذْ اَقْسَمُوْا لَيَصْرِمُنَّهَا مُصْبِحِيْنَ ۙ﴿۱۸﴾

18. We will, surely, try them as We tried the owners of the garden when they vowed to each other that they would, certainly, gather all its fruit in the morning.[3097]

وَلَا يَسْتَثْنُوْنَ ﴿۱۹﴾

19. And they made no exception[3098] and said not, 'If God please.'

[a]50:26. [b]23:56; 74:13, 14. [c]8:32; 16:25; 83:14.

3095. All sins, vices and opposition to Truth are born of conceit or false pride and are the moral maladies of one who manages to amass great wealth by questionable means, and wields great power and influence. Or, the verse may mean that a base and vile man should not be shown consideration or respect simply because he happens to possess wealth and influence.

3096. "Branding on the snout" is a metaphor for disgracing a person.

3097. Here the base, greedy and conceited disbelievers have been compared to the owner of a garden who would devour all its fruit and would not share it with those who had also put in their labour in developing it and would defraud them of their just rights in it.

3098. The owners of the "garden" greedily devoured the fruit of the labour of others and fed fat on it, excluding the latter from sharing it with them. They were so sure of the successful outcome of their labours and so certain of gathering in their harvest without any mishap that they consigned God to

26. Thus they went forth early in the morning, determined to be niggardly,[3100]

[a]3:118; 18:43.

complete oblivion, failing to Seek Divine protection by uttering the words, 'If God please.'

3099. The rich owners of the "garden" in the parable are compared to those selfish, cruel and greedy persons who, besides exploiting the labour of others, are so stingy that they would not spend any part of their ill-gotten gains to meet the needs of the needy and the poor.

3100. The exploiters of the labour of others are a class by themselves. They seek and scheme to debar the latter from the benefits of what they earn by the sweat of their brow. They revel in wealth, while their poor brethren grovel in dirt and squalor before their very eyes.

قَالُوۡا سُبۡحٰنَ رَبِّنَاۤ اِنَّا كُنَّا ظٰلِمِيۡنَ ﴿۳۰﴾

30. Thereupon, they said, 'Glory be to our Lord! Surely, we have been wrongdoers.'

فَاَقۡبَلَ بَعۡضُهُمۡ عَلٰى بَعۡضٍ يَّتَلَاوَمُوۡنَ ﴿۳۱﴾

31. Then some of them turned to the others, reproaching one another.

قَالُوۡا يٰوَيۡلَنَاۤ اِنَّا كُنَّا طٰغِيۡنَ ﴿۳۲﴾

32. They said, 'Woe to us! We were, indeed, rebellious,

33. 'May be, if we repent, our Lord will give us instead a better garden than this; we do humbly entreat our Lord.'

42. Or, have they any associate-gods? Let them, then, produce their associate-gods, if they are truthful.

44. [a]Their eyes will be cast down, and humiliation will cover them; and they were, indeed, called upon to prostrate themselves when they were safe and sound, but they did not.

فَذَرْنِيْ وَمَنْ يُّكَذِّبُ بِهٰذَا الْحَدِيْثِ ؕ

45. [b]So leave Me to deal with those who reject this word of

[a]75:25; 88:3, 4. [b]73:12; 74:12.

3102. The verse asks the disbelievers, "Have they any authority in any revealed Scripture that they will be allowed to choose a way of life of their own liking and will also escape the consequences of their evil deeds?" Or, have they taken a covenant from God which will remain in force till the Day of Judgment that they will have whatever they like and do whatever they like and yet will not suffer the consequences flowing from their actions?

3103. The verse may refer to the hardness and severity of the Day of Resurrection, or to the lifting of the veil from all mysteries and coming to light of all secrets on the Judgment Day. See 2177.

سَنَسْتَدْرِجُهُمْ مِّنْ حَيْثُ لَا يَعْلَمُوْنَ ﴿٤٥﴾

وَ اُمْلِیْ لَهُمْ ؕ اِنَّ كَیْدِیْ مَتِیْنٌ ﴿٤٦﴾

46. [b]And I shall grant them long respite; for My plan is sure.

اَمْ تَسْـَٔلُهُمْ اَجْرًا فَهُمْ مِّنْ مَّغْرَمٍ مُّثْقَلُوْنَ ﴿٤٧﴾

47. [c]Dost thou ask a reward of them that they feel weighed down by its burden?

اَمْ عِنْدَهُمُ الْغَیْبُ فَهُمْ یَكْتُبُوْنَ ﴿٤٨﴾

48. [d]Have they the knowledge of the unseen so that they write it down?

فَاصْبِرْ لِحُكْمِ رَبِّكَ وَ لَا تَكُنْ كَصَاحِبِ الْحُوْتِ ۘ اِذْ نَادٰی وَ هُوَ مَكْظُوْمٌ ﴿٤٩﴾ ؕ

50. [f]Had it not been that a favour from his Lord had reached him, he would have, surely, been cast upon a barren waste[3105] to be blamed by his people.

3104. Divine punishment will overtake disbelievers by degrees and in stages and thus they will have ample opportunities to repent and make amends by accepting the Quranic Message.

3105. The verse may also imply a subtle hint to the Holy Prophet's Hijrah (Emigration) to Medina.

بِاَبۡصَارِهِمۡ لَمَّا سَمِعُوا الذِّكۡرَ وَ يَقُوۡلُوۡنَ
اِنَّهٗ لَمَجۡنُوۡنٌ ۘ﴿۵۲﴾ thee from thy God-given station with their angry[3106] looks when they heard the Reminder; and they keep saying, 'He is, certainly, mad.'

وَمَا هُوَ اِلَّا ذِكۡرٌ لِّلۡعٰلَمِيۡنَ ﴿۵۳﴾

53. Nay, it is naught but a source of honour for all the worlds.

3106. The disbelievers cast severe looks at the Holy Prophet that might frighten a person of lesser calibre into giving up his mission, but the Prophet has a Divine Message to deliver and so he can hardly be intimidated, cajoled or bribed into yielding to such pressure tactics.

CHAPTER 69
AL-ḤĀQQAH
(Revealed before Hijrah)

General Remarks

The Sūrah, like the preceding one, was, as its subject-matter shows, among the earliest Chapters to be revealed at Mecca. It is almost wholly devoted to the subject of the inevitability of the Resurrection; and adduces the sure and certain success of the Holy Prophet against heavy odds as an argument in support of this hypothesis. As the Holy Prophet's ultimate success and the Resurrection were regarded by disbelievers as impossible, the coming to pass of the one did indeed, constitute an incontrovertible proof that the other will also take place. Thus the Sūrah opens with a firm and emphatic declaration that enemies of Truth shall be routed. It then proceeds to draw a parallel between the destruction of the deniers of the Divine Message and the Resurrection, and says that for disbelievers the "hour" of punishment will be most distressful and agonizing and for the believers it will be a time of perennial joy and happiness. The Sūrah closes with a firm and emphatic declaration that both these events—the Resurrection and the success of the Prophet's cause, against very heavy odds and under the most unfavourable circumstances—will, most surely, come to pass, because what the Prophet says is God's own revealed Word and not the bragging of a poet, nor the idle conjectures of a soothsayer, nor a fabrication, for, if he had forged a lie against God, he would have met with certain and violent death, because a forger is never allowed to prosper.

3108. The reference in the verse is to Noah's Flood.

3109. The Holy Prophet's march on Mecca was so swift and sudden that the Meccans were taken completely by surprise. It came, as it were, a bolt from the blue for them. The verse may also apply to the Day of Resurrection, when with the blowing of the trumpet both the righteous and the guilty will stand before God's Great Judgment Seat to render an account of their deeds.

3110. The whole of Arabia was shaken from one end to the other; the leaders of Arab aristocracy and the common folk felt the strong impact of the conquests of Islām and of the great and violent change it brought about in their lives—al-Jibāl signifying leaders of men, and al-Arḍ common folk.

[a]4:43; 41:21. [b]17:72; 84:8, 9.

3111. 'Arsh (Throne) represents God's transcendent attributes which are His exclusive prerogative. These attributes are manifested through God's attributes of similitude which have been described in the verse as the bearers of His Throne ('Arsh). These latter attributes are Rabb, Raḥmān, Raḥīm and Māliki Yaumid-Dīn and are the basic Divine attributes by which the world subsists and which mainly concern man's life and destiny. In view of their majesty, awfulness and greatness these four Divine attributes will have double manifestation on the Day of Judgment. Or, the words may mean that on that day, along with these four attributes of similitude, the four corresponding transcendent attributes will also come into operation. And as Divine attributes are manifested through angels, therefore eight angels are mentioned, as being the bearers of the Throne of God on that Great Day.

It is a mistaken view that because 'Arsh is stated in the verse as being "borne" by angels, it must be something material. But the word Ḥamala is used in the Qur'ān not merely to denote the bearing of a thing in the physical sense but also figuratively. In 33:73 man is spoken of as 'bearing the Law' or the Sharī'ah, but the Sharī'ah is not a material thing. Similarly, the bearing of the 'Arsh by angels signifies that the reality of Divine attributes is disclosed and manifested through them. We cannot understand and realize the transcendent attributes of God (His 'Arsh) except through His attributes of similitude. Thus God's attributes of similitude are, as it were, the bearers of His transcendent attributes (His 'Arsh). Again it is said that 'Arsh is spoken of as 'being on water' (11:8), which is a created element, therefore it must also be a created thing. But "water" in the language of revealed Scriptures often signifies the Word of God. In this sense the verse (11:8) signifies that the 'Throne of God' rests on the 'Word of God', which means that man cannot fully comprehend and realize the majesty and glory of God except with the help of the Word of God. That the 'Arsh represents the transcendent attributes of God is also clear from 23:117. See also 986.

3112. Besides the meaning given in the text, the verse signifies that on the day of the Fall of Mecca, falsity of the idolatrous beliefs and practices of the Meccans will stand completely exposed.

3113. To be given one's record in one's right hand is a Quranic metaphor for passing the test successfully.

اِنِّیْ ظَنَنْتُ اَنِّیْ مُلٰقٍ حِسَابِیَهْ ۚ﴿۲۱﴾

21. 'Surely, I knew that I would meet my reckoning.'

فَهُوَ فِیْ عِیْشَةٍ رَّاضِیَةٍ ۙ﴿۲۲﴾

26. [e]But as for him who is given his record in his left hand,[3114] he will say, 'O, would that I had not been given my record!

3114. To be given one's record in one's left hand, in Quranic terminology, signifies failure in the test.

وَمَا لَا تُبْصِرُوْنَ ﴿٤٠﴾

[a]74:45; 89:19; 107:4. [b]43:68; 70:11; 80:38. [c]14:17; 78:25, 26.

3116. It has repeatedly been explained in the Qur'ān that Life after death is not a new life but only an image and representation of the facts of the present life. In these verses the spiritual torture of the present world has been represented as the physical punishment in the next. The chain to be put round the neck, for instance, represents the desires of this world and it is these desires that will assume the form of fetters in the life to come. Similarly, the entanglements of this world will be seen as chains on the feet. The heart-burning of this world will, likewise, appear as the flames of burning fire. The limit of man's age may generally be fixed at seventy, excluding the periods of childhood and decrepitude. These seventy years, the wicked disbeliever wastes away in the entanglements of the world and in satisfying his sensual passions. He does not try to free himself from the chain of desires, and, therefore, in the next world the chain of desires, which he indulged in for seventy years, shall be embodied in a chain of the length of seventy cubits, every cubit representing a year, with which the wicked shall be fettered.

3117. The things which we see working in the physical world, i.e. the visible facts of life and the things which are hidden from our view, i.e. human reason and conscience, have been cited in the verses (39, 40) as evidences to establish the Divine origin of the Qur'ān. Or, the verses may mean that the great Signs which disbelievers in the Holy Prophet's time witnessed with their own eyes, and the prophecies about the bright future of Islām which yet await

اِنَّهٗ لَقَوْلُ رَسُوْلٍ كَرِيْمٍ ۙ﴿۴۱﴾

41. That it is, surely, the word brought by a noble Messenger,

وَّ مَا هُوَ بِقَوْلِ شَاعِرٍ ؕ قَلِيْلًا مَّا تُؤْمِنُوْنَ ۙ﴿۴۲﴾

42. [a]And not the word of a poet; little is it that you believe!

وَلَا بِقَوْلِ كَاهِنٍ ؕ قَلِيْلًا مَّا تَذَكَّرُوْنَ ؕ﴿۴۳﴾

43. [b]Nor is it the word of a soothsayer; little is it that you heed!

تَنْزِيْلٌ مِّنْ رَّبِّ الْعٰلَمِيْنَ ﴿۴۴﴾

44. It is a revelation from the Lord of the worlds.

وَلَوْ تَقَوَّلَ عَلَيْنَا بَعْضَ الْاَقَاوِيْلِ ۙ﴿۴۵﴾

45. [c]And if he had forged and attributed any sayings to Us,

لَاَخَذْنَا مِنْهُ بِالْيَمِيْنِ ۙ﴿۴۶﴾

46. We would, surely, have seized him by the right hand,

ثُمَّ لَقَطَعْنَا مِنْهُ الْوَتِيْنَ ۖ﴿۴۷﴾

47. And then, surely, We would have cut his life-vein,

فَمَا مِنْكُمْ مِّنْ اَحَدٍ عَنْهُ حٰجِزِيْنَ ﴿۴۸﴾

48. And not one of you could have held Our punishment off from him.[3118]

وَ اِنَّهٗ لَتَذْكِرَةٌ لِّلْمُتَّقِيْنَ ﴿۴۹﴾

49. And, verily, it is a reminder for the righteous,

وَ اِنَّا لَنَعْلَمُ اَنَّ مِنْكُمْ مُّكَذِّبِيْنَ ﴿۵۰﴾

50. And, surely, We know that there are some among you who reject Our Signs.

[a]36:70; 52:31. [b]52:30. [c]40:29.

fulfilment constitute an irrefutable argument that the Qur'ān is God's own Word which He has revealed to His noble Prophet Muḥammad. It deals with the hard facts of life and is not a poet's fond dream, nor the groping in the dark of a soothsayer.

3118. In this and in the preceding three verses the argument is given that if the Holy Prophet had been a forger of lies, God's strong hand would have seized him by the throat and he would, certainly, have met with a violent death and his whole work and mission would have gone to pieces, as such is the fate of a false prophet. The claim and the arguments contained in these verses seem to be an exact reproduction of the biblical statement in Deut. 18:20.

وَاِنَّهٗ لَحَسْرَةٌ عَلَى الْكٰفِرِيْنَ ﴿٥١﴾

51. And, verily, it will be a source of regret for the disbelievers.

وَاِنَّهٗ لَحَقُّ الْيَقِيْنِ ﴿٥٢﴾

52. And, surely, it is the absolute truth.

فَسَبِّحْ بِاسْمِ رَبِّكَ الْعَظِيْمِ ﴿٥٣﴾ ع ٢ ١٥ ٦

53. [a]So glorify the name of thy Lord, the Great.

[a]56:75; 87:2.

CHAPTER 70

AL-MA‘ĀRIJ

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Introductory Remarks

The Sūrah was revealed at Mecca about the 5th year of the Call, not later than the close of the early Meccan period. Noldeke, Muir and some other eminent authorities, assign this date to its revelation. In the preceding Sūrah the disbelievers were warned that Al-Ḥāqqah (The Great Calamity) would soon overtake them if they did not repent of their sins and accept the Divine Message. The present Sūrah opens with mentioning the disbelievers' demand: 'When will the threatened punishment come?' They are told that it would soon be upon them, nay, it is at their very door. But when it came, it would be so overwhelming and devastating that it would cause the mountains to fly like flakes of wool, and disbelievers would wish to part with their near and dear ones—their wives, children and brothers—as ransom for themselves. But then it will be too late. Towards its close the Sūrah warns disbelievers again that they consider prophecies about the glorious future of Islām as only the dream of a visionary, but the time was fast approaching when, with their eyes cast down, they will hasten to the Holy Prophet to accept Islām. Then they will realize to their shame and sorrow that what the Holy Prophet had foretold about their ultimate defeat was only too true.

It may refer to all disbelievers because all of them repeatedly challenged the Holy Prophet to bring down upon them the threatened punishment (8:33; 21:39; 27:72; 32:29; 34:30; 36:49; 67:26).

3120. Ar-Rūḥ meaning human soul, the verse may signify that the development and progress of the human soul will know no end. Or, the verse may mean that Divine plans and programmes take thousands of years to mature. Or, the reference may be to a specific cycle of fifty thousand years in which some particular great change is decreed to take place, because Divine prophecies have their fixed periods, epochs and cycles in which they are fulfilled.

3126. This and the preceding verse give a prophetic description of the coming triumph of Islām when the pagan tribes of Arabia, from every part of the country, hastened to wait in deputations upon the Holy Prophet, begging to be taken into the fold of Islām. Or, the verses may refer to the highly alluring offers made by the leaders of the Quraish to the Holy Prophet, if only he should give up preaching against their idols. By some authorities, however, the verses have been taken to refer to the dangerous attacks that were made on the Holy Prophet in different forms and from different directions by his opponents.

45. Their eyes cast down; and humiliation covering [c]them.[3129] Such is the Day which they are promised.

[a]23:55; 43:84; 52:46. [b]36:52; 54:8, 9. [c]10:28; 54:8.

3127. The word Mimmā signifies, natural powers and faculties with which God has endowed man.

3128. The opponents of the Holy Prophet are told that old order will vanish and from its ruins will emerge a new and better order and other people will take their place.

3129. This verse and the preceding one contain a graphic picture of the leaders of the Quraish, after the Fall of Mecca, when they came to the Holy Prophet completely dejected, dispirited and dismayed, their eyes cast down, and disappointment and a sense of guilt and regret writ large on their faces.

CHAPTER 71

NŪḤ

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation, Context and Subject-Matter

As the Sūrah records the spiritual experiences of the Prophet Noah, it has fittingly been named after him. Wherry gives 7th year of the Call as the date of its revelation, while Noldeke places it in the 5th year, but according to other authorities it was revealed in the first Meccan period, about the time when some of the immediately preceding Chapters were revealed. Towards the end of the preceding Sūrah it was stated that wicked people invariably reject the Divine Message; they oppose and persecute God's Messengers till the hour of punishment arrives and they meet their deserved end. The present Sūrah gives a brief account of the missionary activities of one of the greatest Prophets of antiquity—Noah, and depicts him as pouring out the agony of his heart before his Lord and Creator in words full of extreme pathos. He preached to his people day and night, he says, and spoke to them in public and in private. He reminded them of the great favours and bounties that God had bestowed upon them. He warned them of the evil consequences of the rejection of the Divine Message. But all his preaching and warning, his sympathy with and solicitude for, their well-being only met with ridicule, opposition and abuse; and instead of following him whose heart was full of love for them, they chose to follow those false leaders who led them to destruction. When Noah's exhortation and preaching of a whole lifetime proved a voice in the wilderness, he prayed to God to destroy the enemies of Truth. The Sūrah closes with this prayer of Noah.

3134. Wadd was an idol worshipped by Banū Kalb in Daumatul-Jandal. It was in a man’s figure representing manly power. Suwā‘ was an idol of Banū Hudhail. It was in a woman’s shape, representing female beauty. Yaghūth belonged to the tribe of Murād, and Ya‘ūq in the shape of horse was worshipped by Hamdān. Nasr, an idol of the Dhul-Kilā‘ tribe, was in the shape of an eagle or vulture, representing long life or insight. Noah’s people were steeped in idol-worship. They had many idols, the five mentioned in the verse under comment being the most popular. The Arabs, several centuries afterwards, are supposed to have brought them from Iraq. Hubul, their most famous idol was brought from Syria by ‘Āmir bin Loḥayy; their own principal idols being Lāt, Manāt and ‘Uzzā. Or, they might have named their own idols after the idols of the tribe of Noah as the two peoples lived not very distant from each other and there was general intercourse between them. There is nothing impossible or improbable in the two neighbouring idolatrous peoples having identical names for their idols.

enters my house as a believer, and the believing men and the believing women; and increase Thou not the wrongdoers in aught but in ruin.'[3135]

3135. God's Prophets are full of the milk of human kindness. Noah's prayer shows that opposition to him must have been long, persistent and unremitting, and that all his efforts to bring his people to the right path must have proved abortive, and there must have remained no possibility for any further addition to his small following, and also that his opponents must have exceeded all legitimate bounds in opposing and persecuting him and his followers, and in indulging in evil pursuits. Matters must have come to such a pass that a man of a most compassionate disposition like Noah was constrained to pray against his people. In an identical situation the Holy Prophet's attitude to his opponents presents a vivid contrast. In the battle of Uḥud, when his two teeth were broken and he was badly wounded and bled profusely, the only words that escaped his lips were, 'How will a people get salvation who have wounded their Prophet and have smeared his face with blood for no fault, but that he calls them to God. My Lord! forgive my people, for they know not what they do' (Zurqānī & Hishām).

CHAPTER 72

AL-JINN

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation, Context and Subject-Matter

This Sūrah is generally considered to have been revealed on the Holy Prophet's return from Ṭā'if, where, after he had almost despaired of the Meccans from whom he had received nothing but ridicule, opposition and persecution, he had gone to preach his Message. The visit to Ṭā'if took place two years before Hijrah when the opposition to the new Faith had taken an ugly turn and the condition of the Holy Prophet and his followers had become desperate in the extreme. If, as some authorities are of the view, the Sūrah relates to an incident other than the one mentioned in Sūrah Al-Aḥqāf (46:30-33), then it might have been revealed much earlier. The context and contents of the Sūrah seem to lend some weight to the latter view. In the preceding Sūrah it was stated that the lifelong preaching of Noah had met with only gibes and jeers, and that only a few persons other than his near relatives had given him their allegiance—even his son and wife taking an active part in opposition to him. In order to show that there existed a similarity between the circumstances of Noah and those of the Holy Prophet it is stated that a party of the jinn—a people not known to the Holy Prophet before—visited him, listened to the Qur'ān and at once believed in him. The Sūrah gives a fairly long account of the beliefs and doctrines of these people, their conduct and outlook on life, and emphatically affirms that it is impossible for anyone to distort or tamper with the revealed Word of God because, like a precious treasure, it is strongly guarded by Divine sentinels. Towards the end, it is stated that whenever a Divine Teacher calls men to God, the forces of evil try to stifle his voice, but the Teacher carries on his mission, undeterred by the machinations of evilly-disposed people. The Sūrah closes with an infallible criterion to test the Divine Source of the Message of a Prophet, viz. that it contains prophecies about great world events which human knowledge cannot foresee or foretell, and also that the Prophet succeeds in delivering his Message and fulfils his mission.

سُوْرَةُ الْجِنِّ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٧٢ — اٰياتها ٢٩ — رکوعاتها ٢

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

قُلْ اُوْحِيَ اِلَيَّ اَنَّهُ اسْتَمَعَ نَفَرٌ مِّنَ الْجِنِّ فَقَالُوْٓا اِنَّا سَمِعْنَا قُرْاٰنًا عَجَبًا ②

2. Say, "It has been revealed to me that a company[3136] of the jinn listened to the Qur'ān and they said: 'Truly, we have heard a [b]wonderful Qur'ān,[3137]

يَّهْدِيْٓ اِلَى الرُّشْدِ فَاٰمَنَّا بِهٖ ؕ وَلَنْ نُّشْرِكَ بِرَبِّنَآ اَحَدًا ③

3. [c]'It guides to the right way; so we have believed in it, and we will not associate anyone with our Lord.[3138]

وَّاَنَّهٗ كَانَ يَقُوْلُ سَفِيْهُنَا عَلَى اللّٰهِ شَطَطًا ⑤

5. 'And that the foolish amongst us used to utter extravagant lies concerning Allāh,

وَّاَنَّا ظَنَنَّآ اَنْ لَّنْ تَقُوْلَ الْاِنْسُ وَالْجِنُّ

6. 'And we thought that men and jinn would never utter a

3136. See 2733.

3137. The reference may be to a party of the Jews of Naṣībain. They were non-Arabs and being strangers they have been called "jinn" which word among other things means, a stranger (Lane). The incident mentioned in this verse seems to be different from the one referred to in 46:30-33, though the verse is taken by some authorities to refer to those verses, because the words put in the mouth of 'a company of the jinn' in the present verse possess a seeming resemblance with the words spoken by a party of the jinn referred to in 46:30-33.

3138. The verse shows that 'a company of the jinn' were either Unitarian Christians, or such Jews as were closely associated with them or, being under their influence, were conversant with Christian beliefs.

lie concerning Allāh,

عَلَى اللّٰهِ كَذِبًا ۙ﴿۶﴾

7. [a]'And, indeed, some men[3139] from among the common folk used to seek the protection of some men from among the jinn, and thus they increased the jinn in arrogance,

وَّ اَنَّهٗ كَانَ رِجَالٌ مِّنَ الْاِنْسِ يَعُوْذُوْنَ بِرِجَالٍ مِّنَ الْجِنِّ فَزَادُوْهُمْ رَهَقًا ۙ﴿۷﴾

8. 'And, indeed, they thought, even as you think that Allāh would never raise any Messenger,[3140]

وَّ اَنَّهُمْ ظَنُّوْا كَمَا ظَنَنْتُمْ اَنْ لَّنْ يَّبْعَثَ اللّٰهُ اَحَدًا ۙ﴿۸﴾

9. 'And we sought to reach heaven,[3141] but we found it filled with strong guards and [b]shooting stars,

وَّ اَنَّا لَمَسْنَا السَّمَآءَ فَوَجَدْنٰهَا مُلِئَتْ حَرَسًا شَدِيْدًا وَّ شُهُبًا ۙ﴿۹﴾

10. 'And we used to sit in some of its seats to listen. But whoso listens now finds a shooting star in ambush[3142] for him,

وَّ اَنَّا كُنَّا نَقْعُدُ مِنْهَا مَقَاعِدَ لِلسَّمْعِ ؕ فَمَنْ يَّسْتَمِعِ الْاٰنَ يَجِدْ لَهٗ شِهَابًا رَّصَدًا ۙ﴿۱۰﴾

[a]6:129. [b]15:17-19; 37:7-9.

3139. As the word Rijāl is used only with regard to human beings, the verse shows that 'a company of the jinn,' mentioned in this and in Sūrah Al-Aḥqāf were human beings and not any other species of creation. The Arabic word jinn here may signify big or influential men and Ins lowly and humble ones who, by following the former and seeking their protection, increase their conceit and arrogance.

3140. The Jews had ceased to believe as early as in the time of the Prophet Joseph that any Divine Messenger would ever appear after him (40:35).

3141. The expression, 'Seeking to reach heaven,' means, trying to steal the secrets of the unknown. When a Divine Reformer is about to make his appearance in the world, an unusual shooting of stars takes place. It is to this exceptional natural phenomenon that reference seems to have been made in this verse.

3142. Before the appearance of a Divine Reformer, soothsayers and diviners dabble in occult sciences, and with the help of their questionable

وَّاَنَّا لَا نَدْرِیْۤ اَشَرٌّ اُرِیْدَ بِمَنْ فِی

11. 'And we know not whether evil is intended for those who are in the earth, or whether their Lord intends to bestow guidance upon them,

وَّاَنَّا مِنَّا الصّٰلِحُوْنَ وَمِنَّا دُوْنَ ذٰلِكَ ؕ
كُنَّا طَرَآئِقَ قِدَدًا ﴿۱۲﴾

12. 'And some of us are righteous and some of us are otherwise—we are sects following different paths,

فَمَنْ اَسْلَمَ فَاُولٰٓئِكَ تَحَرَّوْا رَشَدًا ﴿۱۵﴾

15. 'And some of us submit to God and some of us have deviated from the right course.' And those who submit to God—it is they who seek the right course,

وَاَمَّا الْقٰسِطُوْنَ فَكَانُوْا لِجَهَنَّمَ practices seek to hoodwink simple folk by posing to be able to have access to the secrets of the unknown and, being adept in the art of cheating, succeed in playing upon their credulity. But with the advent of a Heavenly Reformer their deceit is exposed and their counterfeit knowledge of the unseen becomes unmasked as only a superficial and fragmentary acquaintance with astrology. The word "now" is used here particularly with respect to the time of the Holy Prophet, but it may also signify the time of every great Divine Reformer. See also 37:7-10.

وَّ اَنْ لَّوِ اسْتَقَامُوْا عَلَى الطَّرِيْقَةِ لَاَسْقَيْنٰهُمْ مَّآءً غَدَقًا ﴿۱۷﴾

17. And if the Meccan disbelievers keep to the right path, We shall, certainly, provide them with abundant water to drink,[3143]

لِّنَفْتِنَهُمْ فِيْهِ ؕ وَمَنْ يُّعْرِضْ عَنْ ذِكْرِ رَبِّهٖ يَسْلُكْهُ عَذَابًا صَعَدًا ﴿۱۸﴾

18. That We may try them thereby. [a]And whoso turns away from the remembrance of his Lord—He will drive him into an overwhelmingly severe punishment.

وَّ اَنَّ الْمَسٰجِدَ لِلّٰهِ فَلَا تَدْعُوْا مَعَ اللّٰهِ اَحَدًا ﴿۱۹﴾

19. [b]And all places of worship[3144] belong to Allāh; so call not on anyone beside Allāh.

وَّ اَنَّهٗ لَمَّا قَامَ عَبْدُ اللّٰهِ يَدْعُوْهُ كَادُوْا يَكُوْنُوْنَ عَلَيْهِ لِبَدًا ﴿۲۰﴾

20. [c]And when the Servant of Allāh[3145] stands up praying to Him, they crowd upon him, well-nigh stifling him to death.

R. 2.

قُلْ اِنَّمَاۤ اَدْعُوْا رَبِّيْ وَ لَاۤ اُشْرِكُ بِهٖۤ اَحَدًا ﴿۲۱﴾

21. Say, 'I pray to my Lord only, [d]and I associate no one with Him.

قُلْ اِنِّيْ لَاۤ اَمْلِكُ لَكُمْ ضَرًّا وَّ لَا رَشَدًا ﴿۲۲﴾

22. Say, 'I have no power to do you either harm or good.'

[a]20:101; 43:37. [b]2:115; 22:41. [c]96:10, 11. [d]13:37; 18:39.

3143. Water being the source of all life, "abundant water" signifies abundance of wealth and other material gains.

3144. In the foregoing verses it is declared that with the advent of the Holy Prophet God's plan with regard to the establishment of Divine Unity has become manifest. The verse under comment states that mosques would henceforth be the centres from which the light of Truth will emanate and spread throughout the world.

3145. The epithet, 'The Servant of Allāh,' refers to the Holy Prophet, he being God's servant par excellence, but it may also be applied to every Divine Messenger or Reformer.

قُلْ اِنِّیْ لَنْ یُّجِیْرَنِیْ مِنَ اللّٰهِ اَحَدٌ ۙ وَّ لَنْ اَجِدَ مِنْ دُوْنِهٖ مُلْتَحَدًا ﴿۲۳﴾

23. Say, 'Surely, none can protect me against the punishment of Allāh, [a]nor can I find any place of refuge beside Him.'

اِلَّا بَلٰغًا مِّنَ اللّٰهِ وَ رِسٰلٰتِهٖ ؕ وَ مَنْ یَّعْصِ اللّٰهَ وَ رَسُوْلَهٗ فَاِنَّ لَهٗ نَارَ جَهَنَّمَ خٰلِدِیْنَ فِیْهَاۤ اَبَدًا ﴿۲۴﴾ؕ

24. 'My responsibility is only to convey what is revealed to me from Allāh and His Messages.' And those who disobey Allāh and His Messenger, surely, for them is the fire of Hell, wherein they will abide for a long period.[3146]

حَتّٰۤی اِذَا رَاَوْا مَا یُوْعَدُوْنَ فَسَیَعْلَمُوْنَ مَنْ اَضْعَفُ نَاصِرًا وَّ اَقَلُّ عَدَدًا ﴿۲۵﴾

25. [b]They will continue to disbelieve until they see that which they are promised, but soon they will know who is weaker in helpers and fewer in numbers.

قُلْ اِنْ اَدْرِیْۤ اَقَرِیْبٌ مَّا تُوْعَدُوْنَ اَمْ یَجْعَلُ لَهٗ رَبِّیْۤ اَمَدًا ﴿۲۶﴾

26. [c]Say, 'I know not whether that which you are promised is nigh, or whether my Lord has fixed for it a distant term.'

عٰلِمُ الْغَیْبِ فَلَا یُظْهِرُ عَلٰی غَیْبِهٖۤ اَحَدًا ﴿۲۷﴾ۙ

27. He is the Knower of the unseen; and He reveals[3147] not His secrets to anyone,

اِلَّا مَنِ ارْتَضٰی مِنْ رَّسُوْلٍ فَاِنَّهٗ یَسْلُكُ

28. Except to a Messenger of His whom He chooses. And then He causes an escort of

[a]18:28. [b]19:76. [c]21:110.

3146. The difference between Amad and Abad is that whereas the former word means time limited in duration, the latter means time everlasting (Lane).

3147. The expression, Iẓhār 'alal-Ghaib, means, to be given knowledge frequently and in abundance of the secrets of the unknown that relate to and concern events of the greatest import.

مِنۢ بَيۡنِ يَدَيۡهِ وَمِنۡ خَلۡفِهٖ رَصَدًا ﴿۲۸﴾

لِّيَعۡلَمَ اَنۡ قَدۡ اَبۡلَغُوۡا رِسٰلٰتِ رَبِّهِمۡ وَاَحَاطَ بِمَا لَدَيۡهِمۡ وَاَحۡصٰى كُلَّ شَىۡءٍ عَدَدًا ﴿۲۹﴾ ع ۲

guarding angels to go before him and behind him,[3148]

29. That He may know that His Messengers have delivered the Messages of their Lord.[3149] And He encompasses all that is with them and He keeps count of all things.

3148. The verse embodies an incontestable criterion to distinguish between the nature and scope of the secrets of the unknown that are revealed to a Divine Messenger and those that are disclosed to other righteous believers. The distinction lies in the fact that whereas God's Messengers are granted Iẓhār 'alal-Ghaib, i.e. predominance over the unseen, secrets revealed to other righteous and holy men of God do not enjoy this distinction. Moreover, revelation granted to God's Messengers, being under special Divine protection, is secure against being distorted or tampered with by evil spirits, while secrets revealed to other righteous men are not so safe.

3149. The revelation of Divine Messengers is granted security against being distorted or tampered with because they have a great Divine mission to fulfil and a great Heavenly Message to deliver.

CHAPTER 73
AL-MUZZAMMIL
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

Consensus of scholarly opinion assigns the revelation of this Sūrah to the earliest period of the Call; some scholars consider that it was the third Chapter to be revealed. In the preceding Sūrah (Al-Jinn) it was stated that angels descend upon Divine Messengers to guard the Word of God revealed to them from being distorted or tampered with. In the present Sūrah the Holy Prophet is enjoined to devote a part of the night to Prayer and remembrance of God so that angels may descend upon him to help him against evil plots and machinations of his enemies. Like all Meccan Sūrahs, this Sūrah also deals mainly with the Divine mission of the Holy Prophet and with the truth of the Quranic revelation. It foretells in brief but very forceful words the eventual triumph of the Holy Prophet and adduces the fulfilment of this prophecy as an argument in support of Life after death and Resurrection. Particular emphasis has been laid on Prayer and remembrance of God which is a most effective means to draw Divine help and succour to prepare the Prophet for the mighty task that lies ahead of him.

سُوْرَةُ الْمُزَّمِّلِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٧٣ — اٰياتها ٢١ — رکوعاتها ٢

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

يٰٓاَيُّهَا الْمُزَّمِّلُ ②

2. O thou wrapped up in thy mantle,[3150]

قُمِ الَّيْلَ اِلَّا قَلِيْلًا ③

3. Stand up in Prayer at night except a small portion thereof—

نِّصْفَهٗٓ اَوِ انْقُصْ مِنْهُ قَلِيْلًا ④

4. Half of it, or reduce from it a little,

اَوْ زِدْ عَلَيْهِ وَرَتِّلِ الْقُرْاٰنَ تَرْتِيْلًا ⑤

5. Or, add to it a little—and [b]recite the Qur'ān a good recital.

[a]1:1. [b]17:107; 25:33.

3150. Zamala-hū means, he carried him behind his back. Zammala, besides the meaning given in the text, means, he ran and went along quickly. Tazammala, Izzammala or Izdamala means, he wrapped himself; he bore, or carried it, namely a load at one time. Muzzammil (or Mutazammil) means, a man wrapped in his garments; one bearing a heavy responsibility (Aqrab, Qadīr, Ma'ānī). After his first spiritual experience when the angel of God came to the Holy Prophet with Divine revelation in the Cave Ḥirā', he rushed home very much frightened. The fright was quite natural because the experience was quite novel. The Holy Prophet asked to be wrapped up in a mantle. As wrapping up also implies the sense of joining together and uniting, the meaning of the verse may be something like this, 'O thou who hast been commissioned to unite all the nations of the world under one banner!' The Holy Prophet has been described in the Ḥadīth as Al-Ḥāshir, i.e. joiner and uniter of the nations of the world (Bukhārī). The verse may also signify: (1) The Holy Prophet is one who has to go a long distance on the road to awaken humanity to the realization of its high destiny, and, therefore, he has to go fast, i.e. work hard, incessantly and fast. (2) He is one who is to carry a heavy load, a very great responsibility of preaching the Divine Message to the world. The Holy Prophet may have been reminded of his onerous task of preparing a community of God-fearing followers, who, imbued with the same noble ideals and tired with the same unflagging zeal as himself, should help him to convey to mankind the Message of Islām. It is to the onerous duties and responsibilities of the Holy Prophet that reference is made here and not to his being wrapped up in his mantle.

إِنَّا سَنُلْقِي عَلَيْكَ قَوْلًا ثَقِيلًا ﴿٦﴾

6. Verily, We are about to charge thee with a weighty Word.[3151]

إِنَّ نَاشِئَةَ اللَّيْلِ هِيَ أَشَدُّ وَطْئًا وَأَقْوَمُ قِيلًا ﴿٧﴾

7. Verily, getting up at night for Prayer is the most potent means of subduing the self and most effective in speech.[3152]

إِنَّ لَكَ فِي النَّهَارِ سَبْحًا طَوِيلًا ﴿٨﴾

8. Thou hast, indeed, during the day a long chain of engagements.[3153]

وَاذْكُرِ اسْمَ رَبِّكَ وَتَبَتَّلْ إِلَيْهِ تَبْتِيلًا ﴿٩﴾

9. So remember the name of thy Lord and devote thyself to Him with full devotion.

3151. The expression, 'a weighty Word,' may signify: 'The Quranic teaching is pregnant with the highest import. It is too weighty to be displaced or dislocated.' No word or letter of the Qur'ān can be changed, altered or amended. According to an oft-quoted Ḥadīth, whenever a revelation descended upon the Holy Prophet, he went into a trance and felt a peculiar sensation so that even on an extremely cold day large drops of sweat fell from his forehead and he felt a dead-weight of his body (Bukhārī). The Quranic revelation being 'a weighty Word,' the Holy Prophet's paroxysm was due to this sensation.

3152. Getting up at night for Prayer is a potent means of subduing one's self and bringing under effective control one's evil propensities and inclinations. It is the proved experience of all holy men of God that nothing conduces to one's spiritual development so much as Prayer at night. In the stillness and solitude of night a peculiar sort of peace prevails and all nature is quiet, and man, being all alone with his Creator, enjoys special communion with Him and becomes illumined with a special heavenly light which he imparts to others. The time is eminently suited for one to develop strength of character and to make one's speech sane, solid and sound. Effective speech and infinite capacity for hard work are two very necessary qualifications for a Reformer in order to succeed in his mission. Prayer at night helps in the development of these two qualities. Having acquired control over one's mind and tongue one comes to exercise control over others.

3153. Reference in the verse is to the multifarious duties of the Holy Prophet which he performed with alacrity and in doing which he took great pleasure; this being the significance of the word Sabḥan (Lane).

رَبُّ الْمَشْرِقِ وَالْمَغْرِبِ لَآ اِلٰهَ اِلَّا هُوَ فَاتَّخِذْهُ وَكِيْلًا ۝١٠

10. [a]He is the Lord of the East and the West; there is no god but He; so take him for thy Guardian.

وَاصْبِرْ عَلٰى مَا يَقُوْلُوْنَ وَاهْجُرْهُمْ هَجْرًا جَمِيْلًا ۝١١

11. And bear patiently all that they say; and withdraw from them in a decent manner.

وَذَرْنِيْ وَالْمُكَذِّبِيْنَ اُولِي النَّعْمَةِ وَمَهِّلْهُمْ قَلِيْلًا ۝١٢

12. [b]And leave Me alone with those who reject the truth, possessors of ease and plenty; and give them a little respite.

اِنَّ لَدَيْنَآ اَنْكَالًا وَّجَحِيْمًا ۝١٣ۙ

13. Surely, with Us are heavy fetters and a raging fire,

وَّطَعَامًا ذَا غُصَّةٍ وَّعَذَابًا اَلِيْمًا ۝١٤ۙ

14. And food that chokes, and a painful punishment—

15. On the day when the earth [c]and the mountains shall quake, and the mountains will become like crumbling sand-hills.

اِنَّآ اَرْسَلْنَآ اِلَيْكُمْ رَسُوْلًا ۢ شَاهِدًا عَلَيْكُمْ كَمَآ اَرْسَلْنَآ اِلٰى فِرْعَوْنَ رَسُوْلًا ۝١٦ؕ

16. Verily, We have sent to you a Messenger, [d]who is a witness over you, even as We sent a Messenger to Pharaoh;[3154]

فَعَصٰى فِرْعَوْنُ الرَّسُوْلَ فَاَخَذْنٰهُ اَخْذًا وَّبِيْلًا ۝١٧

17. But Pharaoh disobeyed the Messenger, [e]so We seized him with a terrible seizing.

[a]26:29; 37:6. [b]68:45; 74:12. [c]56:5, 6; 79:7. [d]33:46; 48:9. [e]20:79; 26:67; 28:41.

3154. The verse refers to the biblical prophecy: 'I will raise them up a Prophet from among their brethren, like unto thee, and will put My word in his mouth; and he shall speak unto them all that I shall command. And it shall come to pass, that whosoever will not hearken unto My words which he shall speak in My name, I will require it of him' (Deut. 18:18, 19).

18. How will you then, if you disbelieve, guard yourselves against a day which will turn children grey-headed?[3155]

19. [a]The day when the heaven will be rent asunder; and His promise[3156] is bound to be fulfilled.

20. This, surely, is a [b]reminder. So let him, who will, take a way unto his Lord.

R. 2.

21. Surely, thy Lord knows that [c]thou standest up praying for nearly two-thirds of the night, and sometimes half or a third thereof [d]and also a party of those who are with thee.[3157] And Allāh determines the measure[3158] of the night and

[a]82:2. [b]20:4; 74:55; 76:30; 80:12. [c]26:219. [d]25:65; 41:39.

3155. 'Turn children grey-headed' in the present verse, 'being rent asunder of the heaven' in the next, 'rolling up of heaven' in 21:105, and similar other expressions used in the Qur'ān (82:2 & 84:2) are metaphors for most calamitous happenings which bring about disastrous changes.

3156. The promise referred to in the verse was the total defeat and destruction of the forces of evil with the Fall of Mecca.

3157. In the opening verse of the Sūrah the Holy Prophet was enjoined constantly to pray at night, for, that would give him the necessary strength to discharge the grave responsibility of preaching the Divine Message that was shortly going to devolve on him. In this verse he is assured of Divine pleasure, and is told that he has faithfully carried out God's command about Night-Prayer—not only he, but a party of believers also. The command was not specifically directed to the followers of the Holy Prophet, but being always desirous of following in his footsteps, they copied his example in this respect also.

3158. The sentence, 'Allāh determines the measure of the night and the day,' signifies that sometimes nights are long and sometimes they are short and sometimes they are equal. The words, 'you cannot calculate the time accurately,' may apply to Muslims in general. They are told that all of them the day. He knows that you cannot calculate the time accurately, so He has turned to you in mercy. Recite, then, as much of the Qur'ān as is easy for you. He knows that there will be some among you who may be sick, and others who may travel in the land, seeking Allāh's bounty, and others who may fight in the cause of Allāh. So recite of it that which is easy for you, and observe Prayer and pay the Zakāt [a]and lend to Allāh a goodly loan. And whatever good you may send on before you for your souls, you will find it with Allāh. It will be better and greater in reward. And seek forgiveness of Allāh. Surely, Allāh is Most Forgiving, Merciful.

CHAPTER 74
AL-MUDDATHTHIR
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

By common consent this Sūrah was one of the first two or three Sūrahs which were revealed at Mecca. This and the preceding Sūrah (Al-Muzzammil) seem to be "twins" as they are so closely linked as regards the time of their revelation and their tone and tenor. The present Sūrah, in fact, complements the subject-matter of the preceding one. The Muzzammil of the previous Sūrah, immersed in devotional prayers and contemplation and passing through a period of intense preparation for the attainment of spiritual perfection, has become developed into the Muddaththir (destroyer of sin and vanquisher of the forces of evil, deliverer of mankind, their leader, guide and warner) of the present Sūrah. From that time onward, the Holy Prophet's life was no more his own. It was given to God. He preached the Divine Message with unswerving purpose, in the face of insult, opposition and persecution. The Sūrah opens with a firm command to the Holy Prophet to stand up, proclaim the Truth he has and warn those who would not accept it—those whom wealth, power and position have rendered spiritually blind and deaf—that they would suffer punishment because they did not offer Prayers and did not feed the poor and because also that they indulged in vain pursuits. The Sūrah ends on the note that the Qur'ān is but a reminder and an exhortation. He, who accepts its Message, accepts it for the good of his own soul and he, who rejects it, does so to his own detriment.

سُوْرَةُ الْمُدَّثِّرِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٧٤ — اٰياتها ٥٧ — رکوعاتها ٢

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

يٰٓاَيُّهَا الْمُدَّثِّرُ ②

2. O thou who hast covered thyself with thy cloak,[3159]

قُمْ فَاَنْذِرْ ③

3. Arise and warn,

وَرَبَّكَ فَكَبِّرْ ④

4. And thy Lord do thou magnify,

وَثِيَابَكَ فَطَهِّرْ ⑤

5. And thy clothes[3160] do thou purify,

وَالرُّجْزَ فَاهْجُرْ ⑥

6. And uncleanliness[3161] do thou shun,

وَلَا تَمْنُنْ تَسْتَكْثِرُ ⑦

7. And bestow not favours seeking to get more in return,

وَلِرَبِّكَ فَاصْبِرْ ⑧

8. And for the sake of thy Lord do thou endure trials patiently.

[a]1:1.

3159. Tadaththara or Iddaththara means, he wrapped himself with a garment. Daththara-hū means, he destroyed or obliterated him or it; he covered him with a warm garment. Daththaraṭ-Ṭairu means, the bird adjusted, or put in order its nest. Tadaththaral-Farasa means, he leaped upon and rode the horse. Tadaththaral-'Aduwwa means, he vanquished the enemy (Lane). According to the different meanings of the root-word, Al-Muddaththir would mean, the effacer or obliterator; the reformer or the one who adjusts or puts things in order; the vanquisher; the one who is about to leap upon and ride the horse. The word has also been interpreted as one entrusted with bearing the heavy load of the responsibilities of a Prophet (Qadīr). The word also means, one adorned with the best natural powers and qualities and prophetical dignity (Rūḥul-Ma'ānī). All these epithets quite fitly apply to the Holy Prophet.

3160. Thiyāb means, clothes; dependents or followers of a person; the wearer's body or self (Lane & Steingass). The Holy Prophet is enjoined that before entering upon his great mission he should prepare a body of followers, pure of heart, conduct and reputation. Or, the verse may mean that he should himself become paragon of piety, righteousness and of pure conduct.

3161. Ar-Rujz also meaning idol-worship (Lane), the verse may be taken as enjoining the Holy Prophet to spare no pains to exterminate idolatry.

فَاِذَا نُقِرَ فِي النَّاقُوْرِ ۙ﴿۹﴾

9. [a]And when the trumpet is sounded,[3162]

فَذٰلِكَ يَوْمَئِذٍ يَّوْمٌ عَسِيْرٌ ۙ﴿۱۰﴾

10. [b]That day will be a hard day,[3163]

عَلَى الْكٰفِرِيْنَ غَيْرُ يَسِيْرٍ ﴿۱۱﴾

11. For the disbelievers it will not be easy.

ذَرْنِيْ وَمَنْ خَلَقْتُ وَحِيْدًا ۙ﴿۱۲﴾

12. [c]Leave Me alone[3164] to deal with him whom I created.

وَّجَعَلْتُ لَهٗ مَالًا مَّمْدُوْدًا ۙ﴿۱۳﴾

13. [d]And I gave him abundant wealth,

وَّبَنِيْنَ شُهُوْدًا ۙ﴿۱۴﴾

14. [e]And sons, dwelling in his presence,[3165]

وَّمَهَّدْتُّ لَهٗ تَمْهِيْدًا ۙ﴿۱۵﴾

ثُمَّ يَطْمَعُ اَنْ اَزِيْدَ ۙ﴿۱۶﴾

16. Yet he desires that I should give him more.

كَلَّا ؕ اِنَّهٗ كَانَ لِاٰيٰتِنَا عَنِيْدًا ؕ﴿۱۷﴾

17. Certainly not![3166] for he was stubbornly opposed to Our Signs.

[a]23:102; 50:21; 69:14. [b]25:27. [c]68:45; 73:12. [d]68:15. [e]68:15.

3162. The verse means, when a Divine Reformer—God's bugle—by which God summons men to Himself—makes his appearance and calls men to God. Or, the verse may refer to the Holy prophet's own call to his people.

3163. 'A hard day' signifies the Day of Resurrection or, the day of the final defeat of disbelief and the complete triumph of Truth.

3164. The words also mean: 'Leave Me to deal alone with him whom I created,' or Leave Me to deal with him who, on account of the great wealth, power and position, God has bestowed upon him, thinks himself to be peerless among his compatriots, Waḥīd also meaning unique, incomparable' (Lane).

Though this and the following several verses apply to every arrogant and conceited disbeliever, they may particularly apply to Walīd bin Mughīrah, who was an outstanding personality among the Quraish, and was known among his fellow citizens by such high sounding titles as "unique" and "fragrance of the Quraish." He was extremely handsome and was well-known for his elegant poems and other accomplishments. He had ten to thirteen sons and was a very rich man.

3165. The verse may mean that Walīd's sons also commanded respect like him. They, too, were offered a distinguished place in the assemblies which he attended. Or, Walīd was so rich that his sons always kept company with him, not wanting to go anywhere to earn their living.

3166. The word, Kallā, is used to reject the request of a person and to سَأُرْهِقُهٗ صَعُوْدًا ﴿١٨﴾

18. I shall inflict on him an increasingly overwhelming torment.

اِنَّهٗ فَكَّرَ وَقَدَّرَ ﴿١٩﴾

19. Lo! he reflected and calculated!

فَقُتِلَ كَيْفَ قَدَّرَ ﴿٢٠﴾

20. Ruin seize him! how he calculated!

ثُمَّ قُتِلَ كَيْفَ قَدَّرَ ﴿٢١﴾

21. Ruin seize him[3167] again! how he calculated!

ثُمَّ نَظَرَ ﴿٢٢﴾

22. Then he looked around him,

ثُمَّ عَبَسَ وَبَسَرَ ﴿٢٣﴾

23. [a]Then he frowned and scowled,[3168]

ثُمَّ اَدْبَرَ وَاسْتَكْبَرَ ﴿٢٤﴾

24. Then he turned away and was disdainful,

فَقَالَ اِنْ هٰذَآ اِلَّا سِحْرٌ يُّؤْثَرُ ﴿٢٥﴾

25. And said, [b]'This is nothing but magic handed down;

اِنْ هٰذَآ اِلَّا قَوْلُ الْبَشَرِ ﴿٢٦﴾

26. 'This is nothing but the word of a man.

27. Soon shall I cast him into [c]the fire of Hell.

وَمَآ اَدْرٰىكَ مَا سَقَرُ ﴿٢٨﴾

28. And what will make thee know what Hell-fire is?

31. Over it are nineteen[3169] angels.

[a]80:2. [b]34:44; 37:16. [c]37:24. [d]70:17.

reprimand him for making it (Lane).

3167. The reference is particularly to Walīd bin Mughīrah. Ruin continued to dog his footsteps. Three of his sons—Walīd, Khālid and Hishām accepted Islām, others perished before his eyes. He suffered heavy financial losses and ultimately died in poverty and disgrace.

3168. When the Qur'ān was read to him Walīd frowned and scowled in disdain and went away in high huff.

3169. Man has been endowed with nine major senses, i.e. the seven

And We have not fixed their number except as a trial for those who disbelieve, so that those, who have been given the Book, may attain certainty and those who believe may increase in faith, and those, who have been given the Book as well as the believers, may not doubt, and that those in whose hearts is disease and the disbelievers may say, 'What does Allāh mean by such an [a]illustration?' Thus does Allāh leave to go astray whom He pleases and guide whom He pleases. [b]And none knows the hosts of thy Lord but He. And this is nothing but a Reminder for man.

exteroceptive senses, one proprioceptive sense of position in space and one enteroceptive sense arising from internal organs relating to sensations of hunger, thirst, etc. These coupled with their nine spiritual counterparts together with the guardian or the controlling sense, i.e. the will power which dominates and controls all these different faculties of human nature, are the nineteen guardians of Hell. Or, the number "nineteen" may be a great Divine secret specially concerning the People of the Book of which the significance and reality will be disclosed in God's own time and will make them acknowledge the truth of the Quranic teaching and will add greatly to the certainty of faith of the believers. Who dare claim to know all the Divine secrets?

3170. 'The dawn' may also signify the Holy Prophet's great Deputy, the Promised Messiah and the 'departing night' may mean the night of spiritual darkness that would begin to depart after his appearance.

3171. Every soul shall remain in pledge unless it will have paid for the sins it had committed, i.e. unless it will have been cleansed of sins after having suffered punishment for them.

56. Let him, then, who will, remember it.

وَمَا يَذْكُرُوْنَ اِلَّاۤ اَنْ يَّشَآءَ اللّٰهُ ؕ هُوَ اَهْلُ التَّقْوٰى وَاَهْلُ الْمَغْفِرَةِ ﴿۵۷﴾ ع ۱۶

57. And they will not remember unless Allāh so [c]pleases.[3174] He alone is worthy to be feared and He alone is worthy to forgive.

[a]15:100. [b]20:110; 34:24. [c]76:31; 81:30.

3172. Yaqīn means, certainty; security; death (Aqrab).

3173. The reference here may be to the impudent demand of disbelievers mentioned elsewhere in the Qur'ān that they would not believe unless the Holy Prophet should bring down a Book for them from Heaven which they should read (17:94).

3174. The disbelievers will not benefit by the Qur'ān unless they make their own will conform to the Will of God, i.e. unless they subordinate all their desires to the Divine Will (76:31).

CHAPTER 75
AL-QIYĀMAH
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation, Context and Subject-Matter

The Sūrah is entitled, "The Resurrection," because it almost wholly deals with the subject of Resurrection. It is decidedly one of the earliest Chapters which were revealed at Mecca, because the Meccan Chapters specifically deal with God's Unity, Resurrection and Revelation. Towards the end of the preceding Sūrah it was emphatically declared that those people, who will accept the Quranic Message, will rise to great eminence and will enjoy an honoured place among the comity of powerful nations. The present Sūrah opening with a discussion of the subject of Resurrection, throws a broad hint that a great moral resurrection is going to be brought about among a morally degraded and degenerate people—the Arabs—through the ennobling teachings of the Qur'ān and the purifying company and example of the Holy Prophet Muḥammad.

The Sūrah opens with a solemn affirmation that the Resurrection undoubtedly will take place, and significantly enough adduces man's spiritual resurrection as evidence in support of this affirmation. As a further proof, it swears by Nafs-e-Lawwāmah (the Self-Accusing Spirit) which in action is the first stage of the process of moral regeneration of man. Then an oft-repeated objection of disbelievers is mentioned that when they are dead and reduced to dust, how will they be raised again to life? The Sūrah refutes this objection by saying that in their heart of hearts they know that man's sins never go unpunished and, therefore, there must be a day when they will be called to account for all their actions. Next, the collection of the Qur'ān and the Divine protection of its text are offered as further arguments in the same connection, since of all revealed Scriptures the Qur'ān has laid the greatest emphasis on the inevitability of Resurrection. Then, a brief but graphic description is given of the agony of death and man's intense desire to be spared of it. This shows that at the moment of death the fear that one will have to render an account of one's actions gnaws at one's heart. Towards its close disbelievers are admonished that man has not been created without purpose or responsibility and that he will have to account for his failure to discharge it. The disbelievers are further reminded that man's physical development from a sperm-drop into a full-fledged human being, endowed with unique powers and faculties, constitutes an irrebuttable argument that his life is intended to serve a sublime purpose and that it will not end with the departure of the soul from its physical tabernacle.

سُوْرَةُ الْقِيٰمَةِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٧٥ — اٰياتها ٤١ — رکوعاتها ٢

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.[3175]

لَآ اُقْسِمُ بِيَوْمِ الْقِيٰمَةِ ②

2. Nay,[3176] I swear by the Day of Resurrection.

وَلَآ اُقْسِمُ بِالنَّفْسِ اللَّوَّامَةِ ③

3. Nay, I swear by the self-accusing soul,[3177] that the Day of Judgment is a certainty.

اَيَحْسَبُ الْاِنْسَانُ اَلَّنْ نَّجْمَعَ عِظَامَهٗ ④

4. Does man think that We shall not [b]assemble his bones?

بَلٰى قٰدِرِيْنَ عَلٰٓى اَنْ نُّسَوِّيَ بَنَانَهٗ ⑤

5. Yea, We have the power to restore his very finger-tips.[3178]

[a]1:1. [b]23:83; 37:54; 56:48; 79:11-13.

3175. See 1:1

3176. Lā here may signify, 'It is not like what they think.' Sometimes it is used as an answer to some objection or in repudiation of what is said before (Lane).

3177. The Qur'ān has mentioned three stages of development of the human soul. The first stage is called Nafs-e-Ammārah (the uncontrollable spirit), when the animal in man is predominant. The second stage is that of Nafs-e-Lawwāmah (the self-accusing spirit), when man's awakened conscience upbraids him for doing bad deeds and restrains his passions and appetites. At this stage the human in man gets the upper hand. It is the beginning of his moral resurrection and therefore has been cited here in evidence of the Final Resurrection. If man has no responsibility, and if he is not to account for his actions in an afterlife, then why this pricking of conscience at the doing of an evil deed? The third and the highest stage of development of the human soul, however, is that of Nafs-e-Muṭma'innah (the soul at rest). At this stage the human soul becomes practically immune to failure or faltering and is at peace with its Creator.

3178. Banān represents man's power and strength, as by means of his fingers he grasps an object and defends himself. The word may stand also for the whole human body as part of a thing sometimes represents the whole. The verse signifies that God has the power to restore all the powers of man, or even of a whole people when, to all intents and purposes, they are dead and defunct.

بَلْ يُرِيْدُ الْاِنْسَانُ لِيَفْجُرَ اَمَامَهٗ ۚ﴿۶﴾

6. But man desires to continue to send forth evil deeds in front of him.

يَسْـَٔلُ اَيَّانَ يَوْمُ الْقِيٰمَةِ ؕ﴿۷﴾

7. He [a]enquires, 'When will be the Day of Resurrection?

فَاِذَا بَرِقَ الْبَصَرُ ۙ﴿۸﴾

8. When the eye is dazzled,

وَخَسَفَ الْقَمَرُ ۙ﴿۹﴾

9. And the moon is eclipsed,

وَجُمِعَ الشَّمْسُ وَالْقَمَرُ ۙ﴿۱۰﴾

10. And the sun and the moon are brought together,[3179]

يَقُوْلُ الْاِنْسَانُ يَوْمَئِذٍ اَيْنَ الْمَفَرُّ ۚ﴿۱۱﴾

11. On that day man will say, 'Whither to [b]flee?'

كَلَّا لَا وَزَرَ ؕ﴿۱۲﴾

12. Not at all; there is no refuge!

اِلٰى رَبِّكَ يَوْمَئِذِ ِالْمُسْتَقَرُّ ؕ﴿۱۳﴾

13. With thy Lord alone will be the place of rest that day.

يُنَبَّؤُا الْاِنْسَانُ يَوْمَئِذٍ بِمَا قَدَّمَ وَاَخَّرَ ؕ﴿۱۴﴾

14. On that day will man be informed of that which he has sent forward and of that which he has left behind.[3180]

بَلِ الْاِنْسَانُ عَلٰى نَفْسِهٖ بَصِيْرَةٌ ۙ﴿۱۵﴾

15. In truth man is a witness against himself,

وَّلَوْ اَلْقٰى مَعَاذِيْرَهٗ ؕ﴿۱۶﴾

16. Even though he puts forward his excuses.

[a]78:2; 79:43. [b]80:35.

3179. The expression, 'the sun and the moon are brought together,' may signify that the whole solar system will be completely disrupted. Or, the verse may signify the destruction of the political power of the Arabs and of the Iranian empire, the moon being the symbol of the political power of the former and the sun that of the latter. Or, the reference may be to the lunar and solar eclipses which, according to a Ḥadīth, were to occur in the time of the Promised Mahdī in the month of Ramaḍān (Baihaqī), it being quite an unusual natural phenomenon. Strangely enough, both the sun and the moon were eclipsed in the month of Ramaḍān in 1894 when the Founder of the Ahmadiyya Movement had already made the claim that he was the Promised Messiah and Mahdī.

3180. The words mean: The evil actions which man did but which he should not have done, and the good ones which he should have done but failed to do, i.e. his sins of omission and commission.

لَا تُحَرِّكْ بِهٖ لِسَانَكَ لِتَعْجَلَ بِهٖ ﴿١٧﴾

17. Move not thy tongue, O Prophet, with the revelation of the Qur'ān that thou mayest hasten to preserve it.

اِنَّ عَلَيْنَا جَمْعَهٗ وَقُرْاٰنَهٗ ﴿١٨﴾

18. [a]Surely, upon Us rests its collection and its recital.[3181]

فَاِذَا قَرَاْنٰهُ فَاتَّبِعْ قُرْاٰنَهٗ ﴿١٩﴾

19. So when We recite it, then follow thou its recital.

ثُمَّ اِنَّ عَلَيْنَا بَيَانَهٗ ﴿٢٠﴾

20. Then upon Us rests the expounding thereof.

كَلَّا بَلْ تُحِبُّوْنَ الْعَاجِلَةَ ﴿٢١﴾

21. Hearken! [b]you love the present life;

وَتَذَرُوْنَ الْاٰخِرَةَ ﴿٢٢﴾

22. And you neglect the Hereafter.

وُجُوْهٌ يَّوْمَئِذٍ نَّاضِرَةٌ ﴿٢٣﴾

[a]15:10. [b]87:17. [c]88:9.

3181. Bukhārī reports that in the beginning when a certain portion of the Qur'ān was revealed to the Holy Prophet, in his anxiety lest he should forget it, he would start hurriedly repeating it. It is this practice that the Prophet was enjoined in the preceding verse to give up, since as stated in the following three verses, God has taken upon Himself not only to safeguard the text of the Qur'ān from being tampered with, but also to see that it was collected in the form of an immaculately arranged Book (see "Introduction to the Study of the Holy Qur'ān") and also that its Message was conveyed and explained to the whole world (15:10). Or, the significance of the verses may be that, because the preceding verses referred to a day of reckoning for disbelievers, the Holy Prophet was naturally anxious that the revelation bearing upon the promised punishment should come soon. He is here told that he need have no anxiety on that score, as it was God's responsibility when a relevant revelation should come and what form the punishment should take; and also that the Qur'ān should be collected, read and explained to the world. Besides the meaning given in the text, the verse has also been interpreted as follows: 'It is Our responsibility that We should explain the Quranic revelation through your tongue' (Rūḥul-Ma'ānī). This stresses the inviolability of the Holy Prophet's Sunnah and its indispensability as a safe and sure guide, next only to the Qur'ān itself.

3182. The righteous believers will look to their Lord, expecting to be 3183. The Arabs say, Faqarat-hud-Dāhiyatu, i.e. the calamity broke the vertebrae of his back (Lane).

3184. The verse means, (a) who will ascend with the soul of the dying man, the angel of mercy, who will take him to Paradise, or the angel of punishment, who will drag him to Hell? (b) Where is the wizard or charmer who will avert the approaching death, or relieve the dying man of his agony?

3185. The word, Sāq, literally meaning shank, metaphorically signifies a calamity or affliction. See 2177. The verse signifies that one affliction will be joined to another for the departed soul—the agony of leaving his near and dear ones behind will be joined to the agony of death and the punishment awaiting the disbeliever in the next world.

basic principles of Islām. Prayer is the essence of 'Ibādah which is total submission and conforming one's conduct to Divine laws. Thus the verse means that both the mind and the body of disbelievers rebelled against God.

3187. The repetition of the words, 'woe unto thee.' signifies mental agony and physical punishment, or punishment in this world and in the next. Or, the words are used for the purpose of intensification.

3188. The whole idea is inconsistent with God's wisdom that He should have created man from an insignificant thing—from a sperm-drop——and should have endowed him with such great natural powers and faculties as to make him the centre and pivot of all His creation and then should have left him alone to eat, drink and be merry.

3189. The Lord, Who created man from such an insignificant beginning, possesses the power to give him a new life, when he is dead and is reduced to crumbled bones and dust, to make spiritual progress which will know no end.

CHAPTER 76

AD-DAHR

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation, Context and Subject-Matter

This Sūrah, like the preceding one, belongs to the early Meccan period. It is also called Al-Insān. Towards the end of the preceding Sūrah it was stated that man's creation from an insignificant fluid and his development into a full-fledged human being, endowed with great natural powers, leads to the inescapable inference that his life has a Divine purpose to serve and that the Great God Who created him from a sperm-drop possesses the power to give him a new life after he is dead. The present Sūrah constitutes an extension of the same theme, viz. that man has been gifted with wonderful natural capabilities to rise to great spiritual heights. Its opening verses remind him of his insignificant beginning and of his having been endowed with reason and understanding, in order that, following the path shown to him by God's Prophets, he may make interminable spiritual progress and thus achieve the object for which he has been created. But when Divine Teachers appear to guide men to God, some of them reject God's Message and incur His displeasure, while others, more fortunate, respond to the Divine Call and earn Heavenly blessings. The Sūrah, then, gives a beautiful description of the Divine favours which are bestowed upon the righteous believers in this world and in the Hereafter, referring briefly also to the kind of punishment which the disbelievers receive here and will receive in the Hereafter for their wilful rejection of the Divine Message. It fittingly closes with the observation that God has revealed the Qur'ān, to guide man to the path which leads to the Lord and Creator of all creation, but he can derive no benefit from it unless he conforms his will to the Will of God.

سُوْرَةُ الدَّهْرِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٧٦ — اٰياتها ٣٢ — رکوعاتها ٢

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

هَلْ اَتٰى عَلَى الْاِنْسَانِ حِيْنٌ مِّنَ الدَّهْرِ لَمْ يَكُنْ شَيْـًٔا مَّذْكُوْرًا ②

2. There has, certainly, come upon man a period of time when he was not a [b]thing worth mentioning.

اِنَّا خَلَقْنَا الْاِنْسَانَ مِنْ نُّطْفَةٍ اَمْشَاجٍ ۖ نَّبْتَلِيْهِ فَجَعَلْنٰهُ سَمِيْعًا بَصِيْرًا ③

3. [c]We have created man from a mingled sperm-drop[3190] that We might try him; so We made him hearing, seeing.

اِنَّا هَدَيْنٰهُ السَّبِيْلَ اِمَّا شَاكِرًا وَّ اِمَّا كَفُوْرًا ④

4. [d]We have shown him the way, whether he be grateful or ungrateful.

اِنَّآ اَعْتَدْنَا لِلْكٰفِرِيْنَ سَلٰسِلَا۠ وَ اَغْلٰلًا وَّسَعِيْرًا ⑤

5. [e]Verily, We have prepared for the disbelievers chains and iron-collars and blazing Fire.[3191]

اِنَّ الْاَبْرَارَ يَشْرَبُوْنَ مِنْ كَاْسٍ كَانَ مِزَاجُهَا كَافُوْرًا ⑥ ۚ

6. But the virtuous shall drink of a cup, tempered with camphor—[3192]

[a]1:1. [b]19:68. [c]18:38; 35:12; 36:78; 40:68; 80:20. [d]90:11. [e]18:103; 29:69; 33:9; 48:14.

3190. Man is created from a sperm-drop which itself is a mixture of several things, the implication being that he has been endowed with various natural powers, faculties and attributes which are meant for his moral and spiritual advance. This process points only to a general rule of man's creation; not that in no case could it be otherwise.

3191. Every action which a man does is followed by a corresponding act of God. The entanglements of disbelievers in worldly affairs will take the form of chains in the next world; cares of the world will take the form of iron-collars, and greed and carnal desires that of hell-fire and so on. See also 3116.

3192. Kāfūr is derived from Kafara which means, to cover or to suppress. The significance of the verse is that the quaffing of camphor-drink will have the effect of cooling down animal passions. The heart of righteous believers will be cleansed of all impure thoughts and they will be refrigerated with the coolness of deep Divine knowledge.

عَيْنًا يَّشْرَبُ بِهَا عِبَادُ اللّٰهِ يُفَجِّرُوْنَهَا تَفْجِيْرًا ۝٧

7. From a spring[3192A] wherefrom the servants of Allāh will drink—they make it gush forth—a forceful gushing forth.

يُوْفُوْنَ بِالنَّذْرِ وَيَخَافُوْنَ يَوْمًا كَانَ شَرُّهٗ مُسْتَطِيْرًا ۝٨

8. They fulfil their vow,[3193] and fear a day the evil of which is widespread.

وَيُطْعِمُوْنَ الطَّعَامَ عَلٰى حُبِّهٖ مِسْكِيْنًا وَّيَتِيْمًا وَّاَسِيْرًا ۝٩

9. [a]And they feed, for love of Him,[3194] the poor, the orphan and the prisoner;

اِنَّمَا نُطْعِمُكُمْ لِوَجْهِ اللّٰهِ لَا نُرِيْدُ مِنْكُمْ جَزَآءً وَّلَا شُكُوْرًا ۝١٠

10. Assuring them: 'We feed you to win Allāh's pleasure only. We desire no reward nor thanks from you.

اِنَّا نَخَافُ مِنْ رَّبِّنَا يَوْمًا عَبُوْسًا قَمْطَرِيْرًا ۝١١

11. 'Verily, we fear from our Lord a frowning, distressful[3195] day.'

[a]90:15-17.

3192A. The righteous believers will drink of cups which will be filled from springs that they will have dug with great labour, this being the meaning of the word Tafjīr. The deeds, which they had done in the earthly life, would appear in the next world in the form of springs.

This is the first stage of spiritual evolution which requires hard and continuous striving on the part of believers, because unless man brings under control and suppresses his evil propensities, he cannot make any spiritual progress. "The spring" mentioned in the verse is the spring of God's love and Divine realization.

3193. 'Fulfilling the vow' signifies discharging of man's duties to God. Man's obligations to his fellow-beings are mentioned in the next verse.

3194. The verse may mean, (1) because the righteous believers love God, so in order to win His pleasure they feed the poor and the captives. (2) They feed the poor for the sake of feeding them, i.e. they do the good act of feeding the poor for the sake of doing good, seeking no reward, appreciation or approbation for what they do. (3) They feed the poor while they themselves love the money which they spend on them. (4) They feed the poor with wholesome and agreeable food, Ṭa'ām meaning agreeable and wholesome food (Lane).

3195. Yaumun 'Abūsun means, a distressful or calamitous day, or a day that

فَوَقٰىهُمُ اللّٰهُ شَرَّ ذٰلِكَ الْيَوْمِ وَلَقّٰىهُمْ نَضْرَةً وَّسُرُوْرًا ﴿١٢﴾

12. So Allāh will save them from the evil of that day, and will grant them joy and happiness.

وَجَزٰىهُمْ بِمَا صَبَرُوْا جَنَّةً وَّحَرِيْرًا ﴿١٣﴾

13. [a]And He will reward them, for their steadfastness, with a Garden and raiments of silk,

مُّتَّكِـِٕيْنَ فِيْهَا عَلَى الْاَرَآئِكِ ۚ لَا يَرَوْنَ فِيْهَا شَمْسًا وَّلَا زَمْهَرِيْرًا ﴿١٤﴾

14. [b]Reclining therein upon couches, they will experience therein [c]neither excessive heat nor bitter cold.

وَدَانِيَةً عَلَيْهِمْ ظِلٰلُهَا وَذُلِّلَتْ قُطُوْفُهَا تَذْلِيْلًا ﴿١٥﴾

15. And its shades will be close over them, and its clustered fruits will be brought within their easy reach.

وَيُطَافُ عَلَيْهِمْ بِاٰنِيَةٍ مِّنْ فِضَّةٍ وَّاَكْوَابٍ كَانَتْ قَوَارِيْرَا ﴿١٦﴾ۙ

16. [d]And vessels of silver will be passed round among them, and goblets of glass.

قَوَارِيْرَا مِنْ فِضَّةٍ قَدَّرُوْهَا تَقْدِيْرًا ﴿١٧﴾

17. Bright as glass but made of silver, which they will measure according to their own measure.

وَيُسْقَوْنَ فِيْهَا كَاْسًا كَانَ مِزَاجُهَا زَنْجَبِيْلًا ﴿١٨﴾ۚ

18. And therein will they be given to drink a cup tempered with ginger,[3196] makes one distressful, and Yaumun Qamṭarīrun means, a distressful or calamitous day, or a day that makes one knit the brow or contract the skin between the eyes (Lane).

[a]22:24. [b]18:32; 36:57; 83:24. [c]20:120. [d]43:72.

3196. The word Zanjabīl, being a compound of Zanā (to ascend) and Jabal (mountain) signifies, he ascended the mountain. Zanjabīl or ginger is very useful in promoting the natural heat of the body. It gives strength to and generates heat in the weak body so as to enable a person to ascend precipitous heights. The two verses, in which Kāfūr (camphor) and Zanjabīl (ginger) are mentioned, are meant to call attention to the two stages through which a

عَيْنًا فِيْهَا تُسَمّٰى سَلْسَبِيْلًا ﴿١٩﴾

وَيَطُوْفُ عَلَيْهِمْ وِلْدَانٌ مُّخَلَّدُوْنَ ۚ اِذَا رَاَيْتَهُمْ حَسِبْتَهُمْ لُؤْلُؤًا مَّنْثُوْرًا ﴿٢٠﴾

20. [a]And there will wait upon them youths who will not age. When thou seest them, thou thinkest them to be pearls scattered about.

وَ اِذَا رَاَيْتَ ثَمَّ رَاَيْتَ نَعِيْمًا وَّ مُلْكًا كَبِيْرًا ﴿٢١﴾

21. And when thou seest, thou wilt see there a bliss and a vast kingdom.[3198]

عٰلِيَهُمْ ثِيَابُ سُنْدُسٍ خُضْرٌ وَّ اِسْتَبْرَقٌ ۫ وَّحُلُّوْٓا اَسَاوِرَ مِنْ فِضَّةٍ ۚ وَسَقٰىهُمْ رَبُّهُمْ شَرَابًا طَهُوْرًا ﴿٢٢﴾

believer has to pass in order to make spiritual advance from the low position of slavery to passions to the heights of virtue and righteousness. The first stage in which poisonous matter is suppressed and the flood of passions begins to subside is termed the Kāfūr (camphor) stage; for in this stage only the suppression of poisonous matter is effected just as camphor has the property of nullifying the strong effect of passion. But the spiritual power which is required to overcome all difficulties is acquired in the second stage which is called the Zanjabīl stage. The spiritual ginger which has the effect of a tonic on the spiritual system is the manifestation of Divine Beauty and Glory which affords nourishment to the soul. Braced with this manifestation the spiritual wayfarer is able to traverse the dreary deserts and to climb the steep heights to be met with on his spiritual journey.

3197. The word, Salsabīl, literally meaning, 'enquire about the way,' the verse signifies that at the Zanjabīl stage the spiritual wayfarer becomes so much intoxicated with Divine love that, in his overbearing anxiety to meet God, he enquires everywhere and of everyone about the nearest and speediest approach to the Divine threshold.

3198. In addition to the spiritual kingdom that the righteous believers are promised in the Hereafter, the Companions of the Holy Prophet were given mastery of the great empires of the time in this very life.

3199. While at the Kāfūr stage of spiritual journey the God-intoxicated

إِنَّ هٰذَا كَانَ لَكُمْ جَزَآءً وَّكَانَ سَعْيُكُمْ مَّشْكُوْرًا ﴿٢٣﴾ ع ١٩

24. Surely, We have revealed unto thee the Qur'ān piecemeal.[3200]

فَاصْبِرْ لِحُكْمِ رَبِّكَ وَلَا تُطِعْ مِنْهُمْ اٰثِمًا اَوْ كَفُوْرًا ﴿٢٥﴾ ع

25. So wait patiently for the judgment of thy Lord and yield not to any sinful or ungrateful one among them,

وَاذْكُرِ اسْمَ رَبِّكَ بُكْرَةً وَّاَصِيْلًا ﴿٢٦﴾ ج

26. [b]And remember the name of thy Lord morning and evening,

وَمِنَ الَّيْلِ فَاسْجُدْ لَهٗ وَسَبِّحْهُ لَيْلًا طَوِيْلًا ﴿٢٧﴾

27. [c]And during the night prostrate thyself before Him, and extol His glory for a long part of the night.

[a]32:18; 43:73. [b]3:42; 48:10. [c]17:80; 50:41; 52:50.

wayfarer is described as himself seeking to drink the wine of God's love (v. 6) and at the Zanjabīl stage he is served by others with the life-giving beverage (v. 18), at the last or Salsabīl stage God Himself gives him to drink the elixir of everlasting life. This is a significant graduation in the three kinds of drink. Camphor has a cooling and ginger a warming effect, and Salsabīl means to pursue naturally the appointed course. The first drink is tempered with camphor. It helps to cool desires and passions. The second drink, tempered with ginger, stimulates the pursuit of righteousness and Salsabīl marks the stage in which the believer will naturally follow the righteous course.

3200. The Qur'ān was revealed gradually and piecemeal. Its revelation spread over a period of 23 years. This gradual process served a double purpose. It helped believers to learn, remember and assimilate it and to mould their lives in accordance with its teachings. The gradual process was also intended to meet the increasing needs of changing circumstances and to strengthen the belief and conviction of Muslims, since, during the interval they had the opportunities to witness fulfilment of prophecies made earlier in the Qur'ān. The piecemeal revelation of the Qur'ān also fulfilled the following biblical prophecy:

"For, it is precept upon precept; line upon line, here a little and there a little; for, with strange lips and another tongue will he speak to this people" (Isa. 28:10).

28. [a]Verily, these people love the present life, and they neglect a very hard day ahead.

اِنَّ هٰٓؤُلَآءِ يُحِبُّوْنَ الْعَاجِلَةَ وَ يَذَرُوْنَ وَرَآءَهُمْ يَوْمًا ثَقِيْلًا ﴿٢٨﴾

29. We have created them and have strengthened their make; and when We will, [b]We can replace them by others like them.[3201]

نَحْنُ خَلَقْنٰهُمْ وَشَدَدْنَآ اَسْرَهُمْ ۚ وَ اِذَا شِئْنَا بَدَّلْنَآ اَمْثَالَهُمْ تَبْدِيْلًا ﴿٢٩﴾

30. [c]Verily, this is a Reminder. So whoever wishes, may take a way unto his Lord.

اِنَّ هٰذِهٖ تَذْكِرَةٌ ۚ فَمَنْ شَآءَ اتَّخَذَ اِلٰى رَبِّهٖ سَبِيْلًا ﴿٣٠﴾

31. [d]But you cannot so wish unless Allāh so wills. Verily, Allāh is All-Knowing, Wise.

وَمَا تَشَآءُوْنَ اِلَّآ اَنْ يَّشَآءَ اللّٰهُ ؕ اِنَّ اللّٰهَ كَانَ عَلِيْمًا حَكِيْمًا ﴿٣١﴾

32. [e]He admits into His mercy[3202] whom He pleases[3203] and for the wrongdoers He has prepared a painful punishment.

يُّدْخِلُ مَنْ يَّشَآءُ فِيْ رَحْمَتِهٖ ؕ وَالظّٰلِمِيْنَ اَعَدَّ لَهُمْ عَذَابًا اَلِيْمًا ﴿٣٢﴾ ع ٢

[a]17:19. [b]56:62. [c]73:20; 74:55; 80:12. [d]18:25; 74:57; 81:30. [e]48:26.

3201. God has created man in the best make (95:5) that he may develop and manifest in himself Divine attributes. So if the disbelievers refused to benefit by the Quranic teaching they will be replaced by another people who will.

3202. Besides the meaning given in the text, the verse may mean: (1) It is God's wish that you should exercise your will to take a way unto your Lord and so be admitted into His mercy. (2) You cannot take the way unto your Lord unless you subordinate and conform your will to the Will of God. (3) You should have subordinated your will to the Will of God, but you seem not to have done so.

3203. The verse may also mean that God admits into His mercy him who himself wishes to be admitted into His mercy by obeying Divine commandments.

CHAPTER 77
AL-MURSALĀT
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

Noldeke and Muir assign the revelation of this Sūrah, probably correctly, to the 4th year of the Call. Like other early Meccan Chapters, this Sūrah also deals with the subject of Resurrection, and as an argument in support of it, adduces the great spiritual revolution that is brought about by Divine Messengers among their peoples, especially the marvellous moral change which the Holy Prophet wrought in the lives of the degenerate and decadent Arabs. The advent of Divine Prophets has been compared in the Sūrah to the Day of Decision when bad men are separated from good men or, to use a beautiful metaphor, when grain becomes sifted from chaff. On that Day of Decision the guilty are punished and the righteous receive the rewards of their good deeds. The Sūrah gives very apt and adequate description of the punishment—fittingly corresponding to their evil deeds—that will be meted out in the Hereafter to the defiers and violators of Divine laws, and goes on to describe the blessings and boons of Paradise which will be bestowed upon those who regulate their lives and conduct in accordance with them. In support of the doctrine of the Resurrection the Sūrah also alludes, quite convincingly, to the development of the sperm-drop into a properly shaped human being, equipped with great natural powers—in itself a wonder of creation. Towards the end, the Sūrah brings home to disbelievers the untenability of their rejection of the Quranic revelation.

[a]1:1. [b]51:6.

3204. The things, agencies or beings, mentioned in this and the following four verses, have been taken by various authorities to refer to winds; angels; God's Messengers and their followers; and particularly and very appropriately, to the Companions of the Holy Prophet. As referring to the Companions of the Holy Prophet the verse would mean that in the beginning the Companions of the Holy Prophet would spread the Message of Islām slowly and gently.

3205. After the initial difficulties in the work of the preaching having been overcome, the Companions of the Holy Prophet would proceed much faster and carry on the Message of Islām with greater vigour; or, the verse may mean that with the help of the Quranic teaching, they would scatter before them falsehood and the forces of evil as broken straw is carried before the wind.

3206. They would proclaim and spread the Message of Truth far and wide; or scatter the seeds of goodness everywhere.

3207. With the dissemination of the Quranic Message, Truth will become distinguished from falsehood and good men from bad men.

3208. The verse signifies that the fact will become established that they had conveyed and fully discharged the duty entrusted to them.

[a]7:26. [b]13:4; 15:20; 21:32; 31:11.

3213. This and the preceding three verses refer to the extremely subtle process of the development of sperm-drop in the womb, into a full-fledged human being, which indeed is a marvel of creation. This process of creation is advanced as an argument in support of the Resurrection, for there exists a beautiful parallelism between the two, the mother's womb being likened to man's life on earth and his birth to Resurrection.

3214. All mortals live on earth, and when they are dead, their remains, in one form or other, abide in the earth. The verse may also refer to the law of gravitation or to earth's motion on its axis or round the sun. The word, Kifāt, may also signify that all the physical needs of man have been met in the earth.

3215. Mountains serve as great natural reservoirs of water.

3216. The wrong beliefs, foolish usages and practices, of disbelievers will take the form of three-pronged shadow in the next world. Or, according to Ibn-e-'Abbās the reference is to the Christian doctrine of the Trinity. Or, the verse may mean that disbelievers will be punished from the right, the left and from above. Moreover, teachers of moral wisdom point to three factors which operate against the development of proper awareness of one's duties—lack of sensitivity, lack of thought and lack of judgment. Similarly, three factors are said to operate against moral impulses having their course—fear, arrogance and sensual desires. In the language of psychology we could say that three factors are responsible for sending a man to Hell—errors of perception and reasoning, delinquencies of sex and weaknesses of will.

3217. See 56:43-45.

3218. As disbelievers sought ease and comfort and took pride in castles and stately buildings, their sins and transgressions will take the form of flames of fire rising high like huge castles.

3222. As these ill-fated disbelievers have refused to accept such an infallible Book as the Qur'ān, they will never listen to Truth and find the right path.

CHAPTER 78

AN-NABA'

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah is entitled An-Naba' because it deals with subjects of exceptional importance i.e. certainty of Resurrection, predominance of the Qur'ān over all other revealed Scriptures, and of Islām over all other Faiths. The Day of Decision, i.e. the day when this Quranic claim will become an established fact, is mentioned twice in the preceding Sūrah and is repeated here. According to Muslim Commentators the Sūrah was revealed very early in the Holy Prophet's ministry at Mecca. Noldeke agrees with this Muslim scholarly opinion. It opens with enumerating the great Divine gifts bestowed upon man, and directs his attention to the implied suggestions that he has been placed upon this earth to serve a certain object and his life here is the seed-bed of an eternal future and it will be followed by a Day of Reckoning. The Sūrah then gives a brief but an awe-inspiring picture of that Day, and a graphic description of the heavenly blessings that await the righteous and of the terrible punishment which will be meted out to the rejectors of Truth in this life and in the next.

3223. The addition of the qualifying word, Al-'Aẓīm (mighty) to An-Naba' which itself means a great news or event, suggests the tremendous import of the event referred to here.

3224. The disbelievers do not believe that there will ever be a Day of Reckoning.

21. [e]And the mountains shall be set in motion and shall become, as if they were, a mirage.[3229] or seven stages of spiritual development of man mentioned in Sūrah Al-Mu'minūn.

3226. In these verses (7-17) some of the basic Divine bounties on which man's physical sustenance mainly depends have been mentioned, the implication being that God Who has made such adequate arrangement for the physical sustenance of man could not have neglected to make a similar provision for his spiritual sustenance.

3227. On the Day of Decision—the day of the Fall of Mecca—the Quraish, as if by the blowing of the trumpet, were gathered before the Holy Prophet, requesting him that their tyrannies and transgressions might be forgiven.

3228. At that time heavenly Signs will be shown in large numbers in support of the righteous and to the confusion of the wrongdoers.

3232. Among the paradisiacal blessings grapevines find very frequent mention in the Qur'ān. This is because grape is a delicious and substantial food. It can be preserved for a long time, and causes intoxication. Taqwā (righteousness) also possess all these three characteristics. So grapevine is a fit reward for the righteous.

3233. The righteous will have companions or wives possessing freshness and vigour of youth and enjoying eminent position. They will be of noble descent and will be fired with high and noble ambitions, Kā'ib of which the plural is Kawā'ib meaning nobility; glory; eminence (Lane). Elsewhere (56:35) in the Qur'ān, companions of the righteous believers have been described as Furushun Marfū'atun, i.e. noble spouses. For a full discussion of the nature and significance of heavenly blessings, see Chapters Aṭ-Ṭūr, Ar-Raḥmān and Al-Wāqi'ah.

3234. The God-intoxicated pilgrim, whose heart is so full of the love of God as to overflow with it, will deservedly be given to drink cups full of beverage that will add to their spiritual intoxication which will not abate.

3234A. "The Spirit" here may signify the perfect spirit—the Holy Prophet; and "the day" may mean the Day of Resurrection.

[a]4:43.

3235. "The punishment" may be the punishment which is meted out to the sinful disbelievers in this world. Elsewhere in the Qur'ān (32:22) this punishment has been described as nearer punishment as against the greater punishment which is punishment in the Hereafter.

CHAPTER 79
AN-NĀZI‘ĀT
(Revealed before Hijrah)

General Remarks

All competent authorities, including Ibn-e-‘Abbās and Ibn-e-Zubair agree that, like the preceding Chapter this is a very early Meccan Sūrah, In that Sūrah, the Muslims were promised power, prosperity and predominance in the world. In the present Sūrah light is shed on the ways and means by which they could achieve these things, as well as on the signs and marks that point towards the imminent fulfilment of that promise. The Sūrah opens with a description of some of the special traits of character of the Holy Prophet's Companions and of other groups of righteous men who, by bringing into play these characteristics, achieved glory, power and victory. The Sūrah then points out that power will come to Muslims as a result of wars which will break the power of the enemies of Islām. The case of Pharaoh is cited to show that opposition to Truth never goes unpunished. Next, we are told that in the extremely weak condition of early Muslims, prophecies about a glorious future of Islām seemed impossible of fulfilment, but the Great God Who created the vast heavens and earth and Who placed on it rivers and mountains and highways, had the power to make the impossible possible, and also that He can give a new life to the dead in the next world. Towards the close of the Sūrah it is stated that when the great Event—the complete triumph of Islām or the Final Resurrection—takes place, the guilty will burn in the fire of Hell, but those, who had lived a life of righteousness, will enjoy the blessings of Paradise.

3236. Nāzi‘āt is derived from Naza‘a and means, those beings or groups of people that pluck a thing; depose high officials; resemble; draw with vigour; invite others to truth (Aqrab), the root-word possessing all these senses.

3237. Gharq is used here in the sense of Ighrāq which signifies the sending of the arrow to the utmost extent, or falling upon a person and overcoming him; or exerting oneself to the utmost extent (Lane).

3238. Nāshiṭāt means, those beings or groups of people who exert themselves vigorously in the discharge of their duties (Aqrab).

3239. Sābiḥāt means, (1) those beings or groups of people who go far into the country in the pursuit of their quest. (2) Who try to excel one another in carrying out their mission (Lane).

3240. Mudabbirāt means, those beings or groups of people who plan, manage and conduct the affairs entrusted to them in an excellent manner.

The verses (2-6) are taken to apply to angels by some scholars and Commentators of the Qur’ān and have been understood to signify that angels bear witness to the occurrence of the great event mentioned in vv. 7, 8. But the evidence of angels is beyond human knowledge or comprehension. The verses, therefore, as the context shows, seem to refer to the Companions of the Holy Prophet and may be taken as embodying a prophecy about the spread of Islām far and wide through their selfless and vigorous efforts and a further prophecy that they would be entrusted with the responsibility of conducting and 3241. The verse means that the prophecy, proclaimed in the foregoing verses, will be fulfilled as a result of fighting that will take place between God’s righteous servants and the forces of evil in which the latter shall be routed, Rajafa meaning to prepare for war (Lane).

3242. Once the fighting starts between Muslims and infidels, it will not cease till the forces of evil are fully and finally crushed as a result of the successive blows they will receive.

3243. When disbelievers will suffer defeats in quick succession and will see Islām prevailing and predominating, then will a feeling of disquietude seize them, and apprehension about the possibility of the Resurrection will begin to assail their minds.

3246. The phenomenon of night and day, which pertains to the earth, has been attributed to the heaven in this verse because it is due to the working of the solar system that we have day and night.

3247. Besides the meaning given in the text, the verse signifies that the earth became castaway from a bigger mass.

3248. (1) Who fears to stand before his Lord as a guilty person; or (2) who fears the Majesty of his Lord.

3249. It is not the time, the place, the manner or the form of the punishment that matters. What matters is that disbelievers should realize that when Divine punishment comes, it will be so swift, sudden and severe that they will feel as if the period of their prosperity and enjoyment in the world was of a very short duration—only an evening or a morning.

CHAPTER 80

‘ABASA

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Context and Subject-Matter

This Sūrah, like the two preceding it, is among those Chapters which were revealed at Mecca in the very early years of the Call. Noldeke and Muir, besides Muslim scholars, subscribe to this view. Towards the end of the preceding Chapter, the Holy Prophet was told that his duty was confined to conveying the Divine Message to his people. The present Sūrah opens to deal with the incident of ‘Abdullāh ibn Umm-e-Maktūm, and proceeds to teach the moral lesson that it is not worldly riches and social status which determine the real worth of a person, but the goodness of his heart and willingness on his part to listen to truth and accept it. It also constitutes an eloquent commentary on the Holy Prophet’s regard for the susceptibilities of the poor and oppressed people. It further says that being the last Divine Message for mankind the Qur’ān will be respected and read all over the world and will be protected and preserved. The Sūrah ends on a note of warning to disbelievers that if they rejected its Message and persisted in opposing the Holy Prophet they will have to face a day of reckoning when misery, shame and ignominy will be their lot. The righteous believers, however, will reside in the ‘Gardens of Bliss,’ their faces beaming with Divine joy and happiness.

سُوْرَةُ عَبَسَ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٨٠ — اٰياتها ٤٣ — رکوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

عَبَسَ وَتَوَلّٰٓى ②

2. He frowned[3250] and turned aside,

اَنْ جَآءَهُ الْاَعْمٰى ③

3. Because there came to him the blind man;

وَمَا يُدْرِيْكَ لَعَلَّهٗ يَزَّكّٰٓى ④

4. And what would make thee know that he would purify himself,[3251]

اَوْ يَذَّكَّرُ فَتَنْفَعَهُ الذِّكْرٰى ⑤

5. Or, that he would take heed and the taking of heed would benefit him?

اَمَّا مَنِ اسْتَغْنٰى ⑥

6. How could it be that he who is disdainfully indifferent to the Truth,

[a]1:1.

3250. The verse refers to a well-known historical incident. As the Holy Prophet was engaged one day in a talk with some of the Quraish chiefs about some matters of belief, there came up ‘Abdullāh ibn Umm-e-Maktūm and, thinking that the Holy Prophet’s precious time and energy were being wasted on the confirmed leaders of disbelief, he sought to divert his attention and asked to be enlightened on some religious questions. The Holy Prophet disliked the intrusion, and showed his displeasure by turning aside from ‘Abdullāh (Ṭabarī & Bayān). While it showed the Holy Prophet’s solicitude for the spiritual well-being of the Quraish leaders in that he continued his discourse with them and paid no heed to ‘Abdullāh’s interruption, the incident constituted also an evidence of his great regard for the tender susceptibilities of the blind man, because he merely turned his face away from him—an act which the latter could not see—and did not say even a word of reproach or disapprobation to him for his inopportune and rash interruption, thus taking scrupulous care not to wound his self-respect and tender susceptibilities. The verse thus throws a flood of light on the very high moral stature of the Holy Prophet; and instead of implying any Divine reproach or rebuke, as some Commentators seem to think, enjoins him and, in reality through him, his followers, to have due regard for the tender susceptibilities of the poor and the humble.

3251. The pronoun "thee" in the verse may be applied, as is done in the text, to the Holy Prophet and the pronoun "he" to the Quraish leader.

فَاَنْتَ لَهٗ تَصَدّٰى ۝٧

7. Unto him thou shouldst pay attention[3252]—

وَمَا عَلَيْكَ اَلَّا يَزَّكّٰى ۝٨

8. Though thou art not responsible if he does not become purified[3253]—

وَاَمَّا مَنْ جَآءَكَ يَسْعٰى ۝٩

9. But he who comes to thee hastening,

وَهُوَ يَخْشٰى ۝١٠

10. And he fears God,

فَاَنْتَ عَنْهُ تَلَهّٰى ۝١١

11. Him shouldst thou neglect,[3254]

كَلَّاۤ اِنَّهَا تَذْكِرَةٌ ۝١٢

12. That should not be! Surely, it is a [a]Reminder[3255]—

[a]20:4; 73:20; 74:55.

3252. Taṣaddā la-hū means, he addressed or applied or directed himself or his regard or attention or mind to him or it; he wanted; he inclined towards him or it (Lane),

3253. The verse constitutes an effective justification of the Holy Prophet’s attitude towards ‘Abdullāh ibn Umm-e-Maktūm. It purports to say that the Holy Prophet was not responsible if the Quraish leader did not benefit by his talk. His attitude of seeming indifference towards ‘Abdullāh or of deference towards the Quraish leader proceeded from no consideration of any personal interest. It was solely dictated by the commandments of the Sharī‘ah about behaving kindly and courteously towards one’s visitors.

3254. Verses 6-11 are applied to the Holy Prophet, the particle Ammā in the 6th verse signifies "how could it be that," i.e. 'it cannot be;' and these verses would be interpreted as: 'How could it be possible that thou shouldst pay attention to him who is disdainfully indifferent and should neglect him who fears God and comes to thee hastening.' But these verses may also be applied to the Quraish leader who, as some Commentators are of the view, frowned and turned aside because there came to the Prophet the blind man. In this case these verses would be understood as having been used ironically and as bringing home to the critics of the Holy Prophet their own state of mind, and not referring to any weakness imputed to the Holy Prophet.

3255. The verse means that the charge of indifference is not correct. Why at all the Holy Prophet should have adopted an attitude of sullen indifference towards a blind man when the Qur’ān was meant equally for the rich and the poor? It was not only inconsistent with his own high moral stature but also against human reason to do so. What the Holy Prophet did on the specific occasion was demanded by the situation and, therefore, was the right thing for him to do.

3256. The Qur’ān, being a compendium of all permanent and imperishable teachings embodied in various revealed Scriptures, constitutes, as it were, a collection of all heavenly Books. This is the significance of the words Contained in honoured Books. The verse further says that the Qur’ān will be written in the form of a Book; it will be honoured and respected and will be protected and preserved against every kind of interpolation and interference.

3257. As against three prominent characteristics of the Qur’ān mentioned in the preceding verses (14, 15) three equally marked qualities of the bearers of its Message have been mentioned in this and the preceding verse. The bearers of the Quranic Message are not only noble and virtuous but they travel far and wide to explain and spread it.

3258. How ungrateful are disbelievers that they should reject such a great and noble Book as the Qur’ān, which has been revealed to raise them from the dust and squalor of moral turpitude to the heights of spiritual glory, if only they should accept its Message.

3260. In time of tribulation and sorrow a man is apt to forget even his nearest relations. He has his own enough troubles to keep him busy.

CHAPTER 81
AT-TAKWĪR
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah was revealed early at Mecca, very probably in the 6th year of the Call or even earlier. The preceding Chapters had dealt with the subject of Resurrection and the great and marvellous revolution which was brought about by the Holy Prophet among his people and which has also been called "resurrection" in the Qur'ān. This "resurrection" was to take place twice, first by the advent of the Holy Prophet himself and then by his Second Advent in the person of a great Deputy of his—the Promised Messiah and Mahdī—to which a clear reference is made in 62:4. It is this second renaissance of Islām at the hands of the Promised Messiah and the great changes which were to take place in his time which this Sūrah speaks of. It opens with a description of those changes and follows it up with a fleeting reference to the moral degeneration of Muslims at that time and to the causes thereof, and ends by striking a note of optimism and cheerfulness to them, holding out to them the promise that eventually the night of the degradation of Muslims will give place to the dawn of their success, because Islām, being God's last Message for the whole of mankind, has come to stay.

سُوْرَةُ التَّكْوِيْرِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٨١ — اٰياتها ٣٠ — ركوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

اِذَا الشَّمْسُ كُوِّرَتْ ②

2. When the sun is folded up,[3261]

وَاِذَا النُّجُوْمُ انْكَدَرَتْ ③

3. And when the stars are obscured,[3262]

وَاِذَا الْجِبَالُ سُيِّرَتْ ④

4. And [b]when the mountains are made to move,[3263]

وَاِذَا الْعِشَارُ عُطِّلَتْ ⑤

5. And when the she-camels, ten-month pregnant are abandoned,[3264]

[a]1:1. [b]18:48; 52:11; 78:21.

3261. It is generally said that the Sūrah deals with the Final Resurrection, when the laws and processes of nature as we know them will cease to operate. But its whole trend and tenor speak so clearly of the conditions which obtain in the physical world that some of the verses will lose all sense if they are taken as referring only to the Final Resurrection. In fact, the Sūrah speaks of the great changes that have already taken place in the material world and in human life since the time of the Holy Prophet, particularly in our own time. The verse may mean: When there will be spiritual darkness all over the world—the light of the Spiritual Sun (The Holy Prophet) having become dim or disappeared altogether. Or, it may refer to the eclipses of the sun and the moon, which according to a well-known saying of the Holy Prophet, were to take place in the time of the Mahdī, in the month of Ramaḍān, a phenomenon which the world had never witnessed before (Quṭnī, p. 188). These eclipses of the sun and the moon took place in 1894 exactly as foretold.

3262. An-Nujūm (stars) signifies religious Ulema. This meaning is supported by a well-known saying of the Holy Prophet: 'My Companions are like stars, whomsoever you will follow, you will receive right guidance' (Baihaqī). So the verse may mean: When religious leaders will become corrupt and will cease to exercise any influence. The reference may also be to the falling of the stars in exceptionally large numbers in the time of a Divine Reformer.

3263. When mountains will be blown away by dynamite and roads will be made through them; or metaphorically, when the authority of rulers will become undermined; the word Jabal meaning, the chief of a people (Lane).

3264. 'Ishār is the plural of 'Usharā' which means, a she-camel that has

6. And when the wild beasts are gathered together,[3265]	وَإِذَا الْوُحُوشُ حُشِرَتْ ﴿٦﴾ been ten-months with young. 'Ishār is applied to she-camels until some of them have brought forth and others are expected to bring forth (Lane). The verse means that when she-camels will lose their importance even in Arabia. The reference seems to be to the replacement of camels by better and swifter means of transport—railway trains, steamships, motor cars, aeroplanes, etc. There is a pointed reference to camels being replaced by other means of transport in a saying of the Holy Prophet which is to the effect: 'The camels will be abandoned and will not be used for going from one place to another' (Muslim).

3265. In view of the different meanings of the root-word Ḥushira (Lane), the verse would signify: When animals will be collected in zoos, or when primitive people will be settled in organized civil communities; or, when they will be compelled to leave their homelands.

3266. The verse signifies: When the waters of rivers will be drained away for irrigation and other purposes; or, when in sea-fights very large ships will be set on fire and it would seem as if the seas had caught fire; or, when large oceans will be joined together by means of canals; or, when rural population will go into towns and cities will overflow with their inhabitants. The word, Sujjira, possesses all these meanings (Lane).

3267. When means of transport and communication will become so developed, and intercourse between peoples living in far off lands become so easy and frequent as to make them unite into one people. The verse may also signify that people holding analogous social or political views will form themselves into parties.

3268. The burying or burning alive of girls will be made a capital crime.

3269. The reference seems to be to the vast circulation of newspapers,

12. And when the heaven is laid bare,[3270]	وَإِذَا السَّمَاءُ كُشِطَتْ ﴿١٢﴾
13. And when Hell-fire is set ablaze,[3271]	وَإِذَا الْجَحِيمُ سُعِّرَتْ ﴿١٣﴾
14. [a]And when Paradise is brought nigh,[3272]	وَإِذَا الْجَنَّةُ أُزْلِفَتْ ﴿١٤﴾
15. [b]Then every soul will know what it has produced.[3273]	عَلِمَتْ نَفْسٌ مَّا أَحْضَرَتْ ﴿١٥﴾
16. Nay! I call to witness those that recede while advancing,	فَلَا أُقْسِمُ بِالْخُنَّسِ ﴿١٦﴾
17. Rush ahead and then hide.[3274]	الْجَوَارِ الْكُنَّسِ ﴿١٧﴾
18. And I call to witness the night as it draws to a close,	وَاللَّيْلِ إِذَا عَسْعَسَ ﴿١٨﴾
19. [c]And the dawn as it begins to breathe,[3275]	وَالصُّبْحِ إِذَا تَنَفَّسَ ﴿١٩﴾

[a]50:32. [b]3:31; 82:6. [c]74:35.

journals and books and to the system of libraries and reading rooms and such other places and means of spreading knowledge in the Latter Days.

3270. The verse may refer to the vast strides that the science of astronomy will make in the Latter Days. The advance in this branch of science during the past decade has startled the world.

3271. On account of the sinful and iniquitous conduct of man, God's wrath will be kindled and a veritable hell will be let loose upon the world in the form of destructive wars.

3272. As in the Latter Days evil will abound and man will abandon himself to vice and the worship of Mammon, even a small act of righteousness will make him deserving of great reward and will draw him closer to Heaven.

3273. God's special decree will come into force and the punishment of man's evil deeds will take the form of widespread natural calamities.

3274. In the Latter Days Muslims will begin to decline from their position of eminence, as they will either rush forward headlong thoughtlessly to carry out their contemplated programmes; or will give up all creative and constructive efforts in despair.

3275. With the advent of the Reformer of the Latter Days the night of moral decline and degradation of Muslims will begin to depart, giving place to the dawn of a great and glorious future for Islām.

إِنَّهُۥ لَقَوْلُ رَسُولٍ كَرِيمٍ ﴿٢٠﴾

20. [a]That this is, surely, the word revealed to a noble Messenger,[3276]

ذِى قُوَّةٍ عِندَ ذِى ٱلْعَرْشِ مَكِينٍ ﴿٢١﴾

21. Possessor of strength, established in the presence of the Lord of the Throne,

مُّطَاعٍ ثَمَّ أَمِينٍ ﴿٢٢﴾

22. Entitled to obedience and faithful to his trust.[3277]

وَمَا صَاحِبُكُم بِمَجْنُونٍ ﴿٢٣﴾

23. [b]And your companion is not mad.

وَلَقَدْ رَءَاهُ بِٱلْأُفُقِ ٱلْمُبِينِ ﴿٢٤﴾

24. [c]And he, assuredly, saw him[3278] on the clear horizon.

وَمَا هُوَ عَلَى ٱلْغَيْبِ بِضَنِينٍ ﴿٢٥﴾

25. And he is not niggardly with respect to the unseen.[3279]

وَمَا هُوَ بِقَوْلِ شَيْطَٰنٍ رَّجِيمٍ ﴿٢٦﴾

26. [d]Nor is this the word of Satan, the rejected.

فَأَيْنَ تَذْهَبُونَ ﴿٢٧﴾

27. Whither, then, are you going?

إِنْ هُوَ إِلَّا ذِكْرٌ لِّلْعَٰلَمِينَ ﴿٢٨﴾

28. [e]It is nothing but a Reminder unto all the worlds,

لِمَن شَآءَ مِنكُمْ أَن يَسْتَقِيمَ ﴿٢٩﴾

29. Unto such among you as desire to go straight.

[a]69:41. [b]52:30; 68:3. [c]53:8. [d]26:211. [e]12:105; 38:88.

3276. The words, 'a noble Messenger,' refer to the Holy Prophet and not to Archangel Gabriel as generally misunderstood.

3277. All the five attributes—noble Messenger, possessor of power, enjoying a high rank before the Lord of the Throne, the one entitled to obedience, and faithful to his trust in the Sight of God, quite fittingly apply to the Holy Prophet.

3278. The pronoun hu meaning "it" (glorious future of Islām), or "him" (the Holy Prophet), may signify in the first place the fulfilment of the prophecy about the glorious future of Islām and in the second place it may mean that the Holy Prophet saw himself in the distant East in the person of the Promised Messiah.

3279. God has disclosed to the world great secrets of the unknown from the mouth of the Holy Prophet.

30. [a]And you desire not a thing except that Allāh, the Lord of the worlds, desires it.[3280]

وَمَا تَشَآءُوْنَ اِلَّآ اَنْ يَّشَآءَ اللّٰهُ رَبُّ الْعٰلَمِيْنَ ۝٣٠ ع

[a]74:57; 76:31.

3280. He alone would be guided to the right path who makes an attempt to find it and conforms his will to the Will of God.

CHAPTER 82
AL-INFIṬĀR
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Introductory Remarks

The Sūrah is so similar in style and subject-matter to the one preceding it that it forms, as it were, its counterpart, but with a separate name. It is characteristic of the Qur'ān that, in view of their importance, it takes out certain parts of the text of a particular Sūrah and in order to draw pointed attention to the subject dealt with in the separated parts and in order also that the separated parts may be easily committed to memory, it gives them a distinct name and individuality. The Sūrah deals particularly with the conditions that were to prevail in the Latter Days when Christian doctrines and ways of life will have impressed very deeply the conduct and concepts of non-Christian peoples, especially the Muslims. All the prophecies mentioned in the Sūrah have been literally fulfilled. It was revealed at Mecca in the early years of the Call about the time of the revelation of the preceding Chapter.

سُوْرَةُ الْاِنْفِطَارِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٨٢ — اٰياتها ٢٠ — رکوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

اِذَا السَّمَآءُ انْفَطَرَتْ ۙ②

2. [b]When the heaven is cleft asunder,[3281]

وَاِذَا الْكَوَاكِبُ انْتَثَرَتْ ۙ③

3. And when the stars are scattered,[3282]

وَاِذَا الْبِحَارُ فُجِّرَتْ ۙ④

4. [c]And when the oceans are made to flow forth[3283] and joined together,

وَاِذَا الْقُبُوْرُ بُعْثِرَتْ ۙ⑤

5. [d]And when the graves are laid open,[3284]

عَلِمَتْ نَفْسٌ مَّا قَدَّمَتْ وَاَخَّرَتْ ؕ⑥

6. [e]Every soul shall then know what it has sent forth and what it has kept back.[3285]

[a]1:1. [b]73:19. [c]81:7. [d]100:10. [e]3:31; 81:15.

3281. As mentioned in the "Introductory Remarks" the Sūrah deals particularly with the time when Christianity will be very much in the ascendant and the Christian doctrines of trinity, the sonship of Jesus and atonement will reign supreme. To this dominance of the false Christian doctrines the Qur'ān has referred in very strong words; 'The heavens might well-nigh be rent thereat, and the earth cleave asunder, and the mountains fall down into pieces because they ascribe a son to Allāh' (19:91, 92). The verse under comment refers to these two verses and signifies that at that time false doctrines of Christianity will dominate the world, and as a result of it God's wrath will be excited and Divine punishment will overtake the world in various forms.

3282. Metaphorically speaking the verse means that in the Latter Days men possessing true spiritual knowledge and guidance will disappear or become rare.

3283. At that time great seas and oceans will be made to flow into one another by means of canals; or their mouths will be dug wide open so as to make large ships ply in them. The reference may be to the Panama and Suez Canals.

3284. In the Latter Days graves will be dug open as has been done in the case of the tombs of the ancient Kings of Egypt; or, the verse may mean that towns and monuments, submerged and long forgotten, will be dug out.

3285. In this and the next few verses the address is to the protagonists and propagandists of the false Christian doctrines. They will come to realize the enormity and heinousness of their false teachings.

يَٰٓأَيُّهَا ٱلْإِنسَٰنُ مَا غَرَّكَ بِرَبِّكَ ٱلْكَرِيمِ ۝٧

7. O man! what has deceived thee concerning thy Gracious Lord.

ٱلَّذِى خَلَقَكَ فَسَوَّىٰكَ فَعَدَلَكَ ۝٨

8. Who created thee, then perfected thee, then proportioned thee [a]aright?[3286]

فِىٓ أَىِّ صُورَةٍ مَّا شَآءَ رَكَّبَكَ ۝٩

9. In whatever form He pleased, He fashioned thee.

كَلَّا بَلْ تُكَذِّبُونَ بِٱلدِّينِ ۝١٠

10. Nay, but you deny the Judgment.

وَإِنَّ عَلَيْكُمْ لَحَٰفِظِينَ ۝١١

11. [b]Surely, there are guardians over you,

كِرَامًا كَٰتِبِينَ ۝١٢

12. [c]Noble Recorders,[3287]

يَعْلَمُونَ مَا تَفْعَلُونَ ۝١٣

13. Who know all that you do.

إِنَّ ٱلْأَبْرَارَ لَفِى نَعِيمٍ ۝١٤

14. [d]Verily, the virtuous will be in bliss;

وَإِنَّ ٱلْفُجَّارَ لَفِى جَحِيمٍ ۝١٥

15. [e]And the wicked will be in Hell;

16. [f]They will burn therein on the Day of Judgment;

وَمَا هُمْ عَنْهَا بِغَآئِبِينَ ۝١٧

17. And they will not be able to escape therefrom.

وَمَآ أَدْرَىٰكَ مَا يَوْمُ ٱلدِّينِ ۝١٨

18. And what should make thee know what the Day of Judgment is!

ثُمَّ مَآ أَدْرَىٰكَ مَا يَوْمُ ٱلدِّينِ ۝١٩

19. Again, what should make thee know what the Day of Judgment is!

[a]87:3; 91:8. [b]6:62. [c]43:81; 50:19. [d]45:31; 83:23. [e]83:8. [f]23:104; 83:17.

3286. God has endowed man with great natural powers and faculties in order that he may rise to the highest peaks of spiritual eminence.

3287. Man is born a free agent and is responsible for the decisions he takes and the deeds he does, which are recorded by "Noble Recorders."

يَوْمَ لَا تَمْلِكُ نَفْسٌ لِّنَفْسٍ شَيْـًٔا ؕ وَالْاَمْرُ يَوْمَئِذٍ لِّلّٰهِ ﴿۲۰﴾ ع ۱۷

20. [a]The day when a soul shall have no power to do aught for another soul! [b]And the command on that day will be Allāh's.

[a]2:124; 31:34. [b]18:45; 40:17.

CHAPTER 83
AT-TAṬFĪF
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah opens with a severe condemnation of the use of false measures and weights to defraud people. According to scholarly opinion, it was revealed early in the Meccan period. Noldeke and Muir assign its revelation to about the fourth year of the Call. The preceding Sūrah had ended with a warning to disbelievers that they will have to render account of their deeds and to make up their spiritual loss themselves, the sacrifice or intercession of no one else being of any use to them on the Day of Judgment. In that Sūrah man's relations with his Creator were discussed. In the present Sūrah, however, stress has been laid on man's dealings with his fellow-beings with special reference to the cruel exploitation by powerful nations of weaker and less developed peoples after depriving them of their liberty of action. It ends on a note of stern warning to the unjust and dishonest people that they will not be allowed to go unpunished. The Day of Reckoning awaits them in all its frightfulness and severity.

سُوْرَةُ التَّطْفِيْفِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٨٣ — اٰياتها ٣٧ — رکوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

وَيْلٌ لِّلْمُطَفِّفِيْنَ ②

2. [b]Woe unto those who give short measure;

الَّذِيْنَ اِذَا اكْتَالُوْا عَلَى النَّاسِ يَسْتَوْفُوْنَ ③

3. Those who, when they take by measure from other people, take it full;

وَ اِذَا كَالُوْهُمْ اَوْ وَّزَنُوْهُمْ يُخْسِرُوْنَ ④

4. [c]But when they give by measure to others or weigh to them, they give them less.

اَلَا يَظُنُّ اُولٰٓئِكَ اَنَّهُمْ مَّبْعُوْثُوْنَ ⑤

5. Do not such people know that they will be raised again

لِيَوْمٍ عَظِيْمٍ ⑥

6. To witness the judgment of a mighty day?[3288]

يَّوْمَ يَقُوْمُ النَّاسُ لِرَبِّ الْعٰلَمِيْنَ ⑦

7. The day when mankind will stand before the Lord of the worlds.

كَلَّآ اِنَّ كِتٰبَ الْفُجَّارِ لَفِيْ سِجِّيْنٍ ⑧

8. Nay, the record of the wicked is in Sijjīn.[3289]

وَمَآ اَدْرٰىكَ مَا سِجِّيْنٌ ⑨

9. And what should make thee know what Sijjīn is?

[a]1:1. [b]11:85; 26:182-184; 55:9. [c]55:10.

3288. There is a Day of Reckoning in the after-life when men shall have to render account of their actions to their Lord and Master, but a day of reckoning also comes upon a people in this very life when their evil doings exceed legitimate bounds and they meet their Nemesis.

3289. Sijjīn is wrongly considered by some Commentators of the Qur'ān as a non-Arabic word, but according to such eminent authorities as Farrā', Zajjāj, Abū 'Ubaidah and Mubarrad, it is an Arabic word derived from Sajana. Lisān considers it as equivalent to Sijn (prison). Sijjīn is a Register or Book in which the record of evil deeds of the wicked is said to be kept in the next world. The word also means, anything hard, vehement and severe; continuous, lasting or everlasting (Lane).

كِتٰبٌ مَّرْقُوْمٌ ﴿٢٠﴾

10. It is a written Book since eternity.[3290]

وَيْلٌ يَّوْمَئِذٍ لِّلْمُكَذِّبِيْنَ ﴿٢١﴾

11. Woe on that day unto those who reject.

الَّذِيْنَ يُكَذِّبُوْنَ بِيَوْمِ الدِّيْنِ ﴿٢٢﴾

12. Who deny the Day of Judgment.

وَمَا يُكَذِّبُ بِهٖٓ اِلَّا كُلُّ مُعْتَدٍ اَثِيْمٍ ﴿٢٣﴾

13. And none denies it save every sinful transgressor.

اِذَا تُتْلٰى عَلَيْهِ اٰيٰتُنَا قَالَ اَسَاطِيْرُ الْاَوَّلِيْنَ ﴿٢٤﴾

14. [a]Who, when Our Signs are recited unto him, says, 'Tales of the ancient!'

كَلَّا بَلْ ۜ رَانَ عَلٰى قُلُوْبِهِمْ مَّا كَانُوْا يَكْسِبُوْنَ ﴿٢٥﴾

15. Nay, but that which they have earned is rust upon their hearts.

كَلَّآ اِنَّهُمْ عَنْ رَّبِّهِمْ يَوْمَئِذٍ لَّمَحْجُوْبُوْنَ ﴿٢٦﴾

16. [b]Nay, they will, surely, be debarred from seeing[3291] their Lord on that day.

ثُمَّ اِنَّهُمْ لَصَالُوا الْجَحِيْمِ ﴿٢٧﴾

17. [c]Then, verily, they will burn in Hell,

ثُمَّ يُقَالُ هٰذَا الَّذِيْ كُنْتُمْ بِهٖ تُكَذِّبُوْنَ ﴿٢٨﴾

18. Then it will be said to them, 'This is what you used to [d]reject.'

[a]8:32; 16:25; 68:16. [b]3:78. [c]23:104; 82:16. [d]52:15.

3290. The name Sijjīn signifies that the punishment for the wicked disbelievers will be severe and lasting. Or, the verse may mean that the wicked will be kept in a place of disgrace and ignominy and this is an irrevocable decision. Or, Sijjīn and 'Illiyyīn may be the names of two portions of the Qur'ān, the former dealing with the rejectors of the Divine Message and the punishments to be meted out to them, and the latter with the righteous servants of God and the rewards which will be bestowed upon them. Thus the meaning of the verse would be that the verdicts recorded in these two portions cannot be altered or changed.

3291. The sight of God is granted to a believer in two stages. The initial stage is that of belief, when he acquires firm faith in Divine attributes. The second or the higher stage consists in his being granted realization of the Divine Being. The sinners, on account of their sins, will remain deprived of the realization of the Divine Being on the Day of Judgment—they will not see the face of God.

كَلَّآ اِنَّ كِتٰبَ الْاَبْرَارِ لَفِيْ عِلِّيِّيْنَ ﴿١٩﴾

19. Nay, but the record of the righteous is, surely, in ‘Illiyyīn.[3292]

وَمَآ اَدْرٰىكَ مَا عِلِّيُّوْنَ ﴿٢٠﴾

20. And what should make thee know what ‘Illiyyūn[3293] is?

كِتٰبٌ مَّرْقُوْمٌ ﴿٢١﴾

21. It is a written Book.

يَّشْهَدُهُ الْمُقَرَّبُوْنَ ﴿٢٢﴾

22. The chosen ones of God will witness it.

اِنَّ الْاَبْرَارَ لَفِيْ نَعِيْمٍ ﴿٢٣﴾

23. [a]Surely, the righteous will be in bliss,

عَلَى الْاَرَآئِكِ يَنْظُرُوْنَ ﴿٢٤﴾

24. [b]Seated on couches, looking at everything.

تَعْرِفُ فِيْ وُجُوْهِهِمْ نَضْرَةَ النَّعِيْمِ ﴿٢٥﴾

25. Thou wilt find in their faces the freshness of bliss.

يُسْقَوْنَ مِنْ رَّحِيْقٍ مَّخْتُوْمٍ ﴿٢٦﴾

26. They will be given to drink of a pure beverage,[3294] sealed.

خِتٰمُهٗ مِسْكٌ ؕ وَفِيْ ذٰلِكَ فَلْيَتَنَافَسِ الْمُتَنَافِسُوْنَ ﴿٢٧﴾

27. The sealing of it will be with musk—for this let the aspirants aspire—

[a]45:31; 82:14. [b]15:48; 18:32; 36:57; 76:14.

3292. ‘Illiyyūn considered by some to have been derived from ‘Alā, which means, it was or became high, signifies the most exalted ranks which the righteous believers will enjoy. According to Mufradāt ‘Illiyyūn are those select righteous believers who will enjoy spiritual precedence over others. The word may also stand for those parts of the Qur’ān which contain prophecies about the great progress and prosperity of believers. According to Ibn-e-‘Abbās the word signifies Paradise (Kathīr), while Imām Rāghib considers it to be the name of the dwellers thereof.

3293. Sijjīn, being singular and ‘Illiyyīn plural, it appears that while the punishment of evil-doers will be static, i.e. stationary in one place, the spiritual progress of the righteous will be continuous without interruption, assuming different forms. They will go from one rank to another higher rank.

3294. If 'pure beverage' may refer to the Qur’ān, Tasnīm may be considered as revelations vouchsafed to the chosen ones of God—the righteous followers of the Holy Prophet.

وَ مِزَاجُهٗ مِنۡ تَسۡنِيۡمٍ ۙ﴿۲۸﴾

28. And it will be tempered with the water of Tasnīm,

عَيۡنًا يَّشۡرَبُ بِهَا الۡمُقَرَّبُوۡنَ ؕ﴿۲۹﴾

29. A spring of which the chosen ones will drink.

اِنَّ الَّذِيۡنَ اَجۡرَمُوۡا كَانُوۡا مِنَ الَّذِيۡنَ اٰمَنُوۡا يَضۡحَكُوۡنَ ۖ﴿۳۰﴾

30. [a]Those who were guilty used to laugh[3295] at those who believed,

وَ اِذَا مَرُّوۡا بِهِمۡ يَتَغَامَزُوۡنَ ۖ﴿۳۱﴾

31. And when they passed by them, they winked at one another,

وَ اِذَا انۡقَلَبُوۡۤا اِلٰۤى اَهۡلِهِمُ انۡقَلَبُوۡا فَكِهِيۡنَ ۖ﴿۳۲﴾

32. [b]And when they returned to their families they returned exulting;

وَ اِذَا رَاَوۡهُمۡ قَالُوۡۤا اِنَّ هٰٓؤُلَآءِ لَضَآلُّوۡنَ ۙ﴿۳۳﴾

33. And when they saw them they said, 'These, indeed, have gone astray.'

وَمَاۤ اُرۡسِلُوۡا عَلَيۡهِمۡ حٰفِظِيۡنَ ؕ﴿۳۴﴾

34. But they were not sent as keepers over them.

فَالۡيَوۡمَ الَّذِيۡنَ اٰمَنُوۡا مِنَ الۡكُفَّارِ يَضۡحَكُوۡنَ ۙ﴿۳۵﴾

35. This day, then, it is the believers who will laugh at the disbelievers,

عَلَى الۡاَرَآئِكِ ۙ يَنۡظُرُوۡنَ ؕ﴿۳۶﴾

36. Seated on couches,[3296] gazing around.

هَلۡ ثُوِّبَ الۡكُفَّارُ مَا كَانُوۡا يَفۡعَلُوۡنَ ﴿۳۷﴾ ع

37. They will say to one another, 'Are not the disbelievers fully requited for what they used to do?'

[a]23:111. [b]84:14.

3295. Disbelievers used to laugh in their sleeves at the prophecies about the rapid spread and triumph of Islām, made at a time when it was fighting a seemingly losing battle for its very existence.

3296. The words mean: (1) Seated on the thrones of dignity the believers will witness the sad fate of the arrogant disbelievers; or, (2) seated on the thrones of authority they will administer justice to men; or, (3) they will pay due regard to the needs of others, this also being the meaning of Naẓara (Lane).

CHAPTER 84
AL-INSHIQĀQ
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

Like the preceding three Chapters, the present one was revealed early at Mecca. These four Chapters very much resemble one another in style, composition and subject-matter. Noldeke and Muir agree with Muslim scholars about the early date of the revelation of this Sūrah. In fact, it completes the chain of Sūrahs of which the preceding three Chapters form the component parts. Towards the end of the last Chapter disbelievers were warned in emphatic terms that their power would break and their glory depart. In the present Chapter, however, it is stated that belief will take the place of disbelief and from the ruins of the old decadent and decrepit order a new, vigorous and vibrant order would emerge. The Sūrah continues the theme of Sūrah Al-Infiṭār, the intervening Sūrah At-Taṭfīf being merely its extension. Sūrah Al-Infiṭār had opened with the subject of the cleaving asunder of the heaven; and the present Sūrah begins with an analogous expression, with this difference that whereas in Sūrah Al-Infiṭār 'the cleaving asunder of the heaven' was connected with the false doctrines of Christianity, in the present Sūrah by 'the bursting asunder of the heaven' is meant the descent of Divine revelation and the emergence and spread of spiritual sciences. Thus along with the three preceding Chapters, this Sūrah forms a chain of Chapters which deal with the subject of the renaissance of Islām in the Latter Days and with the sins and iniquities of the preceding period. It specifically deals with the renaissance of Islām while the preceding Chapters deal especially with Christian corruption and immorality.

3297. The verse refers to the time when the gates of heaven will be thrown open and heavenly Signs in support of Islām will appear in large numbers and highly placed persons will begin to give serious thought to the revealed guidance.

3298. A new Adam will be born and the angels of the heaven will take their stand on his side, ready to help him in the furtherance and propagation of his Divine mission (69:18), because that is mainly the object of their creation and is their duty and obligation.

3299. The earth will get a new lease of life and the destruction which it had deserved on account of men's sins will be deferred; and new means will be provided for the spiritual progress of its dwellers. The verse may also signify that some planets which appear to pertain to the heaven will be discovered to form a part of the earth and men will try to reach them by means of rockets, etc. The word Mudda possesses all these meanings (Lane).

3300. The earth will throw out its hidden treasures so abundantly that it would appear as if it was going to empty itself out.

3304. Muslims will pass through all the conditions referred to in the preceding verses.

3305. Why have the disbelievers, after having witnessed the fulfilment of the first two parts of the prophecy, despaired of the fulfilment of the third part? They have seen the ruddy glow of the sunset of Islām, followed by the darkness of spiritual night, and yet they do not believe that the moon of the 14th night will appear to dispel that darkness.

3306. Disbelievers are warned that God knows well the animosity and malice they harbour in their hearts against God's Messenger; He also knows the secret plots they hatch to bring to naught his mission and his efforts to promote the cause of Truth.

CHAPTER 85

AL-BURŪJ

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

This Sūrah was revealed at Mecca in the first few years of the Call. Its connection with the preceding Sūrah, Al-Inshiqāq, is indicated by the fact that in that Sūrah the full moon was invoked as a witness, and in the present Sūrah 'mansions of stars' and 'the promised day' have been invoked to serve the same purpose. The "Burūj" or 'mansions of stars' may represent the twelve Divine Reformers (Mujaddids), each of whom was raised at the beginning of every century of the Hijrah, and the Promised Day stands for the 14th century of the Hijrah. The Sūrah seems to point to the severe persecution to which the followers of the Promised Messiah would be subjected, ending appropriately on the note that because in his time the integrity of the Qur'ān as God's revealed Word would be assailed from all quarters, particularly by Christian writers, he would devote all his energies and his great God-given powers to rebut their attacks and to prove its infallibility and inviolability.

سُوْرَةُ الْبُرُوْجِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٨٥ — رکوعها ١ — اياتها ٢٣

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

وَالسَّمَآءِ ذَاتِ الْبُرُوْجِ ②

2. By the heaven having [b]mansions of stars,[3307]

وَالْيَوْمِ الْمَوْعُوْدِ ③

3. And the Promised Day,[3308]

وَشَاهِدٍ وَّمَشْهُوْدٍ ④

4. And the witness[3309] and he to whom witness is borne,

قُتِلَ اَصْحٰبُ الْاُخْدُوْدِ ⑤

5. Cursed be the Fellows of the Trench[3310]—

[a]1:1. [b]15:17; 25:62.

3307. Mujaddids, or twelve mansions in the spiritual firmament of Islām, who will keep its light burning after the Spiritual Sun will have set, i.e. after the first three best centuries of Islām will have passed, resulting in the spread of spiritual darkness over the whole world. These Reformers will bear witness to the truth of Islām, and of the Qur'ān and to that of the Holy Prophet.

3308. "The Promised Day" may signify the day when the Promised Messiah will be raised to bring about the renaissance of Islām. In fact, there have been many such days in the history of Islām which could be called the promised day namely, the day of the Battle of Badr, the day when the Battle of the Trench came to a glorious end and the day of the Fall of Mecca. But the Promised Day par excellence is the time of the Second Advent of the Holy Prophet in the person of his Deputy in the 14th century A.H., when Islām is to receive a new life and to prevail over all other religions. The "Promised Day" may also mean the day when the righteous will enjoy the bliss of meeting with their Lord.

3309. Every Prophet or Divine Reformer is a Shāhid, i.e. bearer of witness, because he is a living witness to the existence of God, and he is also Mashhūd (to whom witness is borne) because God bears witness to his truth by showing Signs and miracles at his hands. But here, as the text shows, the Shāhid is the Promised Messiah and Mashhūd is the Holy Prophet, and the verse signifies that the Promised Messiah will bear witness to the truth of the Holy Prophet by his speeches, discourses and writings and by the Signs that God will show at his hands. He will also bear witness in the sense that in his person the prophecy of the Holy Prophet about the appearance of the Promised Messiah and Mahdī in the 14th century A.H. will be fulfilled. The Promised Messiah is also Mashhūd in the sense that the Holy Prophet himself has borne witness to his truth. Thus the Holy Prophet and the Promised Messiah are both Shāhids (bearers of witness) and Mashhūds (to whom witness is borne).

3310. By some Commentators of the Qur'ān the verse is taken to refer to النَّارِ ذَاتِ الْوَقُوْدِ ۙ﴿۶﴾

6. The fire fed with fuel—

اِذْ هُمْ عَلَيْهَا قُعُوْدٌ ۙ﴿۷﴾

7. When they sat[3311] by it,

وَّهُمْ عَلٰى مَا يَفْعَلُوْنَ بِالْمُؤْمِنِيْنَ شُهُوْدٌ ؕ﴿۸﴾

8. And they were the witnesses of what they did to the believers.[3312]

وَمَا نَقَمُوْا مِنْهُمْ اِلَّاۤ اَنْ يُّؤْمِنُوْا بِاللّٰهِ الْعَزِيْزِ الْحَمِيْدِ ۙ﴿۹﴾

9. [a]And they hated them not but only because they believed in Allāh,[3313] the Almighty, the Praiseworthy,

الَّذِيْ لَهٗ مُلْكُ السَّمٰوٰتِ وَالْاَرْضِ ؕ وَاللّٰهُ عَلٰى كُلِّ شَيْءٍ شَهِيْدٌ ؕ﴿۱۰﴾

10. [b]To Whom belongs the Kingdom of the heavens and the earth; and Allāh is Witness over all things.

اِنَّ الَّذِيْنَ فَتَنُوا الْمُؤْمِنِيْنَ وَالْمُؤْمِنٰتِ ثُمَّ لَمْ يَتُوْبُوْا فَلَهُمْ عَذَابُ جَهَنَّمَ وَلَهُمْ عَذَابُ الْحَرِيْقِ ؕ﴿۱۱﴾

11. Those who persecute the believing men and the believing women and then repent not, for them is, surely, the punishment of Hell, and for them is the torment of heart-burning.

[a]7:127. [b]14:3.

the burning to death of some Christians by the Jewish King, Dhū Nuwās of Yemen; by some others to the casting into a burning furnace of some Israelite leaders by King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon (Dan. 3:19-22). The verse may more fittingly apply to those enemies of truth, who in the time of every Divine Reformer bitterly oppose and persecute believers. It is not intended here to refer to any past incident of doubtful authenticity. Nowhere in the Qur'ān has God sworn by past incidents. In v. 3 God swears by the "Promised Day." In the present and the next few verses it seems to be hinted that the followers of the Promised Messiah will have to suffer great hardships to usher in that great day.

3311. In vv. 5-9 mention is made of those enemies of truth who kindle the fire of persecution against righteous believers in all ages and constantly keep it ablaze. Their end is predicted in v. 11.

3312. The enemies of truth know in their heart of hearts that their opposition is cruel and unjustified and that the victims of their tyranny are innocent.

3313. The verse is full of pathos. Is belief in God really such a heinous crime, it asks, that its holders should be subjected to cruel persecution?

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا وَعَمِلُوا الصَّالِحَاتِ لَهُمْ جَنَّاتٌ تَجْرِي مِن تَحْتِهَا الْأَنْهَارُ ۚ ذَٰلِكَ الْفَوْزُ الْكَبِيرُ ﴿١٢﴾

12. But those who believe and do good works, for them are Gardens through which streams flow. That is, indeed, the supreme achievement.

إِنَّ بَطْشَ رَبِّكَ لَشَدِيدٌ ﴿١٣﴾

13. Surely, [a]the seizing of thy Lord is severe.

إِنَّهُ هُوَ يُبْدِئُ وَيُعِيدُ ﴿١٤﴾

14. [b]He it is Who originates and reproduces;[3314]

وَهُوَ الْغَفُورُ الْوَدُودُ ﴿١٥﴾

15. And He is the Most Forgiving, the Loving;

ذُو الْعَرْشِ الْمَجِيدُ ﴿١٦﴾

16. The Lord of the Throne, the Lord of Honour;

فَعَّالٌ لِّمَا يُرِيدُ ﴿١٧﴾

17. Doer of what He wills.

هَلْ أَتَاكَ حَدِيثُ الْجُنُودِ ﴿١٨﴾

18. Has not the story of the hosts come to thee?

فِرْعَوْنَ وَثَمُودَ ﴿١٩﴾

19. Of Pharaoh and Thamūd?

بَلِ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا فِي تَكْذِيبٍ ﴿٢٠﴾

20. Nay, but those who disbelieve persist in rejecting the truth.

وَاللَّهُ مِن وَرَائِهِم مُّحِيطٌ ﴿٢١﴾

21. And Allāh encompasses them [c]from before them and from behind them.

بَلْ هُوَ قُرْآنٌ مَّجِيدٌ ﴿٢٢﴾

22. [d]Nay, but it is a glorious Qur'ān.

فِي لَوْحٍ مَّحْفُوظٍ ﴿٢٣﴾ ع ١٠

23. [e]In a well-guarded tablet.[3315]

[a]11:103; 22:3. [b]29:20; 30:12. [c]17:60. [d]50:2; 56:78. [e]41:43; 56:79.

3314. God will punish the cruel and tyrannical persecutors of believers in this world and in the life to come.

3315. The verse constitutes a challenging prophecy about the Qur'ān being guarded against every kind of interference and distortion. See also[1482]. For Chapters 81-85 see "The Larger Edition of the Commentary."

CHAPTER 86
AṬ-ṬĀRIQ
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

Consensus of Muslim scholarly opinion assigns the Sūrah to the early period of the Holy Prophet's ministry. Noldeke and Muir among European scholars agree with this view. It is the last of the series of Chapters which started with Sūrah Al-Infiṭār. In all these Chapters the opening verse, in one form or another, furnishes an argument in support of the claim of the Reformer of the Latter Days. The intervening Sūrah At-Taṭfīf, which has a different opening is, in fact, a part of Sūrah Al-Infiṭār. The present Sūrah continues and completes the topics which were dealt with in Sūrah Al-Infiṭār and in the following Chapters, and serves as a sort of barzakh between the Chapters that precede and those that follow it. From this Sūrah, however, begins a new subject.

سُوْرَةُ الطَّارِقِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٨٦ — اٰياتها ١٨ — رکوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

وَالسَّمَآءِ وَالطَّارِقِ ②

2. By the heaven and the Morning Star[3316]—

3. And what should make thee know what the Morning Star is?

4. It is the Star of piercing brightness—

5. There is not a soul but has a guardian[3317] over it.

فَلْيَنْظُرِ الْاِنْسَانُ مِمَّ خُلِقَ ⑥

6. So let man consider of what he is created.

خُلِقَ مِنْ مَّآءٍ دَافِقٍ ⑦

7. He is created of gushing fluid,[3318]

يَّخْرُجُ مِنْۢ بَيْنِ الصُّلْبِ وَالتَّرَآئِبِ ⑧

8. Which issues forth from between the loins and the breastbones.[3318A]

[a]1:1.

3316. The reference in the verse may be to the Holy Prophet's Deputy whose advent like the morning star was to herald the dawn of the triumph and spread of Islām, after the night of spiritual darkness, which had come over Islām will have passed. According to some Commentators, however, the verse refers to the Holy Prophet himself who appeared when the night of spiritual darkness had spread over the entire world, it being pitch dark in Arabia, the land where he made his appearance.

3317. God will protect the Morning Star—the Holy Prophet's Deputy and the Star of piercing brightness—the Holy Prophet.

3318. Man's spiritual development is subject to alternate periods of progression and retrogression, like the seminal fluid that gushes forth and falls.

3318A. It is characteristic of the Quranic style that it substitutes mild or vague words of expressions for harsh and blunt ones. 'From between the loins and the breastbones,' is one of such euphemisms used by the Qur'ān. The verse may signify that man is born of the water that comes out of the loins of his father and is fed by the breast of his mother. The fact that man has been created from a fluid which gushes forth and then falls may signify that he has been endowed with great natural faculties to make rapid progress but he is also likely to fall to the lowest depths of degradation, if he does not make proper use of those God-given powers. The verse signifies that man's spiritual development is subject to alternate periods of progression and retrogression, like the seminal fluid which gushes forth and then falls.

3319. This and the preceding verse mean that just as the rain on which depends very largely the greenness and vegetation of the earth comes down from heaven and with its cessation earthly water begins gradually to dry up, similarly human reason loses its purity and strength without heavenly revelation.

3319A. The verse purports to say that disbelievers are granted respite that they may try all their evil plans and employ all the strength and resources they possess against Islām and the Holy Prophet. The triumph of Islām, despite all their planning and boasted strength, will be an irrefutable proof that it is from Allāh and has His support.

CHAPTER 87

AL-A‘LĀ

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah was revealed very early in the Holy Prophet’s ministry at Mecca. Besides most Commentators of the Qur’ān, Muir and Noldeke hold this view; the latter (Noldeke) places its revelation after Chapter 78, while some Muslim scholars assign it the eighth place in the chronological order of revelation of the Qur’ān. The preceding Sūrah had ended on the note that the Qur’ān is a complete and perfect code of Divine laws, fully capable of meeting the needs and requirements of all mankind; and that at no time will it be subject to change, abrogation or interpolation. This Quranic claim gives rise to the natural and inevitable question, viz. where was the need of a new Reformer to whom reference has been made in the preceding several Chapters in the presence of such a complete and perfect revelation? The present Sūrah answers this important question. It was further stated in Sūrah Aṭ-Ṭāriq that the development of man is subject to alternate periods of rise and fall. This fact again gives rise to another equally important question, viz. that after the revelation of a Law, complete in all respects, man’s progress should naturally become uniform and uninterrupted and immune against all possibility of retrogression. This being so, why was a complete Sharī‘ah not revealed in the beginning of the world; why was it deferred till the time of the Holy Prophet? The Sūrah supplies an answer to this question also. It possesses another intimate connection with the preceding Chapter. In that Sūrah it was stated that man is born of a fluid which issues forth from the loins of his father and gets his sustenance from the breast of his mother. This constituted a subtle hint about the gradual process of man’s physical development. We are told that like his physical development man’s spiritual development is also gradual. The Holy Prophet generally recited this and the next Sūrah in the Friday and ‘Īd Prayers.

سُوْرَةُ الْاَعْلٰى مَكِّيَّةٌ ٨٧ — اٰياتها ٢٠ — رکوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

سَبِّحِ اسْمَ رَبِّكَ الْاَعْلَى ②

2. [b]Glorify the name of thy Lord,[3320] the Most High,

الَّذِىْ خَلَقَ فَسَوّٰى ③

3. [c]Who creates man and perfects[3321] him.

وَالَّذِىْ قَدَّرَ فَهَدٰى ④

4. [d]And Who determines his capacities and furnishes him with appropriate guidance.

وَالَّذِىْٓ اَخْرَجَ الْمَرْعٰى ⑤

5. And Who brings forth the pasturage,

فَجَعَلَهٗ غُثَآءً اَحْوٰى ⑥

6. Then turns it into black [e]stubble.[3322]

سَنُقْرِئُكَ فَلَا تَنْسٰٓى ⑦

7. We shall teach thee the Qur'ān, and thou shalt not forget it,[3323]

[a]1:1. [b]56:75; 69:53. [c]82:8; 91:8. [d]80:20. [e]18:46; 57:21.

3320. The Divine attribute Rabb (Lord Who makes things grow and develop by stages) disposes of the objection: Why was the perfect Law not revealed in the beginning of creation? The word implies that perfect Law should have been revealed when man's intellect and reason had attained their fullest development which could and did take place after a long and gradual process of evolution.

3321. A high destiny awaits man. He can attain the highest spiritual stature and can reflect in his person Divine attributes so as to become the mirror of his Creator.

3322. The verse constitutes a subtle answer to the objection: Why did God first reveal incomplete Laws, suited only to the needs of the peoples and the periods in which they were revealed, and then towards the end revealed the last and most perfect Sharī'ah in the form of the Qur'ān? The answer is that God has created two kinds of things: (a) Those that like herbage and pasture satisfy man's temporary needs and thus have a limited tenure of life. The former Scriptures, like these things, fulfilled only man's temporary needs and, therefore, were subject to decay and death. (b) Those things such as the sun, the moon, the earth, etc. which are of permanent use for man. They will last till the universe lasts. The Qur'ān is like the universe and is meant to be man's unerring guide till the end of time; hence it is immune to change, replacement and the wasting effect of time.

3323 The Holy Prophet was human and as such was apt to forget and he did

إِلَّا مَا شَآءَ اللّٰهُ ؕ اِنَّهٗ يَعْلَمُ الْجَهْرَ وَمَا يَخْفٰى ﴿٨﴾

8. Except as what Allāh wills.[3324] Surely, [a]He knows what is manifest and what is hidden.

وَنُيَسِّرُكَ لِلْيُسْرٰى ﴿٩﴾

9. [b]And We shall provide thee with every facility.[3325]

فَذَكِّرْ اِنْ نَّفَعَتِ الذِّكْرٰى ﴿١٠﴾

10. So keep on admonishing people. Surely, admonition is, indeed, profitable.

سَيَذَّكَّرُ مَنْ يَّخْشٰى ﴿١١﴾

11. [c]He who fears will heed;

وَيَتَجَنَّبُهَا الْاَشْقَى ﴿١٢﴾

12. But the most wretched will turn aside from it,

الَّذِىْ يَصْلَى النَّارَ الْكُبْرٰى ﴿١٣﴾

13. He who will enter the great [d]Fire.

ثُمَّ لَا يَمُوْتُ فِيْهَا وَلَا يَحْيٰى ﴿١٤﴾

14. [e]Then he will neither die therein nor live.

قَدْ اَفْلَحَ مَنْ تَزَكّٰى ﴿١٥﴾

15. [f]Verily, he, indeed, will prosper who purifies himself,

[a]2:34; 20:8; 21:111; 24:30. [b]92:8. [c]51:56. [d]88:5. [e]14:18; 20:75. [f]91:10.

forget things as far as the affairs of life were concerned. But God in his infallible wisdom had so arranged that though the Holy Prophet was not literate and that sometimes long Chapters were revealed to him in one piece, the revelation remained so indelibly imprinted on his mind that he was never found to forget or falter in reciting the revealed portions. It is marvellous, indeed, that very long Chapters such as Al-Baqarah, Āl-e-'Imrān and An-Nisā',were revealed piecemeal, and a period of several years had intervened between the revelation of one piece and another and yet the Holy Prophet never, for a moment, fumbled or faltered in putting the revealed verses in their proper places. This is a fact which has not been disputed by even the most hostile critics of the Qur'ān.

3324. The expression, 'as what Allāh wills,' pertains only to matters of everyday life.

3325. The verse signifies: (a) That it is easy to commit the Qur'ān to memory; (b) that its teachings possess an adaptability all their own which makes them conform to, and meet, the exigencies of changing conditions and circumstances and also the needs and requirements of men of different temperaments and dispositions; and (c) that Quranic injunctions are not arbitrary but wise and rational. These factors combined make the Qur'ān a book easy to learn and to act upon. These, among others, are some of the means which God has provided for the eternal protection and preservation of the Quranic text and its meaning.

وَذَكَرَ اسْمَ رَبِّهٖ فَصَلّٰى ﴿١٦﴾

16. And remembers the name of his Lord and offers Prayers.

بَلْ تُؤْثِرُوْنَ الْحَيٰوةَ الدُّنْيَا ﴿١٧﴾

17. [a]But you prefer the life of this world,

وَالْاٰخِرَةُ خَيْرٌ وَّاَبْقٰى ﴿١٨﴾

18. [b]Whereas the Hereafter is better and more lasting.

اِنَّ هٰذَا لَفِي الصُّحُفِ الْاُوْلٰى ﴿١٩﴾

19. [c]This, indeed, is what is taught in the former Scriptures—

صُحُفِ اِبْرٰهِيْمَ وَمُوْسٰى ﴿٢٠﴾ ع ١٢

20. The Scriptures of Abraham and Moses.[3326]

[a]75:21. [b]93:5. [c]20:134.

3326. Because the essential principles of all religions are basically identical, the teachings mentioned in the foregoing verses are also found in the Scriptures of Moses and Abraham. The verse may also signify that the prophecy about the appearance of a great Prophet who was to give to the world the last Divine Message and the most perfect Teaching is found in the Scriptures of Moses and Abraham (Deut. 18:18, 19 & 33:2).

CHAPTER 88
AL-GHĀSHIYAH

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah, like the preceding one, was revealed early at Mecca. Eminent early Muslim scholars such as Ibn-e-'Abbās and Ibn-e-Zubair hold this view. The famous German Orientalist Noldeke places it in the fourth year of the Call. This and some of the preceding Chapters deal with the collective life of the Muslim Community in the time of the Holy Prophet and also in the Latter Days. This is why the Holy Prophet generally used to recite it in the Friday and the 'Īd Prayers. In some previous Chapters it was stated that Islām will never prosper by the employment only of material means. When Muslims will decline and decay and the Qur'ān will, as it were, go up to Heaven, a Divine Reformer will appear who will bring it back to earth and will make its ideals and principles shine in resplendent glory. It was also stated that Islām will continue to have, in every age, sincere and devoted followers who will preach and propagate its Message, and that other unpredictable circumstances will also arise which will greatly contribute to its progress and prosperity. In the present Sūrah, it is stated that Muslims will have to face severe opposition and cruel persecution, and after they will have patiently stood the test, success will come to them. Though the Sūrah deals primarily with the vicissitudes through which Muslims have to pass in this life, it also refers, as its name shows, to the Day of Resurrection. On the Day of Reckoning whether in this or in the next life, when the scales are set up, some faces are downcast, covered with disgrace and ignominy, and some others beam with joy being pleased with the results of their labour.

3327. (a) The Judgment Day or a terrific calamity. (b) The severe famine that held Mecca in its grip for about seven years in the time of the Holy Prophet has also been referred to in the Qur'ān as Ghāshiyah (44:11, 12).

3328. The righteous believers will be well-pleased with the marvellous results of the sacrifices they will have made for the cause of Islām.

3329. Like a running spring their beneficence and goodness will flow

3330. Believers, like camels going straight in a line, all behind the one that leads them, give unquestioning obedience to their Leader. Or, like camels which can go on for days without water in a hot, sandy desert, they have infinite patience under trials and hardships and continue their spiritual journey without complaining. Ibil also meaning clouds (Lane), the verse may signify that God will spread the teachings of the Qur'ān which is spiritual water over the entire earth.

3331. The four verses (vv. 18-21) teach a Muslim the supreme moral lesson that (1) he should be generous like the clouds, (2) exalted like the heaven, (3) of fixed resolve like the mountains, and (4) soft and humble like the earth.

إِنَّ إِلَيْنَآ إِيَابَهُمْ ﴿٢٦﴾

26. Unto Us, surely, is their return.

ثُمَّ إِنَّ عَلَيْنَا حِسَابَهُم ﴿٢٧﴾ ع ١٣

27. Then, surely, it is for Us to call them to account.

CHAPTER 89

AL-FAJR

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

This Chapter was among the earliest Sūrahs which were revealed at Mecca. From historical data it appears to have been revealed sometime in the fourth year of the Call. Noldeke places it immediately after Al-Ghāshiyah, which was also revealed in the fourth year. The Sūrah contains a double prophecy which primarily applies to the Holy Prophet and secondarily to the Promised Messiah. In a beautiful allegory the Sūrah alludes to the last ten years of the Holy Prophet's life of hardship at Mecca and his Emigration to Medina, accompanied by his most faithful Companion, Abū Bakr, and to the first year of his life at Medina which was also full of strains and stresses. The Sūrah may also be taken as referring to the decline of Islām during the ten centuries after its first three hundred years of uniform success, and to the appearance of the Promised Messiah, as well as to the first century of trials and hardships for his mission and his followers. After this brief allegorical description of the vicissitudes and fluctuations of the fortunes of Islām in the time of the Holy Prophet and that of the Promised Messiah, the Sūrah mentions the case of Pharaoh as representing the opposition which the cause of Truth always encounters. Opposition to Truth (the Sūrah further states) springs from accumulation of power and wealth in the hands of a particular class, and the misuse of riches and authority by them brings about their decline and destruction. The Sūrah ends on the note that only a few fortunate people accept the Divine Message and by walking in the ways of righteousness succeed in winning God's pleasure, and consequently enjoy complete immunity from fear of failure or faltering, and after joining the company of His Elect, enter Heaven.

سُوْرَةُ الْفَجْرِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٨٩ — اٰياتها ٣١ — رکوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

وَالْفَجْرِ ②

2. By the Dawn,[3332]

وَلَيَالٍ عَشْرٍ ③

3. And the Ten Nights.[3333]

وَّالشَّفْعِ وَالْوَتْرِ ④

4. And the Even and the Odd,[3334]

[a]1:1.

3332. "The Dawn" may signify the Holy Prophet's Emigration to Medina with which ended the dark night of persecution at Mecca. It may also signify the advent of the Promised Messiah who was to bring a message of hope and of a bright future for Muslims after centuries of their decline and decadence.

3333. "The Ten Nights" may represent the last ten dark years of severe persecution to which Muslims were subjected at Mecca, or the ten centuries of the decline and decadence of Muslims before the advent of the Promised Messiah, with which would end the dark period of their spiritual and political degradation, and which would usher in the dawn of a glorious future for Islām. An implied reference to these "Ten Nights" or ten centuries of the decline of Islām is also to be found elsewhere in the Qur'ān (32:6). These ten centuries (or a thousand years) of the moral decadence of Muslims came after the first three centuries of the heyday of their glory and grandeur which have been called the best three centuries of Islām by the Holy Prophet (Bukhārī. Kitābur-Riqāq), had passed. The decline of Islām began towards the end of the third century A.H., when, on the one hand, an Umayyad Caliph of Spain signed a pact of mutual assistance with the Pope against the Abbaside Empire of Baghdad and, on the other, the Caliph of Baghdad entered into a treaty of friendship with the Caesar of Rome against the Umayyad Caliph of Spain.

3334. Continuing the allegory the word Ash-Shaf' (the Even) may allude to the Holy Prophet and Abū Bakr—his ever faithful Companion. The two of them made the number even, and God Who was with them in the hour of tribulation was Al-Watr (the Odd). To this "Even and Odd" number, a pointed reference is to be found in 9:40. Or, the Holy Prophet and the Promised Messiah may be taken as making an even number and Allāh an odd number, or "the Even and the Odd" may signify that whereas the Holy Prophet and the Promised Messiah were two separate individuals, the Promised Messiah was so completely lost in the Holy Prophet as to have become one with him.

11. And with Pharaoh, lord of vast hosts,

الَّذِيۡنَ طَغَوۡا فِى الۡبِلَادِ ۖ﴿۱۲﴾

12. [b]Who committed excesses in the cities,

فَاَكۡثَرُوۡا فِيۡهَا الۡفَسَادَ ۖ﴿۱۳﴾

13. [c]And wrought much corruption therein?

فَصَبَّ عَلَيۡهِمۡ رَبُّكَ سَوۡطَ عَذَابٍ ۚ﴿۱۴﴾

14. Thy Lord, then, let loose on them the scourge[3337] of punishment.

اِنَّ رَبَّكَ لَبِالۡمِرۡصَادِ ؕ﴿۱۵﴾

15. Surely, thy Lord is ever on the watch.

فَاَمَّا الۡاِنۡسَانُ اِذَا مَا ابۡتَلٰىهُ رَبُّهٗ فَاَكۡرَمَهٗ

16. As for man, when his Lord tries him and honours

[a]7:75; 26:150. [b]28:5. [c]28:5.

3335. "The Night" may represent the first year of the Hijrah which did not see any abatement of the Holy Prophet's worries. Though after the Emigration to Medina the "Morning" had dawned for the Muslims, yet they were not completely out of the wood; they had to suffer hardships for another night, i.e. another year of hardships after which in the Battle of Badr the Quraish suffered a crushing defeat and the Prophet Isaiah's prophecy (21:16) was literally fulfilled: 'For thus hath the Lord said unto me, within a year, according to the years of an hireling and all the glory of Kedar shall fail.'

3336. ʻĀd were a very powerful people in their time. They excelled their contemporary nations in material means and resources.

3337. Sauṭ means a whip; scourge; vehemence (Lane).

him and [a]bestows favours[3338] on him, he says, 'My Lord has honoured me.'

وَنَعَّمَهٗ ۙ فَيَقُوْلُ رَبِّيْٓ اَكْرَمَنِ ۝١٦

17. But when He tries and straitens for him his means of [b]subsistence, he says 'My Lord has disgraced me.'

وَاَمَّآ اِذَا مَا ابْتَلٰىهُ فَقَدَرَ عَلَيْهِ رِزْقَهٗ ۙ فَيَقُوْلُ رَبِّيْٓ اَهَانَنِ ۝١٧

18. [c]Nay, but you honour not the orphan,

كَلَّا بَلْ لَّا تُكْرِمُوْنَ الْيَتِيْمَ ۝١٨

19. [d]And urge not one another to feed the poor;

وَلَا تَحٰٓضُّوْنَ عَلٰى طَعَامِ الْمِسْكِيْنِ ۝١٩

20. And devour the heritage of other people, devouring greedily and wholly;

وَتَاْكُلُوْنَ التُّرَاثَ اَكْلًا لَّمًّا ۝٢٠

21. [e]And you love wealth with exceeding love.[3339]

وَّتُحِبُّوْنَ الْمَالَ حُبًّا جَمًّا ۝٢١

22. Hearken! when the earth is completely broken into pieces;

كَلَّآ اِذَا دُكَّتِ الْاَرْضُ دَكًّا دَكًّا ۝٢٢

23. [f]And thy Lord comes,[3340] attended by the angels, rank on rank;

وَّجَآءَ رَبُّكَ وَالْمَلَكُ صَفًّا صَفًّا ۝٢٣

[a]17:84. [b]17:84. [c]107:3. [d]69:35. [e]104:3. [f]2:110; 6:159; 16:34.

3338. Favours are bestowed upon man, sometimes to test his mettle; at other times to reward him for his good actions. Similarly, he is involved in troubles that he may be tried and rewarded or punished according to his desert. But man is so constituted that when he is in ease and affluence, he regards these things as the fruits of his own labour and superior intelligence (28:79); but when misfortunes overtake him, he attributes them to God.

3339. The verse drives home to hoarders of wealth the evils of hoarding. Inordinate love of money creates in man an excessive desire to keep on adding to his wealth, without spending it for the furtherance of good causes. It makes him regardless of the means he employs to acquire it, which leads to his moral ruin. Islām takes as much care of the moral health of society as it takes of that of the individual: and society's health requires that material goods be widely distributed and wealth kept in easy circulation.

3340. The 'coming of the Lord' attended by the angels is a Quranic idiom

وَجِایْٓءَ یَوْمَىِٕذٍۭ بِجَهَنَّمَ ۙ۬ یَوْمَىِٕذٍ
یَّتَذَكَّرُ الْاِنْسَانُ وَاَنّٰى لَهُ الذِّكْرٰى ﴿۲۴﴾

24. And Hell is [a]brought near that day; on that day man will remember, [b]but of what avail shall that remembrance be to him?

یَقُوْلُ یٰلَیْتَنِیْ قَدَّمْتُ لِحَیَاتِیْ ﴿۲۵﴾

25. He will say, 'O, would that I had sent on some good works for my life here!'

فَیَوْمَىِٕذٍ لَّا یُعَذِّبُ عَذَابَهٗٓ اَحَدٌ ﴿۲۶﴾

26. So on that day none can punish like unto His punishment.

وَّلَا یُوْثِقُ وَثَاقَهٗٓ اَحَدٌ ﴿۲۷﴾

27. And none can bind like unto His binding.[3341]

یٰٓاَیَّتُهَا النَّفْسُ الْمُطْمَىِٕنَّةُ ﴿۲۸﴾

28. O, thou soul at peace!

ارْجِعِیْٓ اِلٰى رَبِّكِ رَاضِیَةً مَّرْضِیَّةً ﴿۲۹﴾

29. Return to thy Lord, thou well-pleased with Him and He well-pleased with thee.[3342]

فَادْخُلِیْ فِیْ عِبٰدِیْ ﴿۳۰﴾

30. So enter thou among My chosen servants,

وَادْخُلِیْ جَنَّتِیْ ﴿۳۱﴾ ع ۱۴

31. And enter thou My Garden.

[a]26:92. [b]79:36.

for imminent and destructive Divine punishment.

3341. The mill of God grinds slowly, but it grinds exceedingly small. God is slow to punish but when His punishment comes, it is most destructive. 'It spares not and it leaves naught' (74:29).

3342. This is the highest stage of spiritual development when man is well-pleased with his Lord and his Lord is well-pleased with him (58:23). At this stage which is called the heavenly stage, he becomes immune to all moral weaknesses and frailties and is braced with a peculiar spiritual strength. He is "united" with God and cannot exist without Him. It is in this life and not after death that this great spiritual transformation takes place in him and it is in this world and not elsewhere that access to Paradise is granted to him.

CHAPTER 90

AL-BALAD

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

This Sūrah is among the earliest Chapters to have been revealed at Mecca. According to Christian writers it was revealed in the first year of the Call. If not as early as that, it certainly was revealed towards the end of the third or the beginning of the fourth year. In Sūrah Al-Fajr it was stated that jibes, mockery and taunts, to which the Holy Prophet had been subjected in the first three years of his mission, were about to give place to determined, persistent and organized opposition and persecution, and that this persecution would continue for ten long years which allegorically were mentioned as "Ten Nights." In the Sūrah under comment, however, the Holy Prophet is told that it is in Mecca, his beloved native town, and by his own kith and kin, that he and his followers will be persecuted. It is further implied that centuries ago, in pursuance of Divine command, the Patriarch Abraham and his righteous son, Ishmael, had laid the foundations of this sacred town of Mecca and had prayed to God that it should become the Centre from where should emanate the light which should illumine the whole world. Both the father and the son made great sacrifices in carrying out the commands of God. Abraham's prayer was heard and the Holy Prophet appeared in the fullness of time and gave to the world the perfect Teaching in the form of the Qur'ān. The Sūrah further says that man chooses the easy path and refuses to attempt "the ascent" that leads to the achievement of his great goal. It ends on the note that only those, who place before them high ideals and live up to them, achieve their goal, while those, who possess no noble ideals and make no sacrifice for good causes, are condemned to a life of failure and frustration.

سُوْرَةُ الْبَلَدِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٩٠ — اٰياتها ٢١ — رکوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

لَآ اُقْسِمُ بِهٰذَا الْبَلَدِ ۙ ②

2. [b]Nay I cite as witness this City[3343]—

وَاَنْتَ حِلٌّۢ بِهٰذَا الْبَلَدِ ۙ ③

3. And affirm that thou wilt, surely, alight[3344] in this City—

وَوَالِدٍ وَّمَا وَلَدَ ۙ ④

4. And I cite as witness the father and the son,[3345]

لَقَدْ خَلَقْنَا الْاِنْسَانَ فِيْ كَبَدٍ ؕ ⑤

5. We have, surely, created man [c]to toil and struggle.[3346]

[a]1:1. [b]52:5; 95:4. [c]84:7.

3343. The particle lā is used here to draw pointed attention to the subject which is about to be introduced and to signify that it is so clear and obvious that it needs no swearing to support it. Or, it may be intended to refute an understood objection. In that case the meaning would be: 'Not that thou art not a forger, as the disbelievers think, thou art a true Prophet of God and this City is called to bear witness to this fact.' But more appropriately the verse means something like this: 'You harbour evil designs about Islām. O disbelievers, I know what is in your minds, but I tell you that it would never happen as you desire, and I cite this City as a witness to this fact.'

3344. Ḥill means: (1) A thing the doing of which is lawful; (2) target; (3) one free from obligation; (4) one alighting or dwelling in a place (Lane). The root-word Ḥalla possessing all these meanings, the verse signifies: (1) It is considered lawful by your enemies to do you any harm, even to kill you, in this City of Mecca which is so sacred that what to say of killing a living creature, it is strictly forbidden to do it the slightest harm in its precincts. (2) Thou alone art the target of every conceivable abuse, harm, injury, cruelty or violence against life, property or honour in this sacred City. (3) Thou wilt alight as a conqueror in this City from where thou art now being driven out as a fugitive. (4) For a short while thou wilt be freed from the obligation to observe the sacredness of this City when thou wilt enter it as a victor and those wicked people, who had placed themselves outside the pale of law by perpetrating unutterable cruelties on innocent Muslims, will be at your mercy.

3345. While raising the foundations of the Ka'bah, the Patriarch Abraham and his son Ishmael had prayed to God to raise among the Meccans a Messenger (2:129, 130). Thus 'the father and the son' bear witness to the truth of the Holy Prophet.

3346. The prophecy, that the Holy Prophet will be expelled from Mecca

6. [a]Does he think that no one has power over him?[3347]	اَيَحْسَبُ اَنْ لَّنْ يَّقْدِرَ عَلَيْهِ اَحَدٌ ۝٦

and will come back to it as a conqueror and Mecca will submit to him and its inhabitants will enter the fold of Islām, will be fulfilled only after he and his followers will have gone through great hardships, that is to say, great toil and incessant struggle will be demanded of them to achieve their great goal.

3347. God is aware of the evil designs of disbeliever and He has the power to, and will bring them to naught.

3348. Let the opponents of Islām use all their means (the verse purports to say) and spend heaps of wealth to prevent Islām from spreading, they will not succeed in their evil designs and Islām will continue to make both spiritual and political conquests.

3349. An-Najdain means the two highways of good and evil, of truth and falsehood, of spiritual and material progress. God has provided man with all those means by which he can find out the right path, can sift right from wrong and truth from falsehood. He has been endowed with both spiritual and physical eyes by which he can distinguish good from evil and has been given a tongue and two lips that he might ask for guidance, and above all God has placed before him a supreme object that he may devote all his faculties and energies to achieve it.

3350. Through the Holy Prophet, God had opened up all the ways and means by using which man could make unlimited spiritual and material progress, but he refused to make the necessary sacrifices to achieve this object.

فَكُّ رَقَبَةٍ ﴿١٤﴾

اَوْ اِطْعٰمٌ فِيْ يَوْمٍ ذِيْ مَسْغَبَةٍ ﴿١٥﴾

15. [a]Or, feeding on a day of hunger

يَّتِيْمًا ذَا مَقْرَبَةٍ ﴿١٦﴾

16. An orphan near of kin,

اَوْ مِسْكِيْنًا ذَا مَتْرَبَةٍ ﴿١٧﴾

17. Or, a poor man lying in the dust.[3351]

ثُمَّ كَانَ مِنَ الَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوْا وَتَوَاصَوْا بِالصَّبْرِ وَتَوَاصَوْا بِالْمَرْحَمَةِ ﴿١٨﴾

18. Then, he should have been of those who believe and exhort one another to [b]perseverance and exhort one another to mercy.[3352]

اُولٰٓئِكَ اَصْحٰبُ الْمَيْمَنَةِ ﴿١٩﴾

19. These are the people of the [c]right hand.

وَالَّذِيْنَ كَفَرُوْا بِاٰيٰتِنَا هُمْ اَصْحٰبُ الْمَشْئَمَةِ ﴿٢٠﴾

20. But those who reject Our Signs, they are the people of the left [d]hand.

عَلَيْهِمْ نَارٌ مُّؤْصَدَةٌ ﴿٢١﴾ ع ١٥

21. On them will be Fire [e]closed over.[3353]

[a]76:9; 89:19. [b]103:4. [c]56:28. [d]56:42. [e]104:9.

3351. Verses 14-17 speak of the two methods which can raise the moral stature of a people: (a) Freeing of the slaves, i.e. raising the suppressed, oppressed and depressed sections of the community to an equal partnership in life. (b) Helping the orphans and the poor to stand on their own legs and to become useful members of the community.

3352. Good actions mentioned in the foregoing verses are not enough to raise the all round stature of a community. Good ideals and right principles, combined with continuous and sustained adherence to the path of moral rectitude and the teaching of virtues to others, are equally essential for the attainment of the above-mentioned high aim.

3353. Fire when closed on all sides becomes most destructive.

CHAPTER 91
ASH-SHAMS
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah admittedly belongs to the very early Meccan period. Some scholars regard it as having been revealed in the first year of the Call; others assign it to the second or the third year. The five Sūrahs (89-93) possess a striking similarity in the subject-matter. In all of them great stress has been laid on the development of good morals, specially those that intimately concern and affect the collective progress and prosperity of a community. Muslims have been exhorted to create an atmosphere and environment which should help to raise the standard and stature of the poor, depressed and suppressed section of their community and should enable them to take their proper share in its activities. The immediately preceding Chapter contained a hint about the supreme object for which Abraham and his son Ishmael had built the Ka‘bah. That supreme object is explained in 2:130. It is on the Prophet referred to in that verse (the Holy Prophet) and on his great moral qualities that some light is shed in the present Sūrah. Towards its close the Sūrah points out that moral greatness can be achieved by anyone who eschews evil and walks in the path of righteousness. It ends on the note that those, who choose to defy Divine laws and adopt evil ways, bring about their ruin with their own hands.

سُوْرَةُ الشَّمْسِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٩١ — رکوعها ١ — اٰياتها ١٦

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

وَالشَّمْسِ وَضُحٰىهَا ۙ ②

2. By[3354] the sun and its[3355] brightness,

وَالْقَمَرِ اِذَا تَلٰىهَا ۙ ③

3. And by the moon[3356] when it follows the sun,

وَالنَّهَارِ اِذَا جَلّٰىهَا ۙ ④

4. And by the day[3357] when it reveals the sun's glory,

وَالَّيْلِ اِذَا يَغْشٰىهَا ۙ ⑤

5. And by the night[3358] when it draws a veil over the light of the sun.

[a]1:1.

3354. The Quranic oaths have deep meaning underlying them. Divine laws reveal two aspects of the works of God viz. the obvious and the inferential. The former are easily comprehensible; in the comprehension of the latter there is room for error. In His oaths God has called attention to what may be inferred from what is obvious. In the oaths mentioned in verses, 2-7, the sun and the moon, the day and the night, the heavens and the earth belong to the "obvious"—their properties, referred to in these verses being universally known and acknowledged. But the same properties found in man's soul are not obvious. To lead to an inference of the existence of these properties in the human soul God has called to witness His obvious works. See also 2465.

3355. "The sun" in the verse may refer to the sun of the spiritual universe—the Holy Prophet—who is the source of all spiritual light and who will continue to enlighten the world till the end of time.

3356. "The moon" may also refer to the Holy Prophet, because he received light from God and transmitted it to the spiritually dark world. Or it may refer to those religious Divines and Reformers—particularly his Great Deputy, the Promised Messiah—who would borrow the light of truth from the Holy Prophet and transmit it to the world to remove the darkness of moral and spiritual turpitude.

3357. "The day" may signify the time during which the Message of Islām and the truth of its Founder were established and foundations were laid for their propagation in the world. The reference in the verse may particularly be to the time of the Holy Prophet's 'rightly-guided Caliphs' when the light of Islām shone in all its glory and splendour.

3358. "The night" may refer to the period of decline and decadence of وَالسَّمَآءِ وَمَا بَنٰىهَا ۝٦

6. And by the heaven[3359] and its wonderful structure,

وَالْاَرْضِ وَمَا طَحٰىهَا ۝٧

7. And by the earth and its expanse,

وَنَفْسٍ وَّمَا سَوّٰىهَا ۝٨

8. And by the soul and its perfection[3359A]—

فَاَلْهَمَهَا فُجُوْرَهَا وَتَقْوٰىهَا ۝٩

9. And He revealed to it the ways of evil and the ways of righteousness[3360]—

Muslims when the light of Islām had become veiled from the eyes of the world. These four verses (2-5) refer to four periods in the eventful career of Islām, viz. (1) the time of the Holy Prophet himself when the Spiritual Sun (the Holy Prophet) was shining in full splendour in the spiritual heaven; (2) the time of his Great Deputy the Promised Messiah when the light derived from the Holy Prophet was being reflected onto a dark world; (3) the time of the Holy Prophet's immediate Successors when the light of Islām was still shining and, (4) the period when spiritual darkness had spread over the world after the first three centuries of Islām which was its most glorious period.

3359. The particle mā in this and the next two verses is either Maṣdariyyah, or it signifies Alladhī, i.e. 'he who.' Thus in these verses attention is focused on the great Designer and Architect of the universe, or on its perfection and complete freedom from every flaw and defect.

3359A. The verse means that all the properties which the great heavenly bodies such as the sun and the moon, etc. devote to the service of God's creatures and to which an implied reference has been made in verse 10, bear witness to man having been endowed with similar qualities in a high degree. In fact, man is a universe in miniature and in him is represented, on a small scale, all that exists in the external universe. Like the sun he sheds his lustre over the world and enlightens it with the light of wisdom and knowledge. Like the moon he transmits to those who are in the dark the light of vision, inspiration and revelation which he borrows from the Great Original Source. He is bright like the day and shows the ways of truth and virtue. Like the night he draws the veil over the faults and misdeeds of others, lightens their burdens and gives rest to the tired and the weary. Like the heavens he takes every distressed soul under his shelter and revives the lifeless earth with salubrious rain. Like the earth he submits in all humility and lowliness to be trampled under the feet by others as a trial for them, and from his purified soul various sorts of trees of knowledge and truth grow up in abundance, and with their shade, flowers and fruits he regales the world. Such are the great Divines and heavenly Reformers, of whom the greatest and the most perfect was the Holy Prophet Muḥammad (may eternal Divine blessings be upon him).

3360. God has implanted in man's nature a feeling or sense of what is good قَدْ اَفْلَحَ مَنْ زَكّٰىهَا ﴿۱۰﴾

10. He, indeed, prospers who purifies it,

وَقَدْ خَابَ مَنْ دَسّٰىهَا ﴿۱۱﴾

11. And he is ruined who corrupts it.

كَذَّبَتْ ثَمُوْدُ بِطَغْوٰىهَآ ﴿۱۲﴾

12. The tribe of Thamūd rejected the Divine Messenger because of their rebelliousness, اِذِ انْۢبَعَثَ اَشْقٰىهَا ﴿۱۳﴾

13. When the most wretched among them got up.

فَقَالَ لَهُمْ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ نَاقَةَ اللّٰهِ وَسُقْيٰهَا ﴿۱۴﴾

14. Then the Messenger of Allāh said, 'Leave alone the she-camel of Allāh[3361] and obstruct not her drink.'

فَكَذَّبُوْهُ فَعَقَرُوْهَا ۖ فَدَمْدَمَ عَلَيْهِمْ رَبُّهُمْ بِذَنْۢبِهِمْ فَسَوّٰىهَا ﴿۱۵﴾

15. But they called him a liar and hamstrung her, so their Lord destroyed them completely because of their sin, and made destruction overtake all of them alike.

وَلَا يَخَافُ عُقْبٰهَا ﴿۱۶﴾ ع ۱۶

16. And He cared not for the consequences[3361A] thereof.

and bad and has revealed to him that he could achieve spiritual perfection by eschewing what is bad and wrong and adopting what is right and good.

3361. The Prophet Ṣāliḥ rode on his she-camel from place to place to preach the Divine Message. Putting obstacles in the way of the camel's free movements was tantamount to placing impediments in the way of Ṣāliḥ himself and preventing him from discharging the sacred duty entrusted to him by God. In a sense Ṣāliḥ, like every Divine Reformer, was God's she-camel.

3361A. When a people incur Divine punishment and are destroyed, God does not care for those who survive the destruction or the meaning is that God does not care to what utterly miserable state they are reduced.

CHAPTER 92

AL-LAIL

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

Prominent Muslim scholars like Ibn-e-'Abbās and Ibn-e-Zubair hold the view that the Sūrah was revealed very early at Mecca. William Muir agrees with their opinion. The Sūrah possesses very close resemblance with some previous Chapters, especially with Al-Fajr and Al-Balad. In the immediately preceding Sūrah, Ash-Shams, it was hinted that the supreme object of the building of the Ka'bah, which was the principal theme of Sūrah Al-Balad, could not have been achieved without a great Divine Messenger—the Spirit par excellence. In the present Sūrah, however, it is stated that when an ideal Teacher like the Holy Prophet is blessed with ideal disciples like his Companions, progress of the cause of Truth becomes doubly accelerated. It also mentions some of the prominent moral qualities that marked the Companions of the Holy Prophet. In contrast, two glaring bad qualities that lead to the undoing of a people are also mentioned.

سُوْرَةُ الَّيْلِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٩٢ — اٰياتها ٢٢ — رکوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

وَالَّيْلِ اِذَا يَغْشٰى ②

2. [b]By the night[3362] when it covers up;

وَالنَّهَارِ اِذَا تَجَلّٰى ③

3. [c]And by the day when it shines forth,[3363]

وَمَا خَلَقَ الذَّكَرَ وَالْاُنْثٰى ④

4. [d]And by the creation of the male and the female,[3363A]

اِنَّ سَعْيَكُمْ لَشَتّٰى ⑤

5. Surely, your strivings are diverse.[3364]

[a]1:1. [b]91:5. [c]91:4. [d]36:37; 51:50; 78:9.

3362. In the preceding Sūrah the principal subject of discussion was Ash-Shams, i.e. the Holy Prophet, who is the source and spring of all light. This is why mention of the sun and the day precedes that of the moon and the night. But in the present Sūrah a contrast is instituted between believers and disbelievers, and as the latter are generally larger in number and wield greater power and influence, mention of the night which represents disbelievers precedes that of the day which represents believers.

3363. By the substitution of the word Tajallā (shines forth) in this verse for Jallā (reveals its glory) in the corresponding verse in the preceding Sūrah, it is hinted that whereas in the preceding Sūrah the emphasis was on the high spiritual stature of the Teacher, in the present Sūrah it is on the great ability of the pupils to learn and assimilate the Divine Teaching.

3363A. Procreation of man depends upon the coming together of two individuals of opposite sexes. The characteristic quality of the one (the male) is to give and of the other (the female) is to receive. Like the physical world, there are in the spiritual world males—God's great Prophets and Divine Reformers who teach and guide; and spiritual females—their followers, who receive and benefit by the Divine Teaching. The verse embodies a hint that by the coming together of the perfect Teacher—the Holy Prophet—and the ideal pupils—his Companions—a new world is about to be born.

3364. The verse draws attention to the widely divergent goals of believers and disbelievers, and also to the disparity in the endeavours they make to achieve their respective goals. Whereas the efforts of believers are devoted to the dissemination of Truth, those of disbelievers are directed towards opposing it and putting obstacles and impediments in its way. The results of the two efforts must inevitably be different.

فَاَمَّا مَنۡ اَعۡطٰی وَاتَّقٰی ۙ﴿۶﴾

6. Then as for him who gives for the cause of Allāh and is righteous, وَصَدَّقَ بِالۡحُسۡنٰی ۙ﴿۷﴾

7. And testifies to the truth of what is right,[3365]

فَسَنُیَسِّرُہٗ لِلۡیُسۡرٰی ؕ﴿۸﴾

8. [a]We will provide for him every facility[3366] for good.

وَاَمَّا مَنۡۢ بَخِلَ وَاسۡتَغۡنٰی ۙ﴿۹﴾

9. But as for him who is niggardly and is disdainfully indifferent,

وَکَذَّبَ بِالۡحُسۡنٰی ۙ﴿۱۰﴾

10. And rejects what is right,[3367]

فَسَنُیَسِّرُہٗ لِلۡعُسۡرٰی ؕ﴿۱۱﴾

11. We will make easy for him the path to distress.[3368]

وَمَا یُغۡنِیۡ عَنۡہُ مَالُہٗۤ اِذَا تَرَدّٰی ؕ﴿۱۲﴾

12. [b]And his wealth shall not avail him when he perishes.

اِنَّ عَلَیۡنَا لَلۡہُدٰی ۖ﴿۱۳﴾

13. [c]Surely, it is for Us to guide;

وَ اِنَّ لَنَا لَلۡاٰخِرَۃَ وَ الۡاُوۡلٰی ﴿۱۴﴾

14. And to Us belongs the Hereafter as well as the present world.[3369]

[a]87:9. [b]3:11; 58:18; 111:3. [c]2:273; 28:57.

3365. This and the preceding verse mention three characteristics of those persons who are successful in life. Briefly, these are right action, right feeling and right thinking and these characteristics the believers possess in ample measure.

3366. He, who possesses the three characteristic qualities mentioned in the preceding two verses, will find that his actions are productive of the desired good results. Or, the verse may mean that the doing of good deeds becomes easy for such a person and he also enjoys doing them.

3367. In contrast to the three good qualities mentioned in the preceding two verses (6, 7), three bad qualities that cause the moral undoing of a man are mentioned in these two verses (9, 10).

3368. The actions of the person referred to in the preceding verse miss their mark and produce results contrary to what he expects or desires. Or, the verse may mean that the doing of good deeds becomes difficult for such a person.

3369. The wicked disbeliever faces failure in this life and will suffer punishment in the Hereafter because both the worlds are under God's control.

فَاَنْذَرْتُكُمْ نَارًا تَلَظّٰى ﴿١٥﴾

15. So I warn you of a blazing Fire.

لَا يَصْلٰىهَآ اِلَّا الْاَشْقَى ﴿١٦﴾

16. [a]None shall enter it but the most wicked one,

الَّذِىْ كَذَّبَ وَتَوَلّٰى ﴿١٧﴾

17. [b]Who rejects the Truth and turns his back on it.[3370]

وَسَيُجَنَّبُهَا الْاَتْقَى ﴿١٨﴾

18. But the righteous one shall be kept away from it,

الَّذِىْ يُؤْتِىْ مَالَهٗ يَتَزَكّٰى ﴿١٩﴾

19. Who gives his wealth that he may be purified,

وَمَا لِاَحَدٍ عِنْدَهٗ مِنْ نِّعْمَةٍ تُجْزٰٓى ﴿٢٠﴾

20. And not because he owes a favour to anyone, which is to be repaid,

اِلَّا ابْتِغَآءَ وَجْهِ رَبِّهِ الْاَعْلٰى ﴿٢١﴾

21. But solely to seek the pleasure of his Lord, the Most High.[3371]

وَلَسَوْفَ يَرْضٰى ﴿٢١﴾ ع ١٧

22. Surely, will He be well-pleased with him.

[a]20:75; 87:12, 13. [b]20:49.

The verse may also mean, 'to Us belongs the end and the beginning of all things.'

3370. The word, Kadhdhaba, signifies that the sinful disbeliever holds wrong beliefs, and Tawallā implies that he does not do right actions.

3371. The righteous believer does good to others, not in return for any good received from them but only actuated by a desire to be of use to God's creatures and to win the pleasure of his Heavenly Lord and Master.

CHAPTER 93

AḌ-ḌUḤĀ

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

After the first two or three Chapters had been revealed, Revelation ceased to come to the Holy Prophet for some time. The present Sūrah is among those Chapters which were revealed soon after Revelation had started coming again. Thus it should be deemed to have been revealed very early at Mecca. Noldeke places it after Sūrah Al-Balad, and Muir puts it near Sūrah Al-Inshirāh in chronological order. The Sūrah embodies a great prophecy that every morrow of the Holy Prophet will be better than his yesterday and this process will continue till his cause will meet with complete success. The prophecy was remarkably fulfilled by the mounting triumphs of the Holy Prophet. In subject-matter the Sūrah much resembles some of the previous ones. Like them it lays stress on the evils to which the Meccans were specially addicted, with this difference that whereas in this Sūrah the Holy Prophet and his followers have been enjoined to make proper use of their money, in the preceding Sūrah a contrast was instituted between the believers' and the disbelievers' treatment of the orphans and the needy. Moreover, in the preceding Sūrah it was briefly stated that the righteous believer spends his wealth in the way of God; in this Sūrah mention is made of the blessings which God bestows upon His chosen servants with particular reference to the Holy Prophet. Thus the Sūrah serves as a sequel to the one preceding it.

سُوْرَةُ الضُّحٰى مَكِّيَّةٌ ٩٣ — اٰياتها ١٢ — ركوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

وَالضُّحٰى ۙ ②

2. By the brightness of the forenoon,[3372]

وَالَّيْلِ اِذَا سَجٰى ۙ ③

3. [b]And by the night when its darkness spreads out,[3373]

مَا وَدَّعَكَ رَبُّكَ وَمَا قَلٰى ؕ ④

4. Thy Lord has not forsaken thee, nor is He displeased with thee.[3374]

وَلَلْاٰخِرَةُ خَيْرٌ لَّكَ مِنَ الْاُوْلٰى ؕ ⑤

5. Surely, thy latter state is better for thee than the former,[3375]

وَلَسَوْفَ يُعْطِيْكَ رَبُّكَ فَتَرْضٰى ؕ ⑥

6. And thy Lord will soon give thee, and thou wilt be well-pleased.

اَلَمْ يَجِدْكَ يَتِيْمًا فَاٰوٰى ۖ ⑦

7. Did He not find thee an orphan and take thee under His care,[3376]

[a]1:1. [b]81:18.

3372. 'The brightness of the forenoon' may signify the rise and progress of Islām. It may also refer to the particular "forenoon" when the Holy Prophet entered Mecca at the head of an army of ten thousand holy warriors and the Ka'bah was cleared of idols.

3373. 'The Night' may signify the prolonged period of the decline of Islām. It may also refer to that particular night when after the fall of darkness the Holy Prophet went out of his house and took refuge in Cave Thaur along with Abū Bakr. In fact, the night, when the Holy Prophet left Mecca and the day, when it fell, give in a nutshell the various ups and downs of the Holy Prophet's whole career.

3374. Every day and night of the Holy Prophet, his great successes and temporary setbacks, his joys and tribulations, his devotions at night and activities in the day, all bear out that God was with him.

3375. Every moment of the Holy Prophet's life was better than the one preceding it.

3376. The Holy Prophet was an orphan in fact as well as figuratively. His وَوَجَدَكَ ضَآلًّا فَهَدٰى ۝٨

8. And found thee lost in love for thy people[3377] and provided thee with guidance for them,

وَوَجَدَكَ عَآئِلًا فَاَغْنٰى ۝٩

9. And found thee in want and enriched thee?[3378]

فَاَمَّا الْيَتِيْمَ فَلَا تَقْهَرْ ۝١٠

10. So the orphan, oppress not,

وَاَمَّا السَّآئِلَ فَلَا تَنْهَرْ ۝١١

11. And him, who seeks thy help, chide not, orphanhood was of the extreme kind. His father died before he was born and his mother died when he was hardly six years old and his grandfather 'Abdul-Muṭṭalib, who took charge of him after his mother's death, died two years later, leaving him under the care of his uncle, a man of scanty means. Thus the Prophet was deprived of parental care and love in his early childhood. Yet he received love and affection from his juniors and seniors, his Companions and compatriots, from his followers in the later centuries, in such a large measure that no woman-born had ever received the like of it before, or is likely to receive it in future.

3377. Ḍalla (lost in love) means, he was perplexed and was unable to see the course; he was entirely engrossed or lost in love or wandered in search of a thing and persevered in the search (Lane). In view of the different meanings of Ḍalla, the verse may be interpreted as: (1) The Holy Prophet wandered in search of the ways and means to attain to God, and God revealed to him the Law which guided him to the desired goal. (2) He was perplexed and did not know how to find the path that led to the attainment of his quest and God guided him to it. (3) He was entirely lost in the love of his people and God provided him with perfect guidance for them. (4) He was hidden from the eyes of the world and God discovered him and chose him for the task of leading men to Him. Thus the word Ḍalla has not been used in disapprobation but in praise of the Holy Prophet. In the sense of 'gone astray' the word does not and cannot apply to the Holy Prophet, since according to another Quranic verse (53:3) he was immune to error or going astray. Moreover, the six concluding verses of the Sūrah reveal a certain sequence—vv. 7, 8 and 9 stand in close relationship with and correspond to vv. 10, 11 and 12 respectively. Ḍalla of verse 8 being substituted by Sā'il of verse 11, explains the significance of the former word which is, "one who sought God's help to be guided to Him, or to be provided with guidance." The verse may also mean: 'God found thee lost in search of Him and guided thee unto Himself.'

3378. The Holy Prophet started his life as a poor orphan and ended it by being the undisputed master of the whole of Arabia.

وَاَمَّا بِنِعْمَةِ رَبِّكَ فَحَدِّثْ ﴿١١﴾ ع ١٨

12. And the bounty of thy Lord, proclaim.[3379]

3379. Verses 7, 8 and 9, speak of God's favours on the Holy Prophet and in vv. 10, 11 and 12 he is enjoined to show his gratitude by doing similar favours to his fellow-beings. The commandment applies equally to his followers.

CHAPTER 94
AL-INSHIRĀḤ
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

Since the Sūrah is closely connected with the one preceding it so as to form an extension of its subject-matter, it was obviously revealed at Mecca, most probably in the second or third year of the Call. While the preceding Sūrah spoke of the increasing prosperity of the Holy Prophet's cause, the present Sūrah alludes to some distinguishing features and marks which constitute a sure guarantee of the ultimate triumph of one's mission and for that matter of the mission of every preacher of Truth: (a) First of all, he should be firmly convinced of the truth of his claim and should possess necessary means for propagating it; (b) he should be able to attract people's attention, and (c) the Divine decree should be working in his favour. In this Sūrah the Holy Prophet is described as being in possession of all these means in full measure. His cause is, therefore, bound to prevail.

سُوْرَةُ الْاِنْشِرَاحِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٩٤

ایاتها ٩ — رکوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

اَلَمْ نَشْرَحْ لَكَ صَدْرَكَ ②

2. Have We not opened for thee thy bosom,

وَوَضَعْنَا عَنْكَ وِزْرَكَ ③

3. And removed from thee thy burden,

الَّذِيْٓ اَنْقَضَ ظَهْرَكَ ④

4. Which had well-nigh broken thy back?[3380]

وَرَفَعْنَا لَكَ ذِكْرَكَ ⑤

5. And We have exalted thy name.[3381]

فَاِنَّ مَعَ الْعُسْرِ يُسْرًا ⑥

6. Surely, there is ease after hardship.[3382]

اِنَّ مَعَ الْعُسْرِ يُسْرًا ⑦

7. Aye, surely, there is ease after hardship.

[a]1:1.

3380. The Holy Prophet had been saddled with such nerve-racking and backbreaking task as had never been entrusted to any human being, i.e. first to raise a degenerate people from the depths of moral turpitude to the pinnacle of spiritual excellence and, then through them to cleanse and purify the whole of mankind of the dross of iniquity, ignorance and superstition. This was indeed, a very heavy responsibility which had almost crushed him under its weight, but God lightened his burden.

3381. The Sūrah was revealed in the second or third year of the Call, at a time when the Holy Prophet was hardly known outside his immediate neighbourhood, but very soon he rose to be the best known and most loved, respected and successful of all religious Teachers. No leader, religious or temporal, has so much commanded the love and respect of his followers as has the Holy Prophet.

3382. The expression, 'Surely, there is ease after hardship,' has been repeated twice. This signifies that Islām will have to pass through very hard times, but on two occasions it will have to face a challenge to its very existence—first in the first few years of its life and then in the Latter Days—and on both these occasions it will emerge from the ordeal with renewed strength. These verses also indicate that the hardships with which the Holy Prophet and Muslims are faced are temporary, but their successes will be permanent and ever-expanding.

8. So when thou art free from thy immediate task, strive hard,

فَإِذَا فَرَغْتَ فَانْصَبْ ۝٨

9. [a]And to thy Lord do thou turn with full attention.[3382A]

وَإِلَىٰ رَبِّكَ فَارْغَبْ ۝٩ ع ١٩

[a]73:9; 110:4.

3382A. The Holy Prophet is comforted with the assurance that endless vistas of spiritual progress lie before him and that after he has conquered the difficulties that bar his way he should not rest contented with the success achieved, but having scaled one peak he should strive to climb the next, and his attention should be wholly directed towards regenerating a fallen humanity and towards establishing God's Kingdom on earth. The verse may also signify that when the Holy Prophet has finished his day's work of teaching and training his followers and disposing of other temporal affairs he should turn to God with all his heart, for his spiritual journey knows no end.

CHAPTER 95
AT-TĪN
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah was revealed very early at Mecca. This is the view of Ibn-e-'Abbās and Ibn-e-Zubair. Noldeke places it after Chapter 85. In the preceding Sūrah arguments based on reason and commonsense were given in support of the claim that the Holy Prophet will have a glorious future as he possesses all those qualities which are necessary for making a success of one's mission. In the present Sūrah examples of some Divine Messengers have been cited to show that as the Holy Prophet's own circumstances resembled their circumstances, so, like them, he, too, will achieve success. In Chapters 89-94 the Holy Prophet's Emigration to Medina and his subsequent success were hinted at in one form or another—in some by implication, in others by oblique reference and in yet others in clear words. In the Sūrah under comment, it is implied that like the Holy Prophet the former Prophets also had to leave their homes for the sake of their missions.

سُوْرَةُ التِّيْنِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٩٥ — اٰياتها ٩ — ركوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

وَالتِّيْنِ وَالزَّيْتُوْنِ ②

2. By[3383] the Fig and the Olive,

وَطُوْرِ سِيْنِيْنَ ③

3. And [b]Mount Sinai,[3383A]

[a]1:1. [b]52:2.

3383. "The Fig," "the Olive," "Mount Sinai" and "this Town of Security" have been invoked as witnesses to support and substantiate the claim made in the Sūrah that the Holy Prophet shall succeed in his mission. "The Fig" and "the Olive" are symbolic of Jesus; "Mount Sinai" of Moses; and "this Town of Security" of the Holy Prophet. These three verses together point to the well-known biblical reference, 'The Lord came from Sinai, and rose up from Seir with them; and He shined forth from Mount Paran' (Deut. 33:2). According to some Commentators, however, "the Fig" stands for Buddhism, "the Olive" for Christianity, "Mount Sinai" for Judaism and "the City of Security" for the Holy Prophet of Islām. But perhaps the best explanation of the symbolism used in these verses is the one according to which the four words represent four periods in the history of human moral evolution, "the Fig" representing the era of Adam, "the Olive" that of Noah, "Mount Sinai" that of Moses and "this Town of Security" symbolising the Islamic epoch. This explanation finds ample support from the Bible and the Qur'ān. When Adam and Eve ate of the forbidden fruit and found themselves naked, they sewed fig leaves together, and made themselves aprons (Gen. 3:7). About Noah we read: 'And the dove came unto him in the evening; and lo! in her mouth was an olive leaf plucked off; so Noah knew that the waters were abated from off the earth' (Gen. 8:11). And it is an accepted fact that Moses received the Divine Law on Mount Sinai and that Mecca, the birth place of Islām was, from time immemorial, regarded as, and proved to be, "the Town of Security." These four periods represent the four cycles through which man has passed to reach the stage of his complete development. In the cycle of Adam the foundations of human civilization were laid. Noah was the founder of the Sharī'ah. In the cycle of Moses the details of the Sharī'ah were revealed, while with the advent of the Holy Prophet the Divine Law became complete and perfect in all its manifold aspects, and man attained his complete intellectual, social, moral and spiritual development. "The Fig" may also be symbolic of Mosaic Dispensation and "the Olive" of the Islamic Dispensation. This simile has been further expressed in a more concrete form by the words "Mount Sinai" and "This City of Security."

3383A. The word sīnīn being in the plural shows that there are several mountains of this name in that region. On one of them God manifested Himself to Moses.

وَهٰذَا الْبَلَدِ الْاَمِيْنِ ۙ﴿۴﴾

4. And this [a]Town of Security,

لَقَدْ خَلَقْنَا الْاِنْسَانَ فِيْٓ اَحْسَنِ تَقْوِيْمٍ ۖ﴿۵﴾

5. Surely, We have created man in [b]the best make;

ثُمَّ رَدَدْنٰهُ اَسْفَلَ سٰفِلِيْنَ ۙ﴿۶﴾

6. Then, if he does evil deeds, We degrade him as the lowest of the low,[3384]

اِلَّا الَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوْا وَعَمِلُوا الصّٰلِحٰتِ فَلَهُمْ اَجْرٌ غَيْرُ مَمْنُوْنٍ ؕ﴿۷﴾

7. [c]Save those who believe and do good works; so for them is an unfailing reward.

فَمَا يُكَذِّبُكَ بَعْدُ بِالدِّيْنِ ؕ﴿۸﴾

8. Then what is there to give the lie to thee after this, with regard to the judgment?[3385]

اَلَيْسَ اللّٰهُ بِاَحْكَمِ الْحٰكِمِيْنَ ﴿۹﴾ ع

9. Is not Allāh the Most Just of judges?

[a]90:2. [b]23:12-15. [c]11:12; 41:9; 84:26.

3384. Man is born with a pure and unsullied nature, with a natural tendency to do good, but he has also been given a large measure of freedom of will and action to mould himself as he chooses. He has been endowed with great natural powers and creative qualities to make unlimited moral progress and to rise spiritually so high as to become the mirror in which Divine attributes are reflected. But if he misuses God-given powers and attributes, he sinks lower than even beasts and brutes and becomes Devil incarnate as the next verse shows. Briefly, he is blessed with great potentialities for doing good and evil.

3385. When man has been created to achieve a very high spiritual destiny and God had sent His Messengers such as Adam, Noah, Moses and the Holy Prophet, to help him achieve his great goal, and if he does not make proper use of his natural faculties and rejects the Divine Message and opposes God's Messengers, he is punished, then, who can, with reason, deny that there is a Day of Judgment in this life and also in the Hereafter and that the commandments of God Who is the Best Judge cannot be defied with impunity and man's actions will not go unrequited?

CHAPTER 96

AL-'ALAQ

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The first five verses of the Sūrah are universally admitted to be the first revelation which descended upon the Holy Prophet in Cave Ḥirā' in a night in the month of Ramaḍān, 13 years before Hijrah. This date corresponds to 610 A.D. On that "Night of Destiny" when the Holy Prophet lay on the floor of the Cave, his mind locked in deep contemplation, these verses were revealed and the words became branded on his soul. 'These verses are the first act of mercy with which God blessed His servants' (Kathīr). The connection of this Sūrah, with the one preceding it, consists in the fact that in that Sūrah it was stated that from time immemorial God had been sending His Messengers and Prophets to whom He revealed His Will. First came Adam who was followed by Noah, and after a succession of Prophets appeared Moses, the greatest of the Israelite Prophets, and last of all came the Holy Prophet. In this Sūrah it is stated that just as the birth of man is the result of a gradual process of development, so is his spiritual evolution. The Prophets whose examples were cited in the preceding Sūrah attained to different stages of spiritual development, but the Holy Prophet represents in his person the best specimen of man's complete spiritual evolution.

سُوْرَةُ الْعَلَقِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٩٦ — اٰياتها ٢٠ — ركوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

اِقْرَاْ بِاسْمِ رَبِّكَ الَّذِىْ خَلَقَ ②

2. Proclaim[3386] thou in the name of thy Lord Who created.

خَلَقَ الْاِنْسَانَ مِنْ عَلَقٍ ③

3. Created man[3387] from a [b]clot of blood.

اِقْرَاْ وَرَبُّكَ الْاَكْرَمُ ④

4. Proclaim! And thy Lord is the Most Bounteous;[3388]

الَّذِىْ عَلَّمَ بِالْقَلَمِ ⑤

5. Who taught by the pen,[3389]

[a]1:1. [b]23:15; 40:68; 75:39.

3386. The word Iqra' meaning read, recite, convey, proclaim or collect, the verse signifies that the Qur'ān was meant to be read and proclaimed, to be collected and put together and then conveyed to the whole world. The mention of the Divine attribute Rabb, (Nourisher, Sustainer and Developer, Who sustains man through all the stages of his development), shows that man's moral development was to be gradual till it was to find full consummation in the Holy Prophet.

3387. The verse signifies that love of God is ingrained in the nature of man, and that it was natural that there should have been someone in whom this instinctive impulse should have found its complete manifestation. He was the Holy Prophet who loved his Creator with all his mind, heart and soul, Insān in the verse besides the meaning given in the text signifies the perfect man—the Holy Prophet.

3388. The more the Qur'ān is read and proclaimed to the world, the more the holiness of God and the dignity of man are recognised and appreciated.

3389. This verse seems to embody a prophecy that "pen" would play a very important part in committing the Qur'ān to writing and in preserving and protecting it from being lost or interfered with. It further refers to the great contribution which "pen" was to make towards the propagation and dissemination of the spiritual sciences and Divine secrets revealed by the Qur'ān and of the physical sciences to which the study of the Qur'ān was to impart a great stimulus. It is really very significant that frequent mention should have been made of "pen" in a Book which was revealed among a people who had no respect for, and had made rare use of, it and which was revealed to a person who himself did not know how to read and write.

3390. The reference is to every Muslim, who prays, particularly to the Holy Prophet.

3391. The verses (10-18) though generally applying to every haughty and hardened disbeliever, have been taken by some Commentators to refer particularly to Abū Jahl, leader of the Quraish of Mecca. He was in the forefront to annoy, oppose and persecute the Holy Prophet and the Muslims. Some of the slaves, who had embraced Islām, at his instance were dragged by the forelock in the streets of Mecca. After the defeat at Badr, the dead bodies of some of the leaders of the Quraish, Abū Jahl among them, were dragged by their forelocks and thrown into a pit dug for that purpose. That was a fit punishment for the treatment they had meted out to the helpless Muslims years before at Mecca.

3392. Zabāniyah means, armed officers or the prefect of police; angels or guards of Hell; angels of punishment (Lane).

CHAPTER 97
AL-QADR
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

Some Commentators of the Qur'ān think that this Sūrah was revealed at Medina. This, however, is a mistaken view, being against all historical data. It is definitely a Meccan Sūrah and belongs to the very early years of the Call. Such eminent and respected authorities as Ibn-e-'Abbās, Ibn-e-Zubair and 'Ā'ishah subscribe to this view. Noldeke places it after Chapter 93, which was one of the earliest Chapters to have been revealed at Mecca. The preceding Sūrah had opened with the Divine command to the Holy Prophet to recite the Qur'ān and preach and proclaim its Message to the world. The present Sūrah deals with the high status, dignity and excellence of the Qur'ān itself which is declared in the opening verse to have been revealed in Lailatul-Qadr, i.e. the Night of Decree (or Dignity). This Night of Decree or Destiny has been described elsewhere in the Qur'ān, as the "Blessed Night" (44:4). The Sūrah has only five little verses, excluding the Bismillāh and yet its meaning and contents are of very deep spiritual significance.

سُوْرَةُ الْقَدْرِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ٩٧ — اٰياتها ٦ — رکوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

اِنَّآ اَنْزَلْنٰهُ فِيْ لَيْلَةِ الْقَدْرِ ②

2. Surely, We sent it down during the Night[3393] of Decree.[3394]

وَمَآ اَدْرٰىكَ مَا لَيْلَةُ الْقَدْرِ ③

3. And what shall make thee know what the Night of Decree is?[3395]

لَيْلَةُ الْقَدْرِ ۙ خَيْرٌ مِّنْ اَلْفِ شَهْرٍ ④

4. The Night of Decree is better than a thousand months.[3396]

[a]1:1.

3393. Generally Lail and Lailah both mean night, but according to the famous lexicographer, Marzūqī, Lail is used as opposed to Nahār and Lailah as opposed to Yaum. Lailah possesses a wider and more extensive meaning than Lail, as Yaum, which is its opposite, has a wider sense than Nahār which is the opposite of Lail. Lailah has been used as many as eight times in the Qur'ān (2:52; 2:188; 44:4; twice in 7:143 and three times in the verses under comment), and everywhere it has been used in connection with the revelation of the Qur'ān and other kindred subjects. The word thus refers to the dignity, majesty and greatness of those nights in which the Qur'ān was revealed.

3394. Qadr means worth; sufficiency; dignity; decree; destiny; power (Lane). In view of the different meanings of Qadr and Lailah the verse may be interpreted as follows: The Qur'ān has been revealed in a night which had been specifically set apart for the manifestation of special Divine powers; or in a night which is equal in worth to all the other nights put together, or in a night of dignity, majesty and honour; or, in a night of sufficiency, i.e. the Qur'ān fully meets all moral and spiritual human needs and requirements. Or, the meaning is that God has revealed it in the Night of Decree or Destiny, i.e. the Qur'ān was revealed at a time when man's destiny was decreed, the future pattern of the universe was settled, and the right principles of guidance for humanity were laid down for all time to come. The time of the appearance of a great Divine Reformer is also called Lailatul-Qadr because at that time sin and vice hold widespread sway and the powers of darkness reign supreme. It has also been taken to mean the particular night among the odd nights in the last ten days of Ramaḍān when the Qur'ān first began to be revealed. Or, it may signify the whole period of 23 years of the Holy Prophet's ministry when the Qur'ān gradually was being revealed.

3395. The blessings of the Night of Decree are beyond count or calculation.

3396. Alf (a thousand), being the highest number of count in Arabic,

تَنَزَّلُ الْمَلٰٓئِكَةُ وَالرُّوْحُ فِيْهَا بِاِذْنِ رَبِّهِمْ ۚ مِنْ كُلِّ اَمْرٍ ۝٥

5. Therein descend [a]angels and the Spirit[3397] by the command of their Lord with Divine decree [b]concerning every matter.

سَلٰمٌ ۛ هِيَ حَتّٰى مَطْلَعِ الْفَجْرِ ۝٦

6. It is all peace[3398] till the rising of the dawn.[3398A]

[a]16:3; 40:16. [b]44:5.

signifies a number beyond count, and the verse means that the Night of Decree or Destiny is better than countless number of months, i.e. the period of the Holy Prophet is infinitely better than and superior to all other periods put together. The verse embodies an allusion to the appearance of Divine Reformers among the Muslims when the latter would stand in need of them. One thousand months roughly make one century and the Holy Prophet is reported to have said that God will continue to raise from among his followers, at the head of every century, a Divine Reformer who would regenerate Islām and give it a new life and new vigour (Mājah).

3397. Ar-Rūḥ here signifies a new spirit, awakening, zeal or determination. In the Night of Decree the angels of God descend to help the Divine Messenger or Reformer to promote and further the cause of Truth and his followers are inspired with a new life, and a new awakening to spread and propagate the Divine Message.

3398. In the time of a Prophet or Divine Reformer a peculiar kind of mental peace descends upon the believers amidst hardships and privations. The heavenly happiness, which inspires them at that time, transcends all material and sensuous joys.

3398A. 'Rising of the dawn' signifies the passing of the night of hardships and the rising of the dawn of predominance and ascendancy of the cause of Truth.

CHAPTER 98
AL-BAYYINAH

(Revealed before Hijrah)[*]

Date of Revelation and Context

Scholars differ about the time of the revelation of this Sūrah. Ibn-e-Mardawaih reports ‘Ā’ishah as saying that it was revealed at Mecca, while according to Ibn-e-‘Abbās, it was revealed in the early Medinite period. After taking all relevant facts into consideration, the majority of scholars have adhered to the view attributed to ‘Ā’ishah. The preceding several Chapters had dealt with the important subject of revelation of the Qur’ān and its incomparable beauty and excellence. The present Sūrah deals with the change that the Qur’ān was intended to bring about. At the very outset it states that the people of the Book and the idolaters would have continued to grope in the dark and to lead a life of sin and iniquity if the Qur’ān had not been revealed. It is the Holy Prophet who brought them out of the darkness of doubt and disbelief and led them to the path of right beliefs and righteous conduct.

[*] As mentioned in the above introduction to this Sūrah scholars differ about the time of the revelation of the Sūrah. The editor gives preference to the views of those who believe that the Sūrah was revealed before Hijrah. However, according to the latest scholarship, based on very conclusive evidence, the Sūrah was revealed after Hijrah. This has been amply substantiated by the late Ḥaḍrat Mirza Bashiruddin Mahmood Ahmad, Second Successor of the Promised Messiah (May Allāh be pleased with him), in his Urdu Commentary of the Qur’ān. 5. And those to whom the Book was given [c]did not become divided until after clear evidence had come to them.

6. And they were not commanded but to serve Allāh, being sincere to Him in obedience, [d]and being upright, and to observe Prayer and pay the Zakāt. And that is the right religion.[3400A]

[a]1:1. [b]3:165; 62:3. [c]42:15; 45:18. [d]40:15.

3399. The Qur'ān has divided all disbelievers into two categories—the People of the Book and the idolaters (those who do not believe in any revealed Scripture).

3400. The Qur'ān is a compendium of all that is good, lasting and imperishable in the teachings of former revealed Scriptures, with a good deal more which those Scriptures lacked, but which man sorely needed for his moral and spiritual development. All those right ideals and principles and ordinances and commandments which were of permanent utility to man have been incorporated in it. The Qur'ān stands, as it were, as a guardian over those Books and has steered clear of all those defects and impurities which were found in them.

3400A. Dīn means, obedience; mastery; command; plan; righteousness; habit or custom; behaviour or conduct (Lane).

CHAPTER 99
AZ-ZILZĀL
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

There exists some difference of opinion about the time and place of the revelation of this Sūrah. Scholars like Mujāhid, ‘Aṭā’ and Ibn-e-‘Abbās are of the view that it was revealed at Mecca; some others think that it was revealed at Medina. The latter view is evidently not based on sound historical data. Whereas in the preceding Sūrah mention was made of the great moral revolution that was to be brought about by the Holy Prophet, in this Sūrah it is stated that a similar change will take place at a later date, in the time of the Great Deputy of the Holy Prophet, the Promised Messiah and Mahdī, when all human institutions will be shaken to their foundations, and new discoveries and inventions in the domain of science and knowledge will change the entire shape of things, and the ideals and ideas of men will acquire a new orientation.

3405. When asked about the meaning of the verse, the Holy Prophet is reported to have said that every action done in secret will come to light (Tirmidhī).

CHAPTER 100
AL-'ĀDIYĀT
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

Jābir, 'Ikrimah and Ibn-e-Mas'ūd, one of the earliest Companions of the Holy Prophet and a great authority on Quranic chronology, are of the view that the Sūrah was revealed very early at Mecca. It takes its place in point of time next to the preceding one. In some of the foregoing Chapters conditions obtaining both in the time of the Holy Prophet and in the Latter Days were simultaneously mentioned. Sūrah Az-Zilzāl had dealt with the great advances that were to be made in science and knowledge, especially in the science of geology, and also with the vast changes that were to take place in the political, social and economic spheres in the Latter Days. The present Sūrah deals with the zeal and enthusiasm of the Companions of the Holy Prophet and with the great sacrifices they made and the battles they fought against heavy odds in the way of God. Some mystics take the Sūrah to refer to the constant war that the righteous believers have to wage against their evil passions and propensities, and to the heavenly light they receive as a result of the successful outcome of that fight.

3410. How dear to God must be those fighters who wage relentless war against the forces of evil that He has sworn by them or even by their horses, the word ‘Ādiyāt meaning, both the companies of warriors and their chargers. The verse speaks volumes for the zeal and enthusiasm of the Companions of the Holy Prophet to fight and lay down their lives in the way of God. It says that they march on to the field of battle with extreme delight and zeal to score a victory or be killed in the way of Allāh; and also refers admiringly to the swiftness of the movement of their chargers and the suddenness of their assault. It was revealed at Mecca at a time when Muslims had no horses. In the Battle of Badr, there were only two horses with the Muslim army, one belonging to Miqdād and the other to Zubair. The verse, in fact, constituted a prophecy that soon the Muslims will possess horses. The three words, ‘Ādiyāt, Mūriyāt, Mughīrāt, have been differently interpreted by different scholars. According to Ibn-e-‘Abbās they refer to camels that run on the occasion of the Pilgrimage, but according to the author of Rūḥul-Ma‘ānī the reference is to the horses of the Muslim warriors. Some writers of mystical bent of mind, however, take them as a description of the spiritual wayfarers who run fast on their spiritual journey to meet their Lord and Master.

3411. The chargers of Muslim warriors run so fast that they produce sparks of fire when they strike their hoofs against the ground. The allusion is to the eagerness and zeal of the Muslim warriors to fight in the way of God.

3412. The brave Muslim warriors do not take undue advantage of the neglect and unawareness of the enemy by attacking them at night. They attack them in the full glare of the dawn. They are brave and clean fighters.

3413. The assault of the Muslim forces is so fierce and overwhelming that the whole horizon becomes dark with the dust raised by the quick steps of their horses.

3414. Muslim warriors do not attack individuals or weak helpless women, children and old men; they attack in a body the whole enemy force and penetrate far into the heart of their ranks.

3415. There seems to be no life left in the disbelievers. They are lying dead in their graves—their houses. But soon they will rise in opposition to Islām and will march many miles to attack the Holy Prophet in Medina.

3416. The evil designs of the enemies of Islām will come to light.

3417. God is Well-Aware of their evil designs and He will punish them for their evil deeds.

CHAPTER 101
AL-QĀRI‘AH
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah was revealed early at Mecca. All Commentators of the Qur’ān agree on this point. Noldeke and Muir, too, subscribe to this view. Like Sūrah Az-Zilzāl it primarily gives a brief but lucid description of the tremendous convulsions and catastrophic upheavals that would shake the foundations of the world in the Latter Days; the immediately preceding Sūrah having dealt with the great fight that the Companions of the Holy Prophet had put up against the forces of darkness. The Sūrah equally may apply to the Day of Judgment greater than which there could be no calamity for disbelievers.

سُوْرَةُ الْقَارِعَةِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ١٠١ — رکوعها ١ — ایاتها ١٢

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

اَلْقَارِعَةُ ②

2. The Great Calamity!

مَا الْقَارِعَةُ ③

3. What[3418] is the Great Calamity?

وَمَآ اَدْرٰىكَ مَا الْقَارِعَةُ ④

4. And what should make thee know what the Great Calamity[3419] is?

يَوْمَ يَكُوْنُ النَّاسُ كَالْفَرَاشِ الْمَبْثُوْثِ ⑤

5. The day when men will be like scattered moths,

وَتَكُوْنُ الْجِبَالُ كَالْعِهْنِ الْمَنْفُوْشِ ⑥

6. And the mountains will be like carded wool.[3420]

فَاَمَّا مَنْ ثَقُلَتْ مَوَازِيْنُهٗ ⑦

7. Then, as for him [b]whose scales are heavy,[3421]

[a]1:1. [b]7:9; 23:103.

3418. Whereas the particle al added to Qāri'ah has particularized the calamity and heightened its dreadfulness, the addition of the particle mā (what) makes it all the more severe and destructive.

3419. The calamity would be so catastrophic that it is impossible to conceive of its dreadfulness, much less to describe it in words. See also 69:2-5 where an identical expression to produce an analogous effect has been used. Qāri'ah, besides a great calamity, signifies punishment that comes suddenly.

3420. Because it is beyond human mind to conceive of the dreadfulness of that calamity, a few only of its horrible effects have been pointed out. This and the next verse give some idea of the confusion and distress it will cause. The terrific and cataclysmic happening will scatter the people like flakes of carded wool and they will find refuge nowhere.

3421. When used in relation to an individual, Mawāzīn means his works; but when used in relation to a nation it signifies, its material means and resources. According to the present-day terminology of war, 'tonnage' seems to be an appropriate rendering of the word. In the latter sense the verse would mean that a nation, whose material resources are great or whose tonnage of steamships or aeroplanes is heavy, will predominate over its adversaries, and

فَهُوَ فِيْ عِيْشَةٍ رَّاضِيَةٍ ۝٨

8. He will have a pleasant life.

وَاَمَّا مَنْ خَفَّتْ مَوَازِيْنُهٗ ۝٩

9. But as for him [a]whose scales are light,

فَاُمُّهٗ هَاوِيَةٌ ۝١٠

10. Hell will be a nursing mother[3422] to him.

وَمَآ اَدْرٰىكَ مَا هِيَهْ ۝١١

11. And what should make thee know what that is?

نَارٌ حَامِيَةٌ ۝١٢ ع ١٢

12. It is a blazing Fire.

[a]7:10; 23:104.

this fact will add to its prestige and power and consequently to its happiness.

3422. The connection of the sinful people with Hell will be like that of a baby with its mother. Just as the embryo goes through various stages of development in the womb till it is born in the form of a full-fledged human being, so will the guilty people pass through different stages of spiritual torture, till their souls are completely cleansed of the taint of sin and they receive a new birth. Thus, the punishment of Hell is intended to make the wicked repent of their sins and to reform themselves. According to Islamic concept Hell is a penitentiary.

CHAPTER 102
AT-TAKĀTHUR

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

By common consent it is one of the earliest Chapters which were revealed at Mecca. In the preceding Chapters mention was made of the punishment that was to overtake disbelievers in the Holy Prophet's own time and in the subsequent long career of Islām, including the age of his Second Advent. The present Sūrah deals with the factors which engender in man an inclination to, or a liking for, disbelief and which divert his attention away from God. It deals with a very common but very deadly spiritual malady viz. vying with one another in amassing worldly goods and taking pride in their abundance. The Holy Prophet is reported to have said that the Sūrah was equal in weight and worth a thousand verses (Baihaqī & Dailamī), thus stressing its great importance.

سُوْرَةُ التَّكَاثُرِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ١٠٢ — اٰياتها ٩ — رکوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

اَلْهٰىكُمُ التَّكَاثُرُ ②

2. Mutual rivalry in seeking increase in worldly possessions diverts you[3423] from God,

حَتّٰى زُرْتُمُ الْمَقَابِرَ ③

3. Till you reach the graves.

كَلَّا سَوْفَ تَعْلَمُوْنَ ④

4. Nay! you will soon come to know the Truth.

ثُمَّ كَلَّا سَوْفَ تَعْلَمُوْنَ ⑤

5. Nay again! you will soon come to know.[3424]

كَلَّا لَوْ تَعْلَمُوْنَ عِلْمَ الْيَقِيْنِ ⑥

6. Nay! if you only knew with certain knowledge;

لَتَرَوُنَّ الْجَحِيْمَ ⑦

7. You will, surely, see Hell[3425] in this very life.

ثُمَّ لَتَرَوُنَّهَا عَيْنَ الْيَقِيْنِ ⑧

8. Aye, you will, surely, see it with the eye of certainty

[a]1:1.

3423. Acquisitiveness and man's inordinate desire to outstrip others in wealth, position and prestige lie at the root of all human troubles and of the neglect of higher values of life. It is man's great misfortune that his passion for acquiring worldly things knows no limit and leaves him no time to think of God or the Hereafter. He remains entirely engrossed in these things till death comes upon him, and then he finds that he had wasted his precious life in idle pursuits.

3424. Repetition of the verse is intended to add emphasis to and render more effective the warning contained in the Sūrah. Or, the Sūrah may refer to the nemesis that will come in the wake of blind engrossment by man in the acquisition of worldly things in this life.

3425. Had man used common sense and what little amount of knowledge he possesses, then, surely, he would have seen a veritable Hell yawning before his eyes in this very life, i.e. he would have realized that his engrossment in the pursuit of pomp, circumstance and the material advantages of this temporary existence causes his total moral ruin.

Hereafter.[3426]

ثُمَّ لَتُسْـَٔلُنَّ يَوْمَئِذٍ عَنِ النَّعِيمِ ۝٩ ع ١٦/٢٧

9. Then, on that day you shall be called to account for the favours bestowed upon you.

3426. Verses 5-8 leave no doubt as to the commencement of a hellish life in this very world. The Hell of next life is prepared in this life, hidden from the human eye, but can be recognised with the knowledge of certainty by those who reflect upon it. These verses describe three stages of certainty of human knowledge with regard to Hell, viz. 'Ilmul-Yaqīn or certainty by inference; 'Ainul-Yaqīn or certainty by sight and Ḥaqqul-Yaqīn or certainty by realization. The certainty of knowledge can be had in this very life by inference by those who reflect upon the nature of evil, but after death man will see Hell with his own eyes, while on the Day of Resurrection he shall have a full realization of the truth of certainty by actually entering into Hell.

CHAPTER 103

AL-'AṢR

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

By general agreement the Sūrah was revealed in the early years of the Call. Western writers, besides Muslim Commentators of the Qur'ān, assign it to that period. The preceding Sūrah had dealt with man's strong passion for amassing wealth and worldly goods, and with its evil consequences. In the present Sūrah we are told that a purposeless life, having no good ideals to pursue goes waste; and that material progress and prosperity cannot save a people if they do not possess faith and do not lead clean and pure lives. This is the unfailing testimony of Time. Drunk with their great material resources and power, prestige and prosperity, disbelievers, especially the Western Christian nations, labour under the misconception that these things will never see decline or diminution. On the other hand, Muslims seem to have despaired of their future. The Sūrah relates particularly to the present time. It may, however, be taken to relate also to the Holy Prophet's own time, since by Al-'Aṣr is meant his time also.

سُوْرَةُ الْعَصْرِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ١٠٣ — اٰياتها ٤ — رکوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

وَالْعَصْرِ ②

2. By the Time,[3427]

اِنَّ الْاِنْسَانَ لَفِيْ خُسْرٍ ③

3. Surely, man[3428] is ever in a state of [b]loss,[3429]

اِلَّا الَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوْا وَعَمِلُوا الصّٰلِحٰتِ وَتَوَاصَوْا بِالْحَقِّ ۙ وَتَوَاصَوْا بِالصَّبْرِ ④ ع

4. Except those who believe and do righteous deeds, and [c]exhort one another to preach Truth, and exhort[3430] one another to be steadfast.

[a]1:1. [b]10:46. [c]90:18.

3427. 'Aṣr means, time; history; succession of ages; the afternoon; or the evening. Al-'Aṣrān means, the night and the day; the morning and the evening (Lane).

3428. Al-Insān, (man) here signifies man as mentioned in 17:12; 18:55; 36:78; and 70:20, viz. the hasty, the contentious man, or the man who opposes Divine Messengers.

3429. It is History's infallible testimony that those individuals or nations, who do not make proper use of the opportunities that come to them in life, and who defy the eternal natural laws which determine human destiny, inevitably come to grief. It is such individuals and nations who are the losers in the race against Time and it is to these that the word Al-Insān in the Sūrah particularly refers. Divine laws cannot be defied with impunity.

3430. In this Sūrah and at several other places in the Qur'ān, believers have been enjoined not only to adopt right and good principles and right ideals themselves but also to preach them to others and thus to help in the creation of a healthy atmosphere around them. They are further enjoined not to be discouraged or dismayed by opposition or persecution they might have to face in the discharge of their very difficult task but to bear it with patience and fortitude. Thus, the Sūrah in one brief verse has laid down rules of conduct by observing which one can lead a happy, contented, prosperous and progressive life.

CHAPTER 104
AL-HUMAZAH
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah was revealed very early at Mecca. It was, in fact, among the earliest Sūrahs to have been revealed. There is complete unanimity of opinion among the Commentators of the Qur'ān on this point, and Western Orientalists also agree with this view. In Sūrah At-Takāthur a warning was held out that unhealthy competition in amassing wealth and taking pride in it, is calculated to divert man's attention from God and true values of life; and in Sūrah Al-'Aṣr it was stated that only by adopting noble ideals and righteous conduct can man save himself from a life of "loss." In this Sūrah mention is made of the dreadful end of those disbelievers who, instead of spending their hoarded wealth in promoting good causes, indulge in finding fault with and in slandering good and righteous believers.

سُوْرَةُ الْهُمَزَةِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ١٠٤ — اٰياتها ١٠ — رکوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

وَيْلٌ لِّكُلِّ هُمَزَةٍ لُّمَزَةٍ ②

2. [b]Woe to every back-biter,[3431] slanderer,

الَّذِيْ جَمَعَ مَالًا وَّعَدَّدَهٗ ③

3. Who amasses wealth and [c]counts it over and over.[3432]

يَحْسَبُ اَنَّ مَالَهٗۤ اَخْلَدَهٗ ④

4. He thinks that his wealth will make him immortal.[3433]

كَلَّا لَيُنْۢبَذَنَّ فِي الْحُطَمَةِ ⑤

5. Nay! he shall, surely, be cast into the crushing torment.[3434]

وَمَاۤ اَدْرٰىكَ مَا الْحُطَمَةُ ⑥

6. And what should make thee know what the crushing torment[3434A] is?

[a]1:1. [b]49:13; 68:12. [c]9:34; 89:21.

3431. Humazah means, one who finds fault with others behind their backs and Lumazah is he who finds fault with them behind their backs or before their eyes (Aqrab). As against two basic good qualities—goodness and patience mentioned in the preceding Sūrah, two bad qualities which cut at the root of all social peace and harmony have been mentioned in this Sūrah. Backbiting and slander-mongering are the two main evils from which the so-called civilized society badly suffers today.

3432. The verse constitutes a sad commentary on man's passion for worldly riches. Worship of Mammon is the bane of the materialistic civilization of the day.

3433. The ill-fated miser goes on earning wealth by all sorts of means, good or bad, and amassing and hoarding it, taking pride in it and refraining from spending it on good causes, thinking that this will immortalize him, will rescue his name from oblivion and will render his prosperity abiding. But he labours under a serious misconception.

3434. There could be no greater humiliation or mental agony for a person than that he should see that the cause against which he had fought tooth and nail and which he had tried with might and main to crush, was progressing and prospering before his very eyes. It is this sense of burning anguish of the heart which the leaders of the Quraish felt when they saw the tender plant of Islām growing into a mighty tree before their very eyes.

3434A. The Arabs say, Ḥaṭamat-hus-Sinnu, i.e. old age broke him (Lane).

7. It is Allāh's kindled fire, نَارُ اللّٰهِ الْمُوْقَدَةُ ۙ﴿٧﴾

8. Which rises over the hearts. الَّتِيْ تَطَّلِعُ عَلَى الْاَفْـِٕدَةِ ؕ﴿٨﴾

9. It will be [a]closed[3435] in on them, اِنَّهَا عَلَيْهِمْ مُّؤْصَدَةٌ ۙ﴿٩﴾

10. In outstretched columns.[3435A] فِيْ عَمَدٍ مُّمَدَّدَةٍ ﴿١٠﴾ ع ١٠/٢٩

[a]90:21.

3435. The intensity of the heat of enclosed fire becomes increased manifold.

3435A. The "outstretched columns" are bad habits, evil customs and usages which would not let disbelievers conform their lives to beneficent standards and values.

CHAPTER 105
AL-FĪL
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

The Sūrah was revealed very early at Mecca. Its title is taken from the expression Aṣḥābul-Fīl (Owners of the Elephant), occurring in the 2nd verse; Abrahah's army was so called because there were one or more elephants in it. The Sūrah refers to the invasion of Mecca by Abrahah Ashram—the viceroy in Yemen of the Christian King of Abyssinia—who came with the intention of destroying the Ka'bah. In order to curry favour with the Negus, the King of Abyssinia, and to break the national unity of the Arabs, or, as tradition goes, to stem the apprehended tide of Arab nationalism under a great Prophet whose appearance was eagerly awaited and was expected to take place very soon, and in order also to divert the attention of the Arabs from the Ka'bah and to preach and disseminate Christianity in Arabia, Abrahah built a church at Ṣan'ā', capital of Yemen. When, however, he failed to cajole or coerce the Arabs into accepting the church at Ṣan'ā' in place of the Ka'bah as their central place of worship, he was stung with rage; and being intoxicated with great military power, he marched on Mecca with an army of 20,000 strong, in order to raze the Ka'bah to the ground. Arriving at a place, a few miles from Mecca, he sent for the leaders of the Quraish in order to negotiate with them about the fate of the Ka'bah. The Quraish deputation, led by the venerable 'Abdul-Muṭṭalib, grandfather of the Holy Prophet, met Abrahah who treated him with great honour. But to Abrahah's great surprise and contempt, 'Abdul-Muṭṭalib, instead of beseeching that the Ka'bah be spared, only requested that his two hundred camels, which Abrahah's men had seized, be restored. 'Abdul-Muṭṭalib, on being told by Abrahah that he had not expected such a paltry request from him when he had come to destroy their holy House of Worship, poured out the anguish of his heart and expressed his firm faith in the invulnerability of the Ka'bah in the words: "I am the master of the camels and the Ka'bah has a Master of its own Who will protect it" (Al-Kāmil, vol. I). Naturally, the negotiations broke down, and finding that they were too weak to offer effective resistance to Abrahah, 'Abdul-Muṭṭalib advised his compatriots to repair to the surrounding hills. Before leaving the city, 'Abdul-Muṭṭalib, holding the skirts of the Ka'bah, prayed to God in words, full of extreme pathos, of which the rendering in English is something like this: 'Just as a man protects his house and property from plunder, so do Thou, O Lord, defend Thine own House and suffer not the Cross to triumph over the Ka'bah' (Al-Kāmil & Muir). Abrahah's army had hardly moved when Divine scourge overtook them. 'A pestilential distemper,' says Muir, 'had shown itself in the camp of Abrahah. It broke out with deadly pustules and blains which was probably an aggravated form of smallpox. In confusion and dismay his army commenced retreat. Abandoned by their guides, they perished among the valleys, and a flood swept multitudes into the sea. Scarcely any one recovered who had once been smitten by it. And Abrahah himself, a mass of malignant and putrid sores, died miserably on his return to Ṣan‘ā’.' It is particularly to this incident that the Sūrah refers. The fact that the disease which destroyed Abrahah’s army was smallpox in a virulently epidemic form is supported by the great historian Ibn-e-Isḥāq. He quotes ‘A’ishah, the Holy Prophet’s very noble and talented wife, as saying that she saw two blind beggars in Mecca and on enquiring who they were, she was told that they were the drivers of Abrahah’s elephants (Manthūr).

3436. Abrahah, the viceroy in Yemen of the Negus, marched on Mecca with a large army in 570 A.D., the year of the Holy Prophet's birth, in order to destroy the Ka'bah. He had a number of elephants with him. A plague or epidemic of the nature of smallpox, completely destroyed his army and their rotting bodies were eaten up by swarms of birds. See Introduction to the Sūrah.

3437. According to some authorities Abābīl is the plural of Ibbaul which means, a separate or distinct portion of a number of birds or horses or camels following one another. The words, Ṭairan Abābīl, means, birds in separate flocks or bevies, or birds in companies from this or that quarter, or following one another, flock after flock (Lane).

3438. Swarms of birds feasted themselves upon dead bodies of the invaders, striking the severed pieces against stones, as birds generally do when eating the small and severed pieces of the dead body of an animal; the particle ba meaning 'alā, i.e. upon or against (Lane).

CHAPTER 106
QURAISH
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

This Sūrah, like the preceding one, was revealed at Mecca in the early years of the Call. Though an independent Sūrah, complete in all respects, its subject-matter is so closely related to Sūrah Al-Fīl that it has been wrongly regarded by some Commentators as its component part. In Sūrah Al-Fīl a brief but graphic and forceful description was given of the utter annihilation of Abrahah's army (who had come to destroy the Ka'bah) by a heavenly scourge which took the form of a virulent variety of smallpox. In the present Sūrah God reminds the Quraish that it behoved them to worship 'the Lord of the House'—the House to serve which they were granted security from fear and hunger. In the preceding Sūrah mention was made of an enemy of the Ka'bah and of the Divine punishment that overtook him for his audacity to launch an attack on it. In this Sūrah it is stated, how in the utterly bleak and arid valley of Mecca God provided the custodians of this House with every kind of food and made them secure against fear and danger.

سُوْرَةُ قُرَيْشٍ مَّكِّيَّةٌ ١٠٦ — اٰياتها ٥ — رکوعها ١

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

لِاِيْلٰفِ قُرَيْشٍ ②

2. Thy Lord destroyed the Owners of the Elephant in order to attach[3439] the hearts of the Quraish[3440]—

اٖلٰفِهِمْ رِحْلَةَ الشِّتَآءِ وَالصَّيْفِ ③

3. To make them attached to their journeys[3441] in winter and summer.—

[a]1:1.

3439. Īlāf, being noun-infinitive from Ālafa, means, sticking or making one stick to a thing; loving and making one love a person or thing; providing a person with a thing; a covenant or an obligation involving responsibility for safety; protection (Lane).

3440. The word Quraish being derived from the root-word Qarasha which means, he collected it from here and there and attached one part of it to another (Aqrab), the Quraish tribe were so called because one of their ancestors, Quṣayy ibn Kilāb bin Naḍr, had prevailed upon them to migrate from all parts of Arabia where they had lived a nomadic life, and to settle in Mecca. Of Banū Kanānah, only the progeny of Naḍr settled in Mecca and as they were a small group, they were called Quraish which means, a small group gathered from here and there.

3441. As lām is a particle and in Arabic a new sentence never begins with a particle, a sentence or clause or expression, therefore, must be taken as understood before this verse. The verse prefixed by the understood expression may read something like this: 'Dost thou wonder, O Muḥammad, at God's great favour upon the Quraish that He has created in their hearts love for journey in winter and summer.' The Divine favour consisted in the fact that by taking trade caravans in winter to Yemen and in summer to Syria and Palestine, the Quraish brought necessities of life to Mecca. By this trading activity, they developed a certain prestige, added to the prosperity of their town and also became acquainted with the prophecies about the appearance of a great Prophet in Arabia by coming into contact with the Jews of Yemen and the Christians of Syria who knew those prophecies. The Quraish were so rooted in the soil and had such great attachment for the Ka'bah that they would rather starve than leave it even temporarily. It was by the exhortation of Hāshim, the Holy Prophet's great grandfather, that they took to this calling. Thus it constituted a great Divine favour upon them that by their journeys to these places they, besides other advantages accruing from these journeys,

فَلْيَعْبُدُوْا رَبَّ هٰذَا الْبَيْتِ ۙ﴿۴﴾
الَّذِيْٓ اَطْعَمَهُمْ مِّنْ جُوْعٍ ۙ
وَّاٰمَنَهُمْ مِّنْ خَوْفٍ ﴿۵﴾ ع ۳۱

4. So they should worship the Lord of [a]this House,
5. Who has fed them against hunger, and has given them security against fear.[3442] were being prepared to accept the Holy Prophet whose appearance was expected to take place very soon. There is another explanation of the verses which fits in, perhaps more appropriately, with the context. The explanation is something like this: 'O Muḥammad! thy Lord destroyed the Owners of the Elephant in order to attach the hearts of the Quraish to their journeying freely in winter and summer, which constituted a great Divine favour upon them.' It seems to be very plausible because if Abrahah had not been destroyed, the Quraish would not have loved journeying to these places and their journeys would not have been safe. The destruction of Abrahah thus, besides opening the way for trade-journeys for the Quraish, made the Ka'bah all the more sacred in the eyes of the Arabs for whom it was already a place of pilgrimage. This in turn, gave added impetus to the trade of the Quraish. The verse may also mean, 'Thy Lord destroyed the Owners of the Elephant for the protection of the Quraish.'

3442. The Quraish were granted security from fear, while all around them raged fear and insecurity. Besides, they were provided, round the year, with every kind of fruit and food. All this was not due to mere chance. It was in pursuance of a Divine plan and in fulfilment of a prophecy made by the Patriarch Abrahahm 2500 years ago (2:127, 130 & 14:36, 38). The verse drives home to the disbelieving Quraish their guilt of ingratitude by telling them that they had taken to the worship of gods made of wood and stone in preference to the Gracious and Merciful God Who had bestowed great favours upon them and had granted them security against fear and hunger.

CHAPTER 107

AL-MĀ‘ŪN

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

This Sūrah is among those Chapters which were revealed very early at Mecca. In the preceding Sūrah the Quraish were told that God had granted them peace and security from danger and had provided them with all necessities of life, purely out of His special grace and mercy and not due to any effort on their part or because they deserved these favours. They were told, therefore, that as an act of gratitude they should have rendered sincere and devoted service to their Gracious Creator. Instead, they became engrossed in the pursuit of worldly affairs and took to idol-worship. In this Sūrah it is stated that love of the world caused nations to lose faith in the Hereafter and to consign God to oblivion. It also deals with the two basic principles of Islām whose neglect constitutes denial of Religion itself—worship of God and service of fellow human beings.

7. They like only [d]to be seen[3446] of men,

وَيَمْنَعُوْنَ الْمَاعُوْنَ ⑧ ع ٨/٣٢

8. And withhold legal alms.[3447]

[a]1:1. [b]82:10. [c]69:35; 89:19. [d]4:143.

3443. He, indeed, is a very bad man who has no faith in Divine reckoning, or who does not believe in Religion which is the source and basis of all morals.

3444. This and the next verse speak of two very deadly social ills which, if not scrupulously guarded against, are calculated to bring about the total decline and disintegration of a community. The failure to take proper care of the orphans kills in a people the spirit of sacrifice; and neglect of the poor and the needy deprives a useful section of the community of all initiative and the will to improve their lot.

3445. Prayer represents the duties and obligations we owe to God, and the Prayers of those hypocritical Pharisees, who do not discharge the obligations they owe to God's creatures, are a body without soul, a shell without substance.

3446. The hypocritical Pharisees make only a show of soulless acts of goodness and charity.

3447. Al-Mā‘ūn means, small household articles of common use, such as axe, cooking pot, etc.; an act of kindness; any useful thing; Zakāt (Aqrab).

CHAPTER 108
AL-KAUTHAR
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

Being one of the earliest revelations the Sūrah constitutes a strong proof of the Qur'ān being the revealed Word of God, and also of the serial arrangement of its Chapters as having been adopted under Divine direction. For, while the Sūrah was revealed very early at Mecca, sometime in the first four years of the Call, it has been placed almost at the end of the Qur'ān. The order in which the Qur'ān exists today is different from the order in which it was revealed. It is, indeed, a miracle of the Qur'ān that the order in which the various Chapters were revealed was best suited to the needs of the period during which they were revealed, but they were arranged as its component parts in the order which was best suited to human needs for all time to come. The promise contained in this Sūrah was made at a time when the Holy Prophet was hardly known outside Mecca and his claim that he was the last Deliverer of humanity was looked upon by his compatriots as unworthy even of serious consideration. The promise was in emphatic terms. The words, 'We have bestowed upon thee abundance of good,' show that the promised good had already been given to the Holy Prophet. It was in the fitness of things that, in order to prove the Divine origin of the Qur'ān, the Sūrah should have been revealed at a time when, humanly speaking, there was hardly any possibility of the fulfilment of the promise and should have been placed at its end when the promise had already been fulfilled.

The connection of the Sūrah with the preceding one consists in the fact that whereas in that Sūrah some prominent moral sins of the hypocrites were mentioned, in this Sūrah some corresponding virtues of the righteous believers have been referred to, viz. generosity, observance of daily Prayers, devotion to God, and willingness to make sacrifice for national causes.

سُوْرَةُ الْكَوْثَرِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ١٠٨ — اٰياتها ٤ — رکوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

اِنَّآ اَعْطَيْنٰكَ الْكَوْثَرَ ②

2. Surely, We have [b]bestowed upon thee abundance of good;[3448]

فَصَلِّ لِرَبِّكَ وَانْحَرْ ③

3. So pray to thy Lord, and offer sacrifice.

اِنَّ شَانِئَكَ هُوَ الْاَبْتَرُ ④

4. Surely, it is thy enemy [c]who shall be without issue.[3449]

[a]1:1. [b]93:6. [c]111:2.

3448. Kauthar among other things means, abundance of good. It also means, a person possessing much good and one who gives much and often (Mufradāt & Jarīr). The Sūrah refers to the Holy Prophet as one upon whom God had bestowed abundant good. It was revealed at a time when the Holy Prophet did not possess anything and had nothing to give. He was then a very poor man and his claim to Prophethood was looked upon with contempt and as unworthy of serious consideration. For years after the Sūrah had been revealed he was mocked and jeered at, opposed and persecuted and at last he had to leave his native town as a fugitive, a price having been laid on his head. For several years at Medina, too, his life was in constant peril and his enemies were eagerly waiting to see (humanly speaking quite justifiably) the tragic and early end of Islām. Then towards the end of his life abundance of good in every shape and form began to pour down upon him like a cataract, and the promise contained in the Sūrah was literally fulfilled. The "outlaw" of Mecca became the arbiter of the destinies of the whole of Arabia, and the unlettered son of the desert proved to be the eternal Teacher for all mankind. God gave him a Book which is humanity's infallible guide for all time to come and by imbibing Divine attributes he rose to such a high degree of nearness to his Creator as is possible for any human being to attain. He was blessed with a company of devoted followers whose loyalty and devotion have never been equaled; and when the Call came to him from his Creator to leave the world he was satisfied that he had fully discharged the sacred task entrusted to him. In short, all manner of good, material and moral, was bestowed upon the Holy Prophet in full measure. He, therefore, eminently deserved to be called, 'the most successful of all Prophets' (Enc. Brit.).

3449. It is very significant that in this verse enemies of the Holy Prophet have been emphatically referred to as Abtar (having no male issue), while the historical fact is that all the sons of the Holy Prophet himself born before and after the revelation of this Sūrah died and he left no male issue after him. This shows that the word Abtar here only means, 'one deprived of spiritual issues and not of sons commonly so called.' In fact, it was God's own design that the Holy Prophet should have left no male issue as he was destined to be the spiritual father of a multitude of sons in all ages to the end of time—sons who were to be far more faithful, obedient and loving than the physical sons of any father. Thus, it was not the Holy Prophet but his enemies who died issueless, since by joining the fold of Islam their sons had become the spiritual sons of the Holy Prophet, and they felt a sense of shame and humiliation at their pedigree being attributed to their own fathers.

CHAPTER 109
AL-KĀFIRŪN

(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

It is generally agreed that this Sūrah was revealed at Mecca. Ḥasan, ‘Ikrimah and Ibn-e-Mas‘ūd are of this opinion. Noldeke places it in the beginning of the fourth year of the Call. The Sūrah has a deep connection with Sūrah Al-Kauthar. In that Sūrah it was stated that spiritual and material blessings will be bestowed upon the Holy Prophet such as have no parallel or precedent in human history. In this Sūrah, however, those disbelievers, against whom a Divine decree had gone forth that they would not accept Islām, are warned that when after having seen such manifest Signs in support of the Holy Prophet they had refused to accept him, how could they expect Muslims to give up their Faith and accept their foolish and fantastic beliefs? He is reported to have said that Sūrah Ikhlāṣ 112th Sūrah was equal to 1/3 of the Qur’ān, and this Sūrah to 1/4 of it, and whosoever would frequently recite these two Sūrahs and give serious thought to their subject-matter would command great respect and prestige (Ibn-e-Mardawaih), meaning that as Sūrah Ikhlāṣ deals with a basic principle of Islām—Divine Unity—and as in the present Sūrah believers are enjoined courageously to stick to their Faith in an hostile environment and under adverse circumstances, so he, who will comprehend and realize the significance and importance of these two chapters, will necessarily command great respect.

سُوْرَةُ "الْكٰفِرُوْنَ" مَكِّيَّةٌ ١٠٩ — اٰياتها ٧ — رکوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

قُلْ يٰٓاَيُّهَا الْكٰفِرُوْنَ ②

2. Say,[3450] 'O ye[3451] disbelievers![3452]

لَآ اَعْبُدُ مَا تَعْبُدُوْنَ ③

3. 'I worship not as you worship,

وَلَآ اَنْتُمْ عٰبِدُوْنَ مَآ اَعْبُدُ ④

4. 'Nor do you worship as I worship.

وَلَآ اَنَا عَابِدٌ مَّا عَبَدْتُّمْ ⑤

5. 'Nor do I worship those that you worship,

وَلَآ اَنْتُمْ عٰبِدُوْنَ مَآ اَعْبُدُ ⑥

6. 'Nor do you worship Him[3453] Whom I worship.

[a]1:1.

3450. The Divine command, expressed by the word Qul, applies to every Muslim. Besides the present Sūrah, the word is placed at the beginning of Chapters 72, 112, 113 and 114, and is used in about 306 verses of the Qur'ān; and wherever it is used it emphasizes the importance of the subject-matter governed by it. Thus believers are enjoined to proclaim loudly and repeatedly, and to convey to disbelievers in clear and definite terms, the great principles of Islām enunciated and emphasized in this Sūrah.

3451. The expression "O ye" is intended to draw pointed attention to the subject-matter of the Sūrah and to emphasize its importance. The expression has frequently been used in the Qur'ān to serve this purpose.

3452. "The disbelievers" may refer to those confirmed disbelievers who, by their persistent and defiant rejection of the Truth, rule out all possibility of accepting it, and disbelief becomes, as it were, part of their being.

3453. Various explanations have been given of the present and the preceding three verses by the Commentators. Some say that as the pagan Meccans had put their question in two forms, therefore, two forms have been adopted in answer to their question. Others say that the repetition is for the sake of emphasis. Yet some others like Zajjāj are of the opinion that the first two sentences signify denial of worship in the present time and the last two sentences denial of it in the future. As against this Zamakhsharī says that the first two sentences stand for denial of worship in future while the last two for that in the past. Be that as it may, when the particle lā (no; not) governs an aorist, it signifies the future tense. According to this use of the particle the expression lā A'budu would mean: 'I will never worship.'

7. 'For you your religion, and for me my religion.'[3454]

لَكُمْ دِينُكُمْ وَلِيَ دِينِ ۝٦ ع ١ ٧ ٣٤

The particle mā is used in two forms. As Maṣdariyyah it transforms into infinitive the verb which it governs and as Mauṣūlah it means Alladhī (that which). Sometimes it is also used for rational beings and means "he who." Mā may be taken as Maṣdariyyah in the former two verses and as Mauṣūlah in the latter two, and the four verses would be interpreted something like this: 'I will never adopt your mode or manner of worship, nor will you adopt the manner in which I worship. And I shall not worship those things (idols) or rational or irrational beings whom you worship, nor will you worship Him (Allāh) Whom I worship.'

3454. The verse signifies that as there is absolutely no meeting ground between the believers' way of life and that of the disbelievers and as they are in complete disagreement not only with regard to the basic concepts of Religion but also with regard to its details and other aspects, therefore, there can possibly be no compromise between the two.

CHAPTER 110

AN-NAṢR

(Revealed at Mecca after Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

This is a Medinite Sūrah in the sense that it was revealed after Hijrah in the Medinite period, but is a Meccan Sūrah in the sense that it was revealed at Mecca on the occasion of the Last Pilgrimage, only about 70 or 80 days before the Holy Prophet's death. All relevant historical data, coupled with reliable traditions and supported by such eminent authority as 'Abdullāh bin 'Umar, one of the very early and distinguished Companions of the Holy Prophet, have assigned this date to its revelation. This was the last whole Sūrah to be revealed, though the last verse with which the Quranic revelation came to an end was the 4th verse of Sūrah Al-Mā'idah. In the preceding Sūrah, disbelievers were plainly told that as their outlook on life, their ideals and principles, their religious practices and mode and manner of worship were quite different from those of believers, there was absolutely no possibility of a compromise between the two. They shall reap the consequences of their deeds while the Muslims will enjoy the fruits of their labour. In the present Sūrah believers are told that the victory promised to them has already come and people have begun to join the fold of Islām in large numbers. Therefore, they, particularly the Holy Prophet, should give thanks to his Lord, extol His praises and seek protection from Him against the shortcomings and moral weaknesses that generally find their way into a new Movement at a time when large groups of people join its fold, because, in view of the vast number of new converts and owing to lack of adequate number of experienced teachers to teach them the essentials of the new Movement, they fail to comprehend and assimilate properly its teachings and imbibe its spirit.

4. [b]Glorify thy Lord with His praise[3456] and seek His forgiveness.[3457] Surely He is Oft-returning with mercy.

[a]1:1. [b]15:99; 20:131; 50:40.

3455. The promised victory.

3456. The Holy Prophet is here enjoined that since God's promise has been fulfilled and large masses of people have begun to enter the fold of Islām, he should give thanks to his Lord for fulfilling His promise and should sing His praises.

3457. The Holy Prophet is here told that since victory has come to him and Islām has become predominant in the land and his erstwhile enemies have become his devoted followers, he should pray to God to forgive them the grave wrongs they had done to him in the past. This seems to be the meaning and significance of the injunction to the Holy Prophet to seek God's forgiveness. Or, the meaning is that the Holy Prophet is enjoined to ask God's protection against the weaknesses and shortcomings that might find their way into the Muslim Community on account of lack of adequate training or education of the new converts. It is very significant that wherever in the Qur'ān mention is made of victory or some other great success coming to the Holy Prophet, he is told to ask God's forgiveness and to seek His protection. This clearly shows that in the present verse also he is enjoined to ask God's forgiveness and seek His protection not for himself but for others, i.e. he is enjoined to pray that whenever there was any danger of his followers deviating from Islamic principles or precepts, God may save them from such a crisis. Thus there is no question here of the Holy Prophet's asking forgiveness for any of his own actions. According to the Qur'ān he enjoyed complete immunity from every moral lapse or deviation from the right course. See also 2612 and 2765.

CHAPTER 111
AL-LAHAB
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

There is complete unanimity of opinion among Muslim scholars and Commentators of the Qur'ān that this Sūrah was revealed at Mecca during the early years of the Call. Noldeke and Muir also subscribe to this view. Some scholars, however, are of the opinion that the Sūrah was the fifth to be revealed, the four Sūrahs Al-'Alaq, Al-Qalam, Al-Muzzammil and Al-Muddaththir preceding it. It seems to deal with the people having red-faces and fiery tempers; hence its title. In Sūrah Al-Kauthar the Holy Prophet was given a twofold promise about the great and rapid increase of his followers and about the failure of the machinations of his enemies against Islām. In the immediately preceding Sūrah—An-Naṣr——reference was made to the first part of the promise, the present Sūrah refers to its second part.

سُوْرَةُ اللَّهَبِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ١١١ — اٰياتها ٦ — رکوعها ١

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

2. [b]Perish the two hands of Abū Lahab,[3458] and perish he!

مَآ اَغْنٰى عَنْهُ مَالُهٗ وَمَا كَسَبَ ③

3. [c]His wealth and what he has earned[3459] shall avail him naught,

سَيَصْلٰى نَارًا ذَاتَ لَهَبٍ ④

4. Soon shall he burn in a flaming fire;[3460]

[a]1:1. [b]108:4. [c]3:11; 58:18.

3458. Abū Lahab (Father of Flame) was the nickname of 'Abdul-'Uzzā, the Holy Prophet's uncle and his inveterate enemy and persecutor. He was so called either because his complexion and hair were ruddy or also because he had a fiery temper. The Sūrah recalls an incident during the early preaching of the Holy Prophet. On being commanded by God to call together his relatives and to deliver to them the Divine Message, the Holy Prophet, one day, stood on mount Ṣafā and called the different Meccan tribes by name—the tribes of Luwayy, Murrah, Kilāb and Quṣayy—and his near relatives, and told them that he was God's Messenger, and that if they did not accept his Message and did not give up their evil ways, Divine punishment would overtake them. The Holy Prophet had hardly finished his speech, when Abū Lahab stood up and said, 'Ruin seize thee, is it for this that thou hast called us together' (Bukhārī)? The nickname 'Father of Flame' may either refer particularly to Abū Lahab or to any hot-tempered enemy of Islām or better still it may apply to Western nations of the Latter Days who own and control atomic and nuclear weapons—one group of them repudiating God altogether and the other denying Divine Unity, but both being equally opposed to Islām. In this sense 'the two hands' would mean these two groups, and the verse would signify that all endeavours and machinations of the enemies of Islām, particularly of the two groups of Western Powers and their satellites, would utterly fail and all their nefarious designs would recoil on their own heads; they would burn with rage at seeing Islām progressing and their own wealth, power and possessions perishing before their very eyes.

3459. The words, 'his wealth', may mean, the wealth produced in their own countries, and 'what he has earned' may signify the riches they amass by exploiting weaker nations and despoiling them of their natural resources.

3460. The expression, Abū Lahab, may also mean, one who invents things which produce fire and flames, or one who himself is consumed in the flames of fire. In the latter sense, the verse may be interpreted as predicting the وَّامۡرَاَتُهٗ ؕ حَمَّالَةَ الۡحَطَبِ ۚ﴿۵﴾

5. And his wife, too, bearer of slander,[3461]

فِىۡ جِيۡدِهَا حَبۡلٌ مِّنۡ مَّسَدٍ ﴿۶﴾ ع

6. Round her neck shall be a halter of twisted palm-fibre.[3462] destruction of the two major political Blocs of the Latter Days by their own fire-producing weapons, such as atom bombs and other nuclear weapons. The verse also shows that the day of reckoning for these nations is not far off.

3461. The reference in the verse seems to be to Abū Lahab's wife, Umm-e-Jamīl who strew the Holy Prophet's path with thorns and would go about spreading calumnies against him; Ḥaṭab also meaning calumny (Lane). The verse may also apply to those people who spread calumnies and false accusations against Islām and the Holy Prophet.

3462. Though apparently free, these nations will be so strongly tied to their respective political ideologies and systems that they will not be able to break away from them. Or, like Umm-e-Jamīl, who is said to have become strangled by the very rope by which she carried fire-wood, these nations will perish by the very means by which they would seek to destroy others.

CHAPTER 112
AL-IKHLĀṢ
(Revealed before Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

That this is one of the earliest Meccan Chapters is the view of Ḥasan, ‘Ikrimah and above all Ibn-e-Mas‘ūd, one of the earliest Companions of the Holy Prophet. But Ibn-e-‘Abbās, though much younger than Ibn-e-Mas‘ūd, and regarded as one of the most learned of the Companions, thinks that the Sūrah was revealed at Medina. In view of these conflicting opinions of the two very respected Companions of the Holy Prophet, some Commentators of the Qur’ān are inclined to think that the Sūrah was revealed twice, first at Mecca and then at Medina. Among Orientalists Muir places it among the earliest Meccan Chapters while Noldeke assigns it to the end of the first period—about the fourth year of the Call. In view of the importance of its subject-matter, the Sūrah has come to be known by several names, of which more important are: At-Tafrīd; At-Tajrīd; At-Tauḥīd; Al-Ikhlāṣ; Al-Ma‘rifah; Aṣ-Ṣamad; Al-Aḥad; An-Nūr, etc. Because it deals with the basic belief of Islām—Unity of God—the Sūrah has the distinction of being called by the Holy Prophet as the greatest of all the Quranic Sūrahs (Ma‘ānī). ‘Ā’ishah is reported to have said that before going to bed the Holy Prophet used to recite this and the last two Chapters at least thrice (Dāwūd). The Sūrah is entitled Ikhlāṣ, because its recitation and deliberation over its subject-matter is calculated to foster in the reader a deep attachment to God. What adds to its great importance is the fact that while Al-Fātiḥah is considered to be the resume of the whole of the Qur’ān, the present Sūrah, together with the two following Chapters, repeats and rehearses the subject-matter of Al-Fātiḥah. It deals with the four principal transcendent Divine attributes while Sūrah Al-Fātiḥah deals with the four main attributes of similitude.

سُوْرَةُ الْاِخْلَاصِ مَكِّيَّةٌ ١١٢ — اٰياتها ٥ — رکوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

قُلْ هُوَ اللّٰهُ اَحَدٌ ۚ ②

2. Say,[3463] 'He[3464] is Allāh,[3465] the [b]One![3466]

اَللّٰهُ الصَّمَدُ ۚ ③

3. 'Allāh, the Independent and Besought of all.[3467]

[a]1:1. [b]16:23; 22:35; 59:23.

3463. The word, Qul (say), here embodies a permanent command to Muslims to keep proclaiming, 'God is One.'

3464. Huwa (He) used as Ḍamīrush-Sha'n and meaning, 'the truth is,' signifies that the truth is embedded in human nature that God is and that He is One and Alone.

3465. Allāh is a distinctive name used in the Qur'ān for the Supreme Being. In the Arabic language the word is never used for any other thing or being. It is the substantive name of God, neither attributive nor descriptive. See also 3.

3466. Aḥad is an epithet applied to God alone and signifies, the One; the Sole; He Who has been and will ever be One and Alone; Who has no second to share in His Lordship nor in His Essence (Lane). Whereas Aḥad signifies Oneness of God in His Person—the idea of a second being inconceivable—Wāḥid signifies uniqueness of God in His attributes. Thus the expression, Allāhu Wāḥidun, would signify that God is that Supreme Being Who is the Source and Fountainhead from Whom all creation had emanated; and Allāhu Aḥadun means that Allāh is that Being Who is One and Alone in the sense that when we think of Him, the very idea that there is any other being or thing is absent from our minds. He is One and Alone in every sense. He is neither the starting link of any chain, nor its last link. Nothing is like Him, nor is He like anything else. This is Allāh as conceived and presented by the Qur'ān.

3467. Ṣamad means, one to whom recourse is had; or to whom obedience is rendered; without whom no affair is accomplished; a person or place above whom or which there is no one. Aṣ-Ṣamad being a Divine attribute means, the Supreme Being to Whom recourse is had for the accomplishment of needs; Who is Independent of all and upon Whom all depend for their needs; Who will continue to exist for ever after all creation has ceased to exist; above Whom there is no one (Lane). In the preceding verse the claim was made that God is One, Alone, and Unique. The present verse substantiates that claim. It says that all things and beings depend upon God but He Himself is Independent and Besought of all. All have need of Him but He has need of none. He needed the help of no being or matter to create the universe. In fact,

4. [a]'He begets not, nor is He begotten;[3468]

لَمْ يَلِدْ ۙ وَلَمْ يُوْلَدْ ۙ﴿۴﴾

5. [b]'And there is none like unto Him.'[3469]

وَلَمْ يَكُنْ لَّهٗ كُفُوًا اَحَدٌ ﴿۵﴾ ع ۳۷

[a]17:112; 19:93; 25:3; 37:153. [b]42:12.

nothing in the universe is complete in itself, not even the smallest atom. Nothing is self-subsisting; everything depends on some other thing for its existence. God alone is such a Being Who depends on no being or thing; He is above conception and conjecture. His attributes know no bound or limit.

3468. The Divine attribute Aṣ-Ṣamad (Independent and Besought of all) was mentioned in the previous verse to establish the claim that Allāh is Aḥad (One, Alone, Unique) and now in the present verse the Divine attribute 'He begets not, nor is He begotten' is mentioned to show that He is Aṣ-Ṣamad (He is above need), because the presence of need in Him presupposes that He requires the assistance of someone without whom He cannot carry on His work, and who should continue His work after He is dead, inasmuch as all those beings that succeed, or are succeeded by, others are subject to death. Allāh has succeeded no one and will be succeeded by no one. He is complete in all His attributes and is Eternal, Everlasting and Absolute.

3469. This verse disposes of a possible doubt to which the previous verses might have given rise. Granted that Allāh is One, Alone, Absolute and Independent of all, and granted that He neither begets nor is He begotten, but there might be in existence another being who, like Him, might also be possessing all the attributes He possesses. The verse removes this misgiving. It says that there is none like Allāh. Human reason also demands that there should be only One Creator and Controller of the whole universe. The perfect order that pervades and permeates it leads to the inevitable result that one uniform law must govern it, and the unity and uniformity of the law and the design proves and proclaims the Unity of the Maker (21:23). Thus the Sūrah cuts at the root of all polytheistic beliefs that are to be found in one form or other in other Faiths—belief in two, three or more gods, or the belief that soul and matter coexist with Allāh. This is the sublime definition of the Supreme Being as given in the Qur'ān, and nothing in any other revealed Scripture touches even the fringes of the beauty, sublimity and majesty of this definition.

CHAPTER 113
AL-FALAQ
(Revealed after Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

This and the next Sūrah are so closely linked together that though they are complete in themselves and independent of each other, yet the following Sūrah (An-Nās) may be regarded as complementary to the present Sūrah. The present Sūrah deals with one aspect of the same subject while the next Sūrah deals with the other. Both the Sūrahs together are called Mu'awwidhatān meaning, 'the two that afford protection,' because both of them open with the expression, 'I seek refuge in the Lord.' There is a wide divergence of opinion among scholars regarding the time when these Sūrahs were revealed. Some scholars, including Ibn-e-'Abbās and Qatādah, assign them to Medina, while according to Ḥasan, 'Ikrimah, 'Aṭā' and Jābir, they were revealed at Mecca. Taking all relevant facts and historical data into consideration, the majority of Muslim scholars and Commentators are inclined to place them among the Meccan Sūrahs.

Subject-Matter

The connection of these two Sūrahs with Sūrah Al-Ikhlāṣ consists in the fact that in Al-Ikhlāṣ believers were enjoined to proclaim to the world that God is One and Unique, that He is far above anything or any person being a partner in His Divinity. In these two Sūrahs believers are told that they should not be afraid of any tyrant, dictator or ruler in the discharge of this sacred duty and should hold the firm belief that God is the Sole Director and Controller of the whole universe and that He has the power to protect His votaries from any harm or injury that the forces of darkness might seek to do them. Though constituting an integral part of the Qur'ān these two Sūrahs may be regarded as forming a sort of epilogue to it. The main body of the Qur'ān seems to end with Sūrah Al-Ikhlāṣ, which recapitulates, as it were, in a nutshell, the basic Quranic principles; and in these two Sūrahs believers are enjoined to seek Divine protection against deviating from the right path and against the mischiefs and evils which might adversely affect their material well-being and spiritual development. The Holy Prophet used to recite them regularly before going to bed.

سُوْرَةُ الْفَلَقِ مَدَنِيَّةٌ ١١٣ — اٰياتها ٦ — رکوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

قُلْ اَعُوْذُ بِرَبِّ الْفَلَقِ ②

2. Say, 'I seek refuge in [b]the Lord of the dawn,[3470]

مِنْ شَرِّ مَا خَلَقَ ③

3. 'From the evil of that which He has created,

وَمِنْ شَرِّ غَاسِقٍ اِذَا وَقَبَ ④

4. 'And from the evil of darkness[3471] when it over-spreads,

وَمِنْ شَرِّ النَّفّٰثٰتِ فِي الْعُقَدِ ⑤

5. 'And from the evil of those who blow upon the knots[3472] of mutual relationships to undo them,[1]

[a]1:1. [b]6:97.

3470. Falaq meaning dawn; Hell; whole creation (Lane), a Muslim is enjoined to pray that (1) when the night of darkness over Islām has passed away and the morning of its bright future dawns, its sun should continue to shine till it reaches the Meridian; (2) that God might protect him from the hidden and manifest evil of all that He has created, including the evil influences of heredity, bad environment, defective education, etc. and (3) that God should save him from the torments of hell in this life and in the Hereafter.

3471. The verse may refer to the evils of the time when the light of Truth becomes extinguished and the darkness of sin and iniquity spreads over the entire face of the earth. Or, it may refer to the evils of the time when one is overwhelmed by distress and privation, and it is darkness all around him and the last ray of hope disappears.

3472. The reference in the verse seems to be to those whisperers of evil suggestions who cause solemn contracts and friendships to break down and inspire people with a spirit of defiance of the established authority, or with violating the oath of fealty, and thus seek to create discord and dissension among the Muslim Community and encourage fissiparous tendencies among them. This Sūrah deals with the material side of man's life as the next does with its spiritual side. Man is confronted with various kinds of dangers and difficulties in life. When he is engaged in an undertaking of a serious import, particularly when he takes it upon himself to spread the light of Truth, forces of darkness surround him on all sides; and when he appears to succeed, men of evil designs bar his way and create all sorts of impediments and difficulties for him. But when at last success dawns on him, persons of jealous nature seek to deprive him of the fruits of his labour. As protection against all these obstacles, difficulties and perils in life, a believer is enjoined to invoke the help and assistance of the Lord of Falaq to give him light when darkness is all round; and to protect him from the evil designs of mischief-makers and the nefarious machinations of jealous persons.

6. 'And from the evil of the envier when he envies.' وَمِنْ شَرِّ حَاسِدٍ إِذَا حَسَدَ ۝٦ ع ١

CHAPTER 114

AN-NĀS

(Revealed after Hijrah)

Date of Revelation and Context

This Sūrah, the second of the Mu'awwidhatān, constitutes an extension of the subject-matter of the preceding one and is, in a way, complementary to it, in that in Sūrah Al-Falaq the believers were enjoined to seek protection from God against the hardships and privations of the physical life, in the present Sūrah protection is sought from trials and tribulations that hamper man's spiritual development, and the protection is to be invoked not only by verbal solicitation but by deeds and actions that may draw God's grace. This is the real significance of the commandment conveyed by the word Qul (say). The Sūrah is quite fittingly entitled An-Nās, since protection has been solicited from the Lord, King and God of mankind (An-Nās) against the mischief of whisperers from among jinn and men (An-Nās), who whisper evil thoughts into the hearts of men (An-Nās). The Sūrah, having been revealed at the same time as Sūrah Al-Falaq, constitutes, along with it, appropriate end of the Qur'ān.

سُوْرَةُ النَّاسِ مَدَنِيَّةٌ ١١٤ — اٰياتها ٧ — رکوعها ١

بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ الرَّحْمٰنِ الرَّحِيْمِ ①

1. [a]In the name of Allāh, the Gracious, the Merciful.

قُلْ اَعُوْذُ بِرَبِّ النَّاسِ ②

2. Say, 'I seek refuge in the Lord of mankind,

مَلِكِ النَّاسِ ③

3. [b]'The King of mankind,

اِلٰهِ النَّاسِ ④

4. 'The God of mankind,[3473]

مِنْ شَرِّ الْوَسْوَاسِ ۙ الْخَنَّاسِ ⑤

5. 'From the evil whisperings of the sneaking whisperer;

الَّذِىْ يُوَسْوِسُ فِىْ صُدُوْرِ النَّاسِ ⑥

6. Who whispers into the hearts of men,

[a]1:1. [b]59:24; 62:2.

3473. In the present Sūrah three Divine attributes—Rabb (Lord of mankind), Malik (King of mankind), and Ilāh (God of mankind), have been invoked as against one attribute, viz. Rabbul-Falaq (Lord of the dawn) in the preceding Sūrah, because this one attribute comprises all the three above-mentioned attributes. Whereas one Divine attribute—Lord of the dawn—has been invoked against four kinds of mischief in the previous Sūrah, in the present Sūrah three Divine attributes have been invoked against one mischief, i.e. whispering of the Evil One. This is because the promptings or insinuations of Satan cover all conceivable evils.

The three Divine attributes have a subtle connection with the physical, moral and spiritual conditions of man. Man's physical and moral developments take place under the attribute Rabb, and his thoughts, words and actions are punished or rewarded by Malik; and the attribute Ilāh signifies that God is the object of his love and adoration and is his aim and object. Mention of three Divine attributes in this Sūrah implies that all sins proceed from three causes, viz. when a person looks upon another person as his Lord or King or God, that is to say, when he regards him as the main prop or support of his life, or slavishly surrenders to his undue authority or makes him the object of his love and adoration. A believer is enjoined here to look up to God alone as the real support of his life, to render Him alone true and unconditional obedience and to make Him alone the real object of his love and adoration. Or, he may have been enjoined in these verses constantly to seek protection against the ravages of exploiting capitalists, tyrannical rulers and the crafty priestly class who, taking undue advantage of the unwary and simple-minded folk, exploit them mercilessly.

7. 'From among jinn and men.'[3474]

مِنَ الْجِنَّةِ وَالنَّاسِ ۝٦ ع ٣٩

3474. The Evil One whispers evil thoughts into the hearts of jinn (big men) and Nās (common men), sparing no one. Or, the verse may mean that whisperers of evil thoughts are to be found both among jinn and common men.

Prayer offered at the completion of the recitation of the Holy Qur'ān

اَللّٰهُمَّ ارْحَمْنِیْ بِالْقُرْاٰنِ الْعَظِیْمِ وَاجْعَلْهُ لِیْ اِمَامًا وَّنُوْرًا وَّهُدًی وَّرَحْمَةً
اَللّٰهُمَّ ذَكِّرْنِیْ مِنْهُ مَا نَسِیْتُ وَعَلِّمْنِیْ مِنْهُ مَاجَهِلْتُ وَارْزُقْنِیْ تِلَاوَتَهٗ
اٰنَاءَ اللَّیْلِ وَالنَّهَارِ وَاجْعَلْهُ لِیْ حُجَّةً یَّا رَبَّ الْعَالَمِیْنَ

O Allāh, have mercy on me with (the blessings of) the Great Qur'ān. Make it for me a Model, Light, Guidance and Mercy. O my Allāh, remind me whatever I have forgotten of it and teach me what I do not know of it. Grant me its recitation in the watches of the night and in the hours of day. O Lord of the worlds, make it an Authority for me for my benefit. Āmīn
